8. Indraṁ pare'vare madhyamāsa indraṁ yānto'-vasitāsa indram. Indraṁ kṣiyanta uta yudhya-mānā indraṁ naro vājayanto havante.

People at the farthest and at the nearest, highest and lowest, and people at the middle, all call upon Indra, lord of honour and excellence. People on the move and those at the end of the journey call upon Indra, lord of peace and security. People settled in the home and warriors on the battle field call upon Indra, lord of prosperity and victory. And the leaders of the people and the men fighting for food, struggling for energy and panting for speed and progress call upon Indra, lord giver of food, energy and advancement.

1. Ahaṁ manurabhavaṁ sūryaścā'haṁ kakṣīvāṅ ṛṣirasmi vipraḥ. Ahaṁ kutsamārjuneyaṁ nyṛñje'haṁ kaviruśanā paśyatā mā.

I am the thinker and law-giver of existence, I am the light of life, I comprehend the time and space of the universe, I am the visionary, I am the centre and shaker at the core. I create the thunder and light and I make the thunderbolt. I am the poet of omniscience and passionate lover of my creation. Come ye all and see.

2. Ahaṁ bhūmimadadāmāryāyā'haṁ vṛṣṭiṁ dāśuṣe martyāya. Ahamapo anayaṁ vāvaśānā mama devāso anu ketamāyan.

I give the earth for noble humanity, and I bring rain and rolling oceans and waves of energy for the mortals who give in charity, and, in consequence, saints and sages who love are blest with light divine.

अहं पुरो मन्दसाना व्यैरं नव साकं नवतीः शम्बरस्य ।

3. Aham puro mandasāno vyairaṁ nava sākaṁ navatīḥ śambarasya. Śatatamaṁ veśyaṁ sarvatātā divodāsamatithigvaṁ yadāvam.

In the state of perfect bliss, I first move ninty and nine streams of cloud showers together, and as I protect and promote the man of hospitality and the giver of enlightenment, I open hundred-fold gates of delight and prosperity for the whole world.

प सु ष विभ्या मरुता विरस्तु प श्यनः श्यनभ्य आशुपत्वा ।

4. Pra su ṣa vibhyo maruto virastu pra śyenaḥ śyenebhya āśupatvā. Acakrayā yatsvadhayā suparṇo havyaṁ bharanmanave devajuṣṭam.

Just as the eagle bird is the fastest of all the birds of prey in flight and descent so may that glorious heavenly bird of light wings, the sun, which moves by its own mighty force without wheels and which is prime among the powers of nature, the Maruts, may bring for humanity food and energy blest by the best and brilliant bounties of Divinity.

5. Bharadyadi virato vevijānaḥ pathoruṇā manojavā asarji. Tūyaṁ yayau madhunā somyenota śravo vivide śyeno atra.

When the bird of the wings of light, vibrating as sunrays, flying fast as thought by the wide paths of space brings and releases food and energy here, and then from here itself flies back fast with earthly, sweets of soma juices (to bring them back, reinvigorated), thus this eagle wins thanks and praise from earthly humanity.

6. Ṛjīpī śyeno dadamāno aṁśuṁ parāvataḥ śakuno mandraṁ madam. Somaṁ bharaddādṛ-hāṇo devāvān divo amuṣmāduttarādādāya.

The eagle bird of light, enjoying the company of heavenly planets, coming from far off country by simple paths, having taken from that distant region of light sweet celestial delights of soma energies of life, gives us that nectar and, taking the soma sweets of earth grows stronger and more generous.

7. Ādāya śyeno abhart somaṁ sahasraṁ savāṅ ayutaṁ ca sākam. Atrā purandhir-ajahād-arātīrmade somasya mūrā amūraḥ.

The eagle bird of light, ruler and illuminator of the world, bears and brings a thousand delights of soma for life with unbounded yajnic creations of organic tonics for health and, in the ecstasy of the drink of soma on earth, doing noble actions and maintaining human habitations with wisdom and equanimity of mind, eliminates all stupidity and negativities!

Mandala 4/Sukta 27

Indra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

गभ नु स न्वेषामवदमहं देवानां जनिमानि विश्वा।

1. Garbhe nu sannanveṣāmavedamahaṁ devānāṁ janimāni viśvā. Śataṁ mā pura āyasīrarakṣannadha śyeno javasā niradīyam.

Having been in the mother's womb, I have witnessed and known the birth and growth of all these divine creations (such as the elements, earth, water, senses, and mind, etc.). Hundreds of golden cities and iron walls have protected me. And having lived all this, I have got out to freedom like a falcon bird of the winds with impetuous speed.

(The mantra describes the soul's journey through births and death's across the body forms and then the release to the freedom of Moksha.)

न घा स मामप जोषं जभारा भीमास त्वक्षसा वीर्येण।
ईर्मा पुरन्धिरजहादरातीरुत वातॉं अतरच्छूशुवानः॥ २॥

2. Na ghā sa māmapa joṣaṁ jabhārā'bhīmāsa tvakṣasā vīryeṇa. Īrmā purandhirajahādarātīr-uta vātāň ataracchūśuvānaḥ.

That womb of nature couldn't hold me against my will and pleasure. I sat in there with all my vigour and penetrative vision. And when the Lord inspirer who sustains the hundreds of golden cities and iron walls of prison wards off the contraries of flesh and blood, then the falcon bird of the spirit, rising up and high, crosses the storms and shears of winds to freedom.

3. Ava yacchyeno asvanīdadha dyorvi yadyadi vāta ūhuḥ purandhim. Sṛjadyadasmā ava ha kṣipa-jjyāṁ kṛśānurastā manasā bhuraṇyan.

When the falcon bird of the spirit descends from heaven singing and roaring with energy, then if the winds and storms of existence hijack the master of the golden city, then, just as the warrior draws the string of the bows and shoots off the arrow, so the soul, archer subduer of contraries, with the light radiating from the flame of the heart, draws up the string of yoga meditation and shoots away the fluctuations.

4. Ṛjipya īmindrāvato na bhujyuṁ śyeno jabhāra bṛhato adhi ṣṇoḥ. Antaḥ patatpatatryasya parṇa-madha yāmani prasitasya tadveḥ.

The falcon bird of the spirit, going by the path of rectitude always under the protection of Indra, lord of life, bears the sacred vessel of the body like a prize from the vast regions of joy and energy and, at the end, flying up, the bird on the wing jettisons the sacred vessel like the plume of a bird bound down to the nest.

Let Indra, the brave soul, blest with and commanding honour and prosperity, bear, in response to the Lord's grace, the bright and beauteous body vessel nourished by mother earth and cows, satisfying, pure and powerful, and let him enjoy the food seasoned and sanctified by holy yajakas, and prime delicious drink for realising the beauty and ecstasy of existence. Yes, let the fearless brave spirit bear the body vessel to drink of the joy of life and to celebrate the gift of divine rapture.

1. Tvā yujā tava tatsoma sakhya indro apo manave sasrutaskaḥ. Ahannahimariṇāt sapta sindhūna-pāvṛṇodapihiteva khāni.

With you and for your friendship, O Soma, power, pleasure and excellence of life, did Indra, resplendent ruler of the world, set the spatial waters afloat, broke the cloud, made the seven streams of water flow and opened up the hidden treasures of life.

2. Tvā yujā ni khidat-sūryasyendracśakraṁ sahasā sadya indo. Adhi ṣṇunā bṛhatā vartamā-naṁ maho druho apa viśvāyu dhāyi.

Soma, power of cool and bliss of nature's cosmic energy, with force, constantly counters the cycle of solar radiations operating with mighty catalysis and coming from higher regions, and thus the great all round negativity of sun rays against life is warded off.

3. Ahann-indro adahad-agnir-indro purā dasyūn madhyandināda bhīke. Durge duroṇe kratvā na yātāṁ purū sahasrā śarvā ni barhīt.

Indu, Soma, cool and bliss of mind, nature and people of the land and forces of peace, with your balancing action, Indra, powerful and blazing, destroys darkness and evil, as fire burns off the demoniac forces before the mid-day yajna in the battle of life. Thus does the spirit of life, with Indra and Soma, hot and cold in the existential circuit of nature, destroy and ward off a thousand onslaughts of impending dangers and attacks. And so do the acts of yajna in the home of the family and fortress of the ruler.

Indra, ruler of the world blazing as the sun, reduce the evil and wicked to nullity all round, and save the people and the forces of generosity from ignominy. Indra and Soma, power and peace of the land, ruler and people, bind down the enemy forces, give peace and security to the good, and thus win honour and fame with your weapons of protection.

It is true, O potent commanders of honour and excellence, Indra and Soma, destroyer of evil and creator of peace and prosperity, together you release the earth's vast energy and progressive forces, break open the resources of wealth and fertility, and release the lands from oppression into freedom.

Indra, lord ruler of honour and excellence, spirit incarnate of power and prosperity, come with all the vigour and velocity for our protection and progress. Invoked and invited, happy and rejoicing, come with the fastest achievements. You are the wealth of the nation incarnate, truly the harbinger of success. Praised, appraised and pursued by the highpriests of knowledge and action, come directly and indirectly by all paths of centripetal movement to bless our manifold yajnic programmes of creation and production.

And he does come, lord of men and master of knowledge all-aware, when he is invoked and invited to the yajna by those who distil the soma for yajna and sprinkle the vedi with holy water and ghrta. Then, commanding the horse and speed of the chariot, brave and fearless, self-confident and honoured, he rejoices with the heroes who create the soma, honour, grandeur and the joy of life for humanity.

Speak to him, let him hear, he loves to hear of the cherished policy and direction for the sake of speed and success in action so that he may be happy and rejoice with you all. And then he, Indra, ruler of all and creator of honour and excellence, generous as showers and blazing brave in action, would create paths of progress into a state of freedom from fear and success, and thence would flow the ultimate release.

With grace, he goes to the supplicant with protection, thus, to bless the earnest seeker invoking him and singing in praise. He holds the supplicant and celebrant closest to his heart and, yoking a hundred thousand horses to his chariot, wielding the thunderbolt for creation and protection, he hastens to the devotees.

Under your protection, O lord of power and glory, Indra, lord ruler and giver of honour and excellence, let us be earnest seekers of knowledge, brave and brilliant celebrants of Divinity, so that we may be dedicated sharers of the abundance of the lord of light, wealth, and generosity of sustenance incarnate.

Mandala 4/Sukta 33

Rbhavah Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

प ऋभुभ्यो दूतमिव वाचमिष्य उपस्तिर श्वतरीं धनुमीळ।
य वातजूतास्तरणिभिरवः परि द्यां सद्या अपसा बभूवुः॥ १॥

1. Pra ṛbhubhyo dūtamiva vācamiṣya upastire śvaitarīṁ dhenumiḷe. Ye vātajūtāstaraṇibhire-vaiḥ pari dyāṁ sadyo apaso babhūvuḥ.

I send up my words to the Rbhus, scientists, as a messenger, in order that they be broadcast around, and I hope that they would be converted into a subtle, clearer and more powerful message—words which, carried up by currents of energy by their own floating vibrations, immediately rise to the upper layers of space and become acts of nature to come back in the finer form I want.

2. Yadāramakrannṛbhavaḥ pitṛbhyāṁ pariviṣṭī veṣaṇā daṁsanābhiḥ. Ādiddevānāmupa sakhya-māyan dhīrāsaḥ puṣṭimavahan manāyai.

When the Rbhus, sages and scientists, through service and action, receive instruction from parents and teachers, and have done enough to their own satisfaction and satisfaction of the seniors, they graduate to join the fraternity of the enlightened, and then, constant in study and meditation, bring about maturity and fullness of mind and spirit for independent work.

3. Punarye cakruḥ pitarā yuvānā sanā yūpeva jaraṇā śayānā. Te vājo vibhvāṅ ṛbhurindra-vanto madhupsaraso no'vantu yajñam.

And then they, the Rbhus, who, with their knowledge and dedicated service, rejuvenate their parents and senior generation grown old, nerveless and almost lying like a broken pillar, and bring them back to their youthful time, thus keeping the tradition young and alive: may they, vigorous geniuses, far reaching in imagination, marvellous in invention, mighty and majestic in achievement, and brilliant and blissful in conduct, come to our yajna of science and research, protect us and promote our progress and advancement far ahead.

4. Yat saṁvatsamṛbhavo gāmarakṣan yat saṁvatsamṛbhavo mā apiṁśan. Yat saṁvatsama-bharan bhāso asyāstābhiḥ śamībhir-amṛtatva-māśuḥ.

The Rbhus, sages and scholars of genius and knowledge, bold and blissful, who protect the cow, mother knowledge and the speech of knowledge, and also the mother earth like nursing a holy child, those who serve the mother tradition and rejuvenate and strengthen every part of its body like a darling love, who bring new vigour and new lights to its body of science and knowledge, they, the Rbhus, attain to immortality in the living history of the advancement of human civilisation by these noble acts of holiness.

5. Jyeṣṭha āha camasā dvā kareti kanīyān trīn kṛṇavāmetyāha. Kaniṣṭha āha caturaskareti tvaṣṭa ṛbhavastat panayad vaco vaḥ.

The eldest of the Rbhus says: Let us make two cups for the drink of soma for the celebration of life's enlightenment. The younger, more brilliant, says: Let us make three. The youngest, most brilliant, says: Let us make four. Tvashta, the teacher, universal lord maker of forms, O Rbhus, honours and praises these words of yours. (Thus knowledge, science and technology grows from one generation of scholars to another.)

The four cups of life may be interpreted as Dharma, righteousness, artha, material goods, 'kama', material and mental fulfilment, and Moksha, ultimate purpose of living and ultimate freedom.

6. Satyamūcurnara evā hi cakruranu svadhām-ṛbhavo jagmuretām. Vibhrājamānāṁścamasāň ahevā'venattvaṣṭā caturo dadṛśvān.

The Rbhus, brave and blessed, speak true what they speak, then they accomplish what they say, and then they achieve this reward of their action. Tvashta, the divine maker, wise and all-seeing eye of the world, who sees the Rbhus' cups of life shining as daylight sees them, loves them and blesses the makers. Thus should men do in life.

द्वादश द्यून्यदगाह्यस्या तिथ्य रणं ऋभवः ससन्तः। सु त्रा-कृण्व त्रनयन्त सिन्धून्धन्वातिष्ठ ग्नाधीन्निम्नमापः॥ ७॥

7. Dvādaśa dyūn yadagohyasyā''tithye raṇann-ṛbhavaḥ sasantaḥ. Sukṣetrākṛṇvannanayanta sindhūn dhanvātiṣṭhann-oṣadhīr-nimnamāpaḥ.

When the scholars and sages of the science of yajna remain on holiday for twelve days in the years, resting and refreshing themselves, enjoying the hospitality of a prominent host, then the sky is overcast, the showers pour, fields are made fertile, the rivers flow and vegetation grows on barren lands, (and this by rain yajna).

8. Rathaṁ ye cakruḥ suvṛtaṁ nareṣṭhāṁ ye dhenuṁ viśvajuvaṁ viśvarupām. Ta ā takṣantvṛbhavo rayiṁ naḥ svavasaḥ svapasaḥ suhastāḥ.

The Rbhus, who design and manufacture a strong built chariot for people to travel by, create a universal language of universal knowledge for the world prevailing all over the world. May they create universal wealth for us all — heroes of noble action, noble protection, and dexterous of hand as they are.

अपा ह्येषामजुषन्त देवा अभि कत्वा मनसा दीध्यानाः ।

9. Apo hyeṣāmajuṣanta devā abhi kratvā manasā dīdhyānāḥ. Vājo devānāmabhavat sukarmendrasya ṛbhukṣā varuṇasya vibhvā.

The wonderful acts and products of these Rbhus, exceptional scientists, later, the younger intellectuals, themselves brilliant with their mind and work, honour and apply for further development: thus the food and energy becomes the favourite input for the 'devas', following researchers, for higher outputs of finer food and energy, the powerful thunderbolt becomes the arm for Indra, ruler and defender, and the extensive waves of subtle transmission become the perceptive and active agencies of Varuna, the presiding power.

10. Ye harī medhayokthā madanta indrāya cakruḥ suyujā ye aśvā. Te rāyaspoṣaṁ draviṇānyasme dhatta ṛbhavaḥ kṣemayanto na mitram.

The Rbhus, holy thinkers, creators and makers, who, using their intellect and imagination and rejoicing with the revelations of the chants of sacred verses, create the circuit of energies, produce the motive powers, and construct the chariot for Indra, ruler and the nation, may, we pray, bring us health and nourishment and wealth and build permanent assets for us as protective and promotive friends doing good to friends.

11. Idāhnaḥ pītimuta vo madaṁ dhurna ṛte śrāntasya sakhyāya devāḥ. Te nūnamasme ṛbhavo vasūni tṛtīye asmintsavane dadhāta.

O Rbhus, noble creators and makers, today the holy men bring you soma to celebrate and enjoy. The divines favour not the slothfuls, they extend no hand of friendship unless you are tested in the crucibles of hard work and self sacrifice. May the Rbhus bring us, in truth, the wealths of life in the third session of yajna.

O Rbhus, leaders of humanity, may the yajna of yours be a source of jewel wealth for the common man, for the generous giver and for the organiser and sustainer of the programme. O leaders and pioneers of the speed of winds, carry on with joy, let all enjoy the fruits. I dedicate the final session of the yajna to the ecstatic joy of you all.

O Rbhus, scientists and intellectuals, create joy and rejoice: Rejoice with the Adityas, scholars of the top order of brilliance in accord with the various phases of the sun, rejoice in harmony with the clouds and the mountains, rejoice together with the divine energy of nature and the life-sustaining light of the sun, and rejoice in confluence with the flowing rivers and the rolling seas and the treasures of the jewel wealth of nature, and share the joy with us too.

Who are the Rbhus? Those who create and activate complementary circuits of energies, who serve the parents and sustain and rejuvenate health anew, who provide protection and promotion, who refine and extend knowledge and the language of knowledge, develop cattle wealth and renew the earth resources, who design and structure fast modes of travel and communication, who design and construct armour against external attacks, who cross the globe unto the sky and space and who command universal knowledge: pioneers and leaders of the best of men who can raise, train and organise a noble younger generation.

1. Ihopa yāta śavaso napātaḥ saudhanvanā ṛbhavo māpa bhūta. Asmin hi vaḥ savane ratnadheyaṁ gamantvindramanu vo madāsaḥ.

O Rbhus, mighty strong, imperishable warriors of the bow, come here close to us, do not stay away, never feel dispraised. In this yajna enacted for you, let the honour and joy of creation and celebration be as much for you as for Indra, resplendent lord giver of wealth.

2. Āgannṛbhūṇāmiha ratnadheyam-abhūtsomasya suṣutasya pītiḥ. Sukṛtyayā yatsvapasyayā caṁ ekaṁ vicakra camasaṁ caturdhā.

Let the jewel wealth of the Rbhus' performance come and let the joy of the soma success distilled from nature be here for the people to share who deserve the prize, since with their admirable action and brilliant intelligence and will they have designed and manufactured one chariot fourfold in performance.

व्य॑कृणात च॒म॒सं च॑तु॒धा सख॒ वि शि॒ क्ष्यब॑वीत । अथ॑त॒ वाजा॒ अ॒मृत॑स्य॒ पन्थां॒ ग॒णं दे॒वाना॑मृभवः सुहस्ताः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Vyakṛṇota camasaṁ caturdhā sakhe vi śikṣet-yabravīta. Athaita vājā amṛtasya panthāṁ gaṇaṁ devānāmṛbhavaḥ suhastāḥ.

You develop the cup of life to fourfold success of completion and perfection: Dharma, artha (material development), kama (self-fulfilment), and Moksha (ultimate freedom). O friend, teach and say: This is it, this is the art of living. And then, O eminent scholars, dynamic scientists, dexterous technologists, join the fraternity of divines and move on to the path of immortality.

4. Kiṁmayaḥ sviccamasa eṣa āsa yaṁ kāvyena caturo vicakra. Athā sunudhvaṁ savanaṁ madāya pāta ṛbhavo madhunaḥ somyasya.

What in truth is this cup of life which, with your wisdom, you analyse, specify and realise as four-in-one? O sages of vision and imagination, distil the soma-essence of it for the joy of life and drink as well as protect and promote the nectar sweet of honey.

5. Śacyākarta pitarā yuvānā śacyākarta camasaṁ devapānam. Śacyā harī dhanutarāvataṣṭendravāhāvṛbhavo vājaratnāḥ.

O Rbhus, with your truth of knowledge and holy science, you rejuvenate your parents to youthful health. With truth of vision and imagination, you reveal the fourfold cup of life's beauty and joy for the drink of divinities. With your truth of science and technology you create the power and construct the chariot faster than bullet speed for the ride of Indra, world's presiding power of rule and law. You are really the master creators and controllers of the speed and jewels of life on earth.

या वः सुनात्यभिपित्व अह्नां तीव्रं वाजासः सवनं मदाय।

6. Yo vaḥ sunotyabhipitve ahnāṁ tīvraṁ vājāsaḥ savanaṁ madāya. Tasmai rayimṛbhavaḥ sarva-vīramā takṣata vṛṣaṇo mandasānāḥ.

Whoever for you distils at the end of the day the exciting soma juice of the beauty and joy of life for the celebration of the holiness of existence, for him, O Rbhus, thinkers and wonder workers of the speed of winds, generous as showers from the clouds, spirits of ecstasy, create and give the wealth of an all round brave progeny for times to come.

7. Prātaḥ sutamapibo haryaśva mādhyandinaṁ savanaṁ kevalaṁ te. Samṛbhubhiḥ pibasva ratnadhebhiḥ sakhīṅ yāṅ indra cakṛṣe sukṛtyā.

Indra, world ruler of honour and majesty, rider of the chariot of sun rays, drink the soma distilled in the morning. Drink the soma distilled at midday only for you. Drink with the Rbhus, men of science and wisdom, creators of the jewels of wealth, whom you have drafted as friends by your noble action.

य देवासो अभवता सुकृत्या श्येनाइवदधि दिवि निषेद।

8. Ye devāso abhavatā sukṛtyā śyenā ivedadhi divi niṣeda. Te ratnaṁ dhāta śavaso napātaḥ saudhan-vanā abhavatāmṛtāsaḥ.

The Rbhus who rise to divine virtues by noble actions and, like the eagle, soar to the skies, create and bestow jewels of life on others and, bold and courageous, infallible and imperishable warriors of the bow, they rise on and become immortal.

O Rbhus, generous at heart and dexterous of hand, the third yajnic session and creation of soma replete with the jewel wealth of life's essence which you have accomplished with your noble action, that nectar sweet of soma seasoned and reinforced is here for you. Drink it with the exciting pleasure of your senses, mind and soul.

1. Anaśvo jāto anabhīśurukthyo rathastricakraḥ pari vartate rajaḥ. Mahattadvo devyasya pravācanaṁ dyāmṛbhavaḥ pṛthivīṁ yacca puṣyatha.

O Rbhus, divine engineers of superhuman order, that admirable three wheel, three engine, three stage chariot of yours, powered without horse, controlled without reins, created as your grand realisation of the divine formula, goes round and round over the earth, across the skies unto the regions of space without erring, and the same you control and feed.

2. Rathaṁ ye cakruḥ suvṛtaṁ sucetaso'vihvarantaṁ manasaspari dhyayā. Tāṅ ū nvasya savanasya pītaya ā vo vājā ṛbhavo vedayāmasi.

Those Rbhus, scientists and engineers of exceptional genius, alert of mind and vision, who created the well structured, well controlled unerring chariot with their thought, imagination and meditation beyond the mind, we recognise and invite to this soma session of scientific yajna for the order of national honour.

3. Tadvo vājā ṛbhavaḥ supravācanaṁ deveṣu vibhvo abhavanmahitvanam. Jivrī yatsantā pitarā sanājurā punaryuvānā carathāya takṣatha.

O Rbhus, fast and imaginative scientists and engineers universally recognised and honoured, that practical realisation of yours of the divine word and formula becomes a great news for the brilliant leaders and scholars, since by that you rejuvenate the parental ancestors old and worn out for long and equip them with new life and energy of youth to go about and onward in time.

You develop one cup of soma into four, make one versatile chariot into fourfold efficiency, and reclaim and develop barren and eroded land back to fertility with your thought and imagination, and thus immediately you attain to a status of immortality among the divine benefactors of humanity. Rbhus of world fame and high speed of action, such achievement of yours is admirable.

The wealth most meritorious, received through the Rbhus, that which is created by the most famous and dynamic leaders, that which is created by the world famous Rbhus themselves, the person wide awake and perceptive whom the wise and generous divinities protect and promote: this is worthy of honour and celebration at public assemblies.

He is the hero, he is the pioneer, he is the visionary prophet by eloquence, he is the brave, he is the warrior, unchallengeable in battle contests, he wins health and wealth, and he wins strength and prowess whom the Rbhus, world heroes of the speed of winds, protect and patronise.

Most distinguished and elevating is the form and position held by you, Rbhus, masters of art and science and pioneers of progress. Accept and appreciate the song of celebration. Stay constant, poets and visionaries, scholars of high wisdom. Such we recognise and honour you by this holy song of praise.

O Rbhus, scholars and scientists of high order, with your knowledge, art and wisdom, create and provide for us the food, energy and modes of care and comfort we need for the sustenance of humanity. Create and bring us the light of science and progress of technology, strength and power coupled with generosity, highest form of life's wealth and health and age.

Happy, joyous and generous, O Rbhus, create and prepare for us here a noble progeny and a prosperous nation, create wealth here, food, knowledge and honour worthy of the brave here itself by which we may enlighten others too full well. O scholars of science and wisdom, give us that wonderful art and knowledge and all round progress.

O generous Rbhus, brilliant sages, eminent scholars and leaders of science and progress, come and grace our yajnic programme of non-violent development, come by the paths of divinity so that, happy and joyous, you may take over the humanistic project of the people in these happy days of the season.

May those yajnic projects of yours for the creation of happiness and prosperity be satisfying and delightful to your heart and mind, and may the fruits of yajnas served by holy men and fed with ghrta flow to you with fragrance. May the soma cups of joy full to the brim enrapture you and, drunk to the leas, excite and exhilarate you to your best performance.

Rbhus, eminent scholars and miraculous makers, as your threefold gift of science, technology and wealth of power and excellence for the highest of people is a source of bliss and comfort, so do I as one among the same people high and low, dedicated to the vast divinities, offer you the treat of soma, best of wealth and joy as gift, in truth of thought, word and deed, offering loved by the noblest divine souls, the Rbhus.

O Rbhus, commanding mighty horse power, riding brilliant chariots, clad in corselets of steel, be golden great, tempestuous as winds. Consequently, O children of Indra, universal energy, unassailable images of strength and power, for your joy and celebration, the first and foremost tribute of soma yajna is selected and offered.

O Rbhus, in the struggle of life we invoke and call upon the wonder visionary man of art and science, wealth of all kinds, most heroic warrior, cooperative ally, most powerful leader, and furious fighting force ever dependable, inalienable. (That is the Rbhu we want.)

O Rbhus, visionaries of science, power and action, whoever the man you and the ruler, Indra, protect and promote, would be the man of dedication and discrimination with actions and intelligence, an admirable ally in the business of life with the fastest modes of movement and progress.

O Rbhus, leaders and pioneers of vision and progress, O lord ruler of the world, Indra, never failing, ever true, teach us, give us that order of wealth and speedy progress with power and horse which leads the people to honour and prosperity in life to the full.

Mandala 4/Sukta 38

Dyavaprthivi, Dadhikra Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

उता हि वां दात्रा सन्ति पूर्वा या पूरुभ्यस्त्रसदस्युनिताशे।

1. Uto hi vāṁ dātrā santi pūrvā yā pūrubhyastra-sadasyurnitośe. Kṣetrāsāṁ dadathururvarāsāṁ ghanaṁ dasyubhyo abhibhūtimugram.

O heaven and earth, ruler and commander, generous givers, whatever the gifts of munificence earlier than the earliest for the many recipients, they are all yours: whether they are gifts of fields and fertile lands with generous grants or, as terror for the wicked, you give to the evil doer the crushing bolt and intense fall from grace.

उत वाजिनं पुरुनिष्षिध्वानं दधिक्रामु ददथुर्विश्वकृष्टिम।

2. Uta vājinaṁ puruniṣṣidhvānaṁ dadhikrāmu dadathurviśvakṛṣṭim. Ṛjipyaṁ śyenaṁ pruṣita-psumāśuṁ carkṛtyamaryo nṛpatiṁ na śūram.

Or, like the brave parental master, you give the war horse, destroyer of many enemies, or the roaring war craft, winner of victories for many people of the world, and the refulgent hero like the rising sun, supporter and defender of humanity, or the simple man of rectitude, or the eagle like fighter that pounces upon the target, or the instant flier and pilot or the relentless doer of the master's order.

3. Yaṁ sīmanu pravateva dravantaṁ viśvaḥ pūrurmadati harṣamāṇaḥ. Paḍbhirgṛdhyantaṁ medhayuṁ na śūraṁ rathaturaṁ vātamiva dhrajantam.

War horse or the aircraft which, rushing like turbulent waters to the sea, the people of the world admire and celebrate with joy, which, like a brave and tempestuous warrior, advances to the heat of battle by leaps and bounds and grabs the enemy and which, rushing like a wind sheer tears the enemy force apart.

यः स्मारुन्धाना गध्या समत्सु सनुतरश्चरति गाषु गच्छन।

4. Yaḥ smārundhāno gaḍhyā samatsu sanutaraścarati goṣu gacchan. Āvirṛjīko vidathā nicikyat tiro aratiṁ paryāpa āyoḥ.

Which in battles stems the united force of the enemy and goes over lands and seas of the earth in majesty, which openly displays its strength of arms and thrust openly, and watches over the grand yajnic programmes of humanity and wards off the enemies and adversities from the life of noble people.

5. Uta smainaṁ vastramathiṁ na tāyumanu krośanti kṣitayo bhareṣu. Nīcāyamānaṁ jasuriṁ na śyenaṁ śravaścācchā paśumacca yūtham.

Just as people cry out for help when a thief attacks their cloth and hearth and home, so do people call out to the fighter warrior in battles for the safety of their hearth and home and herds of cattle wealth when they see the terrible enemy descending like a hawk intending to attack.

6. Uta smāsu prathamaḥ sariṣyan ni veveti śreṇibhī rathānām. Srajaṁ kṛṇvāno janyo na śubhvā reṇuṁ rerihat kiraṇaṁ dadaśvān.

Keen to be the first and prime leader in front of these battle formations of the war chariots, creating a garland pattern, graceful like a bridegroom in procession, he goes like the wind raising a cloud of dust and radiating beams of light like the sun.

7. Uta sya vājī sahurirṛtāvā śuśrūṣamāṇastanvā samarye. Turaṁ yatīṣu turayannṛjipyo'dhi bhruvoḥ kirate reṇumṛñjan.

And that hero, mighty and brilliant, dedicated to truth, keen for service in battle in his own person, commanding the strong and smart warriors on fronts, going up and forward by straight paths, tossing up dust in battle, shaking it off from the eyebrows, goes on making things straight and favourable for all.

उत स्मास्य तन्यतारिव द्यात्रृघायता अभियुजा भयन्त। यदा सहस्त्रमभि षीमयाधीद्दुवतुः स्मा भवति भीम ऋञ्जन ॥ ८ ॥

8. Uta smāsya tanyatoriva dyorṛghāyato abhiyujo bhayante. Yadā sahasramabhi ṣīmayodhīd durvartuḥ smā bhavati bhīma ṛñjan.

And when the hero in passion takes up arms in battle, those who face him shake in fear as from the thunder of lightning from the skies, and then when he engages thousands of adversaries he grows terrible and irresistible and comes out victorious.

उत स्मास्य पनयन्ति जना जूतिं कृष्टिपा अभिभूतिमाशाः। उतनमाहुः समिथ वियन्तः परा दधिका असरत्सहस्त्रैः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Uta smāsya panayanti janā jūtiṁ kṛṣṭipro abhibhūtimāśoḥ. Utainamāhuḥ samithe viyantaḥ parā dadhikrā asarat sahasraiḥ.

And people praise the drive and superior power of this hero of human endeavour and accomplishment for humanity, and the warriors going to battle describe him as the roaring war horse, the booming war craft of the skies and the supreme of arms going with but ahead of thousands.

आ दधिकाः शवसा पञ्च कृष्टीः सूयइव ज्यातिषापस्तताना। सहस्त्रसाः शतसा वाज्यर्वा पृणक्तु मध्वा समिमा वचांसि ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā dadhikrāḥ śavasā pañca kṛṣṭīḥ sūrya iva jyotiṣāpastatāna. Sahasrasāḥ śatasā vājyarvā pṛṇaktu madhvā samimā vacāṁsi.

Just as the sun with its rays fills the skies and space, so does Dadhikra, the roaring war horse, the booming war-craft and the superior war hero with characteristic power and majesty fascinate all the five classes of people. May this hero, tempestuous mover, giver of a hundred and thousand favours to the people bring our words of praise to golden honey sweets of success and fulfilment.

1. Āśuṁ dadhikrāṁ tamu nu ṣṭavāma divaspṛthivyā uta carkirāma. Ucchantīr-māmuṣasaḥ sūdayantvati viśvāni duritāni parṣan.

Varily we praise the swift Dadhikra, the war horse of earth and skies, and we sing in praise of earth and heaven too. May the glorious dawns inspire and mature me, cleansing me of all the evils and weaknesses of earthly existence.

2. Mahaścarkarmyarvataḥ kratuprā dadhikrāvṇaḥ puruvārasya vṛṣṇaḥ. Yaṁ pūrubhyo dīdivāṁ-saṁ nāgniṁ dadathur-mitrāvaruṇā taturim.

O Mitra and Varuna, President of the Council and commander of the army, dear as pranic energies of life, inspired and enlightened, I praise the mighty war horse, Dadhikra, sustainer of sustainers, a shower of blessings, saviour of the people, a gift swift and blazing as fire, which you have given for the sake of noble humanity.

3. Yo aśvasya dadhikrāvṇo akārīt samiddhe agnā uṣaso vyuṣṭau. Anāgasaṁ tamaditiḥ kṛṇotu sa mitreṇa varuṇenā sajoṣāḥ.

Whoever does honour and worship to Dadhikra, mighty life sustaining energy of the Divine and offers oblations into the burning fire at the rise of dawn, him Aditi, mother earth and the skies and space, lead to a state of purity from sin and evil and elevate him to a state of love and friendship with Mitra and Varuna, friend and highest authority of humanity.

4. Dadhikrāvṇa iṣa ūrjo maho yadamanmahi marutāṁ nāma bhadram. Svastaye varuṇaṁ mitramagniṁ havāmaha indraṁ vajrabāhum.

While we study and discover the food, energy and power gifts of the great Dadhikra, cosmic sustainer of sustaining energies and of the good that the Maruts, powerful people, for sure do for our good and advancement, we at the same time study with devotion Varuna, water energy, Mitra, solar energy, Agni, fire power, and Indra, electricity which wields the arms of thunder.

Science researchers and engineers and technologists going to centres of production, and both the rulers and the people, all invoke and develop Indra, electrical energy, Dadhikra, basic energy, flow of waters, and awareness of the modes of comfort which the friendly and generous powers, Mitra and Varuna, at national and international levels, give us as gifts for the people.

We sing in praise of Dadhikra, divine energy, victorious, all achieving spirit and power, who may, we pray, refine our sense of taste and other refinements and may help us live a full and healthy life across the floods of existence.

1. Dadhikrāvṇa idu nu carkirāma viśvā inmāmuṣasaḥ sūdayantu. Apāmagneruṣasaḥ sūryasya bṛhaspaterāṅgirasasya jiṣṇoḥ.

We study and develop for human purposes the forces of Dadhikra, all victorious cosmic energy which impels various forms of natural energy, and we tap and develop the power sources of water, fire, dawns, sun, Brhaspati and pranas. May all the lights of the dawns and new revelations inspire me and mature my projects.

2. Satvā bhariṣo gaviṣo duvanyasacchravasyādiṣa uṣasasturaṇyasat. Satyo dravo dravaraḥ pataṅgaro dadhikrāveṣamūrjaṁ svarjanat.

Dadhikrava, cosmic energy, potent and omnipresent, all sustaining, all inspiring of sense and mind, responsive to the dedicated enquirer, acting fast in foods, power sources and light of the dawns, true and imperishable, dynamic, flowing, heating, flying, may respond and create food, energy and the joy of life.

3. Uta smāsya dravatasturaṇyataḥ parṇaṁ na veranu vāti pragardhinaḥ. Śyenasyeva dhrajato aṅkasaṁ pari dadhikrāvṇaḥ sahorjā taritrataḥ.

And like the wings of an arrow, everything follows the curves and waves of the motion of this Dadhikra, cosmic energy, flowing, running, accelerating, flying, driving and pressing forward like an eagle, and traversing the spaces with terrific power and velocity.

And that flying horse, missile of terrific power, Dadhikra, tied and programmed at the mouth, neck and the flanks, carries a warhead at terrific speed, and, following its programmed action, crosses the marks of its course to the target.

Hansa, the divine bird, soul unpolluted, resides in purity in biological forms in the skies, and, as yajnic doer, sits on the vedi in family home among people, the best ones, and rises up to the heights of heavens. It is born of the waters on the earth from the Law of existence and from the clouds. That is the truth, the Law.

Indra-Varuna Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

1. Indrā ko vāṁ varuṇā sumnamāpa stomo haviṣmāň amṛto na hotā. Yo vāṁ hṛdi kratumāň asmaduktaḥ pasparśadindrāvaruṇā namasvān.

Indra, O lord of power and glory, O Varuna, lord of justice and rectitude, who could win the favour of your blessing, which song of praise and prayer, expressive of yajnic reverence like an immortal yajaka would win your favour? Which song and tribute, O Indra and Varuna, sung in your honour, expressing humility and surrender as holy offering would touch your heart?

इन्द्रा ह या वरुणा चक्र आपी देवा मतः सख्याय प्रयस्वान। स हन्ति वृत्रा समिथेषु शत्रूनवाभिवा महद्भिः स प शृण्व ॥ २ ॥

2. Indrā ha yo varuṇā cakra āpī devau martaḥ sakhyāya prayasvān. Sa hanti vṛtrā samitheṣu śatrūn-avobhirvā mahadbhiḥ sa pra śṛṇve.

Indra and Varuna, lord of power and of justice, abounding in strength and grace, generous and refulgent, the man who tries in honest action to win your friendship destroys darkness and evil and wins over enemies in battles with great weapons of defence and protection.

2. Indrā ha ratnaṁ varuṇā dheṣṭhetthā nṛbhyaḥ śaśamānebhyastā. Yadī sakhāyā sakhyāya somaiḥ sutebhiḥ suprayasā mādayaite.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and the elected people in power, if they hold and govern the jewel wealth of the nation in trust for the people, and the people would then appreciate, approve and admire them, then this way, they, both friends in agreement, for friendship of the people, would be happy and rejoice with the honour and prosperity of the law created with the honest effort of all in unison.

Indra, ruler, and Varuna, chief of justice, mighty impassioned powers in this system, wield the light of knowledge and law in the social order. Who ever is malignant, evil doer and terror monger against us, strike the shattering blow of justice and punishment on him and create faith and confidence in the light and lustrous power of the law.

Indra, leader and giver of knowledge and power, and Varuna, embodiment of cherished virtue and intelligence, as Indra, lord of clouds sends down rain showers on earth and fertilises her, so, be the promoters of the intelligence and enlightenment of the children of the earth so that, as the earth, rich in vegetation, overflows with food in a thousand ways, so the knowledge, language and enlightenment of the community may grow a thousandfold and overflow with creative work on the great moving earth.

6. Toke hite tanaya urvarāsu sūro dṛśīke vṛṣaṇaśca pauṁsye. Indrā no atra varuṇā syātāmavobhirdasmā paritakmyāyām.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, for the good of our children and grand children on these fertile lands on this moving and progressive earth, be the sun for the health and beauty of life, be the cloud for the fertility and virility of the nation. Indra, giver of light and energy, Varuna, lord of law and justice, with all your protections and promotions, be the destroyers of want and suffering, be the harbingers of health and plenty and enlightenment.

7. Yuvāmiddhyavase pūrvyāya pari prabhūtī gaviṣaḥ svāpī. Vṛṇīmahe sakhyāya priyāya śūrā maṅhiṣṭhā pitareva śambhū.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and sustainer, lord of life and power, giver of freedom and justice, we choose to dedicate ourselves to you for the sake of protection and progress as ever before, great and beneficent friends like brothers, brave and fearless, greatest majestic, and kind as parents as you are. Lovers of the earth and cows, knowledge and the language of Divinity as we are, we opt for you in freedom for the sake of love and friendship.

Indra and Varuna, benevolent energy and inspiration of nature and Divinity, all senses, mind and intelligence in search of efficiency and refinement in the business of life flow to you for the sake of protection and promotion. So may my mind, senses, vision and voices of exploration and celebration turn to Indra and Varuna for light and inspiration and abide by them for beauty and delicacy like the earth and other planets relating to the moon for the sweetness and beauty of their products.

9. Imā indraṁ varuṇaṁ me manīṣā agmannupa draviṇamicchamānāḥ. Upemasthurjoṣṭāra iva vasvo raghvīriva śravaso bhikṣamāṇāḥ.

These senses and mind of mine keenly desiring to win the wealth and vision of life may proceed to Indra and Varuna, light and power and inspiration of nature and Divinity, and abide thereby, awaiting, getting and enjoying the wealth and wisdom of life like little Brahmacharinis of a girls' institution of education waiting upon their teacher mother.

May we, with our mind and soul, be masters of the lasting wealth of horses and chariots, of achievement and further progress, of health and nourishment, and may those two, Indra and Varuna, ruler and administrator, teacher and preacher, ever active with their latest modes of protection, promotion and progress join us and share our health.

Indra ruler, and Varuna, administrator and commander, great and majestic, come to us with the best of protection, promotion, progress and welfare and join our battle of life so that, participating in the struggles of that battle, joining and shining together with you, we may play our game with the best of capacities.

Mandala 4/Sukta 42

Atma, Indra-Varuna Devata,

Trasadasyu Paurukutsya Rshi

मम॑ द्वि॒ता रा॒ष्ट्रं क्ष॒त्रिय॑स्य वि॒श्वायो॒र्विश्व॑ अ॒मृता॒ यथा॑ नः ।
क॒तुं स॑चन्त॒ वरु॑णस्य दे॒वा राजा॑मि कृ॒ष्टेरु॑प॒मस्य॑ व॒वेः ॥ १ ॥

1. Mama dvitā rāṣṭraṁ kṣatriyasya viśvāyorviśve amṛtā yathā naḥ. Kratuṁ sacante varuṇasya devā rājāmi kṛṣṭerupamasya vavreḥ.

I am Indra, sovereign spirit of the universe. Twofold is my kingdom: heaven and earth, or, the world of nature and the world of humanity. I am Varuna, highest Intelligence and the Ruling Power of the universe. All the Immortals, divine forces in the service of Varuna are ours, they comprise and conduct the mighty yajna system of the universe. Thus I rule all: the world of humanity, all that is highest and closest in the world of forms, and all that is hidden.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the living, breathing, intelligent, self-organising, autonomous and sovereign system of the universe as macrocosm as well as microcosm. At the macrocosmic level, Indra is the Supreme Sovereign, immanent and transcendent Spirit, and Varuna is the immanent ruling force, intelligence and the law of Rtam. Indra-varuna is a functional version of the Supreme Spirit which is both immanent and transcendent. At the microcosmic level, Indra-Varuna is the individual soul with all its faculties of awareness, intelligence, mind and senses. At the world level too, Indra-Varuna may be interpreted as the Ruler and the President-in-council.)

2. Ahaṁ rājā varuṇo mahyaṁ tānyasuryāṇi prathamā dhārayanta. Kratuṁ sacante varuṇasya devā rājāmi kṛṣṭerupamasya vavreḥ.

I am Varuna, ruling spirit of the world, best and highest. For me do the first manifestations of the spirit in nature hold the wealth and power of existence. They are the divine immortals who comprise and conduct the creative yajna, the spirit in body form. I rule the world of humanity, the phenomenal forms and all that is hidden in potentiality.

3. Ahamindro varuṇaste mahitvorvī gabhīre rajasī sumeke. Tvaṣṭeva viśvā bhuvanāni vidvāntsamairayaṁ rodasī dhārayaṁ ca.

I am Indra, the highest, omnipotent, and transcendent. I am Varuna, highest and best immanent and omniscient. Happy and exalted, having created the vast and deep and firm heaven and earth as Tvashta, cosmic maker, I hold and move in unison the sun and earth and all other regions of the universe.

4. Ahamapo apinvamukṣamāṇā dhārayaṁ divaṁ sadana ṛtasya. Ṛtena putro aditerṛtāvota tridhātu prathayad vi bhūma.

I shower the rains of energising and fertilising waters. I hold and rule the sun and cosmic energy in the space of nature within eternal law. By the same eternal law of mine, the child of eternity, the threefold world of natural constituents, sattva, rajas and tamas (thought, energy and matter) manifests and expands and keeps to the law. Thus do I create, hold and rule the universe.

5. Māṁ naraḥ svaśvā vājayanto māṁ vṛtāḥ samaraṇe havante. Kṛṇomyājiṁ maghavāhamindra iyarmi reṇum-abhibhūtyojāḥ.

The best of men and leaders, equipped with good horses and modes of transport and communication, fighting for strength and sustenance, the chosen ones, knowing me and struggling to attain to me call upon me in the battle of existence. I, Indra, commanding the wealth and power of the world, highest of the lustre and glory in existence, create the battle for their victory and raise the heat of action.

6. Ahaṁ tā viśvā cakaraṁ nakirmā daivyaṁ saho varate apratītam. Yanmā somāso mamadanyadukthobhe bhayete rajasī apāre.

I do all those acts of creation, sustenance and victory. None can restrain or resist the supernal power that's mine, mysterious and unknown. When the flames of my soma yajna rise, the fire crackles and the hymns of celebration reverberate, the boundless heaven and earth shake in fear. There is none that equals me.

That greatness and grandeur of yours all the scholars of the worlds know. O lord omniscient, you yourself speak of it to the selected men of vision. You are the breaker of the clouds, we hear, and you set the rivers aflow and release the waters locked up in lakes and clouds.

8. Asmākamatra pitarasta āsantsapta ṛṣayo daurgahe badhyamāne. Ta āyajanta trasadasyu-masyā indraṁ na vṛtraturam-ardhadevam.

When the seven sages, senses, pranic energies and flowing streams, which are our feeding and sustaining powers like father and mother, are locked up in darkness then, as they join Indra, so they join the sun (wakefulness), who is superior to the darkness of Vrtra and presides over half of this world with his light (until light and life is restored).

9. Purukutsānī hi vāmadāśaddhavyebhirindrā-varuṇā namobhiḥ. Athā rājānaṁ trasada-syuma-syā vṛtrahaṇaṁ dadathur-ardhadevam.

O Indra and Varuna, the abundant power of the thunderbolt, light and showers offer you the homage of yajnic inputs of food for consumption and holistic expansion of creative nourishment. And thence, further, you give it on to this earth's ruler, destroyer of darkness and evil, who presides over half the world (and rises in majesty with the break of dawn).

10. Rāyā vayaṁ sasavāṁso madema havyena devā yavasena gāvaḥ. Tāṁ dhenum-indrāvaruṇā yuvaṁ no viśvāhā dhattam-anapasphurantīm.

Let us rejoice with the wealth of peace and refreshment with energy while we sleep, just as the devas, divine powers of nature, are replenished with spirit and joy by the offer of yajnic homage, and cows rejoice with grass. That vibrating energy of life, Indra and Varuna, you bear and bring for us day and night without break. Reveal that language of enlightenment, all calm and undisturbed.

Who listens? Which of the adorables? Which brilliant divinity loves and entertains the song of prayer and adoration? To whose heart shall we dedicate this eulogy, divine, highly presentable, and dearest to the immortals.

Who is kind and blissful? Which one comes at the fastest and earliest? Which one of the adorable divinities is the most benevolent? Which one is the chariot, power driven, which moves instantly at the fastest, they say, which the daughter of the sun, the Dawn, chooses for the ride?

Ashvins, complementary powers of nature and humanity, magnificent on the move, you come instantly at the call of time like rays of the sun displaying his power over the smiling earth at the end of night. Coming from the heavens, divine with wings of light, by which one of nature's immaculate forces do you become the most powerful and eloquent?

4. Kā vāṁ bhūdupamātiḥ kayā na āśvinā gamatho hūyamānā. Ko vāṁ mahaścit-tyajaso abhīka uruṣyataṁ mādhvī dasrā na ūtī.

Ashvins, what could be the simile or metaphor to describe or define you? On whose invocation and invitation would you come to us? Even though someone might be great, who could be as great and selfless around as you? Sweet powers, destroyers of evil, rise higher and higher for our defence and protection.

Great and grand is your chariot that goes round the regions of light, it comes to you from the oceans and from the oceans of spatial waters. Honey sweet you are, honey sweet is your wisdom. You and your wisdom shower us with sweetness of honey when your people at the stage of ripeness reach you for company and advice.

6. Sindhurha vāṁ rasayā siñjadaśvān ghṛṇā vayo'-ruṣāsaḥ pari gman. Tadū ṣu vāmajiraṁ ceti yānaṁ yena patī bhavathaḥ sūryāyāḥ.

The waters of the flowing rivers and rolling seas evaporate and lend moisture to your horses of sun rays which rise like birds bright and red, and then your chariot, quick and soaring, coming and rising, is seen and known by which you become masters of the dawns.

इहह यद्वां समना पपृक्षे सयमस्म सुमतिर्वाजरत्ना। उरुष्यतं जरितारं युवं ह श्रितः कामो नासत्या युवद्रिक॥ ७॥

Here itself in this world, O Ashvins, both of you, ever correct and true as you are, of equal mind and rich with the treasures of wealth and speed of light, may that holy and dynamic intelligence and wisdom which attends on you may, we pray, be for us too and may it bless and promote the celebrant who, looking to you with surrender and faith, may achieve the desire of his heart. Our ambition and fulfilment is centred on you only.

Ashvins, complementary currents of cosmic energy of the Divine, today we invoke you and call for that chariot of yours which is wide extended, joins earth and heaven, carries the light and energy of sunrays, ages not, carries the sound and which is abundant in various wealth which never diminishes but continuously enriches the earth.

Ashivns Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

एष स्य भानुरुदियति युज्यत रथः परिज्मा दिवा अस्य सानवि। पृ ागसा अस्मिन्मिथुना अधि त्रया दृतिस्तुरीया मधुना वि रप्शत ॥ १ ॥

1. Eṣa sya bhānurudiyarti yujyate rathaḥ parijmā divo asya sānavi. Pṛkṣāso asmin mithunā adhi trayo dṛtisturīyo madhuno vi rapśate.

There rises the sun, chariot of the Ashvins in motion. It goes high up on top of the heavens, gaining heights and leaving the regions below. In this are three analogous kinds of food and energy: wind, water and electricity. And there is the fourth, the cloud on top of all, laden with the honey sweets of showers.

2. Udvāṁ pṛkṣāso madhumanta īrate rathā aśvāsa uṣaso vyuṣṭiṣu. Aporṇuvantastama ā parīvṛtaṁ svarṇa śukraṁ tanvanta ā rajaḥ.

On the rise of dawns, honey sweets of foods and energies and the horses and the chariots raise you high up, Ashvins, while they remove the veil of darkness and spread the brilliance of morning light like the glory of heaven all round.

मध्व॑ः पिबतं मधु॒पभि॑रा॒सभि॑रु॒त पि॒यं मधु॑न युञ्जाथां॒ रथ॑म।

3. Madhvaḥ pibataṁ madhupebhirāsabhiruta priyaṁ madhune yuñjāthāṁ ratham. Ā vartaniṁ madhunā jinvathaspatho dṛtiṁ vahethe madhumantamaśvinā.

Ashvins, drink the sweets with lips addicted to the taste of honey. Start the chariot to reach the dear sweets of life. Take to the high road on the way home by the chariot bearing the sweets of success as the sun and wind bear the cloud of showers.

हंसासा य वां मधुमन्ता अस्रिधा हिरण्यपणा उहुव उषबुधः। उदपुता मन्दिना मन्दिनिस्पृशा मध्वा न म ाः सवनानि गच्छथः ॥ ४ ॥

Flying gracefully like hansa birds, pleasant and agreeable, fleet and comfortable, golden winged morning birds floating across mists and waters, giving the luxurious feel of breezy ecstasy: such are your horses which transport you across the spaces like bees flying to the honey cups of flowers, by which you proceed to the yajnic programmes of humanity creating the honour and excellence of life.

5. Svadhvarāso madhumanto agnaya usrā jarante prati vastoraśvinā. Yanniktahastas-taraṇirvica-kṣaṇaḥ somaṁ suṣāva madhumantam-adribhiḥ.

Holy yajnic performers, creating and bearing honey sweets of vitality, leaders and pioneers brilliant as fire, every morning, welcome and praise the first rays of the sun, while the clean handed, clear eyed, wise priest, saviour from sin and disease, grinds with stones the holy plant of soma for honey juice and all wait for your arrival, O Ashvins, harbingers of morning joy.

6. Ākenipāso ahabhir-davidhvataḥ svarṇa śukraṁ tanvanta ā rajaḥ. Suraścidaśvān yuyujāna īyate viśvāň anu svadhayā cetathaspathaḥ.

While the approaching and vitalising morning rays everyday dispel the darkness and spread the brilliant light across the skies like regions of heaven, and the sun, using the rays as chariot horses, goes in majesty, you show the paths of the world by virtue of your own power.

प वा॑मवाचमश्विना धिय॑ंधा रथ॒: स्वश्वा॑ अ॒जरा॒ या अस्ति॑ । यन॑ स॒द्यः परि॒ रजांसि या॒था ह॒विष्म॑न्तं त॒रणिं भा॒ज-मच्छ॑ ॥ ७ ॥

7. Pra vām-avocam-aśvinā dhiyandhā rathaḥ svaśvo ajaro yo asti. Yena sadyaḥ pari rajāṁsi yātho haviṣmantaṁ taraṇiṁ bhojamaccha.

Ashvins, path makers of the world, having the knowledge and intelligence that I have attained, I speak to you of the chariot that's yours, which is imperishable, equipped with unfailing horse power, by which you instantly and all time go over the skies and spaces and by which you bear and bring excellent food and energy full of sacrificial vitality that carries us across the seas of life.

Mandala 4/Sukta 46

Indra-Vayu Devate, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

(Indra and Vayu are open-ended symbols to be interpreted according to the context of life which the mantra shows: Indra may be interpreted as power and protection, and Vayu as power in motion, energy for motion and advancement.)

7. Iha prayāṇamastu vāmindravāyū vimocanam. Iha vāṁ somapītaye.

Indra and Vayu, here may be the end of your journey for the drink of soma and here may the chariot and the horses be released so that you may drink the soma of Moksha.

(This sukta may be interpreted in another way in the light of this mantra: Indra as the soul, Vayu as the prana energy of breath and blood circulation, the chariot as the body and horses as the organs of perception and volition, distillation of soma as creative yajnic action, drinking as the fruit of action, and release of chariot and horses as the freedom of the soul from the body and senses.)

1. Yastastambha sahasā vi jmo antān bṛhaspatis-triṣadhastho raveṇa. Taṁ pratnāsa ṛṣayo dīdhyā-nāḥ puro viprā dadhire mandrajihvam.

Brhaspati, the sun, which, positioned in the midst of the three regions of earth, skies and heaven, sustains the earth and other planets to the ends with its force and its rays of light and gravitation;

Or, the Lord of mighty universe who is omnipresent in the worlds of earth, skies and the heavens of light and rules the universe to the ends of it with his omnipotence and Word of revelation;

Or, the ruler, who, self-established in knowledge, action, and prayer, rules the world to the ends of the earth with his power and word and force of law;

Or, the eminent scholar, who, master of the three realms of knowledge, Divinity, Prakrti, and the soul with the word of the Veda, rules the heart and intellect of the people to the ends of the earth with his knowledge that is power and his word:

Him, lord of sweet voice and vibrations of communication and gravitation, the ancient seers, shining since the first moments of human existence, vibrant with living knowledge and holy desire, sing, celebrate and advance in human consciousness.

O Brhaspati, vibrant scholars and heroes are they who inspire the holy and brilliant man of knowledge and centres of advancement, and help us progress in culture and achievement. O lord of progress and advancement, protect and promote the home and profession of every such person and institution, creative, brilliant, fearless, and generous and extensive in possibilities.

He surely is ruler of the world who faces all the practical battles of life with his own strength and courage, and who holds in faith, honours and worships Brhaspati, lord supreme sustainer of the universe, most cherished and the first immanent lord of life.

स इत्ँति सुधिंत आकंसि स्व तस्मा इळां पिन्वत विश्वदानींम। तस्म विशः स्वयमवा नंमन्त यस्मिंन्ब्रह्मा राजंनि पूव एतिं॥ ८॥

8. Sa itkṣeti sudhita okasi sve tasmā iḷā pinvate viśvadānīm. Tasmai viśaḥ svayamevā namante yasmin brahmā rājani pūrva eti.

Surely he dwells with peace and contentment in his own home, and him nature favours with all her gifts as her loving all-generous child, and to him all people spontaneously bow in reverence, whom Brahma, Lord Supreme as well as visionary of the Vedas, prime Spirit and prime person, favours and blesses as the brilliant ruler with the divine presence.

9. Apratīto jayati saṁ dhanāni pratijanyānyuta yā sajanyā. Avasyave yo varivaḥ kṛṇoti brahmaṇe rājā tamavanti devāḥ.

Unchallenged, unopposed, that ruler wins over and rules all the wealth and powers, assets and liabilities, whether they belong to the opposition or to his own supporters, who does honour and service to the holy man of Vedic knowledge, who feels he needs protection and support and offers worship and support to the lord omniscient and omnipotent in support of his people. Indeed all the nobilities of humanity and all powers of nature strengthen, support and protect that ruler as the man of God for all his people.

Brhaspati, master of the knowledge of omniscience, and Indra, lord ruler of the world, both rejoicing and giving showers of wealth and comfort to the people, drink the soma of bliss in this yajna of human excellence. O lords of glory in your own right, may the majesty and sublimity of divinity bless you both and may you create and give us the wealth and honour of a brave and perfect nation with a brave young generation.

Brhaspati and Indra, scholar teacher of science and Divinity, ruler of the world, lead us on to advancement, we pray, be with us as our own, and may your vision and wisdom be ours for ourselves. Inspire and protect our mind and soul, awaken our thought and action. Lord and master, kind and favourable, help us exhaust and eliminate our weaknesses, want and poverty, dedicated supplicants as we are.

Mandala 4/Sukta 51

Usha Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

इदमु त्यत्पुरुतमं पुरस्ताज्ज्योतिस्तमसा वयुनावदस्थात।
नूनं दिवा दुहितरो विभातीर्गातुं कृणव उषसो जनाय॥ १॥

1. Idamu tyat purutamaṁ purastājjyotistamaso vayunāvadasthāt. Nūnaṁ divo duhitaro vibhātīr-gātuṁ kṛṇavannuṣaso janāya.

Yonder in the east arises and shines that glorious light of the dawn revealing itself from the depths of night's darkness and inspiring us to wake up and see the light of knowledge. Surely daughters of heaven, the sublime lights of the dawn illuminate the earth for us to see the paths of the day's action.

अस्थुरु चित्रा उषसः पुरस्तान्मिताइव स्वरवो ध्वरषु।
व्यू वजस्य तमसा द्वाराच्छन्तीरवञ्छुचयः पावकाः॥ २॥

2. Asthuru citrā uṣasaḥ purastān-mitā iva svaravo'-dhvareṣu. Vyū vrajasya tamaso dvārocchantīra-vrañ-chucayaḥ pāvakāḥ.

The lights of the dawn, various wondrous, shine magnificent in the east like daughters of omniscience, bright and bold like flag posts of yajnas of the day, pure and purifying as flames of fire, opening the doors of light from the deep folds of the night's darkness.

उच्छन्तीरद्य चितयन्त भोजानाधादयायोषसो मघानीः ।

3. Ucchantīradya citayanta bhojān rādhodeyā-yoṣaso maghonīḥ. Acitre antaḥ paṇayaḥ sasantva-budhyamānās-tamaso vimadhye.

Brilliant and blissful magnificent lights of the dawn now in the early hours of the morning wake up and inspire liberal yajakas for the gifts of charity and performance of the morning yajna, while deep down in the folds of impenetrable darkness the slothful misers sleep on, unconscious, unaware and lost in the state of ignorance.

4. Kuvitsa devīḥ sanayo navo vā yāmo babhū-yāduṣaso vo adya. Yenā navagve aṅgire daśagve saptāsye revatī revadūṣa.

O divinities of the dawn, let that ancient chariot of yours which is ever new every morning be ever so great and magnificent by which, rich and luxurious in wealth and grace of beauty, you come and shine for your darling, dear as breath of life, who has nine cows or ten, i.e., earthly virtues, and seven mouths for consumption and many more for creation.

5. Yūyaṁ hi devīr-ṛtayugbhiraśvaiḥ pariprayātha bhuvanāni sadyaḥ. Prabodhayantīruṣasaḥ sasantaṁ dvipāc-catuṣpāc-carathāya jīvam.

O divine lights of dawn, you always move over and across regions of the world by the rays of light travelling by the straight paths of truth and natural law across the oceans of space, waking up and inspiring the sleeping world of life, humans and animals, to rise and move for the day's activity.

6. Kva sivadāsāṁ katamā purānī yayā vidhānā vidadhur-ṛbhūṇām. Śubhaṁ yacchubhrā uṣasaścaranti na vi jñāyante sadṛśīr-ajuryāḥ.

Where and which of these dawns is that ancient one by which the wonder works of the Rbhus, miraculous artists and experts, were accomplished? Which one of these glorious dawns that go about so blissfully, all alike and unaging? No, not known.

7. Tā ghā tā bhadrā uṣasaḥ purāsurabhiṣṭidyumnā ṛtajātasatyāḥ. Yāsvījānaḥ śaśamāna ukthaiḥ stuvañchaṁsan-draviṇaṁ sadya āpa.

For sure those were the dawns of ancient time, givers of abundant wealth of one's heart's desire, born of the law of Divinity, rooted in eternal truth and rectitude, in which the holy yajaka, worshipping the Divine with songs of praise and celebration, always and immediately achieved the wealth of his choice and desire. They are the same even now, the old ever new.

ता आ चरन्ति समना पुरस्तात्समानतः समना पपथानाः।

8. Tā ā caranti samanā purastāt samānataḥ samanā paprathānāḥ. Ṛtasya devīḥ sadaso budhānā gavāṁ na sargā uṣaso jarante.

They are the celestial lights of Divinity, part of cosmic dynamics, waking up the homesteads to activity and proceeding like streams of cows going to the pastures. Thus do the dawns arise, radiate, wake up life and celebrate the Divine. They rise and act the same way in the east since eternity, radiate equally the same way, illuminating the same way, eternal, ever new, old yet ever young.

9. Tā innveva samanā samānīr-amītavarṇā uṣasaścaranti. Gūhantīr-abhvamasitaṁ ruśadbhiḥ śukrāstanūbhiḥ śucayo rucānāḥ.

Thus do the dawns, equal, alike, unobstructed and inviolable, radiate and roam around, covering the vast spatial darkness with light and vesting things with beautiful forms of their own by their catalytic rays of light and blaze, penetrating, pure, purifying, beautiful and edifying.

10. Rayiṁ divo duhitaro vibhātīḥ prajāvantaṁ yacchatāsmāsu devīḥ. Syonādā vaḥ pratibudhyamānāḥ suvīryasya patayaḥ syāma.

O daughters of the light of heaven, angelic damsels of divinity, bear and bless us with the wealth of progeny so that, illuminative as you are, edified into a state of wakefulness and enlightenment through the peace and bliss of your love and beauty, we, awake and enlightened, may command a blessed force of warlike heroes.

11. Tadvo divo duhitaro vibhātīrupa bruva uṣaso yajñaketuḥ. Vayaṁ syāma yaśaso janeṣu tad dyauśca dhattāṁ pṛthivī ca devī.

O lights of dawn, daughters of the glory of heaven, brilliant, radiating and illuminative as you are, I sing of you as you are, symbol of cosmic yajna, and I pray we may be blest with the glory of divinity, splendour of humanity and the honour and wealth of excellence which the heaven and earth and the daughters of heaven and earth may bear and bring for us.

(Swami Dayananda extends the meaning of the dawns from ‘daughters of heaven’ to heavenly daughters of humanity’, enlightened women, makers of happy homes. A happy home is a very heaven, he says.)

6. Āpapruṣī vibhāvari vyāvarjyotiṣā tamaḥ.

Bright and wide awake, inspiring the world with light and awareness, replete with the virtue of divinity, removing the veil of darkness with light, O dawn, protect us, protect and promote all, as you have the power and wakefulness.

7. Ā dyāṁ tanoṣi raśmibhir-āntarikṣamuru priyam.
Uṣaḥ śukreṇa śociṣā.

O dawn, with your rays of light, you radiate and fill the wide heavens and the skies, and the regions of universal love, so do you bless your loved one with the purest light of love and bliss.

(Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn literally as well as metaphorically: The dawn is not only the light of the morning, daughter of the sun, but also the light of the home, blessed and beautiful lady of the house who fills the home with light and virtue and inspires her beloved husband with love and bliss.)

Lord Savita, giver of abundant light and joy, is adorable for all of us, the lord who is now praised and worshipped day in and day out by the best of men and leaders of humanity, and who gives for the people abundant good fortune of the jewels of wealth just as he creates and gives the best and highest of wealth for us.

Savita, lord creator of life, you alone first of all create and inspire the immortal bliss of freedom, the highest gift of divinity for mankind, awarded to the devotees of yajna and divine worship, and then you alone reveal yourself and open up the treasures of divine gifts for the generous people followed by children who keep up the family tradition of piety.

Whatever our trespass whether out of ignorance, or helplessness, or pride, or arrogance, or sense of power, either among or toward the divine people, or the generous and brilliant, or even ordinary people, for that trespass, O lord Savita, giver of light and inspiration, give us the strength and inspiration to correct ourselves and be free from sin and evil here itself in this life we are human, after all.

That grandeur is ever true, imperishable.

As the sailors who desire to cross the sea study and appraise the sea and sea conditions to sail over, so, O dedicated performers of yajna, study the earth and heaven along with thunder and clouds and the desired water gifts of the skies so that streams of vapour and showers of rain be released for the rivers to flow over land to the sea.

May divine Aditi, Mother Nature, with all her generous forces nourish and sustain us. May divine saviour save, protect and sustain us without relent and neglect. (So may our mother and father guide, protect and sustain us.) And we must not try, much less even feel, that we can hurt or compromise the high position and favour of Mitra, the friend, Varuna, senior guide and judge, and Agni, leader, fire and vital energy.

The great heaven and earth, greatest here both, grow bright and beautiful with pure and purifying showers of light when the sun, radiating and all round pervading both the great and best regions of the universe, rises and roars like a bull in the heavens with wide expansive rays of its glorious radiation.

Divine dyavaprthivi, sun and earth with their divine forces—the sun with light and the earth with her motherly nurture and noble people — both worthy of love and study with dedication, loving and non-violent, abide constant in the universe. They are generous with showers of light and vitality, firm in the cosmic law of truth, replete with waters of life, loving all and hating none, blest with bright and creative progeny — the sun with planets and satellites and the earth with vegetation — carrying on and leading the process of cosmic yajna with their pure and purifying rays of light and vibrations of creative generosity.

That One alone, lord of omnipotent holy action omnipresent in these worlds of the universe, is the lord who creates the heaven and earth wide and deep with concentrations of particles together in beautiful forms self-sustained without external support. He is the lord eternal and omniscient who moves these with his vision and holy power.

you create in the regions of light, and which you move in the light of science, pray bring down to irrigate this holy land of the fields.

our peace and nourishment. Let the farmers work with the oxen and horses happily for peace and joy. Let the clouds shower with milk and honey joyously for peace and prosperity. Let the share and plough, the ploughmen and their helpers, and the powers of fertility bear and bring us peace, prosperity and joy for us all.

Mandala 4/Sukta 58

Agni, Surya, Apah, Gavah, or Ghrtam Devata, Vamadeva Gautama Rshi

समुदादूमिमधुमाँ उदारदुपांशुना समंमृतत्वमानट।
घृतस्य नाम गुह्यं यदस्ति जिह्वा देवानांममृतस्य नाभिः ॥ १ ॥

1. Samudrād-ūrmir-madhumāň udāradupāṁśunā samamṛtatvamānaṭ. Ghṛtasya nāma guhyaṁ yadasti jihvā devānāmamṛtasya nābhiḥ.

From the seas of earth and space arises the wave of honeyed energy, and close by the sun and soma that is produced in the solar yajna it joins and collects the nectar of immortality. That mysterious identity of cosmic fertility which is for us and for life as a whole flows from the tongue of divinities and originates from the centre of Eternity.

2. Vayaṁ nāma pra bravāmā ghṛtasyā'smin yajñe dhārayāmā namobhiḥ. Upa brahmā śṛṇavaccha-syamānaṁ catuḥśṛṅgo'vamīd gaura etat.

The name and identity of that spirit of energy and immortality we sing and celebrate in divine words in this yajna, and, with reverence, surrender and self sacrifice, give it unto ourselves in the soul to hold on to it in life. May the Lord Omniscient so close to us hear it well chanted in celebration, the same Lord of Vak, the eternal Word, who commands the four Vedas as high peaks of knowledge and breathes out the same for us in revelation.

चत्वारि शृङ्गा त्रयो अस्य पादा द्वे शीर्ष सप्त हस्तासो अस्य ।
त्रिधा बद्धो वृषभो रोरवीति महो देवो मर्त्याँ आ विवेश ॥ ३ ॥

3. Catvāri śṛṅgā trayo asya pādā dve śīrṣe sapta hastāso asya. Tridhā baddho vṛṣabho roravīti maho devo martyāň ā viveśa.

Of this mighty self-refulgent Lord, Word and Dharma, four are the high peaks of light and self proclamation: Rgveda, Yajurveda, Samaveda and Atharva-veda; three legs on which it rests: jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer; two heads: abhyudaya or worldly well being, and Nihshreyas or moksha or ultimate freedom; seven hands or the seven verse forms. Three way bound in faith, action and meditation, it is the thundervoice of Divinity which proclaims itself through the beauty, wonder and terror of nature and the music of the Veda. And this mighty presence of mighty self-refulgent Lord and the self-awareness of omniscience is enshrined in the heart of mortal humans.

4. Tridhā hitaṁ paṇibhirguhyamānaṁ gavi devāso ghṛtamanvavindan. Indra ekaṁ sūrya ekaṁ jajāna venādekaṁ svadhayā niṣṭatakṣuḥ.

Ghrta, the essence of the nature, purpose and science of life, three way hidden in mystic language and held by natural forces, the enlightened ones discover, create and produce: Indra, cosmic energy, electricity, thunder and lightning, holds and reflects one, the sun holds and radiates another, and the third they discover from their meditation on Divinity with their own vision and intelligence.

एता अर्षन्ति हृद्यात्समुद्राच्छतव्रजा रिपुणा नावचक्षे ।

5. Etā arṣanti hṛdyātsamudrācchatavrajā ripuṇā nāvacakṣe. Ghṛtasya dhārā abhi cākaśīmi hiraṇyayo vetaso madhya āsām.

These streams of light and life's energy flow in a hundred streams from the innermost depth of the heart-ocean, but not perceptible to the negative soul. Residing in the golden grove, myself wrapped in golden hue in their midst, I watch the light all round, the gold and the essence of life.

6. Samyak sravanti sarito na dhenā antarhṛdā manasā pūyamānāḥ. Ete arṣantyūrmayo ghṛtasya mṛgā iva kṣipaṇorīṣamāṇāḥ.

These streams of light and life flow like vibrations of the voice divine, purified and sanctified by the innermost soul of the heart and mind. The streams of ghrta, joy of life, flow like deer flying from the hunter's arrows towards the shelter of the divine saviour.

सिन्धोरिव पाध्वन शूघनासा वातपमियः पतयन्ति यह्वाः ।

7. Sindhoriva prādhvane śūghanāso vātapramiyaḥ patayanti yahvāḥ. Ghṛtasya dhārā aruṣo na vājī kāṣṭhā bhindannūrmibhiḥ pinvamānaḥ.

The streams of ghrta, life's energy, flow on to join the sea like strong currents of a river rushing on in tumult by simple, straight and holy paths of the bed carved by Divinity, and I, inspired by the waves of ghrta, like a fiery stallion flying, breaking the bounds of world pressures all round by the force of inner vibrations, move on to my divine destination.

8. Abhi pravanta samaneva yoṣāḥ kalyāṇyaḥ smayamānāso agnim. Gṛtasya dhārāḥ samidho nasanta tā juṣāṇo haryati jātavedāḥ.

As youthful ladies of love and virtue, inspired with passion and smiling in bliss, proceed to meet agni, enlightened husband, so do streams of ghrta move and flow into the vedi to meet the lighted fire, and the rising fire, loving and gracious, cherishes to receive the flow of the holy yajaka's offer.

9. Kanyā iva vahatumetavā u añjyañjānā abhi cākaśīmi. Yatra somaḥ sūyate yatra yajño ghṛtasya dhārā abhi tatpavante.

Where the yajna of holy action and meditation is enacted and the bliss of divine soma is created, there I see all round the flow of the streams of consciousness into that vedi of divine fire wherein, like a maiden in all her beauty, finery and perfume proceeding to meet her bridegroom at the wedding yajna, the individual soul flies and is accepted and sanctified in the supreme spirit of Divinity.

अभ्यर्षत सुष्टुतिं गव्यमाजिमस्मासु भद्रा द्रविणानि धत्त।

10. Abhyarṣata suṣṭutiṁ gavyam-ājim-asmāsu bhadrā draviṇāni dhatta. Imaṁ yajñaṁ nayata devatā no ghṛtasya dhārā madhumat-pavante.

Let the voice of holy praise and divine celebration rise and resound, O saints and sages and scholars of eminence, bear and bring us the light of knowledge enshrined in holy speech, lead us to honour, excellence and victory, and help us create wealth for the world leading all to the bliss of peace and common good. Guide, lead and direct this yajna of ours, the streams of honeyed ghrta flow for the fire divine.

धामन्त विश्वं भुवनमधि श्रितमन्तः समुद्र हृद्य१न्तरायुषि।

11. Dhāman te viśvaṁ bhuvanamadhi śritamantaḥ samudre hṛdyantarāyuṣi. Apāmanīke samithe ya ābhṛtastamaśyāma madhumantaṁ ta ūrmim.

O Lord, within your presence by your power is sustained the entire world of existence. That same power and presence vibrates in the depths of the oceans, in the cave of the heart, in the breath of life and age, in the waves of water and energy, in the vibrations of thought, and in the heat of action in nature and humanity. That power and presence vibrating in existence, O Lord, we pray, let us realise. Let us flow with that constant flow of vibration of Divinity in and across the fluctuations of mutability.

Mandala 5/Sukta 1

Agni Devata, Budha-Gavishthara of Atreya Family Rshis

अबाध्यग्निः समिधा जनानां पतिं धेनुमिवायतीमुषासम।
यह्वाइव प वयामुज्जिहानाः प भानवः सिस्रत नाकमच्छ॥ १ ॥

1. Abodhyagniḥ samidhā janānāṁ prati dhenumivāyatīmuṣāsam. Yahvā iva pra vayāmujjihānāḥ pra bhānavaḥ sisrate nākamaccha.

Agni is seen and known while rising by the burning samidhas lighted by the yajakas at dawn coming up like a cow early in the morning, and the flames, like branches of a mighty tree, rise brilliantly and touch the sky where there is no pain, no darkness.

अबोधि होता यजथाय देवानूर्ध्वो अग्निः सुमनाः प्रातरस्थात।

2. Abodhi hotā yajathāya devānūrdhvo agniḥ sumanāḥ prātarasthāt. Samiddhasya ruśadadarśi pājo mahān devastamaso niramoci.

The yajaka Agni, good at heart, is seen to invoke the divinities and noble sages to the yajna and rises high while the fire keeps burning and rising. The light of the burning fire is seen as a blissful divine power and then the great refulgent sun rises from the night's darkness.

यदीं गणस्य रशनामजीगः शुचिरङ्क शुचिभिर्गाभिरग्निः।

3. Yadīṁ gaṇasya raśanāmajīgaḥ śuciraṅkte śucibhirgobhiragniḥ. Āddakṣiṇā yujyate vājayantyuttānāmūrdhvo adhayajjuhūbhiḥ.

When the pure and lustrous fire of yajna, as the sun, rises with its pure bright flames and takes over the reins of the conduct of the yajnic world around, then the invigorating and powerful dakshina offering is made with the ladles, the flames of fire rise high, and the fire higher and higher up voraciously consumes the offering.

4. Aghimacchā devayatāṁ manāṁsi cakṣūṁṣīva sūrye saṁ caranti. Yadīṁ suvāte uṣasā virūpe śveto vājī jāyate agre ahnām.

The minds of holy celebrants of Divinity turn intently to Agni as their eyes wait for and turn to the rising sun. And when the heaven and earth, both different of form, one bright and the other dark and green, bring forth this Agni at the rise of the dawn, day light appears and the world grows bright.

5. Janiṣṭa hi jenyo agre ahnāṁ hito hiteṣvaruṣo vaneṣu. Damedame sapta ratnā dadhāno'gnirhotā ni ṣasādā yajīyān.

Arises Agni, victorious yajaka, the fire and the sun, for sure in advance of the day every morning, benevolent, active in everything good and holy, bright in the woods and every home, bearing sevenfold jewels of light and flame, and then settles in yajnic business, carrying the yajna on and on. The yajna must go on.

6. Agnirhotā nyasīdadyajīyānupasthe mātuḥ surabhā u loke. Yuvā kaviḥ puruniḥṣṭha ṛtāvā dhartā kṛṣṭīnāmuta madhya iddhaḥ.

Agni, host and performer of yajna, settles in the lap of the mother, earth and nature, in the beautiful fragrant world and its people, conducting the yajnic business of life which must go on. Young and bold, bright, intelligent and creative, imaginative as a poet, dedicated to all without exception, committed to truth and the law divine, sustainer and controller of the people, he goes on at the centre of everything, bright and blazing, never relenting, never slackening. The yajna must go on.

7. Pra ṇu tyaṁ vipramadhvareṣu sādhumagniṁ hotāramīḷate namobhiḥ. Ā yastatāna rodasī ṛtena nityaṁ mṛjanti vājinaṁ ghṛtena.

Ever and onward, with food, surrender and service in faith, people light, praise and worship that Agni, wise and vibrating, excellent in the accomplishment of yajnic projects, host, priest and organiser of life's business, who pervades heaven and earth with light and fragrance and blesses the people with enlightenment. Daily they renew their dedication and commitment with vows of truth, feed the power with ghrta, and refine the light and power to shine it more and more.

8. Mārjālyo mṛjyate sve damūnāḥ kavipraśasto atithiḥ śivo naḥ. Sahasraśṛṅgo vṛṣabhastadojā viśvāň agne sahasā prāsyanyān.

Agni, pure and purifying catalytic power, is refined in itself. Self-controlled and a powerful controller, sung and celebrated by poets, it is a welcome guest, auspicious and beneficent for all of us as a breeze of peace and freshness. Agni, O light of a thousand flames of eminence, generous as cloud showers, blazing lustrous, you are the pioneer, overtaking, conquering, and leading all others forward with your power and force.

9. Pra sadyo agne atyeṣyanyānāviryasmai cārutamo babhūtha. Īḷenyo vapuṣyo vibhāvā priyo viśāma-tithirmānuṣīṇām.

Agni, lord of light and power, for whosoever you rise on the vedi, light up in the home, or shine in flame in the cave of the heart most lovely and gracious, for him you excel and surpass everything else instantly and forever: adorable, sublime, effulgent, dearest and most welcome guest of all communities and habitations of men and women.

Agni, most youthful power and presence, devoted people from far and near bear and bring and offer homage and yajaka to you. Listen, know and accept the praise and prayer of the celebrant. May your shelter and protection for us be wide and great, full of peace and well being.

11. Ādya rathaṁ bhānumo bhānumantamagne tiṣṭha yajatebhiḥ samantam. Vidvān pathīnām-urvantarikṣameha devān haviradyāya vakṣi.

Agni, refulgent lord of knowledge, ascend your strong and brilliant chariot of light today with your adorable powers and associates, and across the wide paths of space bring here the nobilities of eminence of your alliance for joining and sharing our feast of yajnic offerings to the divinities.

अवाचाम कवय मध्याय वचा वन्दारु वृषभाय वृष्णे।

12. Avocāma kavaye medhyāya vaco vandāru vṛṣabhāya vṛṣṇe. Gaviṣṭhiro namasā stomamagnau divīva rukmamuruvyañcamaśret.

We sing this song of adoration in honour of the lord of light and knowledge, holy, potent, and generous. The holy yajaka dedicated to sacred speech and light of heaven, thus, ought to direct his beautiful song of praise and prayer with oblations and salutations rising high to the skies as to the sun in heaven.

Mandala 5/Sukta 2

Agni Devata, Kumara Atreya or Vrsha Jana or both Rshis

कुमा॒रं मा॒ता यु॑व॒तिः सम॑ुब्धं गु॒हा॑ बिभर्ति॒ न द॑दाति पि॒त्र॑। अनी॑कमस्य॒ न मि॒नज्ज॑नास॑ः पु॒रः प॑श्यन्ति॒ निहि॑त॑-मर॒ता॥ १॥

1. Kumāraṁ mātā yuvatiḥ samubdhaṁ guhā bibharti na dadāti pitre. Anīkamasya na minajjanāsaḥ puraḥ paśyanti nihitamaratau.

The youthful mother bears and supports the foetus concealed in the womb, she does not, cannot, give it to the father in the state of immaturity. People cannot hurt its strength and vitality hidden in secret. But when it is born, they see its beauty and vitality before their eyes.

2. Kametaṁ tvaṁ yuvate kumāraṁ peṣī bibharṣi mahiṣī jajāna. Pūrvīrhi garbhaḥ śarado vavardhā'paśyaṁ jātaṁ yadasūta mātā.

O youthful lady, sweet is this baby you carry which the consecrated mother bore. I saw the foetus grow and grow for many many years many times before. And I see it born of the mother when she delivered it.

3. Hiraṇyadantaṁ śucivarṇam-ārāt-kṣetrād-apaśya-māyudhā mimānam. Dadāno asmā amṛtaṁ vipṛkvatkiṁ māmanindrāḥ kṛṇavannan-ukthāḥ.

I see him born of the mother's womb far and near with a golden spoon in his month, pure and bright of form, wielding his weapons of essential potential. And I give him the feed of immortal elixir for life. What can those deny Indra, the soul? What can those who reject knowledge and celebration of Divinity do against me? Nothing.

I see him born of the mother, mother earth and Mother Nature, see him roaming around since eternity by himself like an army on the march, commanding great beauty and grace. When he is born they hold him not, withhold him not, they cannot, and the young mothers, having given him birth, grow old and grey haired, and then they grow youthful again.

5. Ke me maryakaṁ vi yavanta gobhirna yeṣāṁ gopā araṇaścidāsa. Ya īṁ jagṛbhurava te sṛjantvājāti paśva upa naścikitvān.

Who can take away my wealth alongwith my lands and cows, sense and mind, feeling as if they are the cowherd stealing away my bull alongwith the cows, when in fact Agni himself is their protector and energiser? And those who try to grab them must despair and give up since the lord omniscient continues to protect, create and recreate the human wealth.

6. Vasāṁ rājānaṁ vasatiṁ janānāmarātayo ni dadhurmartyeṣu. Brahmāṇyatrerava taṁ sṛjantu ninditāro nindyāso bhavantu.

The law and order of humanity and the human habitations, negative forces try to obstruct and sabotage in the communities among themselves. But the power, potential and intelligence of Atri, enlightened people free from physical, mental and spiritual fears and limitations disinflate that negative effort and the saboteurs themselves become self-condemned.

7. Śunaścicchepaṁ niditaṁ sahasrād yūpāda-muñco aśamiṣṭa hi ṣaḥ. Evāsmadagne vi mumugdhi pāśān hotaścikitva iha tū niṣadya.

Agni, O lord of light and ruler of the world, you save even shunah-shepa, the connoisseur lost in senses, reviled and condemned; you save him from a thousand snares of the world so that the man settles back in peace of mind. Same way, O lord and light of the world, come, O highpriest of the yajna of life, grace our yajna here and snap the snares of suffering and slavery off our body, mind and soul.

हृणीयमानो अप हि मदयः प मे दवानां वतपा उवाच। इन्दा विद्वाँ अनु हि त्वा चच ा तनाहमग्ने अनुशिष्ट आगाम ॥ ८ ॥

8. Hṛṇīyamāno apa hi madaiyeḥ pra me devānāṁ vratapā uvāca. Indro vidvāň anu hi tvā cacakṣa tenāhamagne anuṣiṣṭa āgām.

The observer of the laws of righteousness and divinity says: Let the element of hate and anger be away from me. Indra, man of knowledge and power, who knows and speaks of you, O Agni, destroyer of the pollution and impurity of body, mind and soul, has spoken to me and, instructed by him, I come to you in search of purity and purgation.

9. Vi jyotiṣā bṛhatā bhātyagnirāvirviśvāni kṛṇute mahitvā. Pradevīrmāyāḥ sahate durevāḥ śiśīte śṛṅge rakṣase vinikṣe.

Agni shines and blazes expansively with mighty rising flames of light, and with its lustre and power illuminates and reveals all things of the world. It sharpens and extends its arms of light and power for the destruction of evil and challenges and throws out the strength and wiles and acts of the clever forces of negation and destruction.

10. Uta svānāso divi ṣantvagnes-tigmāyudhā rakṣase hantavā u . Made cidasya pra rujanti bhāmā na varante paribādho adevīḥ.

And let the blazing weapons of fire roaring in the heights of the skies be raised for the destruction of evil forces, for as they strike for the joy and victory of life's positive forces as the very flames of terror, the obstructive forces of evil would fail to avert or oppose them.

एतं त स्तामं तुविजात विपा रथं न धीरः स्वपा अतक्षम। यदीदग्ने पति त्वं देव हयाः स्वावतीरप एना जयम ॥ ११ ॥

11. Etaṁ te stomaṁ tuvijāta vipro rathaṁ na dhīraḥ svapā atakṣam. Yadīdagne prati tvaṁ deva haryāḥ svarvatīrapa enā jayema.

Agni, light and power divine among the strong and wise, I, dedicated to knowledge and service, bold and patient, keen to do good in word and action, structure this song of celebration like a skillful engineer designing and making a chariot for you. O lord refulgent, if you are kind and gracious to accept it, then by the same song we would win sweet and heavenly waters of life, light and energy for the joy of life.

तुविग्रीवा वृषभा वावृधाना शत्रय्ऽयः समजाति वदः। इतीममग्निममृता अवाचन्बर्हिष्मते मनवे शमं यंसद्धविष्मते मनवे शमं यंसत ॥ १२ ॥

Agni, strong and graceful power and flame, roaring as a bull and generous as cloud showers, growing and promoting, free from enemies, master ruler and sustainer, creates and bestows wealth and power of the noblest kind: Thus do men of spiritual vision and divine wisdom celebrate this Agni in holy words. May Agni bless the man of generosity and self sacrifice, man of thought and discrimination, with a happy and peaceful life, holy family and a happy home.

Agni Devata, Vasushruta Atreya Rshi

त्वमग्ने वरुणो जायसे यत्त्वं मित्रो भवसि यत्समिद्धः।
त्वे विश्वे सहसस्पुत्र देवास्त्वमिन्द्रो दाशुषे मर्त्याय ॥ १ ॥

1. Tvamagne varuṇo jāyaso yat tvaṁ mitro bhavasi yatsamiddhaḥ. Tve viśve sahasasputra devā stvamidro dāśuṣe martyāya.

Agni, flaming fire, light of knowledge and power of the world, when you are born, you shine like Varuna, light of the dawn and spirit of justice and discrimination in mankind. When you are in full blaze of your glory, you are like Mitra, bright sun, friend of all. In you reside and abide all the powers of nature's divinity, O child of omnipotence, and you are Indra, giver of honour and excellence for the man of charity and generosity.

2. Tvamaryamā bhavasi yat kanīnāṁ nāma svadhāvan guhyaṁ bibharṣi. Añjanti mitraṁ sudhitaṁ na gobhiryaddampatī samanasā kṛṇoṣi.

Agni, lord of energy and living vitality, when you bear the mysterious name of youth among men and women, you become Aryama and assume the role of a judge with discrimination. When you join man and woman in wedlock, with equal love of mind and heart, they celebrate you with holy words and hospitality with cow's milk and butter.

3. Tava śriye maruto marjayanta rudra yatte janima cāru citram. Padaṁ yadviṣṇorupamaṁ nidhāyi tena pāsi guhyaṁ nāma gonām.

Agni, you are Rudra, lord of justice and dispensation. For your honour and excellence vibrant people come to you and anoint you and glorify the beautiful and wonderful name that is yours. The office of Vishnu, protector and sustainer, is vested in you, by that you protect and maintain the secret name and identity of the lights of stars.

4. Tava śriyā sudṛśo deva devāḥ purū dadhānā amṛtaṁ sapanta. Hotāramagniṁ manuṣo ni ṣedurdaṣasyanta uśijaḥ śaṁsamāyoḥ.

O lord of light and generosity, ruler of the world, by virtue of your light, honour and grace, brilliant scholars of vision, commanding wide powers and immortal knowledge, and the people in general, loving and desiring admirable wealth and beauty of life, establish, serve and expand the fire of various forms of yajna of social and scientific projects, in your honour, holy yajaka and giver of life's benefits.

5. Na tvaddhotā pūrvo agne yajīyān na kāvyaiḥ paro asti svadhāvaḥ. Viśaśca yasyā atithirbha-vāsi sa yajñena vanavad-deva martān.

Agni, there never is a generous giver and yajnic performer before you, nor is there any one higher celebrated by poets in hymns, lord of your own essential wealth and power as you are, worthy of homage. Lord of light and generosity, whoever the host where you are invoked and invited as yajnic deity, you bless the people by the yajna with fulfilment.

6. Vayamagne vanuyāma tvotā vasūyavo haviṣā budhyamānāḥ. Vayaṁ samarye vidatheṣvahnāṁ vayaṁ rāyā sahasasputra martān.

Agni, lord refulgent ruler of the world, may we grow and prosper, we pray, under your protection, searching for wealth, raising the fire with havi offerings and ourselves rising in wealth and knowledge with the yajna. Let us win in life's contests, in yajnas, day by day, O child of strength and protector of power and valour, and let us be blest with children and grand children.

7. Yo na āgo abhyeno bharātyadhīdaghamagha-śaṁse dadhāta. Jahī cikitvo abhiśastimetā-magne yo no marcayati dvayena.

Whoever commits sin and crime against us, may Agni, lord ruler and dispenser of justice, turn that sin and crime upon the sinner and calumniator. May the lord of light and knowledge, Agni, silence that imprecation, whoever be the person that hurts us with double dealing, sin and scandal.

8. Tvāmasyā vyuṣi deva pūrve dūtaṁ kṛṇvānā ayajanta havyaiḥ. Saṁsthe yadagna īyase rayī-ṇāṁ devo martair-vasubhir-idhyamānaḥ.

Agni, refulgent power of light and generosity settled in the midst of this people, yajakas ever since time immemorial honouring you as harbinger of nature's wealth join you and adore you in yajna with oblations of havi. And when you join them and settle in their midst then, raised and fed by the people on fragrant materials, you rise in flames as brilliant lord giver of the wealth of life.

9. Ava sprdhi pitaraṁ yodhi vidvān-putro yaste sahasaḥ sūna ūhe. Kadā ciditvo abhi cakṣase no'gne kadāň ṛtacidyātayāse.

Agni, born of omnipotence, I think of you, meditate on you: You are the saviour from suffering and mortality as a child is for the parent. You are the scholar of science, visionary of existence and observer of the eternal laws of Dharma. Emulate, excel and save the parent, the protector and the yajaka who lights you in the vedi, fight out and eliminate suffering, sufferance, evil and destruction. Pray when would your eye of grace favour us? When would you inspire us and show the path of rectitude to guide us?

10. Bhūri nāma vandamāno dadhāti pitā vaso yadi tajjoṣayāse. Kuviddevasya sahasā cakānaḥ sumnam-agnir-vanate vāvṛdhānaḥ.

O shelter home of life, Agni, father and sustainer of living beings as you are, the worshipper adores you by many names which adoration if you accept and acknowledge with pleasure then the worshipper, loving, adoring and growing like fire by the light and power of the generous lord, creates joy and well being for himself, and Agni too, loving and favouring the adorer by his own divine knowledge and power, waxing with love and kindness, bestows the joy and well being of life upon the supplicant.

11. Tvamaṅga jaritāraṁ yaviṣṭha viśvānyagne duritāti parṣi. Stenā adṛśranripavo janāso-'jñātaketā vṛjinā abhūvan.

Dearest ruler of the earth, most youthful power of the world, Agni, save the celebrant, purge the supplicant of all the evil and sufferings of the world: thieves are seen prowling around, enemies lying in wait, ignorant people lying in hidden corners, all following crooked ways, flags flying.

These celebrants and supplicants observing the law divine are dedicated to you, O lord Agni. Also, whatever their weakness or trespass, that too has been confessed to the lord protector and sustainer. We pray may this Agni, lord omniscient and omnipotent, increasingly pleased and gracious, never forsake us and never deliver us unto the maligner or the injurer or the evil of failure and disaster.

Agni, enlightened ruler of the world, born and risen as the very child of strength and honour, drive away the wicked, thieves and robbers, augmenting the food and energy for your own body politic. O best of men and leaders, protect and promote the noble enlightened people and replenish the powers of nature and thus strengthen and promote us in our joint endeavour of living.

Let there be right actions for Indra, power, energy, honour and excellence for the Maruts, the people. Let there be honour and holy care for the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity. Let there be right materials as inputs for the holy scientific yajna of development and growth in gratitude to nature and the Lord Divine.

Mandala 5/Sukta 6

Agni Devata, Vasushruta Atreya Rshi

1. Agniṁ taṁ manye yo vasurastaṁ yaṁ yanti dhenavaḥ. Astamarvanta āśavo'staṁ nityāso vājina iṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni is that power and presence of energy, I believe, which pervades everything and in which and by which all things abide and function. The cows abide in it, move by it and end up into it. Horses abide in it, move by it and end into it. So do all fast moving streams and objects, permanent forms, and all forms of energy move by it and retire into it. O scholar of Agni, universal energy, produce and bring up food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants for Agni. This energy is originally set in motion by Agni, the Cosmic omnipotent Spirit. (In the mantra agni is described as astam, i.e., set into motion.)

सा अ॒ग्निया वसु॑गृण॒ सं यमा॒यन्ति॑ ध॒नव॑ः । समव॑न्ता रघु॒दुव॒ः सं सु॑जा॒तास॑ः सू॒रय॒ इषं॑ स्तो॒तृभ्य॒ आ भ॑र ॥ २ ॥

2. So agniryo vasurgṛṇe saṁ yamāyanti dhenavaḥ. Samarvanto raghudruvaḥ saṁ sujātāsaḥ sūraya iṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

That is Agni which is the abiding power, pervasive and moving force, and that is what I study and celebrate. The cows and horses, stars and planets and the rays of light, and sound and word come from, move by and go unto it, from which and into which and by which the slow moving ones move and function; and by which and toward which brave and eminent scholars rise to fame and create and produce the wealth of food and energy for the celebrants and supplicants.

3. Agnirhi vājinaṁ viśe dadāti viśvacarṣaṇiḥ. Agnī rāye svābhuvaṁ sa prīto yāti vāryamiṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni, light and energy of existence, alone provides fast modes of transport for the people. Studied and developed for wealth, Agni provides automatic and self-sustaining energy for the people. O scholar scientist, create and bring choice foods and energies for the celebrants and supplicants.

आ त॑ अग्न इधीमहि द्यु॒मन्तं॑ दवा॒जर॑म । यद्ध॒ स्या त॒ पनी॑यसी स॒मिद्दी॒दय॑ति द्य॒वीषं॑ स्तो॒तृभ्य॒ आ भ॑र ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ā te agna idhīmahi dyumantaṁ devājaram. Yaddha syā te panīyasī samiddīdayati dyavīṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Let us kindle you, light and fire of life, generous divinity, refulgent and unaging so that the wonderfully admirable light of your blaze shines in heaven and you bring food and energy for the celebrants.

5. Ā te agna ṛcā haviḥ śukrasya śociṣaspate. Suścandra dasma viśpate havyavāṭ tubhyaṁ hūtaya iṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni, light of life, lord of power, purity and splendour, golden beautiful, generous, sustainer of the people and carrier of fragrant oblations across the spaces, fragrant offers are made to you with the chant of holy verses in praise of your identity, attributes and functions. Generous creative power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

पा त्य अग्नया ग्निषु विश्वं पुष्यन्ति वार्यम। त हिन्विर त इन्विर त इषण्यन्त्यानुषगिषं स्तातृभ्य आ भर॥ ६॥

6. Pro tye agnayo'gniṣu viśvaṁ puṣyanti vāryam. Te hinvire ta invire ta iṣaṇyantyānuṣag-iṣaṁ-stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Those radiations of your energy into other forms of energies feed, invigorate and develop the wealth and growth of life in existence. They inspire, impel and collect, they expel, expand and organise, and thus they animate the circuitous dynamics of centripetal and centrifugal forces in systemic unison of the universe. O living power, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

7. Tava tye agne arcayo mahi vrādhanta vājinaḥ. Ye patvabhiḥ śaphānāṁ vrajā bhuranta gonāmiṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni, O mighty power of the universe, those mighty radiations of your flames of energy feed and animate all objects into motion in space and they, with the radiating waves of your power, energise, expand and hold in poise the orbits of motions for the stars, planets and the galaxies. O mighty power, create and hold the food and energy of life and bless the celebrants.

नवा॑ ना अग्न॒ आ भ॑र स्ता॒तृभ्य॑ः सु॒ष्टीरिष॑ः। त स्या॑म॒ य आ॑नृ॒चुस्त्वादू॑तासा॒ दम॑दम॒ इषं स्ता॒तृभ्य॒ आ भ॑र॥ ८॥

8. Navā no agna ā bhara stotṛbhyaḥ sukṣitīriṣaḥ. Te syāma ya ānṛcus-tvādūtāso damedama iṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni, mighty power and light of knowledge, bring us new forms of food and energy and give us new revelations of blissful earths and stars in existence. And we pray, may we, who worship and celebrate you, be your messengers in every home. O lord, bring us the food and energy of life and light of knowledge ever new for us, your celebrants and supplicants.

9. Ubhe suścandra sarpriṣo darvī śrīṇīṣa āsani. Uto na ut papūryā uktheṣu śavasaspata iṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Agni, mighty lord of golden glory in form, creator and wielder of universal energy, you catalyse two ladlefuls of liquid fuel in your crucible for impulsion and expulsion in cosmic metabolism. Thus, O lord, fulfil us too in holy tasks of yajna and create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

एवाँ अ॒ग्निम॑जु॒यमु॒गी॒भिय॒ज्ञभि॑रानु॒षक। दध॑द॒स्म सु॒वीय॑मुत त्यदा॒श्वश्व्य॒मिषं स्तो॒तृभ्य॒ आ भ॑र॥ १०॥

10. Evāň agnim-ajur-yamur-gīrbhir-yajñebhir-ānuṣak. Dadhadasme suvīryamuta tyadāśvaś-vyamiṣaṁ stotṛbhya ā bhara.

Thus do the celebrants and supplicants positively dedicated to Agni study and apply natural energy for practical purposes by holy speech and yajnic structures of research and experimentation, so that agni may hold and bring us lustrous strength and dynamic energy of electric speed and success.

O lord of power and energy, create and bring food and energy for the celebrants.

Mandala 5/Sukta 7

Agni Devata, Isha Atreya Rshi

सखा॑य॒ः सं व॑ः स॒म्यञ्च॒मिषं॒ स्तामं चा॒ग्नय॑। वषि॑ष्ठाय ि॑ातीनामू॒जा नप्त्र॒ सह॑स्वत॥ १॥

1. Sakhāyaḥ saṁ vaḥ samyañcamiṣaṁ stomaṁ cāgnaye. Varṣiṣṭhāya kṣitīnāmūrjo naptre sahasvate.

O friends, all your food and energy well collected and all your song of description and celebration is for Agni and is dedicated to Agni, lord giver of light and energy, highest of the powers and abodes in the universe, power manifest in divine manifestations of energy and the power omnipotent over all.

कुत्रा चिद्यस्य समृता रण्वा नरा नृषदने।

2. Kutrā cidyasya samṛtau raṇvā naro nṛṣadane. Arhantaścidyamindhate saṁjanayanti jantavaḥ.

Where is that Agni on whose revelation and arrival in the home-steads of humanity, people, the best and highest of them, rejoice? which scholars and sages light and raise? and which even the least of living beings generate?

सं यदिषा वनामहे सं हव्या मानुषाणाम।

3. Saṁ yadiṣo vanāmahe saṁ havyā mānuṣāṇām. Uta dyumnasya śavasa ṛatasya raśmimā dade.

When we join together and pray for foods and energy forms, and the oblations of holy materials into the fire for the good of humanity rise in fragrance, then Agni with its power takes over the reins of rain showers and abundance of wealth and well being.

स स्मा कृणाति क्रतुमा नक्तं चिद दूर आ सत।

4. Sa smā kṛṇoti ketumā naktaṁ ciddūra ā sate.
Pāvako yad-vanaspatīn pra smā mināty ajaraḥ.

He, the power unaging, pure and purifying, gives signals of his light and guidance even for those who are far away when he leaves behind the night and rides the waves of light over the tops of trees.

अव स्म यस्य वर्षण स्वदं पथिषु जुह्वति।

5. Ava sma yasya veṣaṇe svedaṁ pathiṣu juhvati.
Abhīmaha svajenyaṁ bhūmā pṛṣṭheva ruruhuḥ.

On whose rise, as the sun's, and in whose service people shed the sweat of their brow in pursuit of the paths of life, to that Agni and the sun, the entire people of the earth look up and rise as children rise on the back of the parent.

यं मर्त्यः पुरुस्पृहं विदद्विश्वस्य धायसे।
प स्वादनं पितूनामस्तातिं चिदायव ॥ ६ ॥

6. Yaṁ martyaḥ puruspṛhaṁ vidadviśvasya dhāyase. Pra svādanaṁ pitūnām-astatātiṁ cidāyave.

For the service of Agni, unaging sustainer of the world, let mortal man know and attain to Agni, favourite love of all, because Agni is supreme among the pleasures of life and Agni is the ultimate home of living beings, in fact, of everything in existence.

स हि ष्मा धन्वाितं दाता न दात्या पशुः।

7. Sa hi ṣmā dhanvākṣitaṁ dātā na dātyā paśuḥ.
Hiriśmaśruḥ śucidannṛbhuranibhṛṣṭataviṣiḥ.

Like a generous man with a golden beard and pure white teeth, Agni, wise and expert with his forces intact, his effulgence undiminished, watches all and, like a liberal giver, gives to the dedicated supplicant a dwelling in the skies.

शुचिः ष्म यस्मा अत्रिवत्प स्वधितीव रीयते।
सुषूरसूत माता काणा यदानश भगम॥ ८॥

8. Śuciḥ ṣma yasmā atrivat pra svadhitīva rīyate.
Suṣūrasūta mātā krāṇā yadānaśe bhagam.

For him, i.e., the supplicant yajaka, the man free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul, Agni, bright and pure, releases the honour and splendour of life like currents of thunder power, which mother nature spontaneously generates for him and which flows to him incessantly.

आ यस्ते सपिरासुत ग्रे शमस्ति धायसे।

9. Ā yaste sarpirāsute'gne śamasti dhāyase.
Aiṣu dyumnam-uta śrava ā cittaṁ martyeṣu dhāḥ.

Agni, lord of light, giver of peace and power, when the ghrta has been offered into the fire and the flames arise, then let there be a shower of peace for the bearer of oblations, your gift for the yajaka. O lord, bear and bring wealth of honour and excellence, food and energy, and a noble mind with wisdom and vision and vest the same in these dedicated people.

10. Iti cinmanyum-adhrijas-tvādātamā paśuṁ dade. Ādagne apṛṇato'triḥ sāsahyād-dasyūn-iṣaḥ sāsahyān-nṝn.

This is the song of praise and prayer, O lord, Agni, giver of light, peace and power. Born among the dedicated aspirants, I accept the gift of peace and passion, power and property and cattle wealth. Let man be Atri, free from threefold suffering of body, mind and soul. Let man challenge the ungenerous and fight out the impending dangers, human as well as natural, and hold on to noble men and aspirations.

Mandala 5/Sukta 8

Agni Devata, Isha Atreya Rshi

त्वामग्न ऋतायवः समीधिर पत्नं पत्नासं ऊतय सहस्कृत।

1. Tvāmagne ṛtāyavaḥ samīdhire pratnaṁ pratnāsa ūtaye sahaskṛta. Puruścandraṁ yajataṁ viśva-dhāyasaṁ damūanasaṁ gṛhapatiṁ vareṇyam.

You, light of the world, life of life, Agni, the lovers of Truth and universal law dedicated to yajna since time immemorial kindle and install in the home for protection and progress: Agni, ancient and eternal born of omnipotence, golden glorious, worthy of reverence, sustainer of the universe, self-controlled and abiding in divine law, head of human family, chosen and worthy of choice.

(Swami Dayananda applies this hymn by implication and extension to home life and the homely fire yajna, of which the head and yajamana is the married couple. Agni, further, may be interpreted as the head of a state and of the world government elected and anointed by common consent.)

त्वामग्न॒ अति॑थिं पू॒र्व्यं विश॑: शो॒चिष्के॑शं गृ॒हप॑तिं॒ नि षे॑दिर ।

Agni, light of life, people have enshrined and consecrated you in their heart and home: Agni, a welcome guest on the rounds, ancient presence with flames of fire for locks of hair, master of the home, high beacon of light, pervasive in all forms of the world, creator, lover and giver of wealth, neatly settled in homes, commanding noble and sure modes of protection and progress, pure, cleansed and free from hate and poisonous enmity.

3. Tvāmagne mānuṣīrīḷate viśo hotrāvidaṁ viviciṁ ratnadhatamam. Guhā santaṁ subhaga viśva-darśataṁ tuviṣvaṇasaṁ suyajaṁ ghṛtaśriyam.

Agni, human communities all adore you enshrined in the heart, knower of the yajakas and the delicacies of yajna, discriminator between right and wrong, positive and negative, good and evil, highest treasurehold of the jewels of wealth, gracious and glorious with honour and excellence, light of the universe, loud and bold in universal service, directly accessible in yajna and rising in flames by ghrta.

4. Tvāmagne dharṇasiṁ viśvadhā vayaṁ gīrbhirgṛṇanto namasopa sedima. Sa no juṣasva samidhāno aṅgiro devo martasya yaśasā sudītibhiḥ.

Agni, lord of light and sustainer of the world, celebrating you in many ways with holy songs of praise and prayer, we sit by you with reverence, with offers of oblations in the holy fire. O lord Angira, pervasive in every particle of the universe, bright and generous, kindled and rising in flames by the mortals' offers of havi, be gracious, accept our homage and bless us with honour and excellence in life.

5. Tvamagne pururūpo viśeviśe vayo dadhāsi pratnathā puruṣṭuta. Purūṇyannā sahasā vi rājasi tviṣiḥ sā te titviṣāṇasya nādhṛṣe.

Agni, pervading in all the many forms of existence, praised and celebrated by all since time immemorial, you bear and bring abundant food and health and life for every individual and every community. You shine with might and splendour, and that splendour of yours, glorious one, no one dare challenge.

6. Tvāmagne samidhānaṁ yaviṣṭhya devā dūtaṁ cakrire havyavāhanam. Urujrayasaṁ ghṛtayonimāhutaṁ tveṣaṁ cakṣurdadhire codayanmati.

Agni, ever youngest, unaging power of existence, kindled and shining in flames, bright and generous sages and scholars among humanity and divinities of nature make you the carrier and disseminator of fragrant energies of life and health, and install and enshrine you in the vedi, ghrta fed, wide expansive, brilliant, watchful and inspirer of intelligence, ever invoked and invited.

त्वामग्न पदिव आहुतं घृतः सुम्नायवः सुषमिधा समीधिर।

Agni, light of life invoked and received from the revelations of heaven, enlightened people in pursuit of self-realisation enkindle and raise you in the vedi with fuel and ghrta of the holiest kind. They light you in the heart with the fuel of their sense and mind and self-awareness. And you, rising with the fuel and sprinkled with ghrta, ever abide expansive in all their business of earthly existence.

You, O fire divine, mortals bearing havis with reverence in homage, honour, celebrate and worship, and I meditate on your presence in omniscience to pray: Radiate the holy light and fragrance all round and let it come to me also, generous one.

2. Agnirhotā dāsvataḥ kṣayasya vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Saṁ yajñāsaścaranti yaṁ saṁ vājāsaḥ śravasyavaḥ.

Agni is the high-priest of Nature's abundance for humanity, blessing the house of the liberal devotee ready to kindle the holy fire, since all nutriments, energies and all yajnic gifts of Divinity coexist and work with Agni.

3. Uta sma yaṁ śiśuṁ yathā navaṁ janiṣṭāraṇī.

And just as two arani woods produce the fire, and just as mother and father beget and nurse a new born baby, so do we kindle, raise and serve the holy fire of yajna and worship the lord of life, sustainer of human communities and high-priest of cosmic yajna.

4. Uta sma durgṛbhīyase putro na hvāryāṇām.

Fire whose flames mixed together with smoke rise up and shine when the yajaka or the yogi, thrice excelling others in body, mind and soul, lights up the fire, refines, intensifies and raises the flames close to and into the heights of heaven just like a smelter blowing and intensifying the fire with the blower.

the hate and enmity of the wicked.

Ye stomebhiḥ pra sūrayo naro maghānyānaśuḥ.

For us, Agni, lord of light and knowledge, increase and exalt the health and home of these, men of vision and splendour, sages, scholars, teachers, leaders and all, bright and brave who, with songs of praise and prayer, have come to attain the honour and excellence of existence.

Agni, lord of beauty, majesty and ecstasy, the words of your voice, potent and pregnant with sense and power, shine and reverberate all round in space with the message of action and achievement at the fastest, the wise expansive vibrancy of which, a shower from heaven, by itself, awakens and inspires the leading people of imagination with flames of fire.

Agni, those flames of your light and fire, bright and blazing, go round with might and majesty like cosmic waves of lightning energy commanding the kingdom of the world, as if by a roaring chariot leading to victory.

Agni Devata, Sutambhara Atreya Rshi

जनस्य गोपा अजनिष्ट जागृविरग्निः सुदक्षः सुविताय नव्यसे।

1. Janasya gopā ajaniṣṭa jāgṛviragniḥ sudakṣaḥ suvitāya navyase. Ghṛtapratīko bṛhatā divispṛśā dyumadvi bhāti bharatebhyaḥ śuciḥ.

Agni, fire energy, friend and protector of man, ever awake, versatile power, it arises for the latest good of humanity. Feeding and rising on the fuel of ghrta, shining pure and magnificent with heat and light touching the skies, it shines and gives light for those who feed and keep the fire burning.

यज्ञस्य केतुं प्रथमं पुरोहितमग्निं नरस्त्रिषधस्थे समीधिरे।

2. Yajñasya ketuṁ prathamaṁ purohitamagnim narastriṣadhasthe samīdhire. Indreṇa devaiḥ sarathaṁ sa barhiṣi sidanni hotā yajathāya sukrutaḥ.

Agni is the leader, mark of the science of yajna, first highpriest in the process, which the leading lights among people kindle and establish in three stages of life in three departments of the acquisition of knowledge, observance of Dharma and performance of karma, in three regions of earth, sky and the solar sphere. And Agni takes the prime seat on the grass on the vedi with Indra, power, devas, divine givers of nature, as it comes with its chariot which carries it with fragrance to all regions. It is the sanctifier for yajnic initiation, conduct and congregation, and it is the very light, beauty and grace of the holy project.

3. Asaṁmṛṣṭo jāyase mātroḥ śucirmandraḥ kaviru-datiṣṭho vivasvataḥ. Ghṛtena tvāvardhayannagna āhuta dhūmaste keturabhavad-divi śritaḥ.

Agni, born of parents natural, unadorned and free, pure and radiant, charming, with the gift of being the leading light rising from the sun, when you are invoked and invited, people raise and advance you with oblations of ghrta and then your light and fragrance as the flag of your majesty rises to the regions of the sun.

4. Agnirno yajñamupa vetu sādhuyā ’gniṁ naro vi bharante gṛhegṛhe. Agnirdūto abhavaddha-vyavāhano’gniṁ vṛṇānā vṛṇate kavikratum.

May Agni come straight to our yajnic actions of social value. Leading and enlightened people light and raise Agni in every home. Agni is the disseminator of the fragrance of yajna over lands and spaces. Intelligent people of holy action take to Agni, the power that effects creative actions of the enlightened for social good.

(Swami Dayananda interprets agni in the sense of the enlightened leading heights of society who help people to do good to the community. Agni is thus not only the divine fire but also the leader, teacher and the preacher.)

तुभ्यदमग्न मधुमत्तमं वचस्तुभ्यं मनीषा इयमस्तु शं हृद।

5. Tubhyedamagne madhumattamaṁ vacastubhyaṁ manīṣā iyamastu śaṁ hṛde. Tvāṁ giraḥ sindu-mivāvanīrmahīrā pṛṇanti śavasā vardhayanti ca.

Agni, this sweetest song of honour and adoration is presented to you. The holy sentiment and prayer is addressed to you in praise of your holiness and peace at heart. The great holy voices protect, promote and fulfil you and make you stronger with power just as great rivers flow and add to the depth and power of the sea.

6. Tvāmagne aṅgiraso guhā hitam-anvavindañchiśriyāṇaṁ vanevane. Sa jāyase mathyamānaḥ saho mahat tvāmāhuḥ sahasasputram-aṅgiraḥ.

Angira, life breath of the universe, light and fire of the world, Agni, pervading every forest, every ray of light and every living being, holy yajakas dedicated to you as to the breath of life awaken and realise you through meditation in the cave of the heart when you are hidden as a mysterious flame, and you, stirred through contemplation, concentrated and enkindled, rise as a great power of light and victory. Rightly they call you manifestation of the omnipotent.

1. Prāgnaye bṛhate yajñiyāya ṛtasya vṛṣṇe asurāya manma. Ghṛtaṁ na yajña āsye supūtaṁ giraṁ bhare vṛṣabhāya pratīcīm.

As in yajna, we bear and bring and offer oblations of ghrta into the vedi, so do I compose and bring the language of inner consciousness purified in meditation and offer it in honour of Agni, great, adorable in yajna, giver of the showers of water and the light of truth, life breath of the world, inspirer of thought, and generous giver of strength and power.

Agni, light of the world, you know the law and dynamics of world order. Know the truth and sincerity of our yajna and worship, and release the showers of eternal light of truth and open the doors of nature's generosity. I follow the generous and brilliant lord's path of truth and rectitude but not by violence nor with duplicity. I follow the path of honesty and sincerity.

3. Kayā no agna ṛtayannṛtena bhuvo navedā ucathasya navyaḥ. Vedā me deva ṛtupā ṛtūnāṁ-nāhaṁ patiṁ sanitурasya rāyaḥ.

For what reason, Agni, you being the latest scholar and observer of the laws of truth by the laws of truth, would you not know of the earth and of our songs of adoration? Lord protector and observer of the laws and cycle of the seasons, generous and brilliant, give me the knowledge. I do not well know the lord giver and protector of the wealth of life.

4. Ke te agne ripave bandhanāsaḥ ke pāyavaḥ saniṣanta dyumantaḥ. Ke dhāsimagne anṛtasya pānti ka āsato vacasaḥ santi gopāḥ.

Agni, ruler of humanity, what are your injunctions and prohibitions of law and order to deal with the opposite forces? Who are the guards and what are the safeguards? Who are your allies? Who the leading lights? Who preserve and maintain food supplies and food resources? Who are the people and what the elements that shelter falsehood? What are the safeguards against false and malicious words and reports?

5. Sakhāyaste viṣuṇā agna ete śivāsaḥ santo aśivā abhūvan. Adhūrṣata svayamete vacobhir-ṛjūyate vṛjināni bruvantaḥ.

Agni, bright ruler, those friends and allies of yours, wide spread and intelligent, who were favourable earlier but have become unfavourable and negative later would of themselves be destroyed, all these, by their own words, speaking crooked things to simple people of rectitude. See they are eliminated.

O brilliant ruler, Agni, whoever the man with reverence and holy oblations in yajna serves your yajna of the social order, he protects and promotes the rule of truth and rectitude, the rule of the generous, brilliant and non-violent ruler. May his house as the house of the ruler go on rising high and higher, from good to better, the house of the progressive man on sound foundations of economic surplus and all round security.

I bear and offer words of adoration in honour of Agni, omniscient presence, visionary creator, glorious and eternal lord worth knowing. Pleased with the offer of ghrta and sincere devotion in yajna, Agni is the breath of life, gracious, giver and commander of the wealth of existence, sustainer of the universe and ultimate haven of the world.

O lord of light and life, Agni, thus does Trasadasyu, the man terror for the wicked, aspiring for favour of your attention and kindness, Tryaruna, blest with physical health, mental insight and spiritual vision, with concentrative mind sings anew in praise of you, lord ever fresh and most youthful, who 'for me (i.e.Trasadasyu, Tryaruna) reveal the ancient and eternal Word of omniscient awareness'.

4. Yo ma iti pravocatyaśvamedhāya sūraye.
Dadadṛcā sanim yate dadanmedhāmṛtāyate.

"Who for me reveals the ancient and eternal Word...", whoever speaks thus in homage to Agni in the interest of the social order of the world and for advancement of the brave, enlightened people, to him, endeavouring with holy chant, may Agni give wealth, to him, aspiring for truth and rectitude, may the lord grant the light of divine intelligence.

यस्य मा परुषाः शतमुद्धर्षयन्त्युक्षणः ।

5. Yasya mā paruṣāḥ śatamuddharṣayantyukṣaṇaḥ.
Aśvamedhasya dānāḥ somā iva tryāśiraḥ.

The loud and bold voices, creative acts and generous gifts of 'ashvamedha', national yajna in relation to threefold programmes for life, environment and energy, like a drink of soma, give me pleasure in a hundred ways.

इन्दा॑ग्नी श॒तदा॑व्न्यश्व॑मध सु॒वीय॑म ।

6. Indragnī śatadāvnyaśvamedhe suvīryam.
Kṣatraṁ dhārayataṁ bṛhad divi sūryamivājaram.

May Indra and Agni, knowledge and power, force of law and enlightenment, generous and giving in a hundred ways, in this ashvamedha yajna, i.e., non-violent holy plan and programme of national development and governance, enact, uphold and sustain the social order as they hold the sun in the vast heaven. Unaging, ever young harbingers of honour and valour to the system, ever fresh they are.

Agni Devata, Vishvavara Atreyi Rshi

1. Samiddho agnirdivi śociraśret pratyaṅṅuṣasa-murviyā vi bhāti. Eti prācī viśvavārā namobhir-devāṅ īḷānā haviṣā ghṛtācī.

The fire of yajna, kindled and rising, reaches the light and energy in the solar sphere and, with its various and expansive lustre, extends to the dawn, and then the East. Vishvavara, laden with versatile food and energy for the world, activating nature's bounties like a yajnic ladle full of ghrta, it illuminates and showers the world with gifts of Divinity at the end of the dewy night.

2. Samidhyamāno amṛtasya rājasi haviṣkṛṇvantaṁ sacase svastaye. Viśvaṁ sa dhatte draviṇaṁ yaminvasyātithyamagne ni ca dhatta it puraḥ.

Agni, O light and fire of life, kindled and raised in the vedi and in the mind, you rise and shine in the midst of immortality and abide with the supplicant yajaka as a friend for his life's well being. Whoever you inspire, invigorate and, as a friend, take up under your care and protection, the person wins, holds and commands the world's wealth in existence and, since then for all time, O light divine, he offers service with complete surrender in obedience to your will like hospitality in obligation to an honoured guest.

3. Agne śardha mahate saubhagāya tava dyumnānyuttamāni santu. Saṁ jāspatyaṁ suyamamā kṛṇuṣva śatrūyatāmabhi tiṣṭhā mahāṁsi.

Agni, mighty power, may your highest gifts of wealth, honour and splendour be for great good fortune and well being in life. Make our homes full of conjugal bliss, well maintained with discipline and control. Help us face and fight out the greatest enemies in the conflicts of life.

4. Samiddhasya pramahaso'gne vande tava śriyam.

Agni, mighty ruling power of the world, burning bright and great, I honour and adore your wealth and splendour. Valorous and generous, prosperous and majestic, you shine glorious in the yajnic projects of the world.

5. Samiddho agna āhuta devān yakṣi svadhvara.
Tvaṁ hi havyavāḷasi.

Agni, invoked, kindled and raised to the full in light and splendour, you honour and inspire the nobilities of humanity and feed and replenish the bounties of nature. O noble power of the yajnas of love and non-violence, you are the receiver and disseminator of our oblations and you are the harbinger of the gifts of nature's bounties.

6. Ā juhotā duvasyatā'gniṁ prayatyadhvare.
Vṛṇīdhvaṁ havyavāhanam.

O man, honour and serve Agni with offers of fragrant havi in creative and developmental programmes of love and non-violence in humanity. Select, elect and serve the light and fire of life, receiver of our oblations and giver of the gifts of life and nature.

(Swami Dayananda interprets Agni as the fire of yajna, as the scholar and teacher who gives knowledge, and as the ruler who receives, creates and distributes the wealth in the social order of humanity with love and without violence.)

Mandala 5/Sukta 29

Indra, Indra Ushana Devata, Gauriviti Shaktya Rshi

त्र्यर्यमा मनुषो देवतातात्रीरोचना दिव्या धारयन्त। अर्चन्ति त्वा मरुतः पूतदक्षास्त्वमेषामृषिरिन्द्रासि धीरः॥ १॥

1. Tryaryamā manuṣo devatātā trī rocanā divyā dhārayanta. Arcanti tvā marutaḥ pūtadakṣās-tvameṣām-ṛṣir-indrāsi dhīraḥ.

Indra, lord of power and ruling power of the world, in the holy yajna of the social order, its governance and administration, those heroes of the speed of winds honour and serve you whose strength and expertise is pure and sanctified : men of judgement and discretion who are thrice blest with full knowledge, noble action and devotion to Divinity; men of brilliance who are self-established with health of body, mind and soul, familial joy and social commitment; and men who enjoy the favour and grace of Divinity. Indra, you are their seer, philosopher and guide, imperturbable, inviolable and unchallengeable.

2. Anu yadīṁ maruto mandasānamārcannindraṁ papivāṁsaṁ sutasya. Ādatta vajramabhi yadahiṁ hannapo yahvīrasṛjat sarvatā u.

With dedication and loyalty, when the Maruts, supportive heroes of the social order, serve and honour Indra, the ruler, happy and honourable, ruling and enjoying the state entrusted to him, then, just as the sun with thunder and lightning breaks up the clouds and releases the showers and mighty streams aflow, he too takes over the thunderbolt of law and power and, striking the serpentine demons of darkness and evil, sets the mighty streams of national energy to flow in showers and creative streams.

3. Uta brahmāṇo maruto me asyendraḥ somasya suṣutasya peyāḥ. Taddhi havyaṁ manuṣe gā avindad-ahann-ahiṁ papivāň indro asya.

And may the Maruts, heroes of the winds, dedicated to Brahma and the Vedas and the ruling lord Indra, now drink of this soma of national honour and glory so well distilled by me. That honour and glory alone, dedicated to Divinity in yajna, for man can win cows and lands and holy wisdom, of which Indra alone is the guardian, having destroyed the forces of evil.

4. Ād rodasī vitaraṁ vi ṣkabhāyat saṁvivyānaścid bhiyase mṛgaṁ kaḥ. Jigartim-indro apajargurāṇaḥ prati śvasantamava dānavaṁ han.

And then Indra holds and firms up the earth and heaven separate and yet together pervading both with his presence and power just like separating a fear-stricken deer and a devouring tiger by the power of his presence and holding off the demon tiger snorting fiercely.

(Compare the laws of gravitation separating and holding together in firm relationship two heavenly bodies according to their mass and distance under the presiding presence of the force of natural omnipotence.)

5. Adha kratvā maghavan tubhyaṁ devā anu viśve adaduḥ somapeyam. Yat sūryasya haritaḥ patantīḥ puraḥ satīruparā etaśe kaḥ.

And further, O lord of honour and power of omnipotence, all the divinities of nature and humanity offer you the drink of soma in response to your yajnic action of systemic integration and sustenance when the various rays of the sun radiating forward all round and nourishing life stop on the planet on your behest (to feed life and drink up the sweet juices of soma).

6. Nava yadasya navatiṁ ca bhogāntsākaṁ vajreṇa maghavā vivṛścat. Arcantīndraṁ marutaḥ sadhasthe traiṣṭubhena vacasā bādhata dyām.

When Indra with thunder and lightning destroys ninetynine serpentine strongholds of evil and darkness obstructing the light of Divinity in this world, then the Maruts, guardian forces of humanity on earth, honour and adore the omnipotent lord with trishtubha hymns of celebration.

सखा॒ सख्यं॑ अपचत्तू॒यं॒मग्नि॒र॒स्य क॒त्वा म॒हि॒षा त्री श॒ता॒नि॑ ।

7. Sakhā sakhye apacat tūyamagnirasya kratvā mahiṣā trī śatāni. Trī sākamindro manuṣah sarāṁsi sutaṁ pibad bṛtrahatyāya somam.

Agni, a friend, for a friend, Indra, alongwith Indra and the holy action of Indra, the sun, in this world soon ripens the sap in three hundred fields and forests of man, and then Indra, great and generous, drinks up the soma in order to break the clouds of rain and let the rivers flow to fill three great lakes in three worlds of heaven, earth and sky.

8. Trī yacchatā mahiṣāṇāmagho māstrī sarāṁsi maghavā somyāpāḥ. Kāraṁ na viśve ahvanta devā bharamindrāya yadahiṁ jaghāna.

Indra, inviolable lord, commanding honour, power and excellence, when you ripen and mature three hundred great fields and forests and create and protect three great lakes of soma, all the divinities of the world invoke Indra like a great hero and offer homage since he breaks the cloud of serpentine hoards of showers.

9. Uśanā yat sahasyairayātaṁ gṛhamindra jūjuvānebhiraśvaiḥ. Vanvāno atra sarathaṁ yayātha kutsena devairavanorha śuṣṇam.

Indra, glorious ruler, when the man of light and passion and you both come home by chariot driven by swift and robust horses, then, again with love and desire for victory, pray go with the thunderbolt and the best of the brilliancies and defend the strength and honour of the nation.

पान्यच्चक्रमवृहः सूयस्य कुत्सायान्यद्वरिवा यातव कः। अनासा दस्यूँरमृणा वधन नि दुयाण आवृणङ्मृध-वाचः॥ १०॥

10. Prānyaccakramavṛhaḥ sūryasya kustāyānyad varivo yātave'kaḥ. Anāso dasyūňramṛṇo vadhena ni duryoṇa āvṛṇaṅ mṛdhravācaḥ.

Extend the orbit of enlightenment for the thunderbolt. Clear the paths and areas for development, peace and freedom of movement. Eliminate the shameless, the wicked and the thieves with punishment, and stop the entry of the malicious, throw them in jail.

स्तामासस्त्वा गारिवीतरवध रन्धया वदथिनाय पिपुम। आ त्वामृजिश्वा सख्याय चक्र पचन्पक्तीरपिबः सामम-मस्य॥ ११॥

11. Stomāsastvā gaurivīteravardhannarandhayo vaidathināya piprum. Ā tvāmṛjiśvā sakhyāya cakre pacan paktīrapibaḥ somamasya.

May the eulogies of the poetic lovers of song and their singers exalt you. Punish the man who exalts and raises the warring forces against you. Let the men of simple honest mind be keen to make friends with you. Maturing and completing the plans and programmes of the state, celebrate and enjoy the honour and splendour of the order.

12. Navagvāsaḥ sutasomāsa indraṁ daśagvāso abhyarcantyarkaiḥ. Gvyaṁ cidūrvamapidhānavantaṁ te cinnaraḥ śaśamānā apa vran.

Men of new ideas treading new paths of knowledge and polity, men of controlled mind and senses, celebrants ready with distilled exhilarating soma, adore Indra with songs and presentations of homage and, celebrating him, the dedicated admirers, best of men and leaders, extol him revealing his vast but hidden virtues of divine knowledge.

13. Katho nu te pari carāṇi vidvān vīryā maghavan yā cakartha. Yā co nu navyā kṛṇavaḥ śaviṣṭha predu tā te vidatheṣu bravāma.

Indra, ruler of the world, mightiest hero commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, sage and scholar, how shall we, in yajnic assemblies of the nation, fully describe, sing and celebrate your achievements and your potential, the exploits that you have done and those new ones you are sure to achieve henceforth ?

एता विश्वा चकृवाँ इन्द्र भूयपरीता जनुषा वीर्यण। या चि नु वजिन्कृणवा दधृष्वा न ते वता तविष्या अस्ति तस्याः॥ १४॥

14. Etā viśvā cakṛvāṅ indra bhūryaparīto januṣā vīryena. Yā cinnu vajrin kṛṇavo dadhṛṣvān na te vartā taviṣyā asti tasyāḥ.

All these many exploits of the world [from creation and sustenance to organisation, organisational elimination included], Indra, ruler and lord of power and excellence, which you have done and which you would do, unresisted and irresistible, by nature and nurture, by vigour and valour, O wielder of the thunderbolt, bold and terrific, no one can comprehend. There is none who can obstruct, hold or surpass those overwhelming powers and forces of yours.

15. Indra brahma kriyamāṇā juṣasva yā te śaviṣṭha navyā akarma. Vastreva bhadrā sukṛtā vasūyū rathaṁ na dhīraḥ svapā atakṣam.

Indra, the holy chant and homage of gifts, newest and latest, being offered, graciously accept and cherish, which, for you, O lord most powerful, we have created. Like a beautiful dress of thought and devotion, I, a sincere artist in pursuit of life's wealth and peace and a steadfast and skilful maker, have designed and created the song like a chariot.

Mandala 5/Sukta 30

Indra, Indra and Rnanchaya Devata, Babhru Atreya Rshi

क्वꣳस्य वीरः का अपश्यदिन्दं सुखरथमीयमानं हरिभ्याम।

1. Kva sya vīraḥ ko apaśyadindraṁ sukharatha-mīyamānaṁ haribhyām. Yo rāyā vajrī sutaso-mamicchan tadoko gantā puruhūta ūtī.

Where is that thunderous catalytic power? Who saw that Indra, harbinger of peace and comfort travelling like a pleasing chariot along the waves of attraction and repulsion which, laden with wealth and wielding the force of thunder moves on and, invoked and invited by many for protection and promotion, goes to the house of the host with desire for the taste of life's pleasure?

2. Avācacakṣaṁ padamasya sasvarugraṁ nidhā-turanvāyamicchan. Apṛcchamanyāň uta te ma āhurindraṁ naro bubudhānā aśema.

With the desire to pursue and achieve success, I have discovered and described the science of this mighty source of immanent energy. Let me consult and ask others too who would speak of Indra, the energy, to me. And the best of men and leading scholars among men, enlightened all, we would realise and achieve it in full.

प नु वयं सुत या त कृतानीन्द्र बवाम यानि ना जुजाषः।

3. Pra nu vayaṁ sute yā te kṛtānīdra bravāma yāni no jujoṣaḥ. Vedadavidvāñchṛṇavacca vidvān vahate'yaṁ maghavā sarvasenaḥ.

The knowledge acquired and energy created in practice, O scholar, Indra, let us speak of and proclaim your achievements which you share with us. Let those who don't know hear and know of it too. This scholar who bears the knowledge and power is the mighty possessor of honour and excellence, and he commands all the power and the forces.

4. Sthiraṁ manaścakṛṣe jāta indra veṣīdeko yudhaye bhūyasaścit. Aśmānaṁ cicchavasā didyuto vi vido gavāmūrvamusriyāṇām.

Indra, commander of light, knowledge and power, rising, you firm and resolve the mind to stability and constancy. In battle, you alone, by yourself, overcome many. You illuminate the cloud and the firmament and break the mountain with your power and force, and you recover and reveal the vastness of earth, the sun rays, the wisdom of knowledge and the ocean fire enshrined in words.

परा यत्त्वं परम आजनिष्ठाः परावति श्रुत्यं नाम बिभ्रत।

5. Paro yat tvaṁ parama ājaniṣṭhāḥ parāvati śrutyaṁ nāma bibhrat. Ataścidindrādabhayanta devā viśvā apo ajayad dāsapatnīḥ.

When you, highest and best power, arise and manifest, bearing great name and high renown in far off regions, and win over and release the waters concealed in the cloud, since then all the forces of nature accept the power of Indra and obey the divine law.

6. Tubhyedete marutaḥ suśevā arcantyarkaṁ sunvantyandhaḥ. Ahimohānamapa āśayānaṁ pra māyābhirmāyinaṁ sakṣadindraḥ.

Vibrant heroes and these yajakas in obedient service offer you songs of adoration, prepare the food and distil the soma for you, Indra. And with his wondrous forces, Indra engages the crafty cloud holding the waters by his deceptive wiles and sleeping like a giant in apparent security.

7. Vi ṣū mṛdho januṣā dānaminvannahan gavā maghavantsaṁcakānaḥ. Atrā dāsasya namuceḥ śiro yadavartayo manave gātumicchan.

Indra, commander of honour and valour, ruling lord of excellence, from your very emergence thirsting for battle, breaking the cloud with the roar of thunder and lightning, energising and winning prizes for humanity with the desire to make way for progress, you arise here and now and break the stronghold of the dark cloud locking up the waters of rain showers.

8. Yujaṁ hi māmakṛthā ādidindra śiro dāsasya namucermathāyan. Aśmānaṁ cit svaryaṁ vartamānaṁ pra cakriyeva rodasī marudbhyaḥ.

Make me your friend and instrument since you break the top of the cloud, replete with vapours but resistant to release the rain, hold the firmament wheeling, circling and resounding, and divide space into earth and heaven and make them turn round and round like wheels for the winds to blow in the firmament and the humans to live on the earth.

9. Striyo hi dāsa āyudhāni cakre kiṁ mā karannabalā asya senāḥ. Antarhyakhyadubhe asya dhene athopa praid yudhaye sasyumindraḥ.

Dasa, enemy of an inferior order, uses women as secret weapons and warriors. But what can these poor forces do against me (in violation of my discretion]. Let the ruler, Indra, see deep into both the language and warriors [of this enemy, the open policy and the secret tactics), and then advance upon the slavish enemy to engage him in battle.

10. Samatra gāvo'bhito'navanteheha vatsairviyutā yadāsan. Saṁ tā indro asṛjadasya śākairyadīṁ somāsaḥ suṣutā amandan.

If the cows exult in unison with calves everywhere, if the sunrays play together on the herbs, if the lands smile with greenery and the earth rejoices with her children, and then, suppose the cows were separated from the calves, the rays of the sun were intercepted from the herbs, the lands were locked off from greenery, the earth were bereft of her children, then must Indra, brilliant ruler of the earth and the skies, should join the mothers and children with his might so that the soma drinks distilled may gladden him and his ruling order.

11. Yadīṁ somā babhrudhūtā amandannaroravīd vṛṣabhaḥ sādaneṣu. Purandaraḥ papivāň indro asya punargavāmadadādusriyāṇām.

When the somas, honours and pleasures of the earth, created, distilled and energised by the sagely scholars and people of yajnic creativity, exhilarate Indra, the ruler and his order, then the generous and valorous lord roars in the assemblies and in the homesteads and he, breaker of the enemy strongholds, having drunk of the honour and glory of the nation, again gives to the nation fertile lands, cows, open sunlight and words of holy speech.

Agni, refulgent ruler, it is a great blessing of Indra, the sun, giver of four thousand rays of light, wealth of existence, and destroyers of negativities, which he collects from nature, and gives us. He is the best leader and guide of humanity, and with gratitude and best efforts we should acknowledge and benefit from these gifts of energy and power.

13. Supeśasaṁ māva sṛjantyastaṁ gavāṁ sahasrai ruśamāso agne. Tīvrā indram-amanduḥ sutāso 'ktorvyuṣṭau paritakmyāyāḥ.

Agni, refulgent ruler, brilliant forces, destroyers of evil and darkness, create and give me a beautiful home with a thousand bright rays of light, and at the end of the departing night in the light of the dawn, blazing fires bear distilled soma oblations and rise to Indra, the sun, and give him delight.

When the fugitive night of rest and peace in the home departs, having made up the want of light at the rise of dawn, blest and beautiful, collecting and bearing nature's gifts, then babhru, the crimson sun, sustainer of life, moving like a flying horse at instant speed, showers four thousand gifts of energy and intelligence and the creative yajaka receives and shares the gifts on and from the vedi.

Agni, O self-refulgent light of life, glorious ruler of the world, let us receive and share four thousand gifts of the wealth of light, energy and intelligence present in the lights of the dawn, and let us, O friends of knowledge, vibrant scholars, receive and share that golden wealth and heat of life which is tempered and refined in the pravargya yajna of self sacrifice and surrender.

Indra, Indra or Kutsa, Indra or Ushana, Indra and Kutsa Devatah, Avasyu Atreya Rshi

1. Indro rathāya pravataṁ kṛṇoti yamadhyasthānmaghavā vājayantam. Yūtheva paśvo vyunoti gopā ariṣṭo yāti prathamaḥ siṣāsan.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, commander of power and forces, accelerates whichever supersonic chariot he rides and inspires whichever region he rules for a great leap forward to the heights. All round protector and pioneer, like a shepherd who leads and drives his flock and followers forward, he gives the clarion call, gathers his forces with the desire to advance and win, and goes fast forward, unhurt and unobstructed, first and foremost leader and pioneer thirsting to realise his ambition.

2. Ā pra drva harivo mā vi venaḥ piśaṅgarāte abhi naḥ sacasva. Nahi tvadindra vasyo anyadastya-menāṅścijjanivataścakartha.

Indra, commander of horse and speed of progress, giver of golden wealth, advance all round, be not lustful, be with us and share the honours. There is none better settled, successful and prosperous than you. Look after the unmarried, widows and widowers, help them to have a meaningful life.

3. Udyat sahaḥ sahasa ājaniṣṭa dediṣṭa indra indriyāṇi viśvā. Prācodayat sudughā vavre antarvī jyotiṣā saṁvavṛtvat tamo'vaḥ.

When strength and virility is born and matures with the growth of health and vitality, then let Indra, the disciplined soul, control and command all the senses, mind and intellect, awaken and exercise the creative potentials innate but yet dormant within, and with inner light of the soul keep off the resurgent darkness.

अनवस्त रथमश्वाय त ान्त्वष्टा वजं पुरुहूत द्युमन्तम।

4. Anavaste rathamaśvāya takṣan tvaṣṭā vajraṁ puruhūta dyumantam. Brahmāṇa indraṁ mahayanto arkairavardhayannahaye hantavā u.

Indra, mighty ruler, expert craftsmen design and make the chariot for your fast movement and communication, the defence scientist and engineer, Tvashta, makes the blazing thunderbolt for you, and the scholars of the Veda celebrate your power and glory with hymns of adoration and exalt you to break the demonic cloud of darkness and want for showers of rain and prosperity.

5. Vṛṣṇe yat te vṛṣaṇo arkamarcānindra grāvāṇo aditiḥ sajoṣāḥ. Anaśvāso ye pavayo'rathā indreṣitā abhyavartanta dasyūn.

Indra, ruler of honour and excellence, when the brave warriors and noble citizens offer songs of adoration to you, then, O generous lord, the clouds and the sky in unison with them and with you and those dynamic powers even without horse and chariot, inspired by your power and grace, surround the wicked and destroy them.

6. Pra te pūrvāṇi karaṇāni vocaṁ pra nūtanā maghavan yā cakartha. Śathīvo yad vibharā rodasī ubhe jayannapo manave dānucitrāḥ.

Indra, lord of wealth, honour and excellence, commanding force and power, let me speak to you of the acts and instruments old and new which you have achieved and which you would achieve, which scholars and scientists, having immense knowledge and bearing immense possibilities of gifts for mankind, exploring both earth and the skies, would make it possible for you to win waters from the clouds and pranic energies from air.

7. Tadinnu te karaṇaṁ dasma viprā'hiṁ yad ghnannojo atrāmimīthāḥ. Śuṣṇasya cit pari māyā agṛbhṇāḥ prapitvaṁ yannapa dasyūँrasedhaḥ.

That is your act, achievement and further possibility, generous ruler of the world, giver of gifts, and eminent scholar, since you break the clouds, destroy the serpentine demons of darkness, create prosperity and excellence for mankind here on earth, and, mastering the wondrous knowledge of the secrets of energy and techniques of power, you stall the negativities, make the waters flow and achieve further progress.

8. Tvamapo yadave turvaśāyā'ramayaḥ sudughāḥ pāra indra. Ugramayātamavaho ha kutsaṁ saṁ ha yad vāmuśanāranta devāḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, giver of honour and glory, pioneer and helmsman of the people, you make the abundant waters flow for Yadu and Turvasha, men of management, production and control, you achieve the rare and difficult energy of electricity powerful as thunderbolt, and then the brilliant people, lovers of life and humanity all, enthusiastically admire and celebrate both you and your thunderous achievement.

इन्दाकुत्सा वहमाना रथना वामत्या अपि कणं वहन्तु ।

9. Indrākutsā vahamānā rathenā''vāmatyā api karṇe vahantu. Niḥ ṣīmadbhyo dhamatho niḥ ṣadhasthānmaghono hṛdo varathastamāṁsi.

Indra, ruler of the world, and Kutsa, creator and controller of energy and the force of power, both travelling by chariot, let the running horse powers of energy at instant speed transport you both to the centre of life's business. Both energy and power arise from the currents of waters and waves (as of sunrays), and both of you control and complete the projects from your seat of office and residence, wherefrom you dispel the darkness and want from the centre of their power and prosperity.

Let this scholar of creative vision working for defence and protection, take to, explore and advance the forceful currents of winds employed as effective agents of travel and transport. All your scholars, friends and forces here, O powerful ruler, at the speed of winds increase and advance the power, prosperity and defence potential of the land.

11. Sūraścid ratham paritakmyāyām pūrvam karaduparam jūjuvāṁsam. Bharaccakrametaśaḥ saṁ riṇāti puro dadhat saniṣyati kratuṁ naḥ.

Let the brave and brilliant pilot of the chariot first steady the chariot in the initial motion in the night and then take off rising to the clouds. The craft bearing its gears and stages of motion presses forward, conducting our project onward perfectly as intended.

आयं जना अभिच ा जगामन्द्रः सखायं सुतसामभिच्छन। वदन्गावाव वदिंभियात यस्य जीरमध्वयवश्चरन्ति॥ १२॥

12. Āyaṁ janā abhicakṣe jagāmendraḥ sakhāyaṁ sutasomamicchan. Vadan grāvāva vediṁ bhriyāte yasya jīram-adhvaryavaś-caranti.

O citizens of the land, this Indra, the ruling lord, has come to the yajna vedi to see his friends and all with the desire to observe and enjoy the finest achievements of the nation. The scholars too proclaiming their achievements are brought to the vedi where learned priests dedicated to the yajna of love and non-violence conduct and manage the programme and its progress.

13. Ye cākananta cākananta nū te martā amṛta mo te aṁha āran. Vāvandhi yajyūňruta teṣu dhehyo-jo janeṣu yeṣu te syāma.

O lord of immortality, Indra, those who love truth, knowledge and peaceful progress for themselves and others may abide loving and self sacrificing. May the mortals never come to suffer evil, never commit sin and crime. Bond with the yajakas who are committed to truth and holy action, vest them with honour and splendour, and bless us that we too, your own, be among them.

Mandala 5/Sukta 32

Indra Devata, Gatu Atreya Rshi

अद दरुत्समसृजा वि खानि त्वमणावान्बद्बधानाँ अरम्णाः।
महान्तमिन्द पवतं वि यद्वः सृजा वि धारा अव दानवं हन ॥ १ ॥

1. Ādardarutsam-asṛjo vi khāni tvamarṇavān badbadhānāñ aramṇāḥ. Mahāntamindra parvataṁ vi yad vaḥ sṛjo vi dhārā ava dānavaṁ han.

Indra, maker and breaker of things, you break open the springs, open the doors, let the streams aflow, and free the bonded to live free and enjoy, you who break the cloud and the mountain, let out the streams to flow into rivers and the sea, having destroyed the demons and broken the cloud.

त्वमुत्साँ ऋतुभिर्बद्बधानाँ अरंहू ऊधः पवतस्य वजिन। अहिं चिदुग्र पर्युतं शयानं जघन्वाँ इन्द्र तविषीमधत्थाः ॥ २ ॥

2. Tvamutsāñ ṛtubhirbadbadhānāñ araṁha ūdhaḥ parvatasya vajrin. Ahiṁ cidugra prayutaṁ śayānaṁ jaghanvāñ indra taviṣīm-adhatthāḥ.

Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, you let the locked up springs of water flow like milky streams of the cloud down the mountain slopes according to the seasons. O ruling lord of light and lustre, breaker of the serpentine cloud of darkness, take up and command the blazing forces for action.

त्यस्य चिन्महता निर्मृगस्य वधर्जघान तविषीभिरिन्द्रः।
य एक इदपतिमन्यमान आदस्मादन्या अजनिष्ट तव्यान ॥ ३ ॥

3. Tyasya cinmahato nirmṛgasya vadharjaghāna taviṣībhir-indraḥ. Ya eka idapratirmanyamāna ādasmādanyo ajaniṣṭa tavyān.

Indra, the ruling lord, alone by himself, unequalled and universally acknowledged and adored, destroys the might of that great informidable demon of darkness and negativities with his blazing powers and actions like the sun breaking the cloud, and then he creates other powers greater than demonic negativities.

त्यं चिदषां स्वधया मदन्तं मिहा नपातं सुवृधं तमागाम।

4. Tyaṁ cideṣāṁ svadhayā madantaṁ miho napātaṁ suvṛdhaṁ tamogām. Vṛṣaprabharmā dānavasya bhāmaṁ vajreṇa vajrī ni jaghāna śuṣṇam.

That demon of darkness and negativity whose might is only the drought, locking up the rains and consuming and thriving on the food and morale of these people of the earth, growing and growing and roaming around in the prevailing darkness and want is strong: yet the might and rage of that demon, shushna, drought and famine, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt, destroys with his lightning strike and rises as lord victor of the clouds and rain showers.

त्यं चिदस्य कतुभिर्निषत्तममर्मणो विददिदस्य मर्म।

5. Tyaṁ cidasya kratubhir-niṣattam-amarmaṇo vidadidasya marma. Yadīṁ sukṣatra prabhṛtā madasya yuyutsantaṁ tamasi harmye dhāḥ.

O noble lord of the mighty social order, Indra, with your actions and intelligence you know and expose the hidden weakness of this otherwise incomprehensible demon thirsting for fight, and, happy and elated in the hope and thrill of victory, you shut him up in the depths of darkness.

त्यं चिदित्था कत्पयं शयानमसूय तमसि वावृधानम ।

6. Tyaṁ cidittthā katpayaṁ śayānam-asūrye tamasi vāvṛdhānam. Taṁ cinmandāno vṛṣabhaḥ sutasyo-ccair-indro apagūryā jaghāna.

That demon of drought and negativity thus lying and sleeping in sunless darkness with some vapours of water but still growing, Indra, ruler of the social order, great and generous, exhilarated by the hope and joy of victory and raising his thunderbolt breaks, and destroys that demon.

उद्यदिन्दा महत दानवाय वधयमिष्ट सहा अपतीतम ।
यदीं वजस्य पभृता ददाभ विश्वस्य जन्तारधमं चकार ॥ ७ ॥

7. Ud yadindro mahate dānavāya vadharyamiṣṭa saho apritītam. Yadīṁ vajrasya prabhṛtau dadābha viśvasya jantoradhamaṁ cakāra.

And when Indra raises the thunderbolt of justice and punishment against the great demon of wickedness, in favour of the great and generous man of charity, and thus displays his mysterious force and power, and at the raising of the bolt he punishes the wicked, he reduces them to the lowest state of living beings.

त्यं चिदर्णा मधुपं शयानमसिन्वं ववं मह्याददुगः ।

8. Tyaṁ cidarṇaṁ madhupaṁ śayānam-asinvaṁ vavraṁ mahyādadugraḥ. Apādamatraṁ mahatā vadhena ni duryoṇa āvṛṇaṅ mṛdhra-vācam.

For sure that flood of water, honey sweet, dormant, unbounded, cavernous, floating, expansive and roaring, the blazing sun, Indra, seizes with a great blow of electric charge of thunderbolt and breaks it in its own place.

(So should the ruler break open the hidden treasures of the land.)

का अस्य शुष्मं तविषीं वरात एका धना भरत अपतीतः ।

9. Ko asya śuṣmaṁ taviṣīṁ varāta eko dhanā bharate apratītaḥ. Ime cidasya jrayaso nu devī indrasyaujaso bhiyasā jihāte.

Who can comprehend and hold his force and blaze? The One alone by himself bears all the wealths though unseen. And these two divine creations, heaven and earth, move by the awful force and blazing splendour of this mighty Indra.

न्यस्म दवी स्वधितिजिहीत इन्दाय गातुरुशतीव यम ।

10. Nyasmai devī svadhitirjihīta indrāya gāturuśatīva yeme. Saṁ yadojo yuvate viśvamābhiranu svadhāvne kṣitayo namanta.

To this Indra, cosmic energy and the earth, both divine, submit in love and obedience like a maiden in love submitting herself to her lover. When Indra radiates the cosmic splendour and power with these natural phenomena, then the entire humanity and all stars and planets do homage to the divine and self-refulgent omnipotence of Indra with these acts of obedience to the law.

11. Ekaṁ nu tvā saptatiṁ pāñcajanyaṁ jātaṁ śṛṇomi yaśasaṁ janeṣu. Taṁ me jagṛbhra āśaso naviṣṭhaṁ doṣā vastorhavamānāsa indraṁ.

I hear you, feel your vibrations manifested among the people: One and only one self-existent and self-refulgent lord and protector in truth, guardian of all the five people, commanding divine excellence and majesty. I hope and pray that my people, hoping and loving, self sacrificing day and night, may attain to the latest manifestations of Indra and his newest gifts of excellence.

12. Evā hi tvāmṛtuthā yātayantaṁ maghā viprebhyo dadataṁ śṛnomi. kiṁ te brahamāṇo Gṛhate sakhāyo ye tvāyā nidadhuḥ kāmamindra.

Indra, ruling lord of the world, thus do I hear of you, I feel the vibrations, inspiring life according to the seasons, bestowing wealth and honour on noble scholars, what the sages dedicated to divine knowledge receive and what desires and ambitions with prayers they place in you.

Mandala 5/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshi

महि॑ म॒ह तव॑स॑ दीध्य॒ नृनिन्दा॑य॒त्था त॒वस॒ अत॑व्यान।

1. Mahi mahe tavase dīdhye nṝnindrāyetthā tavase atavyān. Yo asmai sumatiṁ vājasātau stuto jane samaryaściketa.

For the sake of great strength and power, let me thus focus on the people who are not too strong and draw the attention of this mighty ruler, Indra, who, honoured and admired among people, is keen to fight for progress and, in the struggle onward, enlightens our mind and directs our efforts on the right path.

2. Sa tvaṁ na indra dhiyasāno arkairharīṇāṁ vṛṣan yoktramaśreḥ. Yā itthā maghavannanu joṣaṁ vakṣo abhi prāryaḥ sakṣi janān.

And you Indra, master and ruler of the nation, commanding power and prosperity, generous as showers of rain, thus addressed with reverence and listening to our prayer, take up the reins of the people, be with them and harness their energy, and with love and faith pursue the noble policies for advancement to completion.

3. Na te ta indrābhyasmadṝṣvā'yuktāso abrahmatā yadasan. Tiṣṭhā rathamadhi taṁ vajrahastā'' raśmiṁ deva yamase svaśvaḥ.

Indra, mighty lord, refulgent and generous, those who are not with us and are not for you are disjoined from reality. It is their ignorance and impiety toward the motherland. O lord of the force of thunder in hand, ride the chariot, take up the reins, equipped as you are with excellent forces for advancement. Guide and lead.

4. Purū yat ta indra santyukthā gave cakarthorvarāsu yudhyan. Tatakṣe sūryāya cidokasi sve vṛṣā samatsu dāsasya nāma cit.

Many are your acts of generosity, Indra, which you have done for the land and cattle wealth and for fertility of the fields, O generous lord, and while fighting in the battles of life in your own seat, you create the light of life like the sun and earn for yourself the name and fame of the abundant cloud of showers.

वयं त तं इन्द्र य च नरः शधा जज्ञाना याताश्च रथाः।

5. Vayaṁ te ta indra ye ca naraḥ śardho jajñānā yātāśca rathāḥ. Āsmāñ-jagamyād-ahiśuṣma satvā bhago na havyaḥ prabhṛtheṣu cāruḥ.

Indra, lord illustrious breaker of the dark cloud of might, we are yours, and these leaders creating and forming power and force, the chariots that go round for transport, all these are yours. Come, O lord, and bless us with all your imperishable power, come like power and splendour incarnate, most welcome among the cherished ones.

पपृ ाण्यमिन्द्र त्व ह्याजा नृम्णानि च नृतमाना अमतः। स न एनीं वसवाना रयिं दाः पायः स्तुष तुविमघस्य दानम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Papṛkṣeṇyamindra tve hyojo nṛmṇāni ca nṛtamāno amartaḥ. Sa na enīṁ vasavāno rayiṁ dāḥ prāryaḥ stuṣe tuvimaghasya dānam.

Incomprehensible is the splendour in you, Indra, lord of glory, all the wealths of humanity abide in you, yours is the ongoing dance of creation, yours is immortality. Universal abode of existence, give us the pure wealth of life, wealth that is possible. You are the lord and master commanding immense wealth, honour and power. I praise, admire and pray for your grace and generosity.

7. Evā na indrotibhirava pāhi gṛṇataḥ śūra kārūn. Uta tvacaṁ dadato vājasātau piprīhi madhvaḥ suṣutasya cāroḥ.

Thus O lord brave and fearless, Indra, protect us, the celebrants, poets, makers and artists, teachers and preachers with all modes of safety and security. And giving us the glowing corselet of self defence in the battle business of life, enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life created, distilled and offered by the admirers and worshippers.

8. Uta tye mā paurukutsyasya sūrestrasadasyor-hiraṇino rarāṇāḥ. Vahantu mā daśa śyetāso asya gairikṣitasya kratubhirnu saśce.

And may those ten horses (ten senses of perception and volition or five senses of perception and five pranic energies) of the child of the wielder of the thunderbolt, wise and bold, terror of the wicked, lord of golden wealth, abiding on the heights carry me on in life. Playful yet stable are they, gifts of the bountiful, and with holiness of words and actions I abide with them, (and enjoy the beauty and sweetness of life).

9. Uta tye mā mārutāśvasya śoṇāḥ kratvāmaghāso vidathasya rātau. Sahasrā me cyavatāno dadāna ānūkamaryo vapuṣe nārcat.

And may those vibrating gifts of the lord, who commands the winds as a charioteer drives and controls the horses, red hot in action, vested with holy perception and action, help me in the abundant creative yajna of the social order, so that the Lord and Master, inspiring me and giving me grace a thousand ways, may love and accept me like an ornament for the body.

उत त्य मा ध्वन्यस्य जुष्टा ल मण्यस्य सुरुचा यतानाः। मह्ना रायः संवरणस्य ऋषवजं न गावः पयता अपि ग्मन ॥ १० ॥

May the living voices of Vedic mantras and wealths of existence with all their grandeur of meaning and value, coexistent with the lord of original Word, loved by the scholar of holy intention and purpose, divined and envisioned in right selection of words by the Rshis, all dynamic and relevant by moving forward to modern contexts come to me like cows going to their stalls.

Mandala 5/Sukta 34

Indra Devata, Samvarana Prajapatya Rshi

अजातशत्रुमजरा स्वर्वत्यनु स्वधामिता दस्ममीयत।
सुनातन पचत बह्मवाहस पुरुष्टुताय पतरं दधातन॥ १॥

1. Ajātaśatrumajarā svarvatyanu svadhāmitā dasmamīyate. Sunotana pacata brahmavāhase puruṣṭutāya prataraṁ dadhātana.

The lady of light and joy, grace unbound, unaging power, divine Shakti, as the human offering too, in yajna, follows the lord omnificent, Indra, omnipotent, free from enemies ever born. Sow the seed of piety, distil the soma, mature it for the lord creator, giver and receiver of food, energy and eternal wisdom, universally adored and worshipped, and bear and offer the fragrance that will take you across the seas of existence.

यदीं मृगाय हन्तव महावधः सहस्त्रभृष्टिमुशनो वधं यमत॥ २॥

2. Ā yaḥ somena jaṭharamapipratā'mandata maghavā madhvo andhasaḥ. Yadīṁ mṛgāya hantave mahāvadhaḥ sahasrabhṛṣṭimuśanā vadhaṁ yamat.

He, lord of wealth, honour and power, who satisfies his hunger with soma and exults in honey sweets of food offered, and who, wielding the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment, out of love for life and the people raises his bolt of a thousand potentials to punish and destroy the wild beast of violence and ferocity: that is Indra, that is the ruler.

या अस्म घꣳस उत वा य ऊधꣳनि सामं सुनाति भवति द्युमाँ अहꣳ । अपाप शकस्तनुष्टिमूहति तनूशुभं मघवा यः कवासखः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Yo asmai ghraṁsa uta vā ya ūdhani somaṁ sunoti bhavati dyumāṁ̆ aha. Apāpa śakras-tatanuṣṭim-ūhati tanūśubhraṁ maghavā yaḥ kavāsakhaḥ.

He who creates soma day and night and offers it to this lord Indra surely rises to heights of brilliance in knowledge, power and honour. But Indra, the lord commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, disowns and throws off that man far and farther from himself who lives and works only for self-decoration and self-exhibition and associates with the selfish, miserly and wholly acquisitive.

4. Yasyāvadhīt pitaraṁ yasya mātaraṁ yasya śakro bhrātaraṁ nāta īṣate. Vetīdvasya prayatā yataṁ-karo na kilviṣādīṣate vasva ākaraḥ.

If the powerful ruler punishes somebody's father or mother or brother, he does not for that reason forsake that person, nor does he go back on his decision. Indeed he expects and accepts the homage of the man since he loves effort and endeavour, and he is the shelter of all and a treasure of wealth. He does not fly away from sin and guilt, he faces it and fixes it.

न पञ्चभिर्दशभिर्वष्ट्यारभं नासुन्वता सचत पुष्यता चन।

5. Na pañcabhir-daśabhir-vaṣṭyārabhaṁ nāsun-vatā sacate puṣyatā cana. Jināti vedamuyā hanti vā dhunirā devayuṁ bhajati gomati vraje.

He does not wish to begin anything with the five senses and ten pranic energies in association with a selfish, slothful, unyajnic person even though he were otherwise thriving. In this manner he defeats and punishes the lazy and the selfish. But a terror as he is to the wicked, he loves and serves the pious and learned person in the place where cows roam around and the place resounds with chant of the sacred Word.

वित्व ईणः समृता चकमासजा सुन्वता विषुणः सुन्वता वृधः। इन्द्रा विश्वस्य दमिता विभीषणा यथावशं नयति दासमार्यः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Vitvakṣṇaḥ samṛtau cakramāsajo'sunvato viṣuṇaḥ sunvato vṛdhaḥ. Indro viśvasya damitā vibhīṣaṇo yathavaśaṁ nayati dāsamāryaḥ.

Brave in the battle of life, Indra destroys suffering and rides the wheel of time and cycle of the seasons. Averse to the selfish and uncreative, he helps and raises the creative men of yajna so that life may grow higher and better. Self-controlled and awe-inspiring, Indra is the ruler and ordainer of the world, a power, dynamic, ever modern and progressive, who controls the services of the nation according to the force and pressure needed on time.

समीँ पणरंजति भाजनं मुष वि दाशुषं भजति सूनरं वसु।

For sure he augments the food and comfort of the celebrant but takes away the grains of the thief, and for the charitable he gives wealth good for people. And into dungeon darkness are thrown all those people who challenge his blazing power and provoke his indignation.

If Indra, lord of honour and excellence, terror of the enemies and inspirer of the people by virtues of his nature and character, were to come across and select two men possessed of honest wealth and all round strength and courage from among the brilliant people over the reputed and spotless regions of the land, he would appoint one as his assistant, and the other for economic management providing for abundant water and wealth of cows and food products.

Agni, refulgent ruler, you adore Indra, giver of a thousand gifts of fire and electric energy, powerful, self-evident mark of honour and grandeur. Such as you are, I pray, like rivers flowing in bounds to the sea, may the disciplined people be dedicated to you and may the social order, brilliance and majesty vest in you as their very home and glory incarnate.

Indra Devata, Prabhuvasu Angirasa Rshi

1. Yaste sādhiṣṭho'vasa indra kratuṣṭamā bhara. Asmabhyaṁ carṣaṇīsahaṁ sasniṁ vājeṣu duṣṭarn.

Indra, lord refulgent, ruler of the world, for our protection and promotion, bear and bring for us that straight and most effective vision and action of yours which is pure and most bountiful, tolerant and yet challenging for people and informidable in our battles of life, the discipline inviolable.

यदिन्द त चतस्रा यच्छूर सन्ति तिस्रः ।
यद्वा पञ्च क्षितीनामवस्तत सु न आ भर ॥ २ ॥

2. Yadindra te catasro yacchūra santi tisraḥ.
Yad vā pañca kṣitīnāmavastat su na ā bhara.

Indra, refulgent ruler, bear and bring us for the protection, progress and sustenance of the people those three, four or five principles of policy and values of society which, according to you, are the best ways of the peace and advancement of the people, and let us settle and establish ourselves therein with your law and inviolable power, brave one.

Note: This mantra is the basic formula of any socio-political structure and its governance and administration for the preservation, advancement and balanced sustenance of society. Details have to be worked out in the light of permanent values, history and tradition, and present and future implications. We may consider the following:

(A) Three: Physical, mental and spiritual well-being of the individual, society and the total human community, the departments of governance and administration, legislation and education; care, preservation and replenishment of the earth, environment and higher sphere; the government, the people, and the defence forces.

(B) Four: The four classes of the people, i.e., teachers and researchers, defence forces and administrators, producers and businessmen, and the ancillary workers; The four stages of individual and collective life, i.e., Brahmacharya (education, preparation and consolidation), Grhastha (family, professional life and social responsibilities and management), Vanaprastha (retirement and voluntgary community service), and Sanyas (total freedom, renunciation and social service). This is Varnashrama Dharma.

(C) Five: Four classes of people and the other miscellaneous groups whosoever they be.

Five levels of organisation: individual, family, professional community, nation, and the global and environmental level.

Vedic suggestions are symbolic and general, particular details are to be worked out in the light of the Vedic purpose of life and living for the realisation of Dharma, righteousness in practical life, Artha, material well being, Kama, fulfilment of the Self, and Moksha, ultimate freedom.

3. Ā te'vo vareṇyaṁ vṛṣantamasya hūmahe.

Indra, refulgent lord of power and protection, we invoke and pray for your protection, most cherished, since you are the most generous and gracious. Uninterrupted is the shower of your grace like the showers of a cloud, as you arise, instantly victorious, commanding and bearing the protective blessings of existence such as knowledge, power and humility.

Indra, ruling lord of the world, you rise as the shower of bliss for munificence and achievement of success. Your power is the shower of joy. Your self-government and free social order is powerful, your mind is irresistible, your strength is for the good of the people.

5. Tvaṁ tamindra martyam-amitrayantam-adrivaḥ. Sarvarathā śatakrato ni yāhi śavasaspate.

Indra, lord of lustre and majesty, wielder of the thunderbolt and generous as a cloud, master of knowledge doing a hundred noble creative actions, commander of forces and power, take to your chariot, deploy all the chariots of battle forces and advance upon that mortal enemy who challenges the love and friendship of the people.

6. Tvāmid vṛtrahantama janāso vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Ugraṁ pūrvīṣu pūrvyaṁ havante vājasātaye.

O lord, all the people ready for yajnic action of defence and advancement, having touched the skies by their chant and fragrance, all ready in full gear, invoke and call upon you, breaker of the cloud and destroyer of darkness and suffering, blazing with force of grandeur, first among the best leaders old and new. This is the clarion call for victory in life's battle for sustenance and success.

Indra, ruler and commander of the people, take over, command, lead and protect our chariot of the nation, formidable, advancing in the contests of life, going ahead with all forces of the nation in one field after another and winning victory after victory.

Indra, lord of might and blazing power of light, come, we pray, and protect our chariot by your intelligence, wisdom and tactics. O lord most potent, let us have our cherished sustenance and word of wisdom in this kingdom of love and beauty. Let us know and meditate on the holy song of success and adoration in this kingdom of light and peace.

Indra Devata, Prabhuvasu Angirasa Rshi

स आ गमदिन्दा या वसूनां चिकेतद्दातुं दामना रयीणाम।

1. Sa ā gamadindro yo vasūnāṁ ciketad dātuṁ dāmano rayīṇām. Dhanvacaro na vaṁsagastṛ-ṣāṇaś-cakamānaḥ pibatu dugdham-aṁśum.

Come, Indra, lord of honour and excellence, you know the wealth, beauty and excellence, of the world of existence, you know how to give, you are the giver and treasure hold of the wealth of life, golden orb of the full moon. Like a sojourner of the skies, like a bird or bull, thirsting, loving, discriminating between truth and falsehood, come, drink the nectar of refreshing, rejuvenating, regenerating milk of life, your rightful share.

2. Ā te hanū harivaḥ śūra śipre ruhat somo na parvatasya pṛṣṭhe. Anu tvā rājannarvato na hinvan gīrbhir-madema puruhūta viśve.

Indra, great and brave lord of heroic people, may love and sweetness play on your lips, let fragrance breathe from your nose, let success and glory play on your helmet like a soma creeper on mountain top. O ruler of the world all honoured and adored, like a victorious army rejoicing on victory, we all with all our voices in unison invoke and entertain you so that we all enjoy together.

3. Cakraṁ na vṛttaṁ puruhuta vepate mano bhiyā me amateridadrivaḥ. Rathādadhi tvā jaritā sadāvṛdha kuvinnu stoṣanmaghavan purū-vasuḥ.

Indra, invoked and adored, blazing as sun and generous as cloud, ever greater and greater, commanding knowledge, honour, power, and treasure hold of all wealth, like a wheel in motion my mind is trembling for fear of want of intelligence and understanding and, in praise and adoration of you as commander of the chariot, it raises the voice of prayer and supplication. Listen lord, shelter, haven and home of all.

4. Eṣa grāveva jaritā ta indreyarti vācaṁ bṛhad-āśuṣāṇaḥ. Pra savyena maghavan yaṁsi rāyaḥ pra dakṣiṇidd-harivo mā vi venaḥ.

Indra, lord of wealth, power and honour, you have attained the heights of wide spaces. This celebrant like a soma press which extracts streams of soma or like a cloud of showers sends up words of praise in your honour for your beneficence. You control and give gifts of wealth by both right and left hands. O warrior of the chariot and leader of men, we pray, do not ignore us.

Indra, you are brave and generous, may the gracious heaven elevate and exalt you. Generous and great, you move and rise by ground and powerful modes of transport and yajnic action. May the great lord of mighty chariot, clad in strong helmet, generous of action, wielder of the thunderbolt engage and protect us in the battle of life.

6. Yo rohitau vājinau vājinīvān tribhiḥ śataiḥ sacamānāvadiṣṭa. Yūne samasmai kṣitayo namantāṁ śrutarathāya maruto duvoyā.

Let the people of the world bow in honour and reverence to the scholar, expert of the knowledge of motion and speed who teaches this young student the two allied subjects of the science of heat and electric energy with three hundred applications of it and designs a world famous vehicle for transport.

Mandala 5/Sukta 37

Indra Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

1. Saṁ bhānunā yatate sūryasyā''juhvāno ghṛtapṛṣṭhaḥ svañcāḥ. Tasmā amrīdhrā uṣaso vyucchān ya indrāya sunavāmetyāha.

The flame of Agni, heat and light, invoked and kindled on the base of ghrta, water, rising fast and beautifully vies with the light of the sun. "This we create in honour of Indra, the ruler": for the scholar scientist who says this, let untiring dawns of light and excellence shine blissfully.

समिद्धाग्निर्वनवत्स्तीर्णबर्हिर्युक्तग्रावा सुतसोमो जरते ।

2. Samiddhāgnir-vanavat stīrṇabarhir-yuktagrāvā sutasomo jarāte. Grāvāṇo yasyeṣiraṁ vadantya-yad-adhvaryur-haviṣāva sindhum.

Agni, light and fire, raised and rising, touching the skies, suffusing the clouds, creating the soma for life and energy, crackles, and adores Divinity. The roaring clouds proclaim its force and refreshing power. The yajaka scientist with his yajnic inputs into the fire rises and moves to the sea (with fragrant vibrations rising to space, with waters flowing to the seas).

3. Vadhūr-iyaṁ patim-icchantyeti ya īṁ vahāte mahiṣīm-iṣirām. Āsya śravasyād ratha ā ca ghoṣāt purū sahasrā pari vartayāte.

Just as a loving bride goes to her groom and the bridegroom receives the consecrated bride, and both together run the home and take the family forward, so do fire and water mixed and working together drive the chariot and from the power and its revolution and thunderous roar many thousands of projects are moved forward.

न स राजा व्यथत यस्मिन्निन्द्रस्तीव्रं सामं पिबति गोसखायम। आ सत्वनरजति हन्ति वृत्रं क्षेति क्षितीः सुभगो नाम पुष्यन॥ ४॥

4. Na sa rājā vyathate yasminn-indras-tīvraṁ somaṁ pibati gosakhāyam. Ā satvanair-ajati hanti vṛtraṁ kṣeti kṣitīḥ subhago nāma puṣyan.

That ruler does not face want and trouble in whose realm Indra, fire or electric energy, consumes intense liquid, friendly with earth connection, and goes forward with various forms of power. The ruler moves forward, breaks the clouds for rain, destroys the demon of darkness with light and knowledge, and settles his people in homes, thus progressing all forward in health and sustenance and earning a name for wealth and power.

5. Pusyāt kṣeme abhi yoge bhavātyubhe vṛtau saṁyatī saṁ jayāti. Priyaḥ sūrye priyo agnā bhavāti ya indrāya sutasomo dadāśat.

That nation moves forward in yoga, creation of new assets, and in kshema, preservation of the progress and achievement earlier attained, rises higher in social dynamics both ways, and wins further ground in both together: the nation which reverentially loves solar energy, which reverentially takes interest in fire energy, and which spares its best and sweetest surplus in the service of Indra, development of electric energy.

Indra, hero of a hundred holy actions with insight and counsel, wide and high are your powers and wealth, abundant your gifts. Ultimate watcher and observer of all that is in the world, ruler of the mighty social order, lead us on to wealth, power, honour and excellence and help us rise to the heights.

Indra, ruler of golden majesty, lord most potent, destroyer of suffering, whatever food, energy and light of knowledge, great and renowned, you bear and bestow upon us you increase and extend, and it resounds far and wide as the highest of fame most unchallengeable by mortal man.

Indra, O lord destroyer of darkness, want and suffering, bring that human wealth of values, honour and excellence which is worthy of anyone here, there and everywhere in terms of efficiency of your divine order. Give us the power and freedom from fear, since you love us and wish us to rise and prosper.

Indra, lord of unbounded action and generosity, potent ruler of the world, may we with these cherished blessings under your benign protection be possessors, protectors and promoters of lands and cows and revelations of light. Let us be preservers and promoters without fear.

Indra, O lord of light and power, mysterious and sublime, refulgent ruler of the clouds and mountains, omniscient dispenser of munificence, whatever the rain of blessings showered by you, whatever the wealth and honour of success, not yet ours, pray give us with both hands.

2. Yanmanyase vareṇyam-indra dyukṣaṁ tad-ābhara. Vidyāma tasya te vayam-akūpārasya dāvane.

Indra, whatever you think is worthy of choice, bear and bring that brilliant gift of heavenly quality. Let us receive that and let us know that as a blessing of your unbounded generosity worthy to be received and justified with gratitude.

3. Yat te ditsu prarādhyaṁ mano asti śrutaṁ bṛhat. Tena dṛḷhā cidadriva ā vājaṁ darṣi sātaye.

Adriva, wielder of thunder arms and ruler of clouds and mountains, with that mind and courage of yours which is great, renowned and magnanimous leading to sure success, break down the strongholds of darkness and scatter the forces of negativity to reveal the light of rectitude for success and victory.

4. Maṁhiṣṭhaṁ vo maghonāṁ rājānaṁ carṣaṇī-nām.
Indramupa praśastaye pūrvībhir-jujuṣe giraḥ.

For the praise and celebration of Indra, greatest of the powerful among you and ruler of the people, offer songs of adoration with the eternal verses of the Vedas as did the ancients for the benediction of the lord and master.

5. Asmā it kāvyaṁ vaca uktham-indrāya śaṁsyam.
Tasmā u brahmavāhase giro vardhantyatrayo giraḥ śumbhantyatrayaḥ.

For this Indra, lord and master, indeed, is the holy poetic voice of praise. For that lord giver of universal wealth and light of knowledge and wisdom do poets free from threefold bondage of body, mind and soul raise and offer their songs of adoration. Him, the voices beautified with threefold graces of sound, meaning and structure, free from threefold defects of sound, meaning and structure exalt and glorify.

1. Ā yāhyadribhiḥ sutaṁ somaṁ somapate piba.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.

Indra, creator and protector of honour, excellence and prosperity, come with the clouds of rain showers, and taste and promote the distilled soma of the herbs of the earth. Come, generous lord, greatest dispeller of darkness and suffering, with the strongest and most enlightened, commanding the creation of glory.

2. Vṛṣā grāvā vṛṣā mado vṛṣā somo ayaṁ sutaḥ.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.

Deep is the cloud, the hope and ecstasy is high, and this soma distilled is potent and delicious. O generous lord, Indra, creator of valour and destroyer of darkness and suffering, come and realise the highest prosperity with the showers of rain clouds.

3. Vṛṣā tvā vṛṣaṇaṁ huve vajriñ-citrābhir-ūtibhiḥ.
Vṛṣannindra vṛṣabhir-vṛtrahantama.

Indra, potent lord of generosity, magnanimous giver of the showers of joy, wielder of the arms of thunder, greatest breaker of the clouds of rain and destroyer of evil, I invoke you with the strongest and most liberal powers and gifts of prosperity to come with various and wondrous securities, protections and promotions.

Dynamic guardian of the path of rectitude to the last, wielder of thunder, generously brave, breaker of tempestuous missiles instantly, terribly forceful, refulgent ruler and sovereign commander, destroyer of the darkest enemies and protector of peaceful prosperity and joy of the people, Indra comes post haste by fastest horses, and at the noon day session of yajna joins the celebrations of the nation's honour and excellence.

5. Yat tvā sūrya svarbhānus-tamasāvidhyad-āsuraḥ. Akṣetravid yathā mugdho bhuvanān-yadīdhayuḥ.

When the moon lighted by the sun affects the sun with the darkness of its shadow, when it is in line with the sun and earth, then the person who does not know his area feels confused during the eclipse and the regions too appear confusing. Similarly O sun, light of the spirit, when the veil of darkness covers knowledge and awareness of the spirit, then the ignorant man feels confused and the world too appears different, that is, the material appears as ultimate reality and the spirit is eclipsed. He makes no distinction between body and soul.

स्व॑भानो॒रध॒ यदि॑न्द मा॒या अ॒वा दि॒वा वत॑माना अ॒वाह॑न।

6. Svarbhānoradha yadindra māyā avo divo varta-mānā avāhan. Gūḷhaṁ sūryaṁ tamasāpavra-tena turīyeṇa brahmaṇāvindadatriḥ.

And then Indra, when the cosmic energy which moves the stars and planets removes the shadow of the moon from the sun, then Atri, man of knowledge, with his fourth state of the soul, that is, turiya, direct vision of Reality, regains the sight of the sun earlier covered by the shadow of the moon.

Similarly, when Indra, lord of light, removes the illusion of darkness which intercepts the light of the spirit below it, then Atri, the sage of knowledge and discrimination, with this fourth stage of spiritual development, regains the light earlier covered by the darkness of ignorance.

7. Mā māmimaṁ tava santamatra irasyā drugdho bhiyasā ni gārīt. Tvaṁ mitro asi satyarādhāstau mehāvataṁ varuṇaśca rājā.

O sage, Atri, free from the bondage of confusion between body, mind and soul, I am your friend. Let not this malevolent ogre out of anger, dread or hunger devour me. You are a friend. So is this Varuna, ruler of light and man of judgement and discrimination. May you two, I pray, protect me from darkness, ignorance and confusion.

8. Grāvṇo brahmā yuyujānaḥ saparyan kīriṇā devān namasopasīkṣan. Atriḥ sūryasya divi cakṣurā-dhāt svarbhānorapa māya aghukṣat.

Then Atri, sagely scholar of four Vedas, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, collecting hymns of adoration, joining wise sages, singing songs of adoration in honour of Divinity, teaches and illuminates the supplicant disciple, removes the clouds, dispels the veil of darkness and illusion, and restores the light of the heavenly sun into the spirit.

9. Yaṁ vai sūryaṁ svarbhānus-tamāsavidhyadā-suraḥ. Atrayas-tamanvavindan nahyanye aśa-knuvan.

That sun and light of heaven, covered by the shadow of the moon and hidden by the veil of darkness, the Atris, sages of knowledge in the fourth state of spiritual development, turiya, direct vision of Reality, free from threefold confusion, illusion and sufferance, restore and regain for themselves and their disciples. Others cannot see that light because they do not have the spiritual vision and freedom from illusion.

Vishvedeva Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

का नु वां मित्रावरुणावृतायन्दिवा वा महः पार्थिवस्य वा द। ऋतस्य वा सदसि त्रासीथां ना यज्ञायत वा पशुषा न वाजान॥ १॥

1. Ko nu vāṁ mitrāvaruṇāvṛatāyan divo vā mahaḥ pārthivasya vā de. Ṛtasya vā sadasi trāsīthāṁ no yajñāyate vā paśuṣo na vājān.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and bliss of heaven, complementary energies of prana and udana, friend and man of justice, teacher and preacher, who, for sure, dedicated to truth, can know you? Who can thank you in words? Protect and promote us wherever you be in your regions of truth and natural law in the light of heaven, the firmament or the earth, and bless us with food and energy, speed and progress, vision and wisdom, and material and spiritual wealth for the generous man of yajna.

2. Te no mitro varuṇo aryamāyurindra ṛbhukṣā maruto juṣanta. Namobhirvā ye dadhate suvṛktiṁ stomaṁ rudrāya mīḷhuṣe sajoṣāḥ.

May the light of the day and the peace of night, the ocean, the cosmic order, health and time of age, spiritual vision, spirit of nature, cosmic flow of energies, be friendly with us. May all these who, together in love and loyalty with Rudra, lord of generous abundance and universal justice of correctitude, bear and carry our prayers and adorations and yajnic offerings with all our obedience and salutations to the Lord.

3. Ā vāṁ yeṣṭhāśvinā huvadhyai vātasya patman rathyasya puṣṭau. Uta vā divo asurāya manma prāndhāṁsīva yajyave bharadhvam.

Ashvins, complementary harbingers of light and life energy, observers and keepers of the laws of nature and guiding principles of humanity, teachers and preachers, I invoke you for extension of the paths of winds and clearance of the channels of progress, and I call upon you for strengthening and sophistication of the chariot powers of humanity. Come ye all fellow men, travellers and friends, concentrate your thoughts and intentions on the life breath of existence flowing from the regions of light as you bear and bring the food and fragrance for the yajna fire.

The refulgent yajaka, forbearing, challenging and victorious, intelligent and self-conscious (Kanva), Trita, active and expansive in the three regions of the universe, i.e., the sun, wind and electric energy, heat and light, nourishment and growth, power, prosperity, honour and excellence, all operative together in love like friends, with brilliant holy ambitions for the advancement of the world, may, we plan and pray, come like warriors flying to the battle business of life on the wings of fastest coursers.

5. Pra vo rayiṁ yuktāśvaṁ bharadhvaṁ rāya eṣe'vase dadhīta dhīḥ. Suśeva evairauśijasya hotā ye va evā marutasturāṇām.

O Maruts, dynamics of nature and progressive forces of humanity, create, bear and bring the wealth and power born of action and advancement. Develop, hold and use knowledge and intelligence for the achievement of all forms of power, honour and prosperity. All the actions and movements of yours are for your good, and by all these progressive steps of yours, the yajaka, creator and giver of fragrance, humanity, the child of brilliant ambition, grows happy and enjoys peace and comfort.

With your holy chants of mantras and offers of fragrant inputs into the yajnic fire of corporate action, create the wind and electric energy usable in your transports for progress. Create the brilliant, vibrant, admirable scholar and scientist of energy. And may these warriors of energy and scientific intelligence dedicated to progress and the truth and goodness of the laws of natural and human dynamics, serving heaven and earth, motherly divinities, bear and bring universal light and nourishment for our intellectual and cultural advancement.

In consequence, for your success and achievement, by virtue of your holy and powerful efforts and your intelligent and enlightened chants and oblations, may the night and day, both great and potent, like intelligent and educated women, carry your yajna across the world and bring you from heaven the wealth of the world for humanity.

Happy with myself, celebrant for you all, and for the achievement of wealth, power and all round prosperity, I honour, adore and serve the leaders who work for food and nourishment for growth. I honour the artist, architect and maker of forms, and love creative and friendly intelligence, trees and herbs, with reverence, gratitude, replenishment and renewal.

May the clouds and mountains be for the expansion of our charities. So may be the Vasus, abodes of life such as earth and oceans, suns and planets, as well as the brave and generous people of strength and intelligence, self-motivated, self-moved, celebrated, self-realised, creative and corporate powers, and may they all augment our honour and reputation in all fields of human welfare.

I admire and adore the lightning fire, child of waters, which pervades the three worlds of the universe and gives showers of life for the fertility of the earth. Like a moving power with locks of light with its force and motion, Agni energises the rays of the sun, moves the clouds and enlivens the forests with greenery.

How shall we speak to the seeker of nature's catalytic powers breaking and making the changing forms of matter and energy, how speak to the earnest seeker of knowledge, of wealth, production and prosperity? May the flowing waters and clouds, herbs, heavens, rays of sunlight and high mountains with locks of forests help and protect us.

May the lord creator, controller and sustainer of energies listen to our voice of prayer, listen and reveal the mystery. May the master of the science of energy listen and enlighten us. May the lord omniscient, pervasive in waters and the skies, ever moving, omnipresent, listen and reveal the knowledge. May the crystal waters and the perennial streams and showers issuing forth from the mighty clouds and mountains speak to us like the clairvoyant ancient seers and seekers.

Listen ye, great ones, and let us know for certain those acts and motions of yours which we speak of and pray for, which, all great and generous ones, bearing cherished gifts of food, energy, health and age, ever growing stronger and expansive, mighty powerful with their catalytic forces, come to the mortal seeker who tries to know and search them out.

I speak of the celestial and terrestrial evolution of things and forces and their actions and attributes for the holy pursuer of creative yajnic action. May the heavenly light and words of knowledge grow with peace, beauty and bliss in action. May the waters of life and energy grow and flow like the spatial oceans enveloping our existence.

15. Padepade me jarimā ni dhāyi varūtrī vā śakrā yā pāyubhiśca. Siṣaktu mātā mahī rasā naḥ smat sūribhir-ṛjuhasta ṛjuvaniḥ.

At every stage of evolution, my growth with divine praise and prayer is evident, replete with power and grace bearing all natural and divine modes and materials of protection and progress. May mother earth and her nectar sweets of energy with sages and scholars bless us with the rich gifts of her simple, natural and liberal hands.

16. Kathā dāśema namasā sudānūnevayā maruto acchoktau praśravaso maruto acchoktau. Mā no'hirbudhnyo riṣe dhādasmākaṁ bhūdupamātivaniḥ.

How shall we honour and serve the generous and renowned Maruts, dynamics of nature and the dynamic leaders and scholars of humanity, with offers of gifts and acts of homage in order to thank and supplicate them in words of reverence? Too generous and too highly renowned are they even for the best and choicest words of ours. May the generous cloud in the sky never forsake us to suffer want and injury. May there always be ample blessings of nature and Divinity for us close at hand.

Thus does mortal man honour and celebrate you, O divinities of nature and humanity, for progeny and for abundance of wealth and cattle. Thus does mortal man win your favour. Give me here in the world well being of the body and sustenance for health, and may mother earth with her generosity keep off debility and decay of my health and the onset of old age.

O Vasus, divinities of nature and humanity, may we receive that holy intelligence of yours, that energising food, by our praise and prayer in honour of mother earth, nature and the cow, and may that mother power, generous, loving and merciful, O divinities, sages and scholars, the lady overflowing with kindness, move for us in response to us for our good, for our honour and prosperity.

May the divine Ida, voice of omniscience, generous nature and the wide earth, mother of multitudes, sublime and overwhelming, enlighten and inspire us. And may the majesty of divinities, commanding universal light, comprehending the meaning, purpose and energy of life itself, revealing knowledge and wisdom come to us.

1. Pra śantamā varuṇaṁ dīdhitīṁ gīrmitraṁ bhaga-maditiṁ nūnamaśyāḥ. Pṛṣadyoniḥ pañcahotā śṛṇotvatūrtapanthā asuro mayobhuḥ.

Let my holy voice, the chant of OM, full of peace and bliss, light of my higher energy of udana, rise up and reach Varuna, cherished lord of love and justice, Mitra, lord of light and friendship, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, and Aditi, mother Infinity of heaven and earth. May the lord Supreme listen and receive, the lord of Eternal Word and speech coexistent with space and Divinity, ministrant of five pranic energies, indefatigable and irresistible in the ways of his power and action, giver of life and energy, lord of bliss, Bliss itself.

May Aditi, mother of eternal speech, receive and love my song of praise and prayer as a mother holds her child to the heart, dear, cherished and soothing. Brahma, lord Infinite that is dear, kind and benevolent to the noble people, supreme giver, who inspires prana and udana energies, is our lord adorable.

Sing, celebrate him that is the most imaginative of poets, exalt him with honey sweets of song and homage, and may he, the inspirer creator, Savita, refulgent and generous lord, in response to our homage and effort, give us cherished wealth and honour of our choice for the good of our body, mind and soul.

Lord of humanity, commanding the motive forces of the dynamics of existence, let there be all good and well being for us. Lead us on with knowledge and wealth of divinity, with whatever is good and beneficial for noble people, and with the wisdom of the brilliant people devoted to yajnic creation and divine service.

We sing and celebrate the acts and achievements of the lord of men and winds, incomprehensible, victorious, unaging and undecaying. O lord of honour and power, Indra, neither the ancients, nor the moderns, nor the succeeding ones nor anyone else would comprehend your power and potential.

First sing in honour of him close at hand who wields and governs the jewel wealth of existence, Brhaspati, Lord Almighty of the boundless universe, giver of wealth and honour, lord most blissful, omnificent, universally adored, who blesses the celebrant and supplicant, and brings him the wealth and honour prayed for.

Brhaspati, O lord of unbounded wealth of the universe, the people who are free from injury, enjoying wealth and power, brave and fearless, sharing the blessings of your protections, who are generous and honourable and give horses, cows and clothes in charity, all enjoy the good fortune of wealth and power and the grace of divinities.

Render the wealth of those people fruitless and unproductive who eat by themselves inspite of our songs of divine praise in honour of charity. Deprive them of the light of the sun who observe no rules of good conduct, and who, while growing materially in the lord's creation, revile the lord giver and desecrate the food.

O Maruts, dynamic leaders of the people, take him down straight, not in round about words, who invokes and entertains the wicked in the holy programmes of society, who reviles the noble work of the divine celebrant and who, even though trying hard apparently, demeans his values and desires.

Praise and exalt him who wields the strong bow and sharp arrow in support of life and shelters the creative, corrective and protective forces of the world. Do good work in cooperation with the great and magnanimous people, and honour and serve with homage and holy offerings Rudra, lord of power, justice and punishment, brilliant and generous giver of life and energy.

sculptor of the forms of his creation, has provided and made to flow this water for us in the streams of his daughter, the earth.

Let this celebrative song, O celebrant, rise and reach the roaring, thundering lord of earth and eternal speech who, replete with blissful waters, rolling like spatial oceans, goes forward sprinkling the earth and illuminating heaven and earth with the showers of light and life.

Let this song of praise reach and excite the power and force of the Maruts, fellow humans, youthful children of Rudra, Lord of law, justice and discriminative wisdom, and let my love and desire inspire them for wealth and honour of the world. O celebrant, celebrate the dynamic forces of humanity, generous and showerful as the clouds.

May this song of celebration ring over the earth, resound across the sky, and vibrate among the trees and herbs for the production of wealth. May the lord supreme, God of the divinities of nature and humanity, be kind to me and listen to my invocation and prayer. May the mother earth be kind and never ill-disposed to us.

O divinities, saints and sages, may we ever prosper in the unbounded generosity of nature and of mother earth.

O lord, we pray, may we ever follow and benefit from the latest and blissful guidance and noble policy of the Ashvins, teachers and scholars. Bring us, O divine -twin powers of nature's complementarities, wealth, brave progeny and all the imperishable good fortunes of honour and excellence. Let us prosper with your protection and vision of progress.

महो राय बृहतीः सप्त विप्रो मयोभुवो जरिता जोहवीति॥ १॥

1. Ā dhenavaḥ payasā tūṇryarthā amardhantīrupa no yantu madhvā. Maho rāye bṛhatīḥ sapta vipro mayobhuvo jaritā johavīti.

Let the Voice of Divinity like mother cows, flowing with milky streams of meaning and metaphor, instantly vibrating unto the mind and soul, incessantly rippling and soothing without violence or difficulty, come and bless us with honey sweets of divine peace and spiritual awareness. Sevenfold are they in sound, music and meaning, expressive, grand and infinite. The celebrant yajaka, joyous and ecstatic, invokes, augments and proclaims the voices for the highest wealth and well being of life.

आ सुष्टुती नमसा वर्तयध्यै द्यावा वाजाय पृथिवी अमृधे।

2. Ā suṣṭutī namasā vartayadhyai dyāvā vājāya pṛthivī amṛdhre. Pitā mātā madhuvacāḥ suhastā bharebhare no yaśasāvaviṣṭām.

We offer songs of adoration with homage and offers of yajnic food and fragrance to win incessant blessings of loving and non-violent heaven and earth for the sake of food and sustenance, knowledge and progressive advancement in life. May the father, mother, heaven and earth, sweet and loving of voice and word, liberal and unstinted of hand, bless us with honour and excellence at every stage of our battle business of life.

3. Adhvaryavaś-cakṛvāṁso madhūni-pra vāyave bharata cāru śukram. Hoteva naḥ prathamaḥ pāhyasya deva madhvo rarimā te madāya.

O priests of the scientific yajna for peace and unity with love and non-violence, working on the holy powers and mysteries of wind and electric energy, take up pure energised waters, and create and bear the energy for Vayu, spirit and ruler of humanity. O Vayu, brilliant ruler, first of all preserve, protect and promote this honey sweet energy so that we may be happy and enjoy life together for your honour and pleasure.

4. Daśa kṣipo yuñjate bāhū adriṁ somasya yā śamitārā suhastā. Madhvo rasaṁ sugabhastīr-giriṣṭhāṁ caniścadad duduhe śukramaṁśuḥ.

Just as ten fingers join the two hands, and the dexterous priests use the stone press to extract the soma juice, and just as the sun with its bright rays, happy and rejoicing, distils the potent pure honey sweet vitalities of energy existing in the clouds and mountains, so do the happy performers of scientific yajna for peace, expert specialists of energy, using their hands and mind and senses, working on the clouds distil the purest rays of energy, the honey sweet essence of nature's sources of wind and waters.

5. Asāvi te jujuṣāṇāya somaḥ kratve dakṣāya bṛhate madāya. Harī rathe sudhurā yoge arvāgindra priyā kṛṇuhi hūyamānaḥ.

Indra, brilliant ruler, commander of winds and waters, distilled is the soma of energy for your knowledge and enlightenment, for your power and potential, and for delight and grand celebration, love as you do the honour and excellence of prosperity. Invoked and invited to the celebration, harness the fast controlled powers to the chariot, come straight, and accomplish the programmes you wish to complete.

6. Ā no mahīm-aramatiṁ sajoṣā gnaṁ devīṁ namasā rātahavyām. Madhormadāya bṛhatīm-ṛtajñāmāgne vaha pathibhirdevayānaiḥ.

Agni, O light of knowledge, scholar scientist, loving and cooperative, lead us on to that great, continuous but unaddicted knowledge of divine value with your humility and yajnic inputs, knowledge which is highly creative and productive for honey sweet delights and celebration of mankind, which is vastly revealing of mother nature's truths and worthy of further pursuit by the progressive paths of divinities and nobilities among humanity.

7. Añjanti yaṁ prathayanto na viprā vapāvantaṁ nāgninā tapantaḥ. Piturna putra upasi preṣṭha ā gharmo agnim-ṛtayann-asādi.

Like a darling child in the lap of father, like the fire of yajna in the vedi, the disciple in pursuit of the light of knowledge and fire of life is seated in school close to the teachers like a seedling growing to fullness, whom sagely scholars, purifying, seasoning and tempering like steel and gold by the heat of fire, strengthen and prepare for a full yajnic life.

8. Acchā mahī bṛhatī śantamā gīrdūto na gantvaśvinā huvadhyai. Mayobhuvā sarathā yātamarvāggantaṁ nidhiṁ dhuramānirna nābhim.

Let the good and great, wide and high, refreshing and beneficent voice of ours like a messenger go to invoke and invite the Ashvins, teachers and preachers, complementary powers of nature, positive and negative currents of energy circuit, and may the Ashvins, kind, peaceable and peace giving come to us straight like the centre pin of the axle and nave of a chariot wheel, and share our treasure wealth of knowledge, power and material well-being.

9. Pra tavyaso namauktiṁ turasya'haṁ pūṣṇa uta vāyoradikṣi. Yā rādhasā coditārā matīnāṁ yā vājasya draviṇodā uta tman.

I offer the song of homage and reverence in honour of Pusha, power of nourishment, and Vayu, energy of wind and electricity, both power givers for success and achievement, inspirers of mankind, and both spontaneous and instant givers of wealth and progress.

आ नामभिमरुता वि । विश्वाना रूपभिजातवदा हुवानः । यज्ञं गिरा जरितुः सुष्टुतिं च विश्व गन्त मरुता विश्व ऊती ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā nāmabhir-maruto vakṣi viśvānā rūpebhirjā-tavedo huvānaḥ. Yajñaṁ giro jarituḥ suṣṭutiṁ ca viśve ganta maruto viśva ūtī.

O Jataveda, light of life, sagely scholar of the knowledge of things in existence, invoked and invited, kindled and raised, you bring and speak of all the energies of winds and electricity of all names and all descriptions for men. O Maruts, winds and energies, in response to the mantric formulae and the celebrant's songs of adoration, come all and bring all modes of protection and advancement along to the sagely scholars' yajnic pursuit of research and development.

11. Ā no divo bṛhataḥ parvatādā sarasvatī yajatā gantu yajñam. Havaṁ devī jujuṣāṇā ghṛtācī śagmāṁ no vācamuśatī śṛṇotu.

May Sarasvati, divine mother of knowledge and language in the cosmic flow, loving and responsive to her children, come to bless our yajna, bearing ghrta and waters of life's energy and inspiration from heaven, the vast skies, clouds and mountains. May she join us like a mother overflowing with love, listen to our words of prayer for peace and pious advancement and give us the vision.

Enshrine the eminent sage and scholar specialised in the round blue skies, great and rising pursuant of space, in your seat of yajnic learning, in the home and in the assembly : the scholar concentrating on the ultimate natural causes, bright and illuminative, golden in performance, the very dawn of light and knowledge, we honour and serve.

May the wielder and sustainer of existence, mighty refulgent and blissful, invoked, enkindled and raised in the vedi come and bless our yajna with all means of protection and progress, the lord illuminating our voices of praise and prayer, vitalising herbs and vegetation, kind and loving, lord of nature's three modes of thought (sattva), energy (rajas) and matter (tamas) which are transparent, red and dark green, the lord generous as showers and giver of health and age.

14. Mātuṣpade parame śukra āyor-vipanyavo rāspi-rāso agman. Suśevyaṁ namasā rātahavyāḥ śiśuṁ mṛjantyāyavo na vāse.

On the sacred and excellent vedi on the floor of mother earth, lovers and admirers of life come in pursuit of the joy of living, bearing holy offers for the sacred fire. And just as they cleanse the new born baby and welcome it in new life, so they feed, serve and develop the holy fire with love and offers of food and fragrance like a living divinity on earth.

15. Bṛhad vayo bṛhate tubhyamagne dhiyājuro mithunāsaḥ sacanta. Devodevaḥ suhavo bhūtu mahyaṁ mā no mātā pṛthivī durmatau dhāt.

People senior in age and wide in experience, eminent in knowledge and intelligence, men and women together, offer homage to you, Agni, lord of light and great. May the lord Divine, light of all divinities, be kind and gracious to me, and may mother earth look at us with favour and never forsake us.

O Divinities, may we ever be in the light of your unbounded grace, free and uninterrupted.

Ashvins, complementary powers of nature, teachers and preachers, men and women together, all kind and blissful, may we go on in life by your latest protections and noble paths of progress and morality. O immortal divines, bear and bring us wealth, and brave progeny and all the good fortunes of the world.

Indra, Ruler as of ancient times, as before, as always, as of now, with your holy voice you draw upon the highest, heavenly, blissful force and power present upfront and instantly victorious in the battles of life, and you grow and progress in consequence of that same power and force. O Ruler, let us all honour and augment and serve that power.

2. Śriye sudṛśīr-uparasya yāḥ svarvirocamānaḥ kakubhām-acodate. Sugopā asi na dabhāya sukrato paro māyābhir-ṛta āsa nāma te.

Ruler of the world, you are the self-refulgent light of heaven, illuminator of spaces and mover of the still clouds of vapours in the skies, the lord whose lights and graces are for the beauty and majesty of life. You are the protector, defender, preserver and promoter. You are not for deceit or violence. You are the cause and agent of holy action, sovereign with your powers and potential, and your name is identical with truth and law.

3. Atyaṁ haviḥ sacate sacca dhātu cā'riṣṭagātuḥ sa hotā sahobhariḥ. Prasarsrāṇo anu barhirvṛṣā śiśurmadhye yuvājaro visruhā hitaḥ.

(He abides in, with, and above the dynamics of the yajnic evolution of existence: consumer, consumed, consumption, evolution and devolution, the beginning and the end, all): He abides with the food of life. He is truth, reality, eternity. He is the wielder, sustainer and commander of the world in existence. Inviolable is his word, uncharted his way. He is the yajaka, creator and giver. He is the lord and controller of power and potential, challenge and forbearance. He is ever on the move across the skies and spaces. He is the generous cloud, the seedling in the womb of existence, ever young, unaging, antidote of negative destruction, and loving support of all.

O children of the earth, for your good and comfort, immediate as well as distant, are these united, cooperative, well controlled radiations of the sun all round, fostering the truth of nature's law in their own way: For that Master Spirit, the sun sucks up the vapours of water from the ocean and other lower places by well directed, all dominating waves of light, and then makes the cloud release the waters in rain showers to flow down in streams and rivers into the ocean.

(In the same way the administrative forces of the ruler, working together in cooperation within the law, collect the taxes from the various communities of the people and the ruler uses the collection for rain showers of the people's protection, promotion and prosperity without hoarding anything for himself.)

Shining and vibrating by flutter of the leaves of trees, proclaiming the presence of the spirit manifested in life forms living and aging in the world of creation, in the caves of the heart, you shine and radiate in the consciousness, O lord of rectitude and paths of naturalness. Grow on, live on, O lord, in the yajna of creation and let the life forms grow on and advance.

Who are the sagely divines of humanity? As they see the truth of reality, so do they speak of it. They behold it and stand thereby by the holy reflection of it in divine works of creation or in the visions of their own imagination. And they, men of courage, wide and bold in speech and imagination, bear and bring for us great illuminative speech of knowledge and high and mighty undecaying valour, forbearance and spirit of challenge which creates great heroes in the service of truth and rectitude. They are human divines.

7. Vetyagrur-janivān vā ati spṛdhaḥ samaryatā manasā sūryaḥ kaviḥ. Ghraṁsaṁ rakṣantaṁ pari viśvato gayamasmākaṁ śarma vanavat svāvasuḥ.

The leader, reborn in knowledge and courage of action, goes forward challenging, thirsting for battle, radiant by mind, visionary of present and future, protecting the light of day, preserving our future wealth of generations, and protecting our hearth and home, self-possessed and self-established as he is.

8. Jyāyāṁsamasya yatunasya ketuna ṛṣisvaraṁ carati yāsu nāma te. Yādṛśmin dhāyi tamapasyayā vidad ya u svayaṁ vahate so araṁ karat.

The ruler and scholar who receives and serves the superior, the holy and advancing voice of the seers and sages by virtue of the knowledge and efforts of this industrious scholar, and you whose name and fame resounds among the people, whichever way the name and fame and knowledge is received, and the man who attains the knowledge of that all by his own effort and karmic discipline and carries the tradition on by himself, self-possessed and self-established, may all these do us good on our way of life.

9. Samudram-āsām-ava tasthe agrimā na riṣyati savanaṁ yasminn-āyatā. Atrā na hārdi kravaṇasya rejate yatrā matirvidyate pūtabandhanī.

The fame and advancement of these people resounds over seas and abides over spaces, nor does their yajnic progress suffer where hymns are chanted and wealth grows in holiness. Here the heart's desire of the worshipper is not obstructed where holy intelligence and intentions abide for guidance in action.

With our collective thoughts and intentions and with all our love and delight, we desire to have that ruler for the social order whose high strength and dynamism is respected by the wise and enlightened scholars, who is a strong disciplinarian and organiser, who commands intelligence and eloquence, who is a holy and cooperative man of yajna, sociable as a friend and who can preserve, protect, defend, promote and enlighten the people and the system. Only such a person deserves to be the ruler.

Of these people, he, the ruler, is the Shyena, eagle, harbinger of nectar, the watchful eye, and the marksman for the target, the destination. He is Aditi, the inviolable identity, symbol of nature, character, tradition and the nation. He is Kakshya, orbit of movement as well as the rampart, ever in harness, and he is the joy of life. Of this universal leader, all embracing and giving, all powerful, they jointly and separately desire and ask for advancement, know his generosity, and find their own fulfilment in his presence.

He is an unfailing giver of fulfilment, holy and cooperative in joint action for development, destroyer of hate and enmity, strong of arms, scholar of the Vedas, accessible saviour and helper and friendly for all of you. He receives both friend and foe appropriately and realises both material and spiritual good, shines and illuminates, the leader who serves this social order and this people with effective and acceptable means and policies.

The baby's parent, the yajaka's protector and promoter, the teacher, ruler, guardian of humanity who preserves, sustains and advances whatever wealth and joy is achieved, the treasure hold of all history and tradition and intellectual and scientific progress on the march, bearing the milky food for body, mind and soul like the mother cow and forbearing earth, he goes onwards high proclaiming his knowledge and vision, the divine gift, without a wink of sleep: He is worthy of reverence.

14. Yo jāgāra tamṛcaḥ kāmayante yo jāgārah tamu sāmāni yanti. Yo jāgāra tamayaṁ soma āha tavāhamasmi sakhye nyokāḥ.

Whoever is awake, the Rks love and bless. Whoever is alert, the Samans move and elevate. Whoever is active without a wink of sleep, this soma of life's joy and ecstasy addresses and says: O seeker and yajaka, I am for you, a friend and shelter home.

To Agni, soul of life awake, the light of Rks radiates with love. To Agni, light of life awake, the songs of Samans vibrate with love. To Agni, the fire of life aflame, the streams of nectar flow with love, and to the soul of life, the light of awareness and the fire of action, the ecstasy of life says: I am yours with love, a friend, your very haven and home.

Mandala 5/Sukta 45

Vishvedeva Devata, Sadaprna Atreya Rshi

विदा दिवा विष्य ादिमुक्थरायत्या उषसा अचिना गुः। अपावृत व्रजिनीरुत्स्वर्गाद्वि दुरा मानुषीदव आवः ॥ १ ॥

1. Vidā divo viṣyann-adrim-ukthair-āyatyā uṣaso arcino guḥ. Apāvṛta vrajinīrut svargād vi duro mānuṣīrdeva āvaḥ.

Brilliant sages with holy songs of adoration worship the self-refulgent Lord and break the cloud of ignorance. In consequence, the dawn of light follows, dispels the nights of darkness, and then the refulgent sun of divine knowledge opens the doors of human reason and intelligence with knowledge.

वि सूया अमतिं न श्रियं सादावाद गवां माता जानती गात। धन्वणसा नद्यः खादाअणाः स्थूणाव सुमिता दृंहत द्याः ॥ २ ॥

2. Vi sūryo amatiṁ na śriyaṁ sādorvād gavāṁ mātā jānatī gāt. Dhanvarṇaso nadyaḥ khādo arṇāḥ sthūṇeva sumitā dṛṁhata dyauḥ.

The sun takes on the refulgent form of beauty like the grace of divinity, and from the vast heavens, the dawn, mother of light rays, goes forward revealing the beauty of the world. Streams and rivers, charming bright and refreshing, flow rushing on to the sea. The regions of light rise on, expansive like a measured column of the day's sustenance.

(The mantra is a metaphor, in continuation of the previous mantra, of the expansion of the light of knowledge and onward flow of life.)

अस्मा उक्थाय पर्वतस्य गर्भा महीनां जनुषे पूर्व्याय। वि पर्वता जिहीत साधत द्यारविवासन्ता दसयन्त भूम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Asmā ukthāya parvatasya garbho mahīnāṁ januṣe pūrvyāya. Vi parvato jihīta sādhata dyaur-āvivāsanto dasayanta bhūma.

In honour of this adorable ancient sun, cause of the birth of planets and the cloud, and for the fertility of the earths, the vapours leave the cloud to rain in showers. Let us too, high shining like the sun, realising the light of knowledge, illuminating all around, giving in charity, eliminating evil, realise ourselves.

4. Sūktebhirvo vacobhir-devajuṣṭair-indrā nvagnī avase huvadhyai. Ukthebhirhi ṣmā kavayaḥ suyajñā āvivāsanto maruto yajanti.

With unambiguous holy words approved by scholars and loved and used by divine brilliancies, we study and experiment with Indra and Agni for the invocation and achievement of electric energy and fire power for protection and progress, just as, with the same holy words, for all time, poetic men of vision and imagination and dynamic scientists engaged in creative and productive joint works, shining and illuminating in the pursuit of truth, work and conduct holy programmes of research for you all.

5. Eto nvadya sudhyo bhavāma pra ducchunā mina-vāmā varīyaḥ. Āre dveṣāṁsi sanutardadhāmā'-yāma prāñco yajamānamaccha.

Come ye all today, let us engage in works of vision and wisdom as intelligent holy people. Let us throw off all evil and eliminate it. Let us always keep hate and enmity far away. Let us move forward and enthusiastically join the yajamana engaged in creative and productive work for advancement.

एता धियं कृणवामा सखाया प या माताँ ऋणुत व्रजं गाः । यया मनुर्विशिशिपं जिगाय यया वणिग्वङ्कुरापा पुरीषम ॥ ६ ॥

Come friends, let us take up works of science and reason by which mother knowledge reveals and, like the dawn, opens the doors of light and power, by which the man of war and tactics wins the helmet and armour, and by which the industrious producer achieves fertile land and ample water.

Anūnodatra hastayato adrirārcan yena daśa māso navagvāḥ. Ṛtaṁ yatī saramā gā avindad viśvāni satyāṅgirāścakāra.

7. Let the priest of dexterous hand, generous like the cloud, celebrant of divinity and nature's powers, set the yajna in motion, inspiring the new generation on the move to keep the fire burning for ten months at least, and the dynamics of revelation would flow to the yajna, open the secrets of the Word and knowledge and control of mind and senses, and vibrant men of initiative would enact projects of truth and universal good.

Viśve asyā vyuṣi māhināyaḥ saṁ yad gobhiraṅgiraso navanta. Utsa āsāṁ parame sadhastha ṛtasya pathā saramā vidad gāḥ.

8. When on the rise of this glorious dawn the Angiras, vibrant scholars and sages dedicated to yajnic divinity, meet and rejoice with the rays of light, then, the oceanic source of these rays of light being in the highest heaven, it is the radiations of Divinity on the waves of nature's vitality that transmit the revelations of light and knowledge and bless the yajnic seekers.

9. Ā suryo yatu saptāśvaḥ kṣetraṁ yadasyorviyā dirghayāthe. Raghuḥ ṣyenaḥ patayad-andho acchā yuvā kavirdīdayad goṣu gacchan.

Let the sun, commanding seven horses of its spectrum lights, come to the earthly part of its domain like a flying courser, a hawk-like harbinger of nectar, dispelling darkness, and ripening food with its light and heat, and let it shine, an unaging youth, a visionary creator and inspirer, going over lands and planets on the long course of its orbit in space.

So may the light of the Spirit descend into the earthly form of the body of five elements and five senses, mind and intelligence, and illuminate the individual personality of the soul to keep it a youthful visionary and self-inspiring poet, creatively playing around with the mind and senses, dispelling the darkness of ignorance and ripening the existential potential of its nature, across the world of five elements, and ahankara and mahan modes of nature, for its advancement over its eternal course.

10. Ā sūryo aruhac-chukram-arṇo'yukta yaddharito vītaprṣṭhāḥ. Udgā na nāvam-anayanta dhīrā āśṛṇvatīr-āpo arvāg-atiṣṭhan.

When the sun yokes its far ranging rays of spectrum light to its chariot, it rises over the bright and lustrous ocean of spatial waters, and its intelligent and well directed horses carry it over the orbit like the constant waves of the sea carrying a boat, with the result that the overflowing waters stand around listening and raining down in showers. Similarly when the self-luminous soul yokes the five senses, the five pranas and the mind and intelligence to its purpose of action in yoga yajna, it rises over the bright and blazing world of existence, the seven lights of natural powers, perceptive and well directed by the soul in the state of constancy, carry it over the waters around waiting for its orders, and the soul reaches its destination where it joins the Divine.

11. Dhiyaṁ vo apsu dadhiṣe svarṣāṁ yayātaran daśa māso navagvāḥ. Ayā dhiyā syāma devagopā ayā dhiyā tuturyāmātyaṁhaḥ.

O divinities of nature and humanity, I pray, I may absorb into my pranic energies and actions that blissful intelligence of your gift by which the rising souls on the move cross the seas over ten months. May we, by this, be protectors and promoters of our sages and our divine nature. May we, by this, cross the seas over sin and evil.

Like a trained horse on the new path, the man of knowledge takes on a new programme, voluntarily. I too carry on the new programme which is protective, defensive and progressive. I do not want it abandoned, nor do I have anything reserved or secret about it, and further, only a scholar pioneer and leader advancing on the path of rectitude would take men and leaders forward.

Agni, O brilliant power of light, fire and knowledge, may Indra, powers of honour and excellence, Varuna, chosen powers of justice and goodness, Mitra, friends, devas, noble powers of nature and humanity, Vishnu, universal lover of life all over, Maruts, leaders of the force and speed of the winds, create strength and courage and bestow it on us. O Ashvins, cooperative powers of truth and rectitude of behaviour, Rudra, powers of justice and punishment, and voices of scholars and sages, Pusha, power of nourishment and vitality, Bhaga, creator of honour and prosperity and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge, listen to our voice.

I invoke and study, for the benefit of protection and progress, heat, light and electricity, prana and udana energies of vitality, the atmosphere and the sky, the sun and higher regions of light, air and winds, clouds and mountains, waters and other liquids, all pervasive space, vitality of vyana energy, spirit of the universe, universal power and prosperity, creative energy of the universe, and all their positive and beneficial attributes and practical applications.

And may the experts and specialists, and the Ashvins, complementarities of natural evolution, and the maker of forms and sophisticated designs, all with their skill and power and knowledge enlighten and train us in arts and crafts for the achievement of life's wealth and honour.

And may Brhaspati, father and ruler of the wide world, Pusha, giver of nourishment and sustenance, Varuna, highest leader of our choice, Mitra, friendly and loving as breath of life, and Aryama, lord of justice and correctitude grant us peace, joy and progress worthy of a happy home.

of all, come to us with universal strength and protection, and may Aditi, inviolable Mother Nature of unbounded generosity respond to our invocation and prayer and bless us all.

May all these divinities and nobilities of the earth and of the oceans and celestial waters of space, constant in their holy tasks, ever responsive to our prayer give us peace and felicity of home and family.

cool of waters, and the cycle of seasons respond. May mother ruler, mother leader, health care matrons, fertility of women, scholars of earth, heavens and oceans, be kind and responsive to our progress.

प्रयुञ्जती दिव एति बुवाणा मही माता दुहितुर्बोधयन्ती।
आविर्वासन्ती युवतिर्मनीषा पितृभ्य आ सदने जहुर्वाना॥ १॥

1. Prayuñjatī diva eti bruvāṇā mahī mātā duhiturbodhayantī. Āvivāsantī yuvatirmanīṣā pitṛbhya ā sadane johuvānā.

Great and glorious mother arises in all her youthful splendour from the lights of heaven and, invoked, invited and adored on the vedi, she comes with radiations of light and intelligence collected from the nourishing and sustaining divinities of nature and humanity, awakening, enlightening, speaking loud and bold, and preparing the daughter for life in the home with knowledge and wisdom. (The Dawn is mother, the earth is daughter.)

(The mother of the home, and the mother teacher in the school, is great and adorable as a human deity because, having collected her knowledge and wisdom from her parents and teachers, she arises like the dawn of light and prepares the daughter for intelligent living in an enlightened home.)

2. Ajirāsastadapa īyamānā ātasthivāṁso amṛtasya nābhim. Anantāsa uravo viṣvataḥ sīṁ pari dyāvāpṛthivī yanti panthāḥ.

The radiations of the light of the dawn, as the actions of wise and brilliant parents and teachers, abiding in the centre of immortal eternity and flowing therefrom, move all round fast and ceaseless, vast and endless, on their paths across and over heaven and earth.

उ ग्मा समुदा अरुषः सुपर्णः पूर्वस्य यानिं पितुरा विवेश। मध्ये दिवो निहितः पृश्निरश्मा वि चक्रमे रजसस्पात्यन्तौ॥ ३॥

3. Ukṣā samudro aruṣaḥ suparṇaḥ pūrvasya yoniṁ piturā viveśa. Madhye divo nihitaḥ pṛśniraśmā vi cakrame rajasaspātyantau.

The mighty deep and generous ocean of waters, the blazing sustainer bird of space, the sun, enters in the spatial womb of its mother, divine Nature, fertilized by the original and eternal father creator. Placed in the midst of the heavens of light like a multicolour diamond, it traverses on and on, lights up, sustains and marks the expansive ends of the upper and lower strata of the sphere of heaven.

4. Catvāra īṁ bibhrati kṣemayanto daśa garbhaṁ carase dhāpayante. Tridhātavaḥ paramā asya gāvo divaścaranti pari sadyo antān.

The directions of space, receiving the sustaining light and warmth of life, bear it up. Ten directions of space feed the world they hold as a baby to keep it going. The rays of the sun radiate from the highest region of light and fill the threefold world of sattva, rajas and tamas, heaven, firmament and the earth, reaching all round to the borders of it almost instantly.

5. Idaṁ vapur-nivacanaṁ janāsaścaranti yannadyastasthurāpaḥ. Dve yadīṁ bibhṛto māturanye iheha jāte yamyā sabandhū.

Just as rivers hold and celebrate the flowing waters, so do people revere and adore this refulgent sun of wondrous form which two twin sisters, day and night, born of the same mother, hold and nurse the same one brother though born of another mother.

6. Vi tanvate dhiyo asmā apāṁsi vastrā putrāya mātaro vayanti. Upaprakṣe vṛṣaṇo modamānā divaspathā vadhvo yantyaccha.

Celebrants compose songs of adoration from their heart and intellect and extend yajnic homage up to this sun by the paths of light and fire just as mothers weave and sew clothes for the child and joyous wives eagerly move to join their generous husbands.

7. Tadastu mitrāvaruṇā tadagne śaṁ yorasmabhyamidamastu śastam. Aśīmahi gādhamuta pratiṣṭhāṁ namo dive bṛhate sādanāya.

O Mitra and Varuna, lord of love and judgement, sun and the sea, day and night, mother and father, prana and udana energies, O Agni, yajna fire purifier, revered teacher, teacher pioneer and giver of enlightenment, may this cherished song of ours be for our peace and blessedness which is all time free from suffering and pain. May we attain a home and haven of high excellence and unshakable honour and prestige. Salutations to the great and glorious heaven of light, eternal and imperishable!

1. Kadu priyāya dhāmne manāmahe svakṣatrāya svayaśase mahe vayam. Āmenyasya rajaso yadabhra āँ apo vṛṇānā vitanoti māyinī.

When shall we all sing and celebrate in honour of our own domain, our cherished independent identity and social order, our own honour and glory, which, commanding its own power and splendour, pursuing its own policy, extends its resounding actions and waters of peace and freedom among the people, across the lands and over the clouds of immeasurable skies and spaces? When shall we think and reflect upon this?

2. Tā atnata vayunaṁ vīravakṣaṇaṁ samānyā vṛtayā viśvamā rajaḥ. Apo apācīraparā apejate pra pūrvābhistirate devayurjanaḥ.

Those acts and policies of peace and freedom provide incentives to the brave and extend knowledge and positive action programmes over the entire world of humanity, through uniform treatment and equality of law for all. A brilliant nation of vision and noble action doesn't procrastinate over the present, agitating over the past or worrying and waiting for the future, it crosses the bridges in front right away.

आ गार्वभिरहन्यभिर्क्तुभिवरिष्ठं वजमा जिघति मायिनि। शतं वा यस्य पचरन्त्स्व दमं संवतयन्ता वि च वतय्न्ना॥ ३॥

3. Ā grāvabhir-ahanyebhir-aktubhir-variṣṭhaṁ vajra-mā jighrti māyini. Śataṁ vā yasya praca-rantsve dame saṁvartayanto vi ca vartayannahā.

Ever and instantly, this nation shines and sharpens its best arms and armaments day and night with the stones (which sharpen the arms and press the soma too) or with the clouds of showers against the evil of want and suffering of ignorance, and otherwise too hundreds of its forces actively working together in their own fields spend their time moving forward in a state of readiness with a challenging spirit.

4. Tāmasya rītiṁ paraśoriva pratyanīkamakhyaṁ bhuje asya varpasaḥ. Sacā yadi pitumantamiva kṣayaṁ ratnaṁ dadhāti bharahūtaye viśe.

That character and disposition, that form and policy of its dynamic flow, that admirable force of its arms like the razor's edge, I know, is in keeping with its identity for the purpose of peace, protection and progress, and, like a comfortable home full of plenty, it holds the jewels of wealth and felicity for the people at the beck and call of the inmates.

5. Sa jihvayā caturanīka ṛñjate cāru vasāno varuṇo yatannarim. Na tasya vidma puruṣatvatā vayaṁ yato bhagaḥ savitā dāti vāryam.

The nation, the ruler, the fire, the sun, wearing a charming form, shining with forces all round in all four directions, encounters the opposing darkness with the tongue of light and flame. We know not how, with what strength and power, from where this Varuna, best and highest power of justice and wisdom, Bhaga, commanding wealth and felicity, Savita, inspiring all with exhilaration, brings and bestows on us all the cherished gifts of life, how he makes everything possible.

For you all today I love, gratefully desire and pray for favour of the brilliant and generous Savita, inspirer of light and life, Bhaga, treasure source of honour and prosperity and the loving spirit of life and living beings that showers the jewel wealth and felicity on all. O Ashvins, leading complementarities of nature powers and humanity, ruler and people, leaders and followers, men and women, parents and children, teachers and disciples, blessed participants and celebrants of life for all, I love to be friends with you and pray that I may love, cooperate and be with you day in and day out.

Sagely scholar, watch the evolution of life and energy, meditate on the self-refulgent Savita, inspirer of life, with Vedic songs of praise and prayer, and with homage and gratitude speak precisely of the supreme, the most precious felicity pervading and participating in the evolution of life, knowing well the gifts of the lord.

Aditi, eternal and infinite creative power of lord Savita's Nature, Prakrti, wears the mantle of the morning. Pusha, nature's nourishing power, and Bhaga, inexhaustible generosity, produce, promote and give the choicest gifts of food for consumption and creation of energy. Indra, catalytic radiation, Vishnu, all pervasive energy, Varuna, udana energy for evolution, Mitra, pranic energy of life, Agni, heat and light for life, all these creative and generative powers give rise to the days of light and bliss for us.

May lord Savita, creator, with his radiating energy, grant us that treasure of cherished values of hearth and home which I celebrate as organiser and achiever of yajnic production, and which the flowing rivers and swelling seas promote with love and desire in obedience to the lord. O lord, we pray, may we, blest with energy and felicity of existence, be protectors and promoters of the wealth of the world.

Let untold wealth and knowledge flow to those who offer homage and yajnic service to the Vasus, creative abodes of life and sustenance in the world of nature, and to those who raise their voice of adoration in honour of Mitra and Varuna, friendly sun and seas and all embracing space. O Vishvedevas, creative divinities, create for us wealth of exceptional order so that we may abide and enjoy under the protection of heaven and earth.

2. Ṛtadhītaya ā gata satyadharmāṇo adhvaram.
Agneḥ pibata jihvayā.

O divine scholars, radiations of nature's vitalities, observers of the laws of universal truth, followers of the truth of Dharma and the Dharma of Truth, come to our yajna of love and non-violence and scientific creation in honour of the Lord. Agni, leading light of the world, drink the joy of life by the tongues of fire.

3. Viprebhirvipra santya prātaryāvabhirā gahi.

O vipra, vibrant scholar, eminent sage of the present age, come with other scholars, with the knowledge and freshness of the morning light and breeze which stir and radiate with the dawn. Come with the divines for a drink of the soma we have distilled.

4. Ayaṁ somaścamū suto'matre pari ṣicyate.
Priya indrāya vāyave.

This soma, inspiring power and honour of the nation, reflected in the defence forces as soma is held in the charu vessel, and held in the body politic as soma is poured in the goblet, is the love and pride of Indra, ruling lord, and Vayu, tempestuous defence forces.

Just as rivers flow downwards to the seas, so the sweetness and decency of the soma of human values and culture distilled with effort and cooperative action flow to Indra and Vayu, the strong and the progressive.

Agni, giver of health and knowledge, come together with the light of the sun as in the changing months and seasons, come with the generosity of the abodes of life such as earth, come with the breath of life and glow of health, come with the force and freshness of the winds, come to the world of joint human yajna like one free from threefold ailments of body, mind and spirit, rejoice and proclaim your message of health and energy loud and bold.

May Bhaga, lord of glory, bless us with peace and honour. May the eternal imperishable Mother Nature and indivisible Vedic revelation of omniscience bless the independent scholars with peace and spiritual joy and vision. May the nourishment and showers of the life-giving cloud bring us peace and joy. And may the heaven and earth bless us with peace of mind, joy of knowledge and spiritual illumination.

Let us pray to the Lord of the expansive universe and honour the head of all the world communities for our peace and progress. 1. Pra śyāvāśva dhṛṣṇuyā'rcā marudbhir-ṛkvabhiḥ.
Ye adrogham-anuṣvadhaṁ śravo madanti yajñiyāḥ.

O bold yajaka, riding the spectrum flames of holy fire, honour and celebrate those divinities worthy of reverence and homage who exult with electric vitalities of the winds and vibrancy of dynamic people without hate and jealousy within the laws of nature and their own potential, and who accept the homage and spontaneously respond according to nature.

Bold and brilliant, they are friends and constant companions of the strong among the stable minded people, and on the highways of life they, sincerely and spontaneously, protect and promote the brave and resolute always without fail.

3. Te spandrāso nokṣaṇo'ti ṣkandanti śarvarīḥ.

Streaming and overflowing with generosity like the cloud and the sun, they shower the nights and dawns of twilight with showers of rain and dew. We admire and celebrate the grandeur, potential and forbearance of the winds on the heights of heaven and the strength and stability of vibrant people in the brilliance of humanity.

For you all, let us admire and honour all those of you and hold them among the Maruts as children of stormy winds and rays of light who protect our songs of praise and prayer and promote the flames and fragrance of yajna throughout human history and save humanity from violence with strength and determination.

Honour and admire those leading lights who are deservingly meritorious and commanding, generously charitable, strong and determined, loving and brilliant, and who dedicate their songs and yajna to the dynamic Maruts among humanity worthy of reverence.

6. Ā rukmairā yudhā nara ṛṣvā ṛṣṭīrasṛkṣata. Anvenāň aha vidyuto maruto jajjhatīriva bhānurarta tmanā divaḥ.

While the leading lights and mighty warriors with blazing arms launch the attack upon the enemy, then, for sure, upon the heels of these tempestuous forces and shining leaders the light and splendour of the world follows spontaneously like roaring streams of water.

The heroes of the earth who rise in honour and glory, the winds and currents of lightning energy in the wide wide skies, or the roaring waters flowing in the river beds and around, or the splendour of the regions of light, these are the Maruts worthy of honour and celebration with homage.

8. Śardho mārutamucchaṁsa satyaśavasam-ṛbhvasam. Uta sma te śubhe naraḥ pra spandrā yujata tmanā.

Honour and celebrate the strength and courage of humanity, admire and value the honest wisdom and rectitude of the scientist and the expert. O leading lights and brave pioneers of the human nation, moving forward with steadiness and dignity, join the onward march of humanity for a noble divine purpose. Join it conscientiously, honestly, without reservation.

And they, the Maruts, leading lights and warriors, self-secure on the tortuous paths of existence, shining bright and pure, with their valour and wheels of the chariot ride the clouds and shatter the mountains.

Leaders of knowledge and advancement, sometimes they carry the burdens by themselves, sometimes appointed as a team in cooperation with others, and sometimes stationed far away: thus their forms and functions are various, wondrous, beautiful and beatific.

12. Chandaḥ stubhaḥ kubhanyava utsamā kīriṇo nṛtuḥ. Te me ke cinna tāyava ūmā āsan dṛśi tviṣe.

Poetic celebrities, some of them, thirsting for self-expression, burst out in lyrics and sing and dance in divine ecstasy from the depth of the heart. Some of them like streams profusely flowing for us are protectors and saviours, and some of them shine in the sight of the beholder because shine they must by nature.

Those who are great and strong, formidable scholars of science, of heat, light and electric energy, poetic visionaries, writers and singers, and sages of the sacred love: for that class of dynamic leaders and path finders, O Rshi, seer, sage and scholar, offer reverence and homage and, with the celebrant's words of praise and appreciation, give them the feel of the joy and holiness of their vocation.

14. Accha ṛṣe mārutaṁ gaṇaṁ dānā mitraṁ na yoṣaṇā. Divo vā dhṛṣṇava ojasā stutā dhībhir-iṣaṇyata.

Just as a maiden goes to her chosen friend and love, so, O Rshi, sagely seer and scholar, with gifts of homage, go reverentially to the congregation of the Maruts, dynamic scholars, leaders and divinities of the world. O Maruts, brilliant as light, loving, bold and determined, blazing with splendour, celebrated by the wise and visionaries, come, hasten to our yajna and receive our homage.

15. Nū manvāna eṣāṁ devāň acchā na vakṣaṇā.
Dānā saceta sūribhir-yāmaśrutebhir-añjibhiḥ.

As the stream flows and meets the sea, so should the man of thought and reverence eagerly meet the Maruts, brilliant and divine natures in humanity, with gifts of homage and associate with the wise and brave, celebrated and gracious scholars, leaders and path makers who are well versed in law and the ethics of conduct.

I meet, associate, and write with the Maruts, those leading lights wise and brave who speak to me as to a friend and brother in search of human and divine bonding. Mighty powerful are they who speak to me of the Holy Word, of heat and light of the sun, the earth and the cow. They speak of the rainbow skies and spaces, and of Mother Nature, and then they reveal to me the omnipresent omnipotent Father and Rudra, lord of justice and mercy.

17. Sapta me sapta śākina ekamekā śatā daduḥ. Yamunāyāmadhi śrutamud rādho gavyaṁ mṛje ni rādho aśvyaṁ mṛje.

Seven and seven are the Maruts, wise and brave, and each one of them gives me a hundred gifts of knowledge, will and strength for action, and love of life and divine worship. What I have heard comprehensively on yama and niyama, ethics of conduct in social and personal life, and on the subject of success regarding earthly life (abhyudaya), and the philosophy of attainment and ultimate destination and arrival (nihshreyas), I specify and refine for practical application and success in the earthly situation and in relation to the ultimate freedom of Moksha in the personal psychic and spiritual situation.

Who knows the origin of these Maruts? Who was present in the peace and pleasure of the Maruts? Whoever concentrates the mind, meditates on their presence, and joins them, and then has the clear and specific language to describe them, knows these stormy powers.

4. Ye añjiṣu ye vāśīṣu svabhānavaḥ srakṣu rukmeṣu khādiṣu. Śrāyā ratheṣu dhanvasu.

The people who are innately brilliant, who shine in their open works and achievements, in their speech and expression, in garlands of applause in series of action programmes, in their golds and jewels of honour, and who ride pioneering chariots of nations and resound in the twang of their bow: they are the Maruts.

The treasure wealth of holy vapours, which the generous leading lights of the science of yajna cause to move from the regions of sunlight for the generous creators and givers of food and energy, shower down to the earth and skies: The skies then form the clouds and let them rain down on the earth and the floods move as directed over the thirsty lands.

(This mantra is on the science of rain and irrigation which can further be explained with reference to Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4, 1 to 5, 8, 2, and Gita 3, 14-16.)

Released and freely flowing, soaking and breaking the lands with the flood, the rivers flow over and on, irrigating the lands like mother cows feeding the people. Like horses they go on covering and leaving their track behind, the streams revolve as they go on in their circular course of yajna.

May the wind and vapour, blowing, flowing and refreshing for human habitations never be still. May everything, every force of the Maruts, on the earth and in the environment be for your comfort and well being. Let nothing hold you back.

1. Pra śardhāya mārutāya svabhānava imāṁ vācamanajā parvatacyute. Gharmastubhe diva ā pṛṣṭhayajvane dyumnaśravase mahi nṛmṇa-marcata.

For the self-refulgent force and power of the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, offer this song of adoration. And for the renowned yajaka who lights and feeds the fire to adore the divinities of nature through yajna on the heights, moves the clouds and brings the showers, offer gifts of human wealth of high value with songs of praise and appreciation. Loving scholars value the gifts of divinity from the lights of heaven.

2. Pra vo marutas-taviṣā udanyavo vayovṛdho aśva-yujaḥ parijrayaḥ. Saṁ vidyutā dadhati vāśati tritaḥ svarantyāpo'vanā parijrayaḥ.

O Maruts of sky and space, your powerful currents of wind laden with vapours, bearers of food, energy and healthful age for living beings, going all round on the wings of electric energy, take on the thunder of lightning roaring as trinity of wind, water and lightning, and the waters shower over the earth everywhere as harbingers of food and health for all.

3. Vidyunmahaso naro aśmadidyavo vātatviṣo marutaḥ parvatacyutaḥ. Abdayā cinmuhurā hrādunīvṛtaḥ stanayadamā rabhasā udojasaḥ.

O leading lights of humanity, know that the Maruts command the mighty electric energy in the skies, light up the thunder, energise the winds and break the clouds. Blazing with splendour, ferocious with force, roaring with thunder, they wear the rumble of spatial boom shaking the mountains and burst in floods of incessant rain.

4. Vyaktūn rudrā vyahāni śikvaso vyantarikṣaṁ vi rajāṁsi dhūtayaḥ. Vi yadajrāň ajatha nāva īṁ yathā vi durgāṇi maruto nāha riṣyatha.

O potent Maruts, mighty blazing and roaring powers of cosmic winds, Rudras, breakers and makers of things, you shake the nights and days in and out, you shake the skies and atmosphere, you move the particles of matter and pass over regions as the ship sails over the sea. You break open the strongholds of nature and yet you never hurt nor destroy.

5. Tad vīryaṁ vo maruto mahitvanaṁ dīrghaṁ tatāna sūryo na yojanam. Etā na yāme agṛbhītaśociṣo'naśvadāṁ yannyayātanā girim.

That lustre and splendour of yours, that extensive grandeur of yours radiates like the light and gravitation of the sun. Incomprehensible is the course of your radiations of energy which penetrates even the dark and densest clouds and mountains which are otherwise impenetrable.

O Maruts, leading lights of nature and humanity, commanders of strength, creativity and intelligence, your power and splendour is apparent as it shines since, like a storm, it shakes the flood and the forest. O friends and comrades, guide our activity relentlessly in motion onward on the straight and right path just as the eye shows the path to the traveller and helps him to move on and makes it easy for him to follow.

7. Na sa jīyate maruto na hanyate na sredhati na vyathate na riṣyati. Nāsya rāya upa dasyanti notaya ṛṣiṁ vā yaṁ rājānaṁ vā suṣūdatha.

O Maruts, divine powers of nature and brilliant leading lights of humanity, the person you protect and guide, mature, refine and temper is never overcome, nor killed, nor decays, fears or falls, nor hurts anyone. Nor do his powers, honours and excellence, defences and protections ever deplete and exhaust. Indeed, the person grows in knowledge as a sage and shines bright in splendour as a leader and ruler.

8. Niyutvanto grāmajito yathā naro 'ryamaṇo na marutaḥ kavandhinaḥ. Pinvantyutsaṁ yadināso asvaran vyundanti pṛthivīṁ madhvo andhasā.

Great organisers, winners of multitudes and human habitations like leading lights, makers of men and dispensers of justice on the paths of life, the Maruts are reservoirs of vitality and exhilaration like the clouds of living waters and freshness of breeze. And when the mighty forces set out in motion, whistling, roaring, thundering, they fill the rivers, lakes and oceans over and surfeit the earth with honey sweets of food and energy for the joy of life.

9. Pravatvatīyaṁ pṛthivī marudbhyaḥ pravatvatī dyaurbhavati prayadbhyaḥ. Pravatvatīḥ pathyā antarikṣyāḥ pravatvantaḥ parvatā jīradānavaḥ.

The wide world of abundant ways opens and clears its highways for the Maruts, adventurers who move like winds. The heaven of light extends all her expansive spaces for those who fly. The regions of the skies open up their paths for the winds, and the life giving clouds and mountains open up their depths and caverns for the heroes of initiative and adventure.

10. Yanmarutaḥ sabharasaḥ svarṇaraḥ sūrya udite madathā divo naraḥ. Na vo'śvā śrathayantāha sisrataḥ sadyo asyādhvanaḥ pāramaśnutha.

O Maruts, leading lights of the love of life and joy of heaven, you bear the burdens of life together for all and lead them all to celestial joy and the truth of Dharma. You feel delighted and celebrate the sunrise, and never do your horses in harness relent, but galloping on at high speed reach the destined end of this existential highway.

O Maruts, warriors of the winds for humanity, on your shoulders are blazing lances, at your feet your assistants, on your chests are shining corselets, on your chariot are flames of the purity of fire, in your hands are flashes of lightning, and on your heads are protective golden helmets. Victory is assured.

O Maruts, leading celebrants of action and Divinity, like a master of his own freedom in the laws of Truth and Divinity, shake the tree of existence by your noble action, bring down the balance sheet of your fruits of karma to Zero and win that rewarding state of ultimate freedom and bliss, void of suffering, beyond comprehension, which is pure ineffable refulgence of Divinity. Winding up their tally of karma, dismantling their fortifications, shining in the light divine, waxing in their search for Truth, when the celebrants raise the chant of Aum, they declare the victory and rest at the end of the road.

13. Yuṣmādattasya maruto vicetaso rāyaḥ syāma rathyo vayasvataḥ. Na yo yucchati tiṣyo yathā divo'sme rāranta marutaḥ sahasriṇam.

O Maruts, leading lights of wisdom and vision for humanity, masters of discriminative knowledge, travelling by radiations of Divinity in the mind, let us, we pray, be masters of the life-giving wealth of light divine given by you. O Maruts, bless us with that wealth of thousandfold value which decays not but shines like a star of heaven for ever.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, you protect and promote the heroic wealth, honour and excellence of the nation with her heroes. You revere, protect and promote the sage who chants the hymns of Samaveda in celebration of humanity and Divinity. You bear and bring the food, energy and the speed of progress for the maintenance of life on the globe, and you hold and maintain the harmonious, dynamic and glorious social order on earth.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity and generous divinities of nature, instant givers of protection and all round support, listen and accept this holy voice of mine: I feel blest with that wealth of yours by which we can promote the life of humanity as in a heaven of bliss on earth, and by which we would live a happy life over a hundred years with strength and success.

And let the chariots roll on with the blazing pioneers and with their might and splendour traverse the skies and spaces.

down from the sky, so you inspire the people, energise the earth, shake up the clouds and bring the showers of prosperity from the seas and spaces. O wondrous workers and generous leaders, the fertilities of nature, sunlight, earths and cows never desert you, nor ever exhaust for you. 1. Agne śardhantamā gaṇaṁ piṣṭaṁ rukmebhir-añjibhiḥ. Viśo adya marutāmava hvaye divaścid rocanādadhi.

Agni, ruler of the land, today I call upon the most daring troop of the Maruts, commandos of the nation decorated with golden honours of rainbow brilliancy from amongst the most shining and intelligent defence forces of the country.

यथा चिन्मन्यस हृदा तदिन्म जग्मुराशसः।

As you believe at heart that they are such and honour them sincerely, so they would instantly come closest to you and to your expectations in response to your call. Then encourage and promote them, they are just pictures of terror for the enemies.

3. Mīḷhuṣmatīva pṛthivī parāhatā madantyetyasmadā. Ṛkṣo na vo marutaḥ śimīvāṅ amo dudhro gauriva bhīmayuḥ.

Like a youthful woman wedded to a virile husband, the earth, unhurt and rejoicing, comes to us for protection, defence and promotion. O Maruts, youthful warrior defenders of the land, like a shooting star is your force, strong, unchallengeable, and terrible as a mighty bull.

The Maruts are those heroes who rush forth with their valour and splendour, throw off the yoke like untamable bulls and scatter the enemy forces, and with their advances shake up resounding mountains and break up thundering clouds.

O ruler, O citizen, rise up with joy and confidence, for, as we call in or call out of the stalls a herd of cows, so I call upon and arouse the ancient and abundant host of these mighty Maruts exalted by songs of praise.

O warriors and engineers, use the red flames of fire for moving the chariot like red horses, use the collected and stored solar energy, use the fast moving impulsion and expulsion, and use the strongest accelerative force to carry the load and move the chariot to the destination.

And now, O Maruts, adventurers and explorers of the earth, that volatile, wondrous and vociferous energy of red flames is here used in the chariot. It would not delay you any more in your advancement. Ignite and accelerate it in the chariots.

8. Rathaṁ nu mārutaṁ vayaṁ śravasyumā huvāmahe. Ā yasmin tasthau suraṇāni bibhratī sacā marutsu rodasī.

We call up and ready in harness the stormy and resounding chariot of the Maruts in which both earth and the heavens treasuring many adorable energy prizes join with the Maruts in a bond of friendship.

I admire that force and power of your chariot, shining, adorable and good for the chariot, in which are exalted the generous earth-and-heaven energies, nobly manifested and beneficent in abundance as friends of the Maruts.

Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

आ रुदास इन्दवन्तः सजाषसा हिरण्यरथाः सुविताय गन्तन। इयं वा अस्मत्पतिं हयत मतिस्तृष्णाज न दिव उत्सा उदन्यव ॥ १ ॥

1. Ā rudrāsa indravantaḥ sajoṣaso hiraṇyarathāḥ suvitāya gantana. Iyaṁ vo asmat prati haryate matis-tṛṣṇaje na diva utsā udanyave.

O Rudras, powers of justice, rectitude and dispensation, commanding honour, power and excellence of the world, loving kind and friendly, going by golden chariots of glory with gifts of good fortune, prosperity and well being for all, this love, desire, understanding and prayer of us all is addressed to you: Come like a wave of divine nectar for the thirsty waiting for a drink on the shore.

वाशीमन्त ऋष्टिमन्ता मनीषिणः सुधन्वान इषुमन्ता निषङ्गिणः। स्वश्वाः स्थ सुरथाः पृश्निमातरः स्वायुधा मरुता याथना शुभम॥ २॥

O Maruts, tempestuous heroes of the world, children of the essence of nature in love with the earth, you are blest with the voice of thunder, light of knowledge, wisdom and understanding of the speed of mind, mighty bows, unfailing arrows and inexhaustible quivers, noble steeds and excellent chariots and the best arms and armaments. Go forward, noble heroes, and do good to all.

O Maruts, children of the firmament, winds and tempests of nature's energy, you agitate the regions of light, break the clouds and shake the mountains to create wealth for the generous giver. At your approach forests shake with fear and the earth vibrates when in a state of passion for water showers you join and charge the clouds of vapour.

4. Vātatviṣo maruto varṣanirṇijo yamā iva susadṛśaḥ supeśasaḥ. Piśaṅgāśvā aruṇāśvā arepasaḥ pratvakṣaso mahinā dyaurivoravaḥ.

The Maruts command the fury and splendour of the winds. Cleansed and anointed by holy water, they replete the showers of love and justice all the year round. They are highly impressive and handsome in body and mind as self-controlled people are. They command the moderate yellow as well as the intense red flames of the yajnic fires of life's dynamics. Untouched by sinful involvements, refined and discriminative in thought and judgement, they are refulgent like the sun and large-hearted like space by virtue of their innate greatness.

5. Purudrapsā añjimantaḥ sudānavas-tveṣasaṁ-dṛśo anavabhrarādhasaḥ. Sujātāso januṣā rukma-vakṣaso divo arkā amṛtaṁ nāma bhejire.

Universally generous like the perennial stream of soma and showers of nature's joy, versatile of form and action as light in spectrum colours, holy and vastly charitable, they see the reality in all its variety of true colours as light reveals the real forms without screen effects. Commanding imperishable wealth, power and competence in their own right by birth and genetic merit of previous karma, they wear their beauty and regality of life and conduct in their heart and hands. Loving, brilliant and adorable, the Maruts define, deserve, serve and thus justify the name and description: Immortal.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, on your shoulders you bear the blazing lances and the burdens of forbearance with courage and splendour of life, while the force of action is concentrated in your hands. On your heads you carry the care and comfort of humanity with the arms and ammunitions of protection and progress in your chariots. Indeed, the entire wealth and honour, beauty and grace of life reflects in your body and personality.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity, generous divinities of nature, indomitable powers of love and justice, give us the wealth of lands, cows and the revealing language of knowledge bright as sun rays. Give us the force of noble heroes equipped with fast transport and uninterrupted communications. Give us wealth and competence for success with the beauty and graces of culture. Promote our power and prestige so that we may share and participate in your human protection and divine evolution to the grace of freedom and immortality.

O Maruts, leading lights of humanity and divinities of nature, commanders of unbounded wealth, honour and excellence, immortal souls, learned sages of the laws of nature and time, world renowned voices of truth, poetic visionaries young beyond aging and debility, diviners into the infinite Word and world languages, heroes of universal generosity and generative vitality, bless us with wealth of the world, peace of mind and everlasting grace.

Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

1. Tamu nūnaṁ taviṣīmantameṣāṁ stuṣe gaṇaṁ mārutaṁ navyasīnām. Ya āśvaśvā amavad vahanta uteśire amṛtasya svarājaḥ.

I admire the blazing, tempestuous group of these Maruts, modern self governing people who, possessed of the fastest transports and communications, move like storms, a very picture of velocity, and, shining and self-controlled, dominate over the regions of the immortals.

2. Tveṣaṁ gaṇaṁ tavasaṁ khādihastaṁ dhunivrataṁ māyinaṁ dātivāram. Mayobhuvo ye amitā mahitvā vandasva vipra tuvirādhaso nṝn.

O sagely scholar, admire and exalt that group of leading lights, brave, generous and dexterous of hand, enthusiastically committed to noble causes, wondrous workers abundantly charitable, who are versatile achievers without reserve or bounds by virtue of their own innate strength and expertise and who are a tremendous source of peace and prosperity.

3. Ā vo yantūdavāhāso adya vṛṣṭiṁ ye viśve maruto junanti. Ayaṁ yo agnīrmarutaḥ samiddha etaṁ juṣadhvaṁ kavayo yuvānaḥ.

O Maruts, eminent leaders and pioneers, may all those winds of the firmament come to you to-day in this yajna which bear the clouds and impel the rain showers. O leading scholars and scientists, poetic visionaries and youthful researchers, lighted is this fire, come and take it over for the rain yajna.

4. Yūyaṁ rājānamiryaṁ janāya vibhvataṣṭaṁ janayathā yajatrāḥ. Yuṣmadeti muṣṭihā bāhujūto yuṣmat sadaśvo marutaḥ suvīraḥ.

O Maruts, leading lights of the nation, holy performers meeting and working together for yajnic development, you create the inspiring ruler who is an architect of the nation. From you arises the administrator of strong hand and will. From you arise the warriors of strong arms, and from you arises the brave man, the hero who commands the army, the cavalry and the flying force for the people.

5. Arā ivedacaramā aheva prapra jāyante akavā mahobhiḥ. Pṛśneḥ putrā upamāso rabhiṣṭhāḥ svayā matyā marutaḥ saṁ mimikṣu.

Like the spokes of a wheel in motion, together, undivided, equal and integrated, whole, generative, the Maruts rise anew like days on and on with their power and forces. Children of mother earth, firmament and radiations of sunlight, strongest and most eminent, with their own perception, understanding, dedication and determination, they analyse, catalyse, integrate and generate new ideas, forces, institutions and traditions, all renewed and revitalised.

By their motive forces and chariots equipped with strong wheels of initiative and advancement, the Maruts proceed with showers of new life as leaders and pioneers of a new age, and as they proceed, the dormant vapours of life agitate with new ferment and join the rays of the sun, the cloud roars with thunder and lightning and the earth receives the showers of new life.

As the Maruts proceed, the earth waxes with desire and fertility. Like the husband man, the Maruts shower their own vitality on earth as the seed of new life. Thus do the Maruts, forces of new life, generative and enlightened, commanding power and judgement, yoke new winds and motive forces to the chariot of life and move the wheels of history forward with the shower of their own sweat of the brow.

8. Haye naro maruto mṛḷatā nastuvīmaghāso amṛtā ṛtajñāḥ. Satyaśrutaḥ kavayo yuvāno bṛhadgirayo bṛhadukṣamāṇāḥ.

O Maruts, leading lights of history, be kind and gracious and rejoice with us. You command the grandeur of life's wealth, honour and excellence. You are the immortal spirit of humanity, observers of Law and Truth, renowned and blest with the Revelation of Truth, poetic visionaries, ever young and modern, masters of universal voice and blest with the spirit of renewal and regeneration.

Adore and exalt those who are close to you, who do good and observe truth and law in their character, conduct and action for you, for your welfare, for the generous, and for the earth, the firmament and the regions of light. They energise the motive forces, radiate their light and lustre upto the regions of space and attain their ends by the seas.

2. Amādeṣāṁ bhiyasā bhūmirejati naurna pūrṇā kṣarati vyathiryatī. Dūredṛśo ye citayanta emabhir-antarmahe vidathe yetire naraḥ.

By the power and force of these Maruts, the earth trembles with fear and, like an overloaded boat going over the sea, shakes in agitation under pressure. Seen from far, they are known by their movements and, leading lights as they are, they go forward in the great battle business of life and its organisation.

3. Gavamiva śriyase śṛṅgamuttamaṁ sūryo na cakṣū rajaso visarjane. Atyā iva subhvaścāravaḥ sthana maryā iva śriyase cetathā naraḥ.

For the beauty of the regions of the earth, you are like the highest peak of mountain ranges. In the shower of vapour and in the clearance of mists, you are like the sun, eye of the world. You are handsome and excellent like race horses, and, O leaders and pioneers, you shine like rays of the sun for the glory of humanity.

4. Ko vo mahānti mahatāmudaśnavat kaskāvyā marutaḥ ko ha pauṁsyā. Yūyaṁ ha bhūmiṁ kiraṇaṁ na rejatha pra yad bharadhve suvitāya dāvane.

O Maruts, leading lights of the world, you are great. Who can reach your grandeur and achievements? Who can realise your divine vision and imaginative creations? O virile heroes, who can approach your power and potential? You illuminate the earth as sun beams and even shake it like particles of dust, while you rain down showers of generosity as gifts for the charity and welfare of the people.

O Maruts, leading lights of the world, sanguine and bold, you are ever going forward like horses on the course, uninterrupted. Brotherly and friendly toward all equally, fighting like warriors for all, you are always struggling for a better world. Rising and growing like mortal life forms, you are evolving continuously. And with the torrents of rain you dim the blazing light of the sun in mist.

6. Te ajyeṣṭhā akaniṣṭhāsa udbhido'madhyamāso mahasā vi vāvṛdhuḥ. Sujātāso januṣā pṛśnimātaro divo maryā ā no acchā jigātana.

None highest, none lowest, none middling, among them, they are equals all, burst forth into life through layers of impediments. Nobly born by nature, children of heaven, earth and the firmament, they are mortals, humans all, who, as we wish, come to us and appreciate us all. They grow and rise by their own strength and grandeur.

They soar together like flights of birds with the innate force of their light and lustre over mighty mountain peaks across the middle regions to the bounds of expansive heaven. Commanding the two-way motion of their circuitous energy, they shake the clouds of the sky and break them into showers.

May the heaven of light and mother earth bless us and help us rise in light and generosity, peace and joy. May the dawns, wonderful givers, join us and help us to rise in beauty and grace of life. O Rshi, lord of universal vision, may these Maruts, children of the lord of justice and rectitude, sung and adored, singing and rejoicing, shower the treasure of heavenly light and joy on earth.

Mandala 5/Sukta 60

Maruts and / or Agni Maruts Devata, Shyavashva Atreya Rshi

इळे अग्निं स्ववसं नमोभिरिह प्रसत्ता वि चयत्कृतं नः । रथैरिव प्र भरे वाजयद्भिः प्रदक्षिणिन्मरुतां स्तोममृध्याम ॥ १ ॥

1. Īḷe agniṁ svavasaṁ namobhiriha prasatto vi cayat kṛtaṁ naḥ. Rathairiva pra bhare vājayad-bhiḥ pradakṣiṇin-marutāṁ stomam-ṛdhyām.

Collecting the work already done for us in the field, happy and enthusiastic, in perfect faith with relentless dedication and investments, I study and adore Agni, heat, light and electric energy, rich source of protection and progress, in order to extend the knowledge, hoping that, going round the world as if by tempestuous chariots of the winds in right order, I would raise the song of celebration in honour of the scholars and humanity. May the lord of knowledge accept and consecrate our work!

2. Ā ye tasthuḥ pṛṣatīṣu śrutāsu sukheṣu rudrā maruto ratheṣu. Vanā cidugrā jihate ni vo bhīyā pṛthivī cid rejate parvataścit.

Rudras, pranic energies of life and natural catalysis, Maruts, heat, light, electric and wind energies, which abide and energise streams and showers, which work in means of transport and comfort, and which are described in works of revelation and research, are mighty, tempestuous and blazing. O Rudras and Maruts, catalytic, integrative and regenerative energies, under your power and fear of natural law the sun-rays radiate, the forests tremble, the earth moves and shines, the clouds break and the mountains shake.

3. Parvataścinmahi vṛddho bibhāya divaścit sānu rejata svane vaḥ. Yat krīḷatha maruta ṛṣṭimanta āpa iva sadhryañco dhavadhve.

O Maruts, tempestuous energies of divine omnipotence, when you agitate, blow and flow together like streams of water—which is just your play in life—the densest cloud and the great ancient mountain cower in fear and the top bounds of the regions of light vibrate with the waves of your boundless roar.

Like eminent people nobly born in life's affluence who adorn themselves with their innate graces and golden attainments of culture and education, the Maruts, leading lights of humanity, commanding honour and excellence, riding their chariots, do great actions of truth and rectitude in their life and conduct for the beauty of human culture and grace of living as reflections of their inner self.

None highest, none lowest, all equal as brothers together, the Maruts, leading lights of life and humanity, work and grow and advance for the honour and prosperity of life and living. Their father and creator, Rudra, lord omnipotent of justice and dispensation, ever young, giver of sustenance, and mother earth and the firmament, ever abundant and generous for the Maruts through the bright days, look after them and inspire them.

O Maruts, creators of prosperity, honour and excellence, and Rudras, leading lights of justice and rectitude, and Agni, leading light of knowledge, whether you abide in the highest, or middle or the lowest regions of life and action, or in the light of heaven, establish us in right knowledge and action of the transparent order, and know of our action and homage which we offer to Divinity in our life.

O Agni, leading light, and Maruts, dynamic leaders and pioneers, blest with knowledge and wealth of the world, you abide on top of the regions of light and love by your own will and desire and bring down showers of light and wisdom. O leaders and pioneers, such as you are, movers and shakers of the negatives, and as you rejoice on the vedi with the yajakas, bring down the gift of life's wealth and beauty from over the levels of ordinary mortals for the yajamana and the creative soma yajaka.

O leading light of the world, Agni, Vaishvanara, power and passion of life, friend and associate of higher light and wisdom by virtue of your character and conduct, come rejoicing to the vedi, share and enjoy the sweets of soma, life's joy, wealth, honour and excellence in the company of the Maruts, dynamic people on the march who are pure and gracious, praise-worthy, pride of the republic, purifying, inspiring, strengthening and beautifying the world, people who love life and add to the grace of life by living well and gracefully.

16. Te no vasūni kāmyā puruścandrā riśādasaḥ.
Ā yajñiyāso vavṛttana.

Thus they, adorable benefactors, creators of good and destroyers of evil by yajna, abundant in golden gifts, may, we pray, continue to bring us the wealth and honours of excellence we desire.

O divine spirit of night and vibrations of peace, listen and, like a charioteer, for me, carry this song and words of prayer far to the regenerative lord of life.

This man of yajnic action, honour and excellence travelling by chariot straight like rays of the sun across the clouds lives in the world and reaches his destination without difficulty.

Mitra - Varuna Devata, Shrutavid Atreya Rshi

ऋतꣳ ऋतमपिहितं ध्रुवं वां सूर्यस्य यत्र विमुचन्त्यश्वान।
दश शता सह तस्थुस्तदेकं देवानां श्रेष्ठं वपुषामपश्यम ॥ १ ॥

1. Ṛtena ṛtamapihitaṁ dhruvaṁ vāṁ sūryasya yatra vimucantyaśvān. Daśa śatā saha tasthus-tadekaṁ devānāṁ śreṣṭhaṁ vapuṣāmapaśyam.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, I know the thousand radiations, and I have seen that one fixed centre of your reality, Rtam, Eternal Truth, covered by Rtam, cosmic manifestations of its mutability and the laws of mutability, where the radiations converge and wherefrom they are released around. And that eternal centre is the essential, ultimate and highest form of all existential forms of divinity, the One and yet many at the same time.

तत्सु वां मित्रावरुणा महित्वमीमा तस्थुषीरहभिदुदुह्र।
विश्वाः पिन्वथः स्वसरस्य धना अनु वामेकः पविरा ववर्त ॥ २ ॥

2. Tat su vāṁ mitrāvaruṇā mahitvamīrmā tasthuṣīrahabhir-duduhre. Viśvāḥ pinvathaḥ svasarasya dhenā anu vāmekaḥ pavirā vavarta.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and the surrounding waters of life, that living grandeur of yours, the One constant impeller of life, the unmoved mover, Spirit of existence at the centre, vests in the immovable forms of life, herbs and trees, by days and nights. Thus you nourish all the streams of life while one of you, the sun, goes round and round in orbit by the law of the One at the centre.

3. Adhārayataṁ pṛthivīmuta dyāṁ mitrarājānā varuṇā mahobhiḥ. Vardhayatamoṣadhīḥ pinvataṁ gā ava vṛṣṭiṁ sṛjataṁ jīradanū.

Mitra and Varuna, sun and space, light and law, heat and water, refulgent rulers of the world, generous creators and givers, together with your powers and actions, you hold the earth and heaven, feed and promote the greenery of nature, sustain the planets, and create and shower the rains.

आ वामश्वासः सुयुजो वहन्तु यतरश्मय उप यन्त्ववाक ।

4. Ā vāmaśvāsaḥ suyujo vahantu yataraśmaya upa yantvarvāk. Ghṛtasya nirṇiganu vartate vāmupa sindhavaḥ pradivi kṣaranti.

Mitra and Varuna, rulers and scientists of the world, may your motive forces of transport well used and well steered like horses by reins and light by rays bear you and bring you hither. Purified and reinforced waters and liquid fuels are under your command, and let streams of water flow when the fire is ignited.

5. Anu śrutāmamatiṁ vardhadurvīṁ barhiriva yajuṣā rakṣamāṇā. Namasvantā dhṛtadakṣādhi garte mitrāsāthe varuṇeḷāsvantaḥ.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights and dynamic forces of the world, in keeping with Vedic tradition and your own honour and fame, enhancing your personality and character, preserving and promoting the wide earth and environment, like protecting and augmenting the light and fire of yajna with mantric chants of application and acts of self-sacrifice, with wealth of food and energy for input, and commanding strength and expertise, you sit at the high steer of the nation and join centres of production and progress across the earth.

6. Akravihastā sukṛte paraspā yaṁ trāsāthe varuṇeḷāsvantaḥ. Rājānā kṣatram-ahṛṇīyamānā sahasrasthūṇaṁ bibhṛthaḥ saha dvau.

Mitra and Varuna, leading lights of vision and judgement, ruling and refulgent powers of humanity, kind and loving nobilities of non-violent hands, holy of action, helpful for others, seated at the centres of yajnic activity over the earth's regions, ruling and protecting the social order without hurting and damaging it, both of you bear and hold up the order of a thousand pillars together and protect it against fear and violence of terror.

7. Hirṇyanirṇigayo asya sthūṇā vi bhrājate divyaśvājanīva. Bhadre kṣetre nimitā tilvile vā sanema madhvo adhigartyasya.

This social order is distinctive, discriminative between gold and merely glittering. It rests on pillars of gold, and it shines like lightning in the skies. Its policy is framed and defined in the house of holiness or, let us say, on the fields of fertility. Let us hope and pray we join and share the honey sweets created by the leading lights and rulers of judgement at the helm of the nation and by the people in the home by the fire-side.

8. Hiraṇyarūpamuṣaso vyuṣṭāvayaḥ sthūṇamuditā sūryasya. Ā rohatho varuṇa mitra gartamataś-cakṣāthe aditiṁ ditiṁ ca.

O Mitra and Varuna, rulers and leaders of the earth, commanding vision and judgement, at the break of dawn and rise of the sun you ride your chariot of golden pillars and take your seat on the helm and thence watch the realm for what is permanent of value and preservable and what is merely transient and destructible.

9. Yad baṅhiṣṭhaṁ nātividhe sudānū acchidraṁ śarma bhuvanasya gopā. Tena no mitrāvaruṇ-āvaviṣṭaṁ siṣāsanto jigīvāṁsaḥ syāma.

O Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights of strength and judgement, generous as breath of life, unchallengeable protectors of the world, come and bless us with that greatest, highest and imperishable home of protection in which, sharing the honey sweets of life with all, we may live to achieve our ambition for victory in the struggle of existence.

1. Ṛtasya gopāvadhi tiṣṭhatho rathaṁ satyadharmāṇā parame vyomani. Yamatra mitrāvaruṇāvatho yuvaṁ tasmai vṛṣṭir-madhumat pinvate divaḥ.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of justice and rectitude, ruler and judge, guardians of truth and law, observers of truth and law and eternal Dharma, you abide in the highest regions of existence in the presence of Divinity and ride over the chariot of life and the state while you occupy the highest seats of the social order. In this state, whoever you protect is blest, rains of honey sweets shower on him from heaven above.

Mitra, lord of love and friendship, Varuna, lord of judgement and discrimination, rulers and leading lights of this world, you shine in splendour and reveal the light of Divinity in the yajnic business of life on the earth. Just as thunder and lightning light and shake the earth and sky, so do you rule the earth. We pray to you for the shower of joy, success and the nectar sweets of immortal values in this mortal state of life.

Mitra and Varuna, ruler and leading lights like sun and shower, shining in majesty, blazing with splendour, brave and generous, guardians of heaven and light of the earth, watchful observers of the world, wielding wondrous clouds of rain and power, you stay close by us and send down showers of rain and roar of thunder by the awful force of light and winds of nature's breath of life.

4. Māyā vāṁ mitrāvaruṇā divi śritā sūryo jyotiścarati citramāyudham. Tamabhreṇa vṛṣṭyā gūhatho divi parjanya drapsā madhumanta īrate.

Mitra and Varuna, lord of light and lord of bliss, ruler and leading lights of the social order, your power and generosity is based in the light of Divinity and issues from there. The sun, an agent and manifestation of the same, shines with its light as weapon of enlightenment and purification. You cover the sun with an ocean of vapour and energy of cosmic electricity in the regions of light, then the cloud is formed and showers of honey drops fall as rain.

5. Rathaṁ yuñjate marutaḥ śubhe sukhaṁ śūro na mitrāvaruṇā gaviṣṭiṣu. Rajāṁsi citrā vi caranti tanyavo divaḥ samrājā payasā na ukṣatam.

O Mitra and Varuna, generous ruler and enlightened leaders, the Maruts, dynamic scientists and engineers, brave as warriors and tempestuous as winds, design and structure a faultless chariot and use it for the comfort and welfare of mankind. They rise in the company of sunrays to the wonderful regions of the skies, light and lightning in yajnic programmes for the good of all. O brilliant leaders, give us showers of water, milk, generative energy and creative vision.

Just as the cloud deeply filled with vapour and highly generous rumbles with its voice of thunder and showers rains of water, fertilising, exciting and pure, similarly, O scholars, teachers and preachers, loving as Mitra, friend, and discriminative as Varuna, the judge, speak to us that language of knowledge and wisdom which is comforting, refreshing, regenerative and life giving, wonderfully engaging and illuminating, full of wonder and variety and light of life. Let the dynamic people, vibrant as winds live in plenty like the cloud, and rise to the light of heaven with knowledge and power. Powerful as Indra, brilliant as Sun, and generous as Prajapati, give us the showers of knowledge and speech, holy, bright and blazing, free of sin and evil.

Mitra, O lord of light and love, and Varuna, lord of law and justice, knowing and discriminative, dedicated to the observance of the Law, you uphold, protect and promote the entire world of existence in order by Dharma, Rtam, cosmic dynamics and the innate strength and will of life. You shine in manifestation by Law and you maintain the sun in the regions of light like a marvellous chariot on the highway by the Law.

the great social order and high excellence and guide and conduct for our sake, advance and raise higher in honour and excellence for victory, wealth and well being for us.

Accept the song of adoration and prayer of the celebrant and enjoy it like distilled soma of yajna and excellence of the social order.

The holy fire of the sun shines here while the splendour of the dawn radiates as advance forces of the solar fire, and the holy voices of the sages arise in adoration. O Ashvins, vitalities of divinity, reach here by chariot of the dawn and join the rising fire of the house-hold yajna of noble men and women.

In fact, you bring safety and security against adversity and self-betrayal for the generous yajamana at his closest.

And this exuberance of yajnic celebration and joy is not confined to the present moment only, it extends over days and nights. Come Ashvins, divinities of nature and nobilities of men and women, come at the rise of dawn, at mid day when the sun is risen up on high, in the evening when the cows come home. Come all day and night with your gifts of safety and security, peace and joy.

Arise, meet and adore the Ashvins, first early morning visitors and harbingers of holy light and life's vitalities. They join and bless the yajna and shower and share the soma before the covetous grabbers and hoarders are up. They join and guide the yajnic business of life while the saints and sages, men of poetic vision and intelligence, earliest sharers of the bliss, sing in praise of the leading lights of divinity.

And who else other than us, is the yajaka who loves and adores the Ashvins in yajna, and worthy of love and reverence, the earlier, the worthier, anywhere, anyone? None.

One who serves and works with the Ashvins, leading lights of divinity and humanity, all free from untruth and falsehood, achieves by his creative works abundant cherished food. He shares the food and success with others in yajnic living, advances his rising generation by the same works, surpasses those who do not raise the sacred-fire, and always destroys the evils.

O man, spirit of desire, as the baby on maturity leaves the folds of the mother's womb, so give up the bonds of mortality to freedom. O Ashvins, harbingers of knowledge and freedom, listen to my call of prayer, release saptavadhri, the spirit that has lived out the fivefold sense experience and the two-fold adventure of thought and desire.

1. Dyutad-yāmānaṁ bṛhatīm-ṛtena ṛtāvarīm-aruṇapsuṁ vibhātīm. Devīm-uṣasaṁ svar-āvahantīṁ prati viprāso matibhir-jarante.

Saints and sages with holy mind and hymns of adoration honour and celebrate the divine dawn, crimson hued, shining brilliant, grand and sublime, illuminating hours of time and regions of space, observing universal law of eternity by simple natural conduct, and bringing the morning light and bliss of the sun.

एषा जनं दशता बाधयन्ती सुगान्पथः कृण्वती यात्यग्रं।

2. Eṣā janaṁ darśatā bodhayantī sugān pathaḥ kṛṇvatī yātyagre. Bṛhadrathā bṛhatī viśvaminvoṣā jyotir-yacchatyagre ahnām.

This glorious dawn, vast and great, goes forward riding her mighty chariot, arousing humanity from sleep, lighting up easy paths for movement, all illuminative, giving light in advance of the day.

Harnessing the crimson rays of the sun to her chariot, she goes unerringly, assiduously, creating unfailing wealth of light and rejuvenation. Marking paths of movement for the good of the people, the divine dawn shines, loved and adored by the people as the source of universal good.

4. Eṣā vyenī bhavati dvibarhā āviṣkṛṇvānā tanvaṁ purastāt. Ṛtasya panthām-anveti sādhu prajānatīva na diśo mināti.

Revealing her body of light from the east, this lady of light radiates fast on both sides right and left over day and night. It follows the path of eternal law and, knowing well everything in nature, it neither violates nor goes astray over the quarters of space.

एषा शुभा न तन्वा॑ विदानाध्वव॑ स्नाती दृशय॑ ना अस्थात। अप द्वषा बाधमाना तमांस्युषा दिवा दुहिता ज्याति॒षा-गा॑त ॥ ५ ॥

5. Eṣā śubhrā na tanvo vidānordhveva snātī dṛśaye no asthāt. Apa dveṣo bādhamānā tamāṁsyuṣā divo duhitā jyotiṣāgāt.

The sacred dawn, revealing her radiant majesty like the lady of light for us to see and admire, this daughter of the sun stands above pure and sanctified as if doing her morning ablutions and, dispelling hate and darkness, warding off negativities, she walks with her train of splendour.

एषा प॑तीची दुहिता दिवा नृन्याष॑व भदा नि रि॑णीत अप्स॑ः। व्यूण्वती दाशुष वार्याणि पुनज्यातिं॑युवतिः पूवथा॑कः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Eṣā pratīcī duhitā divo nṝn yoṣeva bhadrā ni riṇīte apsaḥ. Vyūrṇvatī dāśuṣe vāryāṇi punar-jyotir-yuvatiḥ pūrvathākaḥ.

Yonder stands this daughter of heaven like a maiden, holy and inspiring to the best of men, and then moves to the west, revealing the day's phases of her splendour and opening up new possibilities of cherished achievements for the generous man of yajnic action. Ever bright and youthful, she thus moves the daily rounds of light anew as ever before since times immemorial.

Note: Swami Dayananda gives an extended interpretation of the Dawn by implication: He interprets Usha as the newly married woman rising like the dawn over the world of her new home, bringing new light and new possibilities of life's achievements. The wedding of the couple is a new morning for the family, life moves on, new phases of the day move on westward, new generations follow, life goes on and on like the daily round of night and day. The sun remains the same, days and nights are new. Life remains the same, the phases are new. The bride is holy, sacred, inspiring, worthy of love, respect and reverence.

1. Acchā vada tavasaṁ gīrbhirābhiḥ stuhi parjanyaṁ namasā vivāsa. Kanikradad vṛṣabho jīradānū reto dadhātyoṣadhīṣu garbham.

Hail the mighty cloud well with these holy words of song, serve, celebrate and energise it with homage in yajna for peace and a happy home. Roaring and thundering with passion, the virile cloud, giver of life and freshness, impregnates the herbs with the seed of generation.

वि वृ ाान हंन्त्युत हंन्ति र् ासा विश्वं बिभाय भुवंनं महावंधात। उतानागा इषत वृष्ण्यावता यत्पजन्यंः स्तनयन हन्ति दुष्कृतंः ॥ २ ॥

2. Vi vṛkṣān hantyuta hanti rakṣaso viśvaṁ bibhāya bhuvanaṁ mahāvadhāt. Utānāgā īṣate vṛṣṇyā-vato yat parjanyaḥ stanayan hanti duṣkṛtaḥ.

The cloud shakes the trees, destroys the demons whom the whole world fears, and when it roars and releases the water of rain pregnant with life, it kills the evil doers with the terrible bolt and saves the sinless and the generous forces of life.

र्थीव कशयाश्वाँ अभि ाप ाविदूतान्कृणुत वष्याँइ अहं। दूरात्सिंहस्यं स्तनथा उदीरत यत्पजन्यंः कृणुत वर्ष्यं नभंः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Rathīva kaśayāśvāň abhikṣipannāvirdūtān kṛṇute varṣyāň aha. Dūrāt siṁhasya stanathā udīrate yat parjanyaḥ kṛṇute varṣyaṁ nabhaḥ.

Indeed like a charioteer urging on the horses by the whip, the cloud condenses and intensifies the rain carrier showers down to the earth, and, for that, when it strikes the ocean of vapours in the sky with thunder to turn it into rain, the space resounds from far like the roar of a lion.

4. Pra vātā vānti patayanti vidyuta udoṣadhīrjihate pinvate svaḥ. Irā viśvasmai bhuvanāya jāyate yat parjanyaḥ pṛthivīṁ retasāvati.

Fast and fresh blow the winds, lightnings flash, herbs spring up, the sky swells and overflows, food grows, spirits arise and songs resound over the world when the cloud fertilises the earth with the showers of life.

5. Yasya vrate pṛthivī naṁnamīti yasya vrate śapha-vajjarbhurīti. Yasya vrata oṣadhīrviśva-rūpāḥ sa naḥ parjanya mahi śarma yaccha.

O cloud, rain shower of life and fertility, in consequence of your commitment to the laws of sun and shower, the earth submits and surrenders, the animal stirs with passion and fire, the herbs burst forth in all forms of life. O cloud, such as you are, give us a great home of peace, joy and excellence.

6. Divo no vṛṣṭiṁ maruto rarīdhvaṁ pra pinvata vṛṣṇo aśvasya dhārāḥ. Arvāṅetena stanayitnu-nehyapo niṣiñcannasuraḥ pitā naḥ.

May the Maruts, windy currents of energy, bring us rain from the regions of the sun. May the mighty cloud showers of fertility bring us growth. O cloud, harbinger of vitality come down here with showers of rain flooding the earth and giving us breath of life and sustenance like a father.

7. Abhi kranda stanaya garbhamā dhā udanvatā pari dīyā rathena. Dṛtiṁ su karṣa viṣitaṁ nyañcaṁ samā bhavantūdvato nipādāḥ.

Thunder and roar, O cloud, bring the vitalities of life and fertilise the earth for generation. Go far and wide by chariot run on water, draw the reservoir of waters released unto yourself, and conduct them downward so that the upward vapours may be brought down in showers.

The sun holds the mighty reservoir of vapours up on high, the cloud pours it down in showers. Let the lakes and rivers flow with waters released to freedom. O cloud, fill the earth and sky with water so that there may be ample food and water for the cows.

9. Yat parjanya kanikradat stanayan haṁsi duṣkṛtaḥ. Pratīdaṁ viśvaṁ modate yat kiṁ ca pṛthivyāmadhi.

When the cloud roars and thunders and destroys all the negativities which do evil, then in response to the cleansing and vitalising rain this entire humanity and all else that is on earth rejoices in celebration.

Pour down the showers, O cloud, take over the earth for generation, fertilise the thirsting lands for growth, produce herbs and plants and trees for food of the people, and win the thanks of a grateful humanity.

Truly, O terrestrial mother, revered earth, you bear the thunder breaker of the clouds, bear the burden of mountain ranges, hold on the flood of rivers and contain the rolling oceans. O mighty one on the onward move, you are the one who thus with your great power and force rule and sustain the land and her people.

O moving one, the celebrants adore you day and night with songs, you, O bright one, who shake and impel the roaring cloud like a war horse onward to victory.

3. Dṛḷhā cid yā vanaspatīn kṣmayā dardharṣyo-jasā.

Varuna Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

प समाजं बृहदर्चा गभीरं ब्रह्म प्रियं वरुणाय श्रुताय ।
वि या जघान शमितेव चर्मापस्तिरे पृथिवीं सूर्याय ॥ १ ॥

1. Pra samrāje bṛhadarcā gabhīraṁ brahma priyaṁ varuṇāya śrutāya. Vi yo jaghāna śami-teva carmo-pastire pṛthivīṁ sūryāya.

Offer homage and reverence of the highest and deepest order full of love to Varuna, the one sovereign ruler and lord of love and judgement over all, who hammered and shaped the earth into form and, like the host of a yajna of peace and non-violence, overspread the earth with the atmosphere as a protective and promotive cover as a shield for the sun, as protection against heat for the sake of generative power and fertility. His divine voice resounds across the universe.

वनेषु व्यन्तरिक्षं ततान वाजमर्वत्सु पय उस्रियासु। हृत्सु क्रतुं वरुणा अप्स्वग्निं दिवि सूर्यमदधात्सोममद्रौ ॥ २ ॥

2. Vaneṣu vyantarikṣaṁ tatāna vājamarvatsu paya usriyāsu. Hṛtsu krtuṁ varuṇo apsvagniṁ divi sūryamadadhāt somamadrau.

Varuna, lord of love and judgement for life, extensively vested sap in vegetation, energy in horses and others that move, milk in cows, faith, love and will to act in the hearts, vitality in waters, sun in heaven and soothing joy in the cloud and soma plant on the mountain.

नीचीनबारं वरुणः कबन्धं प ससर्ज रोदसी अन्तरिक्षम। तेन विश्वस्य भुवनस्य राजा यवं न वृष्टिर्व्युनत्ति भूम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Nīcīnavāraṁ varuṇaḥ kabandhaṁ pra sasarja rodasī antarikṣam. Tena viśvasya bhuvanasya rājā yavaṁ na vṛṣṭirvyunatti bhūma.

Varuna brings into existence heaven, earth and the middle region of the sky, and he forms the cloud for shower on the earth down below. By that the sovereign ruler of the whole universe, the supreme, brings about the rain which fertilises the earth as it nourishes the grain.

उनत्ति भूमिं पृथिवीमुत द्यां यदा दुग्धं वरुणा वष्ट्यादित।

4. Unatti bhūmiṁ pṛthivīmuta dyāṁ yadā dugdhaṁ varuṇo vaṣṭyādit. Samabhreṇa vasata parvatāsastaviṣīyantaḥ śrathayanta vīrāḥ.

Varuna fills the earth and sky and the regions of the sun with vapour when he desires to create the milk of life, thereafter the clouds are laden with vapour, and then forceful currents of wind energy strike the clouds from within and release the showers of rain.

इमामू ष्वासुरस्य श्रुतस्य महीं मायां वरुणस्य प वोचम।

5. Imāmū ṣvāsurasya śrutasya mahīṁ māyāṁ varuṇasya pra vocam. Māneneva tasthivāṅ antrikṣe vi yo mame pṛthivīṁ sūryeṇa.

This marvellous omnipotence of the renowned life giver Varuna, I celebrate in words, who pervades the space and, abiding in the middle regions of the universe, marks out the earth as if by measure, purpose and design, and creates it from the sun.

इमामू नु कवितमस्य मायां महीं देवस्य नकिरा दधर्ष।

6. Imāmū nu kavitamasya māyāṁ mahīṁ devasya nakirā dadharśa. Ekaṁ yadudnā na pṛṇantyenīrāsiñcantīr-avanayaḥ samudram.

This great power of the most creative lord, who can challenge and violate? None, just as all the streams and rivers flooding the lands and rushing on do not fill the ocean with water.

अयम्यं वरुण मित्र्यं वा सखायं वा सदमिद भातरं वा।
वशं वा नित्यं वरुणारणं वा यत्सीमागश्चकृमा शिश्रथस्तत॥ ७॥

7. Aryamyaṁ varuṇa mitryaṁ vā sakhāyaṁ vā sadamid bhrātaraṁ vā . Veśaṁ vā nityaṁ varuṇāraṇaṁ vā yat sīmāgaś-cakṛmā śiśrathastat.

If we happen to commit a sin of omission or commission or transgression toward a man of judgement or friend or companion or a close ally or inmate of the house or brother, or constant or near or distant relation, then, O Varuna, loosen the snare of sin and help us be free.

कितवासा यदिरिपुन दीवि यद्वा घा सत्यमुत य ा विद्म।

8. Kitavāso yad riripurna dīvi yad vā ghā satyamuta yanna vidma. Sarvā tā vi ṣya ṣithireva devā'dhā te syāma varuṇa priyāsaḥ.

Like gamblers in the game, if someone attribute sin or deception to us, which may be true or may not be true, or which we might not even know, all that, O lord of light and judgement, loosen so that we may be free and be dear to you.

Indra - Agni Devata, Atri Bhauma Rshi

इन्दाग्नी यमवथ उभा वाजषु मत्यम।

1. Indrāgnī yamavatha ubhā vājeṣu martyam.
Dṛḷhā cit sa pra bhedati dyumnā vāṇīriva tritaḥ.

Indra and Agni, divine power and knowledge, celestial and terrestrial energy of electricity and fire, both ruler and enlightened leaders, whosoever the mortal you protect, guide and promote, he breaks through massive obstructions in the battle business of life, and wins his way to wealth, honour and splendour, just like the sagely scholar of threefold freedom of body, mind and soul who penetrates through three layers of language, vaikhari, madhyama and pashyanti, i.e., word, thought and deep memory, and reaches the vision of the para, the supreme Word and silence of Divinity.

2. Yā pṛtanāsu duṣṭarā yā vājeṣu śravāyyā.
Yā pañca carṣaṇīrabhīndrāgnī tā havāmahe.

We adore and solicit Indra and Agni which, among the forces of life, are indomitable, in the battles for power and prosperity, admirable, and among the five orders of society and among the five pranic energies are of prime importance.

तयोरिदमवच्छवस्तिग्मा दिद्युन्मघोनोः।

3. Tayorid-amavac-chavas-tigmā didyun-maghon-oḥ. Prati druṇā gabhastyor-gavāṁ vṛtraghna eṣate.

The sharp, impetuous and blazing force in the hands of these two mighty powers moves by the speed of sunbeams in destroying the cloud of darkness and strikes where it must.

4. Tā vāmeṣe rathānām-indrāgnī havāmahe.
Patī turasya rādhaso vidvāṅsā girvaṅastamā.

Indra and Agni, most adorable scholars of the science of terrestrial and celestial energy, heat, light and electricity, and masters of fast automotion and material prosperity, we invoke you both for the speed and movement of chariots for success.

ता वृधन्तावनु द्यून्मतीय देवावदभा।

5. Tā vṛdhantāvanu dyūn-martāya devāvadabhā.
Arhantā citpuro dadheṅ'śeva devāvarvate.

Exalted, thriving day by day for the sake of mortal humanity, brilliant, indomitable, adorable and generous Indra and Agni, ruling powers and enlightened scholars, we honour you at the head of our creative and developmental yajna like the soma of success and celebration in matters of science and progress.

एवन्द्राग्निभ्यामहावि हव्यं शूष्यं घृतं न पूतमदिभिः।

Thus homage of adoration is offered to Indra and Agni, scholars of earthly and spatial energy. From energies, by scholars is received strength, energy and power, materials for yajnic investment and development, ghrta, delicacies, like water showers sanctified by the clouds. May they, we pray, bring and bestow upon the scholars and celebrants high renown and abundant wealth, may they bring and bestow upon the admirers food and energy for a happy life.

1. Pra vo mahe matayo yantu viṣṇave marutvate girijā evayāmarut. Pra śardhāya prayajyave sukhādaye tavase bhandadiṣṭaye dhunivratāya śavase.

O vibrant man of vision, all ye men and women, let all your songs and flights of thought and vision born of the voice of the heart reach Vishnu, all pervasive lord, commander of the winds and warriors, indomitable, highly majestic, adorable and cooperative, blissfully appreciative, relentlessly active and absolute in justice and power.

प य जा॒ता म॑हि॒ना य च॒ नु स्व॒यं प वि॒द्मना॑ ब्रु॒वत॑ एव॒यामरुत ।

Evayamarut, O vibrant visionary and celebrant of the Maruts, these warriors and pioneers of humanity are self-made, risen by themselves who proclaim themselves through their knowledge and self-awareness. O Maruts, stormy leaders, that power and force of yours is unchallengeable by virtue of your noble acts, grandeur and generosity. O men, their force is indomitable, they are inviolable, unshakable like mountains.

Evayamarut, O celebrant of the Maruts, they hear the voice of Divinity from the light of heaven, they are heard by their voice from the heights of heaven. Pure and brilliant, they live in holiness and felicity. No tyrant, impeller or compeller, can bend them in their right and abode. Self-refulgent like the flames of fire, they radiate, they make the winds blow and set the rivers aflow.

स च॑कम महृता निरु॑रुक्रमः स॑मा॒नस्मा॒त्सद॑स एव॒यामरुत। य॒दायु॑क्त॒ त्मना॒ स्वादधि॒ ष्णुभि॒विष्प॑धसा॒ विम॑हसा॒ जिगा॑ति॒ शवृ॑धा॒ नृभिः॥ ४॥

He, Evayamarut, Vishnu, lord of infinite action and commander of the Maruts, universal energies, transcends by infinite possibility the great constant, central and universal seat of his presence, that is, this universe. When evayamarut, the man of vision, master of his senses and faculties, connects with the lord by heart and soul by the guidance of dynamic teachers and preachers, unenvious and brilliant, he rises from his own state of existence and joins the lord omnipotent of infinite felicity.

स्व॒ना न वा म॑वानजय॒द वृषा॑ त्व॒षा य॒यिस्त॑विष॒ एव॒-याम॑रुत। यना॒ सह॑न्त ऋ॒ञ्जत॒ स्वरा॑चिष॒ स्थार॑श्माना हिर॒ण्ययाः॑ स्वायु॒धास॑ इ॒ष्मिणः॑॥ ५॥

Like the rumble of the Big Bang of creation, may the lord of the Maruts, Vishnu, shake you, O men and women of the world, shine you and inspire you, the lord omnipresent, generous, self-refulgent, omnipotent, everfelt in the heart, by virtue of whom the Maruts, natural energies and pioneers of humanity shining by themselves, unshaken yet dynamic like rays of the sun, golden gloried, self-armed and nobly ambitious, stand the challenges of existence and achieve their end and aim.

Unbounded is your greatness, O heroes of ancient might. May your brilliant power protect and promote evayamarut, vibrant sage of vision and knowledge. In the heat of battle when missiles are shot, stay firm in the open view unshaken. Such as you are, O Maruts, blazing as flames of fire, protect us against the maligners and the revilers.

Heroes of the winds, scholars of the middle order, dispensers of justice and punishment, performers of holy creative actions, commanding power and glory like flames of fire may protect and promote us and the sagely scholar of vision and dynamic performance. Wide and lofty grows the earthly abode of humanity by virtue of those whose grandeur grows high and onslaughts grow terrible in the battles against the evil and wickedness of unimaginable order.

8. Adveṣo no maruto gātumetana śrotā havaṁ jariturevayāmarut. Viṣṇormahaḥ samanyavo yuyotana smad rathyo na daṁsanā'pa dveṣāṁsi sanutaḥ.

Maruts, heroes of the speed of winds, free from hate and jealousy, with zeal and ardour for righteous action, come to our earthly abode and lead us on the path of goodness and progress. O lord of the winds, Vishnu, listen to the song and prayer of the celebrant. O leaders and pioneers, come like warriors of the chariot and join the power and grandeur of Vishnu, lord of the wide world and space, accomplish acts of universal generosity and throw off hate, jealousy and animosity from the earth.

O Maruts, adorable heroes of the world, come and join our yajna of holy living with grace and earnestness. Listen to the prayer of the celebrant of the winds in need of protection and advancement. Most eminent and most enlightened among us, be generous givers of knowledge, wisdom and enlightenment of Divine order like showers of the cloud from the sky so that no maligner or reviler can resist and challenge you or anyone else.

1. Agne sa kṣeṣadṛtapā ṛtejā uru jyotirnaśate devayuṣṭe. Yaṁ tvaṁ mitreṇa varuṇaḥ sajoṣāḥ deva pāsi tyajasā martamaṁhaḥ.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, guardian of Truth and Law, manifesting in truth and law and the fire and fragrance of yajna, that mortal man lives in peace who protects the truth and abides in truth, and he receives the gift of your infinite light and grace who loves Divinity and noble humanity, and whom you, O lord of love and justice, loving, kind and generous father, with loving care and merciful justice, you protect and save by abandonment of sin and evil.

2. Īje yajñebhiḥ śaśame śamībhir-ṛdhadvārāyāgnaye dadāśa. Evā cana taṁ yaśasāmajuṣṭirnāṁho martaṁ naśate na pradṛptiḥ.

If the mortal does good to others with humility and yajna, lives in peace with auspicious acts of holiness, and does service to Agni, giver of success and prosperity, with acts of charity and self surrender, then, for sure, neither want of honour and glory, nor sin and evil, nor pride and arrogance can ever touch him.

The holy sight of Agni, leading light of humanity, like the sun, and the message of thought and wisdom of the brilliant light that radiates, is pure and immaculate, and yet it is awesome and comes as terrible to the vitiated. Indeed wherever the source and abode of this blazing destroyer of the night of darkness and of his prophetic voice be, as that of light in sunrays and of fire in the wood, it is delightful and elevating.

4. Tigmaṁ cidema mahi varpo asya bhasadaśvo na yamasāna āsā. Vijehamānaḥ paraśurna jihvāṁ dravirna drāvayati dāru dhakṣat.

Sharp is his path like the razor's edge we may like to follow, great his form and appearance shining brilliant, open his mouth self-controlled as the horse's, sharp his tongue as an axe, and he melts rigidities like a smelter and burns wooden prejudices like fire.

5. Sa idasteva prati dhādasiṣyañchiśīta tejo'yaso na dhārām. Citradhrajatiraratiryo aktorverna druṣadvā raghupatmajaṁhāḥ.

Free from dead wood, he shoots his target like an archer freely. He sharpens his blaze like the edge of an axe. Swift and wonderful in speed, relentless in work, he discards rest and slow speed of movement like a bird of flight flying off from the branch of the tree of his night's rest.

6. Sa īṁ rebho na prati vasta usrāḥ śociṣā rārapīti mitramahāḥ. Naktaṁ ya īmaruṣo yo divā nṝn-amartyo aruṣo yo divā nṝn.

He, leading light of the world, wears the light of the morning sun and, in return, like crackling fire, proclaims himself with the light and blaze of the new day, being the greatest friend of humanity. Red as flames, bright as sunlight, he lights up the night of darkness and arouses humanity into the day of light, awareness and activity, being the harbinger of the immortal light of Divinity. Yes, bright and blazing, he rouses people into the light of day.

7. Divo na yasya vidhato navīnod vṛṣā rukṣa oṣadhīṣu nūnot. Ghṛṇā na yo dhrajasā patmanā yannā rodasī vasunā daṁ supatnī.

Whose presence as of the light and grace of heaven, and order, the generous cloud worships and proclaims, whose light and vitality is manifested in herbs and trees, and who, by his flight and velocity and omnipresence, vests the spaces of motherly heaven, earth and sky with the wealth of living sustenance as with his light and grace.

Who flashes like lightning, shines with his self-refulgence and potent presence, and constantly illuminates by his manifestation by the beneficiary stars, planets and plants, by his associates and assistants, and by his celebrants and worshippers of his virtues, and who, blazing and impetuous, like the divine intelligence and maker, fashions the forms and force of the winds and the stormy powers of humanity : that is Agni, life of existence and leading light of the world.

1. Yathā hotarmanuṣo devatātā yajñebhiḥ sūno sahaso yajāsi. Evā no adya samanā samānān-uśannagna uśato yakṣi devān.

Agni, leading light of life, ruler of the world, child of strength, source of strength and courage, yajaka and generous giver, as you do selfless yajnic service to life and Divinity like any human, so you today in our battle of life, out of love for loving and dedicated people, pray invoke the divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity to join us.

2. Sa no vibhāvā cakṣaṇirna vastoragnirvandāru vedyaścano dhāt. Viśvāyuryo amṛto martyeṣū-ṣarbhud bhūdatithirjātavedāḥ.

May that lord, Agni, refulgent as the sun, light of the day, adorable, worth knowing and realising, bear and bring us food for life and energy for action, that lord who is life of life, immortal among mortals, manifests like a cherished guest at dawn and knows all that is born in existence by omnipresence.

3. Dyāvo na yasya panayantyabhvaṁ bhāsāṁsi vaste sūryo na śukraḥ. Vi ya inotyajaraḥ pāvako'śnasya cicchiśnathat pūrvyāṇi.

Like the lights of heaven, sages celebrate the lord's glory. Pure and immaculate, like the sun, he wears the lights and colours of existence. Purifying like fire, he pervades the forms of the world of existence, and at the ultimate end withdraws all that existed before, and remains, ageless and eternal, the sole and absolute presence.

O inspirer of life, Agni, self-manifestive loud and bold, you are all pervasive in everything that is food for life since by nature and operation you generate both food and energy. O creator and giver of energy, bear and bring us food and energy, be victorious like a ruler and abide in peace and non-violence as an inspiration.

5. Nitikti yo vāraṇamannamatti vāyurna rāṣṭrya-tyetyaktūn. Turyāma yasta ādiśām-arātīr-atyo na hrutaḥ patataḥ parihṛut.

Agni sharpens his instant weapon of radiance against darkness, consumes the consumables for energy, rules over existence like breath of life, surpasses even the rays of light. O lord of radiation pervading all round by waves of omnipotence, destroyer like a superlative missile of those crooked ones who fall in its way, may we too likewise overcome those who negate your gifts of life.

Agni, light of life, as the sun with thunderous rays of light, so you pervade heaven and earth with splendour and majesty. Marvellous and sublime, with light radiating all round, brilliant as sublimity incarnate, you rule dispelling all kinds of darkness.

Agni, lord most charming and blissful, with brilliant songs of adoration we celebrate you. Listen to our song of sublimity. Like Indra, lord of omnipotence, like Vayu, breath of life, the best of leading lights of humanity adore you with all their might and sense of fulfilment.

Agni, lord of light, wealth and bliss, with honest and loving people lead us to wealth and honour, peace and well being by paths of holiness, cleanse us of sin, blow off evil from us. That peace and joy you bestow upon brilliant and brave celebrants and upon the supplicant, bestow upon us too, we pray, so that we, blest with brave children, may rejoice for a full life of hundred years.

1. Huve vaḥ sūnuṁ sahaso yuvānam-adroghavācaṁ matibhir-yaviṣṭham. Ya invati draviṇāni pracetā viśvavārāṇi puruvāro adhruk.

For you all, I invoke and invite Agni, giver of strength and forbearance, young, sweet and loving of speech free from malice, most youthful, wise and all aware, cherished friend of all without jealousy, who creates, inspires, invigorates and brings us gifts of universal value and drives away the evils.

2. Tve vasūni purvaṇīka hotardoṣā vastorerire yajñiyāsaḥ. Kṣāmeva viśvā bhuvanāni yasmin tsaṁ saubhagāni dadhire pāvake.

In you, lord of eternal flames of power and generation, cosmic yajaka and generous giver, holy performers of yajnic acts repose their confidence, and to you, day and night, they attribute all the gifts of life. By virtue of you, cleanser and purifier, all regions of the universe like earth bear cherished gifts of nature for humanity.

3. Tvaṁ vikṣu pradivaḥ sīda āsu kratvā rathīra-bhavo vāryāṇām. Ata inoṣi vidhate cikitvo vyānuṣag-jātavedo vasūni.

Come you, leading light wrapped in the light of divinity, sit and abide among these people with your knowledge and yajnic action. Be like a chariot harbinger of choice gifts of life. You are wise and you command universal awareness. You know all that is born in existence and, integrated with life and society, you inspire and promote the wealths of the world for the dedicated celebrant.

4. Yo naḥ sanutyo abhidāsadagne yo antaro mitramaho vanuṣyāt. Tam-ajarebhir-vṛṣabhis-tava svaistapā tapiṣṭha tapasā tapasvān.

Agni, O dearest and greatest friend, tempered in the crucibles of austere discipline to the highest degree of intensity, whatever the force or power internal or external, close around or far off which might weaken, attack, injure or destroy us, pray burn up and eliminate by your own essential, unaging, generous and most youthful power of discipline and fire.

5. Yaste yajñena samidhā ya ukthair-arkebhiḥ sūno sahaso dadāśat. Sa martyeṣvamṛta pracetā rāyā dyumnena śravasā vi bhāti.

Agni, O source giver of strength and inspiration, whoever serves you with yajnic acts of self-sacrifice and offers you homage, worship and songs of celebration with sacred fuel to keep the fire burning, rises in knowledge and life's awareness, advances in wealth, honour and fame, and shines out with immortal excellence among mortals.

Agni, lord of forbearance and challenging might, loved, inspired and impelled, do that fast with your power and force, resist and repell the envious contenders, for which you are admired by the celebrants. Do that, O lord wearing the aura of light and fire, and accept the devoted supplicant's thanks and homage expressed from the depth of mind and soul.

Agni, leading light of the world, ruler and pioneer of humanity, by virtue of your protection and spirit of advancement, let us realise that will and desire we pray for. O lord creator and giver of wealth, let us achieve that wealth and honour blest with the brave we cherish. O lord imperishable, let us win, while we press forward, that energy, sustenance and progress, let us be blest with that honour and excellence which is immortal.

1. Pra navyasā sahasaḥ sūnumacchā yajñena gātumava icchamānaḥ. Vṛścadvanaṁ kṛṣṇayā-maṁ ruśantaṁ vītī hotāraṁ divyaṁ jigāti.

Whoever desires and plans for advancement into new ways of progress, defence and protection, tries and experiments with newest forms of yajna, socio-scientific developments in pursuit of Agni, heat, light and electric energy, source and generator of power, breaker of the clouds, illuminator of pathways into darkness and the unknown, bright catalytic agent, giver of peace and prosperity for well being and divine agent of cosmic evolution.

That energy, Agni, which is brilliant, expansive and roaring, constant in light without a flicker, abiding in imperishable thunder and lightning, is the fire purifier which lies dormant in many forms in solids, and it is versatile and explosive.

3. Vi te viṣvag-vātajūtāso agne bhāmāsaḥ śuce śucayaścaranti. Tuvimrakṣāso divyā navagvā vanā vananti dhṛṣatā rujantaḥ.

Agni, cosmic energy, those universal waves of your power impelled by nature's currents radiate all round, pure and purifying, embracing everything, celestial, ever moving anew, beautiful, forceful, making, breaking and remaking everything that comes their way.

Life and light of the world, those vitalising pure and radiant waves of your energy flowing down like horses freed from their bound, fertilise and impregnate the earth, and then their circulation across the sky, taking over the mountain tops shines all over the earth.

Further, the tongue of flame, the flash of lightning, like the thunderbolt of mighty Indra, warrior of the flash and thunder's roar, shakes and shines with the blaze, striking and shattering things like a warrior's blow, and thus the terrible onslaught of irresistible Agni destroys the forests.

Agni, leading light and ruler of the world, with your light spread over all places and activities of the earth, and shine by the great and glorious radiation of your power. With your force and power, resist and repel all fears and envious contenders and, saving and protecting those who ought to be served and protected, break down the enmities and negativities.

Agni, marvellous leading light of the world, ruler of the wonderful human order of brilliance, inspirer of love, benevolence and bliss, join and mix various wonderful elements with beautiful and soothing elements and then create for us enlightening, most surprising, invigorating, blissful, life giving, self-expansive wealth inspiring for all the youth and for the dedicated celebrant.

Vaishvanara Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

मूधानं दिवा अरतिं पृथिव्या वैश्वानरमृत आ जातमग्निम।

1. Mūrdhānaṁ divo aratiṁ pṛthivyā vaiśvānaramṛata ā jātamagnim. Kaviṁ samrājam-atithiṁ janānām-āsannā pātraṁ janayanta devāḥ.

The divinities of nature and humanity light the sacred fire: supreme light of heaven, vital fire of life of the earth, Vaishvanara, leader and energiser of the world, born of cosmic law and the fire of cosmic yajna. It is the visionary, even the revolutionary, poet, ruler of the world, sacred as a chance visitor, voice of the people, sustainer of life and its order.

Divines and brilliant people light and sing in praise of Vaishvanara, sacred fire of the world, centrehold of yajna and creative programmes of development, treasure source of wealths, divine challenge and cherished deity of their service, motive power of non-violent projects, the real symbol and the very life of yajna.

3. Tvad vepro jāyate vājyagne tvad vīrāso abhimātiṣāhaḥ. Vaiśānara tvamasmāsu dhehi vasūni rājantspṛhayāyyāṇi.

O leading light of the world, Agni, by you arises the dedicated scholar, energy, sustenance and progress, and the warriors who brave the challenges and win. O Vaishvanara, fire of earthly existence, brilliant leader and ruler, lead us to wealths of the world worthy of being fought for and won.

4. Tvāṁ viśve amṛta jāyamānaṁ śiśuṁ na devā abhi saṁ navante. Tava kṛatubhir-amṛata-tvamāyan vaiśvānara yat pitroradīdeḥ.

O Vaishvanara Agni, light and vitality of the world, all brilliant scholars and divines of humanity love you as a baby and celebrate you all round like the rising sun at dawn, or like a young scholar emerging from the home of his parents and teachers like the sun from heaven over the earth. By virtue of your holy acts, the mortals achieve the immortality of holiness and excellence.

वश्वानर तव तानि वतानि महान्यग्ने नकिरा दधर्ष।

5. Vaiśvānara tava tāni vratāni mahānyagne nakirā dadharṣa. Yajjāyamānaḥ pitrorupasthe 'vindaḥ ketuṁ vayuneṣvahnām.

Vaishvanara, leading light and fire of life, Agni, the great ordinances of yours none can challenge, those which you, arising in the lap of your parents from heaven over the earth take on as your essential character and identity in the light of days in relation to the laws of existence from the earth to the Supreme Spirit and Lord of the universe.

वश्वानरस्य विमितानि च ासा सानूनि दिवा अमृतस्य केतुना। तस्यदु विश्वा भुवनाधि मूधनि वयाइव रुरुहुः सप्त विस्रुहः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Vaiśvānarasya vimitāni cakṣasā sānūni divo amṛtasya ketunā. Tasyedu viśvā bhuvanādhi mūrdhani vayā iva ruruhuḥ sapta visruhaḥ.

By the vision and radiance of immortal Vaishvanara, the tops of heaven are pervaded, measured and transcended. On him, as base which is also the summit of existence, rest all the worlds of the universe which manifest like hair on the head, grow like seven branches from the one root, or flow like seven streams from the centre source.

4. Vi yo rajāṁsyamimīta sukratur-vaiśvānaro vi divo rocanā kaviḥ. Pari yo viśvā bhuvanāni paprathe'dabdho gopā amṛtasya rakṣitā.

Vaishvanara, merciful lord of the world and humanity, cosmic yajaka and visionary creator, who conceives, creates and ordains all regions of the universe, who illuminates the radiance of heaven, who pervades, expands and transcends all the worlds of existence, is the sole lord supreme, unchallenged ruler, sustainer and protector of the mortal world and the state of immortality.

1. Pṛkṣasya vṛṣṇo aruṣasya nū sahaḥ pra nu vocaṁ vidathā jātavedasaḥ. Vaiśvānarāya matirnavyasī śuciḥ soma iva pavate cāruragnaye.

Spontaneously I sing and celebrate the knowledge and omnipotence of Jataveda, omniscient lord creator, omnipresent, generous, refulgent and merciful. The holy thoughts and words of the song flow ever fresh, pure, soothing and sanctifying like the streams of soma in honour of the universal lord and leading light of the world.

2. Sa jāyamānaḥ parame vyomani vratānyagnirvratapā arakṣata. Vyantarikṣamamimīta sukraturvaiśvānaro mahinā nākamaspṛśat.

He, Agni, ordainer of the laws of existence, manifesting in the highest heavens like the sun, protects and sustains the laws of life, being ordainer and observer of the laws of existence. Vaishvanara, immanent in the heart of humanity, holy protector of yajnic actions, pervades the firmament and, with his grand potential, gives the magic touch of refulgence to the heaven of joy.

3. Vyastabhnād rodasī mitro adbhuto'ntarvāvadakṛṇojjyotiṣā tamaḥ. Vi carmaṇīva dhiṣaṇe avartayad vaiśvānaro viśvamadhatta vṛṣṇyam.

Vaishvanara, leading light and life of existence, universal friend and light giver, marvellous and all immanent unmoved mover, holds the heaven and earth in balance, covers, i.e., dispels darkness with light, revolves heaven and earth, day and night, wearing both like changing and alternate forms and thus sustains the entire living, organismic generous universe.

4. Apāmupasthe mahiṣā agṛbhṇata viśo rājānamupa tasthur-ṛgmiyam. Ā dūto agnimabharad vivasvato vaiśvānaraṁ mātariśvā parāvataḥ.

In the midst of spatial oceans of particles in the firmament, great scholars and scientists perceive, receive and develop Agni celebrated in the Rks and closely abide by it in study like people abiding by the ruler for their benefit. Vayu, currents of cosmic energy abiding in space, acts as carrier and bears Vaishvanara, universal energy of heat and light from the far off sun for the benefit of the world.

5. Yugeyuge vidathyaṁ gṛṇadbhyo'gne rayiṁ yaśasaṁ dhehi navyasīm. Pavyeva rājannaghaśaṁsamajara nīcā ni vṛśca vaninaṁ na tejasā.

Agni, leading light of the world, from year to year, age by age, bear and bring for the dedicated celebrants latest and newest wealth and honour for advancement in knowledge and action. O brilliant ruler, unaging and imperishable, strike down the agent of sin and crime as you strike down a tree or a cloud by thunder and lightning.

6. Asmākamagne maghavatsu dhārayā'nāmi kṣatramajaraṁ suvīryam. Vayaṁ jayema śatinaṁ sahasriṇaṁ vaiśvānara vājamagne tavotibhiḥ.

Agni, leading light of the world, Vaishvanara, kindly ruler of the hearts of humanity, among our people who are blest with wealth, honour and power by virtue of your gifts of protection and advancement, establish a noble, courteous, inalienable and unaging social order of freedom worthy of the brave. We pray we may win a hundredfold and a thousandfold victories of food and sustenance, energy and progress under your protection and promotion.

7. Adabdhebhistava gopābhiriṣṭe'smākaṁ pāhi triṣadhastha sūrīn. Rakṣā ca no daduṣāṁ śardho agne vaiśvānara pra ca tārīḥ stavānaḥ.

Agni, refulgent leader, Vaishvanara, gracious ruling presence of the world, loving and adorable guardian present in the three worlds of earth, heaven and the firmament, presiding power of the three councils of governance, legislation and education, with your loving, non-violent and irresistible forces of defence and protection for advancement, pray protect and promote our saints and sages, scholars and the brave heroes and leaders. And protect us all, sustain and advance the courage and morale of all the celebrants and generous givers and yajakas. Save us all, O lord adorable, lead us all across the seas of darkness to the cherished goal.

Vaishvanara Agni Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

अहश्च कृष्णमहरर्जुनं च वि वर्तते रजसी विद्याभिः। वैश्वानरा जायमाना न राजा वातिरज्ज्योतिषाग्निस्तमांसि॥ १॥

1. Ahaśca kṛṣṇamahararjunaṁ ca vi vartete rajasī vidyābhiḥ. Vaiśvānaro jāyamāno na rājā'vātirajjyotiṣāgnistamāṁsi.

The dark half of the earth's daily round, the night, and the bright half, the day, revolve alternately in the terrestrial atmosphere alongwith their cognizable characteristics. Vaishvanara Agni, the sun, darling of the world, as it rises, overcomes and dispels the darkness with light like a ruler eliminating the dark and evil forces of society.

नाहं तन्तुं न वि जानाम्यातुं न यं वयन्ति समरे तमानाः ।

2. Nāhaṁ tantuṁ na vi jānāmyotuṁ na yaṁ vayanti samare'tamānāḥ. Kasya svit putra iha vaktvāni paro vadātyavareṇa pitrā.

I know not the warp nor the woof of the web of life. Nor do I know the design of the web which the weavers weave together in their constant concourse of nights and days. Whose son here or far off, pure and purifying, could say what ought to be said by virtue of the father, or teacher or the supreme teacher at the closest? Who knows?

3. Sa it tantuṁ sa vi jānātyotuṁ sa vaktvānyṛtuthā vadāti. Ya īṁ ciketadamṛtasya gopā avaścaran paro anyena paśyan.

He surely knows the warp, he knows the woof, he speaks of what ought to be spoken according to the season and the circumstances, he who knows the flow of the stream of life and time, who is the master and keeper of the eternals, and eternal knowledge, who knows and moves up and down, far and near, seeing the reality by the eye of the other, the supreme lord of eternal light.

4. Ayaṁ hotā prathamaḥ paśyatemamidaṁ jyotiramṛtaṁ martyeṣu. Ayaṁ sa jajñe dhruva ā niṣatto'martyastanvā vardhamānaḥ.

This supreme lord is the prime yajaka, giver and receiver. See and know this immortal light among the mortals. And this is that other, the individual soul, unshaken, immovable, firmly seated in the personality, immortal, growing in knowledge and vision and the body in which it is born.

5. Dhṛuvaṁ jyotirnihitaṁ dṛśaye kaṁ mano javiṣṭhaṁ patayatsvantaḥ. Viśve devāḥ samanasaḥ saketā ekaṁ kratumabhi vi yanti sādhu.

In order that the individual soul may see the one immovable blissful divine light enshrined in the cave of the heart, there is the mind, fastest of psychic faculties in the personality of all those who direct themselves to the one centre. All the organs of perception, in fact all the illuminative elements of nature, all of equal competence, united together and in unison with the mind efficiently move toward the individual soul.

6. Vi me karṇā patayato vi cakṣurvīdaṁ jyotirhṛdaya āhitaṁ yat. Vi me manaścarati dūra ādhīḥ kiṁ svid vakṣyāmi kimu nū maniṣye.

My ears, as I feel impelled to have a vision of the inner light of divinity, my eyes, the light of the spirit enshrined in the heart, my mind which connects with far off things, all move to help me see the light of divinity within me. What at all shall I say more? What shall I think more?

7. Viśve devā anamasyan bhiyānāstvāmagne tamasi tasthivāṁsam. Vaiśvānaro'vatūtaye no'martyo'-vatūtaye naḥ.

Agni, light of life, life of the universe abiding at the centre of darkness and mystery of existence, all divinities of nature and humanity with all their sense and power bow to you in awe. We pray may Vaishvanara, immortal light of the soul and the universe, protect us for safety, security and well being, protect us for peace and progress.

1. Puro vo mandraṁ divyaṁ suvṛktiṁ prayati yajñe agnim-adhvare dadhidhvam. Pura ukthebhiḥ sa hi no vibhāvā svadhvarā karati jātavedāḥ.

In your well-planned and projected programmes of yajnic development free from violence, first and foremost, with right formulae and right process, place in the fore front Agni, holy fire and leading light, charming presence, brilliant and pure power leading to the right goal by the right path. That power and presence alone, kind and loving, immanent in all that exists, leads holy acts of love and kindness to sure success.

2. Tamu dyumaḥ purvaṇīka hotaragne agnibhir-manuṣa idhānaḥ. Stomaṁ yamasmai mamateva śūṣaṁ ghṛtaṁ na śuci matayaḥ pavante.

Agni, sagely yajaka brilliant in knowledge and fiery in will and action who inspire people with passion and enthusiasm, pray listen to the song of celebration, powerful as love and pure as ghrta, which wise and thoughtful people sing and sanctify in honour of this holy fire.

3. Pīpāya sa śravasā martyeṣu yo agnaye dadāśa vipra ukthaiḥ. Citrābhis-tamūtibhiścitraśocir-vrajasya sātā gomato dadhāti.

That sagely scholar thrives among mortals with honour and excellence who serves and advances the holy fire with songs of praise and holy materials. And Agni too, commanding marvellous light and flames, blesses him with wonderful forms of protection and advances him on the paths of progress with plenty of wealth, land, cows and gifts of knowledge and enlightenment.

4. Ā yaḥ paprau jāyamāna urvī dūredṛśā bhāsā kṛṣṇādhvā. Adha bahu cit tama ūrmyāyās-tiraḥ śociṣā dadṛśe pāvakaḥ.

As Agni rises and manifests itself like the sun, it is seen from afar and, going over areas of darkness by the paths it makes for itself, it fills the wide spaces of heaven and earth with its light. The light and fire, pure and purifying, thus overcomes the deep darkness of the night with splendour and reveals its glory and the reality of things.

1. Pibā somamabhi yamugra tarda ūrvaṁ gavyaṁ mahi gṛṇāna indra. Vi yo dhṛṣṇo vadhiṣo vajrahasta viśvā vṛtram-amitriyā śavobhiḥ.

Indra, mighty invincible lord of the force of cosmic energy, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, drink and celebrate with soma while you are sung and celebrated since you break the cloud of showers as the sun, release the vast and great wealth of cows, milk and ghrta, and with your powers and action destroy all unfriendly and antilife forces of the world.

2. Sa īṁ pāhi ya ṛjīṣī tarutro yaḥ śipravān vṛṣabho yo matīnām. Yo gotrabhid vajrabhṛd yo hariṣṭhāḥ sa indra citrāň abhi tṛndhi vājān.

The one that is simple and natural in conduct, saviour across the seas, splendid and self-protected, mightiest among people, breaker of clouds and hostile strongholds, wielder of the thunderbolt and strongest winner, such is Indra, and such, O lord, defend, protect and promote what is won, release the wonderful energies and overcome the on-slaughts of hostile forces.

एवा पाहि प्रत्नथा मन्दतु त्वा श्रुधि ब्रह्म वावृधस्वात गीभिः ।

3. Evā pāhi pratnathā mandatu tvā śrudhi brahma vāvṛdhasvota gīrbhiḥ. Āviḥ sūryaṁ kṛṇuhi pīpihīṣo jahi śatrūṅrabhi gā indra tṛndhi.

Thus protect and promote life and humanity as ever before, and let the adventure give you the pride of pleasure. Listen to the Veda, protect the Word of knowledge, and be exalted by our songs of celebration. Uncover the light of the sun, enjoy food and drink, destroy the hostilities, release the speech of humanity to freedom, and unshackle the lands from bondage into liberty.

4. Te tvā madā bṛhadindra svadhāva ime pītā ukṣayanta dyumantam. Mahāmanūnaṁ tavasaṁ vibhūtiṁ-matsurāso jarhṛṣanta prasāham.

Indra, self-refulgent lord of your own essential power and grandeur, exalted ruler, may these drinks of soma thus enjoyed shower you with the joy and ecstasy of victory. So do the people moved with the excitement of self-confidence and divine exaltation celebrate you, great, perfect, potent, magnificent, and victorious yet forbearing lord of power as you are.

5. Yebhiḥ sūryam-uṣasaṁ mandasāno'vāsayo'pa dṛḷhāni dardrat. Mahāmadriṁ pari gā indra santaṁ nutthā acyutaṁ sadasaspari svāt.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, by the powers and forces with which you place the sun in orbit and rouse the dawn on course, and vest them both in light and splendour, and with which you break the strongest mountain asunder, by the same power and force, O lord of love and bliss, from your own assembly seat, inspire and strengthen the great inexhaustible human energy, generous as cloud of showers, across the earth to rise and shine.

तव कत्वा तव तद्दंसनाभिरामासु पक्वं शच्या नि दीधः। आणादुर्वं उस्रियाभ्या वि दृ हादूवाद्रा अंसृजा अङ्गिरस्वान ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tava kratvā tava tad daṁsanābhir-āmāsu pakvaṁ śacyā ni dīdhaḥ. Aurṇordura usriyābyo vi dṛḷhodūrvād gā asṛjo aṅgirasvān.

With your wisdom, holy deeds and divine power, you develop ripeness in the unripe and maturity in the immature minds and open the strong doors and fill them with light for the bright people. Thus does the lord of life and breath energy of freedom liberate the lands and their speech from the violence of tyrants.

7. Paprātha kṣāṁ mahi daṁso vyurvīmupa dyāmṛṣvo bṛhadindra stabhāyaḥ. Adhārayo rodasī devaputre pratne mātarā yahvī ṛtasya.

Indra, almighty lord of glorious action and potential, you create, pervade and sustain the wide earth and heaven and you sustain, support and order the compact earth, heaven and the expansive universe, and you sustain the compact earth, firmament and the solar sphere, ancient, great and generous mothers of the children of divinity and themselves the children of mother Prakrti and the divine law of nature.

8. Adhā tvā viśve pura indra devā ekaṁ tavasaṁ dadhire bharāya. Adevo yadabhyauhiṣṭa devāntsvarṣātā vṛṇata indramatra.

Indra, lord almighty of bliss and enlightenment, all the noble powers of nature and humanity hold on to you, lord absolute and omnipotent, for success in their life's endeavours. And when anyone bereft of light engages in contest against the enlightened, then the enlightened people maintain their faith in the heavenly power and win the battle for light and bliss here itself.

9. Adha dyauścit te apa sā nu vajrād dvitānamad bhiyasā svasya manyoḥ. Ahiṁ yadindro abhyohasānaṁ ni cid viśvāyuḥ śayathe jaghāna.

And then even the light of heaven doubly bows to you, first in awe of the thunderbolt and then also in awe of your majesty of divine passion, when Indra, cosmic energy, strikes the approaching dark cloud and lays it down in showers and sends it to sleep.

अध॒ त्वष्टा॑ त म॒ह उ॑ग्र॒ वज्रं॑ स॒हस्र॑भृष्टिं ववृतच्छ॒ताश्रि॑म।

O lord of blazing glory, simple, natural and forceful, Tvashta, the cosmic maker of forms, shaped in nature the mighty hundred-angled thousand pointed thunderbolt of your cherished design for relentless strikes by which you break the roaring cloud of darkness for showers of rain in the cycle of seasons.

Indra, O potent spirit of the cosmos, let all vibrant creative and constructive forces of nature and humanity join in unison and exalt you, ruler of the world, ripening and maturing a hundred mighty gifts of vitality in your service. May Vishnu, omnipresent sustaining power of universal nourishment, ever active on the move, fill the three oceans of earth, heaven and the middle regions with life giving nectar of bliss and excitement for this Indra to break down the cloud of darkness, evil and want.

आ गादो महि वृतं नदीनां परिष्ठितमसृज ऊर्मिमपाम।

12. Ā kṣodo mahi vṛtaṁ nadīnāṁ pariṣṭhitamasṛja ūrmimapām. Tāsāmanu pravata indra panthāṁ prārdayo nīcīrapasaḥ samudram.

Indra, ruling power of the world, creates the great flood of the rivers collected and controlled all round and releases the waves of the waters to flow. Accordingly he prepares the paths of water movement downward and lets the waters join the sea (thereby completing the natural cycle of water energy across the three oceans).

एवा ता विश्वा चकृवांसमिन्दं महामुगमजुर्यं सहोदाम।

3. Evā tā viśvā cakṛvāṁsam-indraṁ mahāmugram-ajuryaṁ sahodām. Suvīraṁ tvā svāyudhaṁ suvajramā brahma navyam-avase vavṛtyāt.

Thus may our new homage of praise, prayer and yajnic service reach Indra, omnipotent lord of the universe, absolute doer of all actions, mighty, refulgent, unaging and imperishable, giver of strength and forbearance, commander of heroes, all armed and wielder of the thunderbolt of nature's cyclic energy, and may our prayer move the lord for our protection and progress.

14. Sa no vājāya śravasa iṣe ca rāye dhehi dyumata indra viprān. Bharadvāje nṛvata indra sūrīn divi ca smaidhi pārye na indra.

May Indra, lord ruler of the universe, accept us, vibrant seekers of light, for the gift of speed and progress toward victory, honour and excellence, food and energy, and all round wealth of life. May Indra bless the brave leaders of humanity, and may the lord establish us all in the light of divinity and guide us on the path of total worldly fulfilment and freedom of ultimate salvation.

अया वाजं देवहितं सनेम मदेम शतहिमाः सुवीराः ॥ १५ ॥

15. Ayā vājaṁ devahitaṁ sanema madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Thus do we offer ardent praise and seek to share divine favour and inspiration fit for dedicated humanity and pray we may live happy a full hundred years blest with noble and heroic generations of progeny.

Mandala 6/Sukta 18

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

तमु ष्टुहि य अभिभूत्योजा वन्वन्नवातः पुरुहूत इन्द्रः ।
अषाळ्हमुग्रं सहमानमाभिर्गीर्भिर्वर्धा वृषभं चर्षणीनाम ॥ १ ॥

1. Tamu ṣṭuhi yo abhibhūtyojā vanvannavātaḥ puruhūta indraḥ. Aṣāḷhamugraṁ sahamānam-ābhirgīrbhir-vardha vṛṣabhaṁ carṣaṇīnām.

Adore him who tames and controls brute force, loves and shares life with all, unshaken and all admired, that is Indra, potent ruler of the world, intrepidable, blazing refulgent, challenging yet forbearing, most generous and creative of people. With these words of celebration, exalt him, and you too would rise.

2. Sa yudhmaḥ satvā khajakṛt samadvā tuvimrakṣo nadanumāň ṛjīṣī. Bṛhadreṇuṣ-cyavano mānuṣī-ṇāmekaḥ kṛṣṭīnām-abhavat sahāvā.

Indra is a hero, strong and realistic, a warrior, socially committed, all loving and friendly, eloquent, simple, natural and honest, dynamic, stormy in movement, and a unique embodiment of courage and tolerance among the best of thinking humanity.

त्वं ह नु त्यदददमाया दस्यूँरकः कृष्टीरवनारायाय । अस्ति स्विन्नु वीर्यं१ तत्त इन्द्र न स्विदस्ति तदृतुथा वि वचः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Tvaṁ ha nu tyadadamāyo dasyūňrekaḥ kṛṣṭīra-vanorāryāya. Asti svinnu vīryaṁ tat ta indra na svidasti tadṛtuthā vi vocaḥ.

Indra, you for sure are the one who fight out and control the wicked and violent elements and bring the world communities together for a united world of progressive and cultured humanity. That indeed is your strength, real heroism, is it not? Pray speak of that courage, competence and vision according to the needs of time and season.

सदिद्धि ते तुविजातस्य मन्य सहः सहिष्ठ तुरतस्तुरस्य।

4. Sadiddhi te tuvijātasya manye sahaḥ sahiṣṭha turatasturasya. Ugramugrasya tavasastavīyo'radhrasya radhraturo babhūva.

Real and true indeed is the courage and tolerance of the world hero, yours all, I believe, O boldest and most forbearing warrior, which defines the light, power and victory of the ruler who is the instant victor over the victorious, blazing over the violent, stronger than the strongest and most powerful non-violent destroyer of the destructive.

5. Tannaḥ pratnaṁ sakhyamastu yuṣme itthā vadadbhir-valamaṅgirobhiḥ. Hannacyutacyud dasmeṣayantamṛṇoḥ puro vi duro asya viśvāḥ.

That age-old friendship of ours with you may, we pray, be firmly established in you and remain thus with the vibrant celebrants too who speak this same way in praise of you, and just as the sun breaks the cloud and opens the flood gates of rain showers, so may you, O lord imperishable and generous, shaker of the otherwise unshaken, destroy the darkness of evil, inspire and advance the dynamic leaders, and open all the gates of the human cities on the world highways.

6. Sa hi dhībhir-havyo astyugra īśānakṛn-mahati vṛtratūrye. Sa tokasātā tanaye sa vajrī vitanta-sāyyo abhavat samatsu.

That is the lord worthy of homage with all our intelligence and holy actions, refulgent maker of leaders and achievers in the great human struggle against evil and deprivation. That wielder of adamantine power is to be exalted and glorified in the battles of humanity for the advancement and progress of our children and grand children for future generations.

7. Sa majmanā janima mānuṣāṇām-amatryena nāmnāti pra sarsre.Sa dyumnena sa śavasota rāyā sa vīryeṇa nṛtamaḥ samokāḥ.

With immortal power he continues and extends the name and identity of humanity and, as highest leader of supreme human virtues and all pervasive with human presence, he advances the human generations with honour and excellence, courage and valour, wealth and fame, and manly vigour and splendour.

8. Sa yo na muhe na mithū jano bhūt suman-tunāmā cumuriṁ dhuniṁ ca. Vṛṇak pipruṁ śambaraṁ śuṣṇamindraḥ purāṁ cyautnāya śayathāya nū cit.

The man who never suffers from error, never feels bewildered, stupefied, infatuated or perverted but remains self-possessed, conscious of his essential identity and constancy of character, who shakes the ogre, the hoarder, the vociferous bully and the exploiter, and favours the generous, peace loving and enlightened persons, is Indra, worthy to be the ruler for the peace and progress of the common-wealth of nations for sure.

9. Udāvatā tvakṣasā panyasā ca vṛtrahatyāya ratham-indra tiṣṭha. Dhiṣva vajraṁ hasta ā dakṣiṇatrā'bhi pra manda purudatra māyāḥ.

And by raising and refining the admirable power of action, O lord ruler and sovereign, ascend your chariot for the battle of life against darkness and deprivation. Take up the thunderous weapon of power and force in the right hand, generous lord, shine in all your majesty and glory of action and destroy the force and wiles of the enemy.

10. Agnirna śuṣkaṁ vanamindra hetī rakṣo ni dhakṣyaśanirna bhīmā. gambhīraya ṛṣvayā yo rujojādhvānayad duritā dambhayacca.

Just as fire burns down dry forest woods to ash, so Indra, O lord ruler awful as thunder, shatter the forces of terror and destruction, you who, with a mighty blow of the weapon of justice and punishment, crush the evils of fear, deceit and terror.

11. Ā sahasraṁ pathibhirindra rāyā tuvidyumna tuvivājebhirarvāk. Yāhi sūno sahaso yasya nū cidadeva īśe puruhūta yotoḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, lord of abundant wealth, power, honour and excellence, child of omnipotence, universally invoked and adored, who join and reshape the uniform and various powers of nature and humanity, come here to a thousand devotees by a thousand ways with wealth of a thousand forms of food, energy and advancement, lord whose favour and friendship even the semipious desire to have.

The greatness and glory of this lord of abundance, most ancient and venerable, self-refulgent tamer of evil, transcends the bounds of the earth. There is no enemy, no equal measure or rival, nor any defined seat of stability of this self-sufficient, omnipotent and forbearing lord.

Refulgent lord, brilliant sages of the world rejoice in unison with you in honour as the dispeller of demonic darkness and adore you as wisest of divine visionaries since, adored and exalted by them, you bring gifts of freedom and deliverance for the distressed as well as for the brilliant and give them health and material well being.

Indra, lord omnipotent, heaven and earth and the immortals and brilliants of nature and humanity move in observance of that support and splendour of yours. O lord of action, inspire us to accomplish what is yet to be accomplished and to create the latest songs of adoration by yajnas and yajnic acts of social development for all.

O children of the earth, for the sake of you all here in the world, we invoke, invite and adore that lord Indra, fearless giver of joy, with all his power and forces, in pursuit of knowledge, peace and progress, just as the sagely celebrants of all time do and live blameless, irreproachable, and safe and secure against fear and injury.

Indeed all wealth, powers and honours of the world move, each in its own right course, and concentrate in him just as the rivers flow and all together join and concentrate in the sea.

11. Marutvantaṁ vṛṣabhaṁ vāvṛdhānamakavāriṁ divyaṁ śāsamindram. Viśvāsāhamavase nūtanāyograṁ sahodāmiha taṁ huvema.

Here on the vedi of this dear green earth, for the protection of life and the environment and for progress of the latest order, we invoke, invite and celebrate Indra, lord of glory, commanding humanity and the winds, generously valorous, ever rising, free from detractors, divinely refulgent, all ruling, all forbearing and victorious, illustrious giver of both tolerance and fighting power over evil for victory of the good for constant growth.

12. Janaṁ vajrin mahi cinmanyamānam-ebhyo nṛbhyo randhayā yeṣvasmi. Adhā hi tvā pṛthivyāṁ śūrasātau havāmahe tanaye goṣvapsu.

O lord of the thunderbolt of power, justice and punishment, humble that man who proudly holds himself as the greatest and mightiest against these people among whom I live and justify my existence. And now, O lord, for the sake of these very people on earth and in the battles of the brave for victory, we invoke, invite and celebrate you among our children, our cows, our lands and waters, and in the onward flow of our life and progress.

We are yours, O lord universally invoked and adored, and we pray that by these friendly words and acts of service we may be constantly superior to one enemy after another enemy of life and progress, fighting out and destroying the evils of darkness and want in both spiritual and material fields of life on earth, so that, under the umbrella of your protection and guidance, we may enjoy life with wealth, honour and excellence, rising higher and higher.

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. Dyaurna ya indrābhi bhūmāryastasthau rayiḥ śavasā pṛtsu janān. Taṁ naḥ sahasrabharam-urvarāsāṁ daddhi sūno sahaso vṛtraturam.

Indra, lord of life, creator giver of strength, commander of power and forbearance, give us that wealth and life's value and that master ruling power vast as skies and bright as sun which, by its intrinsic strength of character can stand by people in the face of hostile forces in our struggle for progress, fight a thousand battles with success, give us lands of fertility and smiling greenery, and overcome the darkness of ignorance, poverty and injustice.

2. Divo na tubhyamanvindra satrā'suryaṁ deve-bhirdhāyi viśvam. Ahiṁ yad vṛtramapo vavriv-āṁsaṁ hannṛjīṣin viṣṇunā sacānaḥ.

Indra, ruler of the world, observer of the original law and keeper of the honest simplicity of natural conduct, when in union with omnipresent Vishnu, omnipotent cosmic energy, you break the cloud of serpentine motion holding showers of the waters of life in hiding, then, together with the showers, universal life breath of vital energies is received, like light of the sun from heaven, by the brilliancies of humanity and of nature such as earth to bless you and your people.

3. Tūrvannojīyān tavasastavīyān kṛtabrahmendro vṛddhamahāḥ. Rājābhavanmadhunaḥ somyasya viśvāsāṁ yat purāṁ dartumāvat.

Indra, refulgent and illustrious leader, is mightiest of the mighty. Breaking the clouds for shower, having created abundance of food, energy and literature of vision and wisdom, and having raised a team of veteran assistants, he becomes the real ruler of humanity, commander of honey sweets of peace and joy and saviour of all cities of the common wealth against the assailant and destroyer.

4. Śatairapadran paṇaya indrātra daśoṇaye kavaye'rkasātau. Vadhaiḥ śuṣṇasyāśuṣasya māyāḥ pitvo nārirecīt kiṁ cana pra.

Here in the world of business and administration in the advancement of life and light for the men of vision and wisdom protected from all ten directions, misers, thieves and robbers all run off by a hundred onslaughts of the ruler's admirers. Indra, O lord ruler of light and life, can any one exhaust, surpass or defeat the power, knowledge and abundance of the mighty and generous ruling order? None.

5. Maho druho apa viśvāyu dhāyi vajrasya yat patane pādi śuṣṇaḥ. Uru ṣa sarathaṁ sārathaye karindraḥ kutsāya sūryasya sātau.

When on the fall of the mighty thunderbolt of justice and punishment the demon of darkness and denial is fallen and the sustaining force of all hate, jealousy and enmity is withdrawn, then the mighty Indra, further, opens and extends the field for the positive leaders and pioneers of vision, creativity and power for the nation on the march in the higher battle of light and culture.

6. Pra śyeno na madiramaṁśumasmai śiro dāsasya namucermathāyan. Prāvannamīṁ sāpyaṁ sasantaṁ pṛṇagrāyā samiṣā saṁ svasti.

Crushing the head of the violent destroyer, churning the mind of the persistent sabotager to correction, saving the humbled opponent at the end of his tether now lying at peace for mercy, and providing all such with adequate means and materials with food and sustenance for a life of comfort and well being, the leader, commander, ruler, Indra, like a victorious eagle, should bring the exhilarating drink of new life and joy of celebration for this social order.

7. Vi piprorahimāyasya drḷhāḥ puro vajriñchavasā na dardaḥ. Sudāman tad rekṇo apramṛṣyam-ṛjiśvane dātraṁ dāśuṣe dāḥ.

O lord of the power of thunderbolt, with your power and force, pray never destroy the strongholds and cities of the protective and promotive leader of versatile genius and competence. Instead, O lord of generosity, for such a philanthropic leader of simple and honest law and conduct of pious virtue, provide generous gifts and grants of irresistible and permanent value.

8. Sa vetasuṁ daśamāyaṁ daśoṇiṁ tūtujimindraḥ svabhiṣṭisumnaḥ. Ā tugraṁ śaśvadibhaṁ dyotanāya māturna sīmupa sṛjā iyadhyai.

Indra, refulgent ruler commanding noble peace and cherished well being, in order to continuously advance the dominion and raise it to splendour, adopt, nurse and promote the world famous, ten ways versatile, ten ways expansive, powerful and ambitiously receptive and progressive social order as your own family, just as the mother elephant nurses, guides and promotes her calf to maturity without let up.

9. Sa īṁ spṛdho vanate apratīto bibhrad vajraṁ vṛtrahaṇaṁ gabhastau. Tiṣṭhaddharī adhyasteva garte vacoyujā vahata indramṛṣvam.

Indra, glorious ruler, enemies unknown, takes on and wins over the rivals and contenders and, wielding the cloud-breaking thunderbolt in hand and settled in his dominion seat of power, he aims like an archer and rides his chariot driven by word-controlled horse powers which drive the mighty ruler over the expanse of his dominion.

10. Sanema te'vasā navya indra pra pūravaḥ stavanta enā yajñaiḥ. Sapta yat puraḥ śarma śāradīrdardhan dāsīḥ purukutsāya śikṣan.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, by virtue of your protection and promotion, we enjoy the latest gifts of life, and the citizens adore you by these programmes of yajna since you establish seven cities for comfortable living, open out seven abundant autumnal streams against drought and deprivation, and destroy all forms of slavery and impiety for the education and advancement of the heroic wielder of power and weapons of defence.

11. Tvaṁ vṛdha indra pūrvyo bhūrvarivas-yannuśane kāvyāya. Parā navavāstvaman-udeyaṁ mahe pitre dadātha svaṁ napātam.

Indra, lord ruler of honour and excellence, knowledge, wisdom and generosity, be the first and foremost leader in the service of the great advancing human nation, specially for the inspired and ambitious pioneer of art, science and culture. Give the best and latest home and infrastructure worthy of being granted to the great father figure of future development which must not be self-destructive or self-defeating in any way.

12. Tvaṁ dhunirindra dhunimatīrṛṇorapaḥ sīrā na sravantīḥ. Pra yat samudramati śūra parṣi pārayā turvaśaṁ yaduṁ svasti.

Indra, you are the shaker and arouser of life and passion. Arouse, accelerate and control the roaring streams of the nation's life and wealth like the pulsating veins and arteries of the human system. O brave hero, you cross the seas and traverse the skies, let there be peace and well being with the industrious, self-controlled and dynamic humanity.

13. Tava ha tyadindra viśvamājau sasto dhunīcu-murī yā ha siṣvap. Dīdayadit tubhyaṁ somebhiḥ sunvan dabhītiridhmabhṛtiḥ pakthyarkaiḥ.

Indra, lord sustainer and giver of peace and joy, in the business of life, all that roaring action or sufferance or consumption, all is your world, for you : the idle, the restful, the sleeping, the shining, the violent, the faithful bearing holy fuel, the cook, whether preparing soma with sacred work or doing homage with songs and prayers of adoration, everything is yours, all is for you.

1. Imā u tvā purutamasya kārorhavyaṁ vīra havyā havante. Dhiyo ratheṣṭhāmajaraṁ navīyo rayirvibhūtirīyate vacasyā.

Heroic Indra, leader of the world, you are ageless, ever new, ever fresh. These creations of the most versatile artist worthy of presentation glorify you, adorable lord, and they are offered to you in homage since all creations of intelligence, all wealth and celebrated glory reach you, lord of the nation's chariot, and everything flows from you.

Indra is the lord omniscient who alone knows the ultimate mystery of existence. I adore and glorify him who is the ultimate content of all speech, who is exalted by songs of adoration in yajnas, and whose glory by its sublimity and omnipotence transcends the light of heaven and the magnitude of the world of nature.

3. Sa it tamo'vayunaṁ tatanvat sūryeṇa vayuna-vaccakāra. Kadā te martā amṛtasya dhāmeya-kṣanto na minanti svadhāvaḥ.

The lord of his own absolute omniscience and omnipotence illuminates the world of darkness and ignorance by the light of expansive knowledge like the sun which dispels the darkness of night. The mortals, O lord immortal, who seek to join your domain never violate your laws.

Who is that Indra and where, that lord omnipotent who does all those things? Which people does he favour and visit? Among which community or nation? O lord omnipotent, which sacred act of yajna is that which pleases you at heart and gives you the satisfaction of your choice? What sort of praise and adoration? Who is the yajaka you listen to and respond?

Indra, lord of knowledge and power, brave leader and ruler of the world, the seekers of truth young and old, ancient and modern all, trying to know you by question and answer in faith, go by the Word which is eternal and highest. O lord giver of divine vision, sustainer of the life and wealth of existence, the more we know, the greater we find you and worship you as lord supreme.

May he, Indra, the lord all-knowing, know us and enlighten us, the leader who goes forward as pioneer over paths both easy and difficult, carving new channels of progress over annals of history, and may he bring us those modes of energy, power and transport which are wide and versatile beyond wear and tear, indefatigable, inexhaustible.

The one sole lord of humanity worthy of yajnic homage is Indra, whom I adore with these words of praise. He it is, lord generous, giver of showers of strength and bliss, eternal, imperishable, omnificent, omnipotent and forbearing who protects and sustains life as supreme father and guardian.

Him our ancient forefathers and the seven sages, like our five senses, mind and intellect, alongwith their fellow men, have celebrated and glorified, the lord that is tamer and controller of opposition, saviour from suffering, pervasive in clouds and over mountains, sweet of tongue and strongest in force and power.

If the voice and words of a person are vibrant with devotion and eloquent with enquiry in right earnest about Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, wielder of the thunderbolt in hand, riding the chariot of life, strong with iron grasp, bold in action, giver of tempestuous strength and commander of cosmic force, then such a person wins the lord's favour of dominion over land for food, energy and the happiness of his heart's desire.

May Indra, lord of infinite knowledge and power, bless us and you all with the best and latest vision and intelligence in order that we may adore and glorify the omnipotent eternal lord as ever, and may the lord saviour of the celestial chariot bring the universal strength of action, otherwise unattainable, and take us across all impassable impediments.

Let them feel the heat and light of the blaze from all sides, heat up even the green earth and cool waters for them and thus let them be cleansed through suffering and penitence.

Indra, self-refulgent ruler of earth and the world of light, of humanity and the moving world, ageless lord of light and justice, take the thunderbolt of light and justice in the right hand, destroy the wiles of the wicked and give the light of knowledge to the seekers.

Indra, lord of adamantine will and power, ruler of the world, bring in that wide ranging and inviolable peace and well being in a state of constant vigilance and dynamism to win over enmity and opposition by which darkness and ignorance can be replaced by light and knowledge and the lower and average orders of society can be raised to higher state of enlightenment and action.

O lord all wise and worshipful, universally adored and invited, come to us by well controlled and well directed modes and means of advancement with those laws and policies of universal interest and value and application, which neither the impious obstruct nor the pious camouflage. Come straight here to us with these without delay.

1. Suta it tvaṁ nimiśla indra some stome brahmaṇi śasyamāna ukthe. Yad vā yuktābhyāṁ maghavan haribhyāṁ bibhrad vajraṁ bāhvorindra yāsi.

Indra, lord of honour, wealth and excellence of the world, when the soma is distilled, songs of prayer and adoration are sung and the music of Vedic hymns swells in the air, and when you move and come, one with us, loving and ecstatic, drawn by your own fiery motive powers of saving grace and holding the thunderbolt in hand, you are great and glorious.

2. Yad vā divi pārye soṣvimindra vṛtrahatye'vasi śūrasātau. Yad vā dakṣasya bibhyuṣo abibyad-arandhayaḥ śardhata indra dasyūn.

Or when, O mighty lord Indra, free from fear, you protect the creator of the soma of life's joy in the battle of the brave for the elimination of darkness and want and for advancement of light and showers of love and cherished prosperity, or when you scare away even the mighty fearsome warriors against life, you shine in divine glory. O lord Indra, we pray, subdue the forces of violence, fear and destruction.

3. Pātā sutamindro astu somaṁ praṇenīrugro jaritāramūtī. Kartā vīrāya suṣvaya u lokaṁ dātā vasu stuvate kīraye cit.

May Indra, ruler of the world, be protector of the joy of life created with cooperative effort under divine guidance. May the lord of splendour be the leader to guide the celebrant to the desired goal in protection and security of justice. May the lord be the creator of a world of beauty for the brave who endeavour to contribute to the health and joy of life. May the lord bless the divine poet and celebrant with wealth and prosperity in life.

4. Ganteyānti savanā haribhyāṁ babhrirvajraṁ papiḥ somaṁ dadirgāḥ. Kartā vīraṁ naryaṁ sarvavīraṁ śrotā havaṁ gṛṇataḥ stomavāhāḥ.

Listen ye all celebrants and yajakas, Indra, ruler of the world, is he who reaches all programmes of positive and creative development by the fastest transport with dynamic experts of theory and practice both, who wields thunderous power and weapons, protects, promotes and shares the soma, invigorating joys of life, gives cows, fertile lands and brilliant words of wisdom and guiding policy, creates bravest of the brave leaders, and listens and appreciates the songs and celebrations of the admirers among the people.

5. Asmai vayaṁ yad vāvāna tad viviṣma indrāya yo naḥ pradivo apaskaḥ. Sute some stumasi śaṁsa-dukthendrāya brahma vardhanaṁ yathāsat.

Whatever Indra, lord ruler of light and love, wishes, we do for him since he creates for us the holy acts and does all other divine acts of sustenance. When the soma is distilled and the songs of praise arise, we celebrate and exalt him so that knowledge, food, energy and moral rectitude may arise and grow the way it should.

6. Brahmāṇi hi cakṛṣe vardhanāni tāvat ta indra matibhir-viviṣmaḥ. Sute some sutapāḥ śanta-māni rāndryā kriyāsma vakṣaṇāni yajñaiḥ.

Indra, lord ruler, the more noble acts of growth and development you do, the more with our intelligentsia and our people we do our acts of duty for you. O lord lover of honour and excellence, when the work is done, the soma is distilled and the time is come for celebration, we do praise worthy acts with yajnas and sing most delightful songs of joy in your honour.

7. Sa no bodhi puroḷāśaṁ rarāṇaḥ pibā tu somaṁ gorjīkamindra. Edaṁ barhir-yajamānasya sīdo-ruṁ kṛdhi tvāyata u lokam.

Indra, lord of majesty, know and enlighten us, happily taste the delicious pudding and drink the exhilarating soma seasoned with cow's milk so soothing to the mind and senses. Come, be seated on the yajamana's vedi, and create a wider and higher world of beauty for your devotees.

8. Sa mandasvā hyanu joṣamugra pra tvā yajñāsa ime aśnuvantu. Preme havāsaḥ puruhūtamasme ā tveyaṁ dhīravasa indra yamyāḥ.

Indra, refulgent lord, enjoy and rejoice in response to these yajnic acts of our homage as they may please you, and may these our addresses of invocation reach you, lord universally loved, and may this song of adoration and enlightened awareness appeal to you for our protection and advancement.

तं वः सखायः सं यथा सुतषु सामभिरीं पृणता भाजमिन्दम।

9. Taṁ vaḥ sakhāyaḥ saṁ yathā suteṣu somebhirīṁ pṛṇatā bhojamindram. Kuvit tasmā asati no bharāya na suṣvimindro'vase mṛdhāti.

O friends, in all your acts of divine service, admire and adore Indra, lord giver of light and food, with yajnic offers of water and endeavours of creative joy dedicated to him so that the great and magnanimous lord would be gracious in the sustenance and protection of you and us all, since he never forsakes the earnest creator of soma.

एवदिन्दः सुत अस्तावि सामं भरद्वाजषु ायदिन्मघानः।

10. Evedindraḥ sute astāvi some bharadvājeṣu kṣayadinmaghonaḥ. Asad yathā jaritra uta sūririndro rāyo viśvavārasya dātā.

Thus is Indra admired and adored among saints and scholars in the world of honour and excellence when the soma is distilled and ready for celebration so that he, lord of honour, power and knowledge, may settle and abide by men of power and prosperity and be the giver of universal wealth of value to the devoted celebrant.

Mandala 6/Sukta 24

Indra Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

वृषा मद इन्द्र श्लाक उक्था सचा सामसु सुतपा ऋजीषी ।

1. Vṛṣā mada indre śloka ukthā sacā someṣu sutapā ṛjīṣī. Arcatryo maghavā nṛbhya ukthairdyukṣo rājā girāmakṣitotiḥ.

Indra, refulgent ruler, is generous as a cloud of showers in the holy programmes of peace and progress of the social order, joy incarnate, delightful as a poem, sacred as a hymn, loved as a friend, lover and protector of the people's happiness and achievement, simple, honest and natural in conduct, admired, revered and consecrated for the people and celebrated by the holiest of their voices, lord of honour, power and glory wrapped in heavenly light, inviolable, ever protective, a very haven of peace and security.

2. Taturirvīro naryo vicetāḥ śrotā havaṁ gṛṇatā urvyūtiḥ. Vasuḥ śaṁso narāṁ kārudhāyā vājī stuto vidathe dāti vājam.

Pressing fast forward against the enemies, brave, leader of leaders, wide awake and all aware, attentive to the call of the supplicant, all round protector of the people, haven and home and real asset of the nation, admired by the people, patron of artists and expert professionals, swift and powerful, adored in yajnic programmes, Indra, the ruler, gives speed and sustenance to the nation's progress.

3. Akṣo na cakryoḥ śūra bṛhan pra te mahnā ririce rodasyoḥ. Vṛkṣasya nu te puruhūta vayā vyūtayo ruruhūrindra pūrvīḥ.

Like the axis of two moving bodies such as two wheels or stars and planets or sun and earth, O mighty lord of majesty, Indra, universally invoked and adored, the eternal processes of your creation, protection and promotion of the expansive universe grow and extend like the branches of a tree by virtue of your infinite power and excel the light of the sun and generosity of the earth.

4. Śacīvataste puruśāka śākā gavāmiva srutayaḥ saṁcaraṇīḥ. Vatsānāṁ na tantayasta indra dāmanvanto adāmānaḥ sudāman.

Indra, refulgent lord ruler of the world, destroyer of suffering, manifold are your deeds, unbounded your intelligence, and countless your people. The abundant streams of your generous acts are expansive, associative and convergent like waves of light rays and paths of cows and orbits of stars, and, like tethers of the calves and axes of planets, they are controllers and yet givers of freedom, O generous lord of law and liberty.

5. Anyadadya karvaramanyadu śvo'sacca sanmuhurācakririndraḥ. Mitro no atra varuṇaśca pūṣā'ryo vaśvasya paryetāsti.

Indra, our friend here, great and just, life giver and sustainer, master and over all controller of controllers does one act today, another tomorrow, creative and destructive, integrating and disintegrating, making and unmaking, and goes on doing thus again and again in a positive cyclic order.

Indra, lord of beneficence sung and celebrated in hymns of holiness, just as warriors rush to battle for victory, so do joyous devotees and celebrants eager for karmic action and life's victory hasten to you with homage and yajnas performed with these hymns of praise and songs of adoration, and then, just as rain showers pour from the heights of clouds and streams flow down from the top of mountains, so do fruits of piety and gifts of divine grace shower down and flow, from you.

7. Na yaṁ jaranti śarado na māsā na dyāva indramavakarśayanti. Vṛddhasya cid vardhatāmasya tanūḥ stomebhir-ukthaiśca śasyamānā.

Winters and years wither him not, nor months weaken him, nor the sun and days wear out Indra celebrated by hymns of divine praise and songs of adoration. May the existential manifestation of the lord supreme, eternal Indra grow on and on in majesty. May the body and mind of this eternal jiva, individual soul, grow by the chant of sacred songs and hymns of divine praise.

8. Na vīḷave namate na sthirāya na śardhate dasyujūtāya stavān. Ajrā indrasya girayaścidṛṣvā gambhīre cid bhavati gādhamasmai.

He bows not to the strong and forceful, nor bends before the resolute, nor does he praise or flatter the bold nor anyone allied to the wicked. Mighty mountains are, for Indra, plain as fields, and for him the ocean in the depth becomes firm ground and a fordable flow.

Mighty lord, purifier and sanctifier of things in the world of creation, with deep love, profound purpose and grace unbound, give us abundance of food and energy and wide ranging knowledge and success. Stay with us constant with your protection high over us, at dawn and at dusk, night and day without hurt or let up.

10. Sacasva nāyamavase abhīka ito vā tamindra pāhi riṣaḥ. Amā cainamaraṇye pāhi riṣo madema śatahimāḥ suvīrāḥ.

Indra, ruling lord of the realm, be with us, our leadership and our policy, and justice for protection and progress. Save the system here and afar, at home and abroad, from fear and violence so that, blest with the brave, we may live and rejoice for a full hundred years.

Mandala 6/Sukta 25

1. Yā ta ūtiravamā yā paramā yā madhyamendra śuṣminnasti. Tābhirū ṣu vṛtrahatye'vīrna ebhiśca vājair-mahān na ugra.

Indra, mighty ruler, dispenser of justice and giver of inspiring vigour and vision, whatever your modes of safety and security at the primary level, whatever at the middle level and whatever of the highest level of the order, with all those protect us in the battle against darkness, want and negation, and bless us with these flights of progress and victory, O lord great and refulgent.

2. Ābhiḥ spṛdho mithatīrariṣaṇyannamitrasya vyathayā manyumindra. Ābhirviśvā abhiyujo viṣūcīrāryāya viśo'va tārīrdāsīḥ.

Indra, mighty ruler and commander, with these forces of defence and protection engaged in action, break down the pride and morale of the enemy and, with these, without loss of men and materials or interests of the country, protect and advance the cooperative powers employed across the land, the people, and the services for the noble citizens of the nation.

3. Indra jāmaya uta ye'jāmayo 'rvācīnāso vanuṣo yuyujre. Tvameṣāṁ vithurā śavāṁsi jahi vṛṣṇyāni kṛṇuhī parācaḥ.

Indra, mighty ruler and commander of the common wealth, whether it is your own people or other distant ones or sabotagers who join upfront against you to injure the system, you destroy their forces of sabotage, eliminate their growing potential and throw them out.

4. Śūro vā śūraṁ vanate śarīrais-tanūrucā taruṣi yat kṛṇvaite. Toke vā goṣu tanaye yadapsu vi krandasī urvarāsu bravaite.

When the brave engage the brave in battle with brilliance of physical force of body, or when people argue, dispute and shout over rights and inheritance in relation to children and grand children, or about fertile lands and cows or waters, then, too, judge and resolve the dispute.

5. Nahi tvā śūro na turo na dhṛṣṇurna tvā yodho manyamāno yuyodha. Indra nakiṣṭvā pratya-styeṣāṁ viṣvā jātānyabhyasi tāni.

Neither the brave nor impetuous nor violent nor warrior, however great and proud, can stand and fight against you. Indra, lord almighty, none is your equal, none adversary, you are supreme over all those that are born and existent.

6. Sa patyata ubhayornṛmṇamayoryadī vedhasaḥ samithe havante. Vṛtre vā maho nṛvati kṣaye vā vyacasvantā yadi vitantasaite.

If two partners in the matter of integration or division or separation of finances or management of a large corporate organisation of men dispute, then he gets control of the money or the assets whom judges of piety and penetrative intelligence call upon to manage, and above all Indra, the ruler, is the ultimate master.

7. Adha smā te carṣaṇayo yadejānindra trātota bhavā varūtā. Asmākāso ye nṛtamāso arya indra sūrayo dadhire puro naḥ.

And also, O lord ruler and master, giver of honour and excellence, destroyer of evil and wickedness, Indra, be the saviour and protector of all your people specially of those who are stricken with fear. Be the defender and promoter of those people of ours who are the highest leading lights and bravest heroes who hold the forts and maintain the cities for us.

8. Anu re dāyi maha indriyāya satrā te viśvamanu vṛtrahatye. Anu kṣatramanu saho yajatrendra devebhiranu te nṛṣahye.

Consequently, O lord most adorable, supreme ruler, protector of life and destroyer of negation, appropriate to your greatness and majesty, in keeping with the honour and dignity of the world social order, and in view of the courage and fortitude required to face the challenges to humanity, the whole world is given unto you and entrusted, in truth, by the leading lights and brilliant visionaries of nations in the battle of light against darkness, of goodness against evil, and of prosperity against want and squalor.

Thus, O lord Indra, giver of honour and victory, we pray, inspire us to advance in our ambition to win over our rivals in the battles of life. O lord destroyer, subdue the warring forces of darkness and selfishness. Let us all, celebrants and men of knowledge and action, singing and celebrating your honour day and night, know you for sure and win the victories by virtue of your guidance and protection.

1. Śrudhī na indra hvayāmasi tvā maho vājasya sātau vāvṛṣāṇāḥ. Saṁ yad viśo'yanta śūrasātā ugraṁ no'vaḥ pārye ahan dāḥ.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of honour and excellence, listen to us: overwhelming and exuberant we call upon you in the great battle of sustenance and advancement. When the people march on in the battle of the brave, then on the decisive day give us the blazing passion of your force and protection to victory.

The war-like scion of a heroic family of learned leaders and scholars, seeker of a great new success just at hand in the field of food, energy, knowledge and progress, invokes you, Indra, potent lord victor, you saviour of devotees and defender of truth, and, fighting hand to hand, looks up to you at the decisive moment of victory for the acquisition of new wealths of light and development of lands, cows and branches of energy.

You enthuse and inspire the creative visionary in the work on solar energy, thunder and lightning. You break open the secrets of concentrated energy for the man of power and generosity. Thus you shake and subdue the head of invulnerable pride and intransigence and do praise-worthy service to the leader who honours and keeps open house for visiting scholars.

Indra, ruler and commander, you create and maintain an invulnerable war chariot and protect the strong fighting force shining in ten directions for days on end. In full dedication to the honour and brilliance of the social order, destroy violence and terror and advance the strong, promotive and allied powers that do honour to the nation.

Indra, mighty destroyer of evil and preserver of the good, it is praise worthy that with your great force you destroy a hundred thousand evils, O brave lord, and, with wondrous saving powers, release from the cloud pent up showers, so soothing and refreshing, and thus relieve and protect humanity dedicated as a liberal servant of divinity.

Indra, ruling lord destroyer and preserver, rejoicing with faithful homage and joyous celebrations of dedicated followers, you send the oppressive ogre to sleep in order to save the oppressed and, favouring the man of right conduct in keeping with your holiness, you give him the right direction and ward off a sixty thousand obstacles from his path.

Indra, bravest lord of the house of the brave, I pray, may I too, along with the learned and the wise and great, attain that high order of vigour and splendour, peace and well being, with the grace of your presence bestowed by you, lord of three worlds, which the brave and learned people value, admire and pray for.

Indra, greatest lord of grace and glory, may we, in this yajnic programme of power and prosperity of the human nation, be your dearest friends and supportive participants, and may the rising generosity and gracious glory of the world order rise highest in our battle against darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty for the achievement of all round prosperity and well being.

1. Kimasya made kimvasya pītāvindraḥ kimasya sakhye cakāra. Raṇā vā ye niṣadi kiṁ te asya purā vividre kimu nūtanāsaḥ.

What does Indra, destroyer of suffering, do in the ecstasy of this soma, for the beauty and glory of this order? What in the exuberance of the drink, in the joyous experience of its management and satisfaction therefrom? What in the friendly identity with it and its people? And what do they know and discern, the veterans and the youngest of the new generation, who joyously celebrate in the company of this Indra in the House? What do they gain?

Noble deeds of the truth of its reality does Indra perform in the rapture of its dignity, noble and true indeed when he drinks of the soma of that experience, nothing but the truth and dignity of action and policy in friendly identity with this social order. And they who joyously sit in his company in the House identified with the glory of this order, veterans as well as new ones, they too know and realise the truth and the reality, nothing but the truth, whole and undiluted.

यत्त निहतस्य शुष्मात्स्वनाच्चिदिन्द्र परमा ददार ॥ ४ ॥

4. Etat tyat ta indriyamaceti yenāvadhīrvara-śikhasya śeṣaḥ. Vajrasya yat te nihatasya śuṣmāt svanāccidindra paramo dadāra.

Indra, lord of power and perfection, this omnipotence of yours is apprehended when with it you strike and destroy the greatest and highest adversary to the very end, which too is just the tip of the might of omnipotence, and when, by the force of the mere roar and rumble of the thunderbolt hurled, the proudest enemy is shattered.

5. Vadhīdindro varaśikhasya śeṣo'bhyāvartine cāyamānāya śikṣan. Vṛcīvato yaddhariyūpīyāyāṁ han pūrve ardhe bhiyasāparo dart.

Just as Indra, the sun, breaks the cloud on high to the last drop of rain, so should Indra, eminent teacher as well as the ruler, in the act of giving instruction to the dedicated learners all round vigilant in a sustained manner, while giving them pioneering enlightenment in their love of scholars and scholarship, dispel their basic fear, ignorance and negative tendencies and thus eliminate the possibilities of later resurgence of evil with the healthy fear of unknown and unexpected consequences.

त्रिंशच्छतं वर्मिणं इन्द्र साकं यव्यावत्यां पुरुहूत श्रवस्या। वृचीवन्तः शरवे पत्यमानाः पात्रा भिन्दाना न्यर्थान्यायन॥ ६॥

6. Triṁśacchataṁ varmiṇa indra sākaṁ yavyāvatyāṁ puruhūta śravasyā. Vṛcīvantaḥ śarave patyamānāḥ pātrā bhindānā nyarthānyāyan.

Indra, mighty lord ruler universally invoked and honoured, let thirty hundred renowned warriors in armour in a well provided army in top gear breaking through the enemy lines, shattering the defences, achieve their decisive goal.

यस्य॒ गावा॑वरु॒षा सू॑यव॒स्यू अ॒न्तरू॒ षु चर॑ता॒ र॑रि॑हाणा। स सृञ्ज॑याय तु॒वशं॒ परा॑दाद वृ॒चीव॑ता दववा॒ताय॒ शि ॑न॥ ७॥

7. Yasya gāvāvaruśā sūyavasyū antarū ṣu carato rerihāṇā. Sa sṛñjayāya turvaśaṁ parādād vṛcīvato daivavātāya śikṣan.

The ruler whose power and law, internal policy and external defence, both like two healthy, ruddy and loving cows, well provided and happily self-satisfied, operate in the dominion, he, training the efficient force in radiative communication and productive science, would throw off the destructive elements of the state.

8. Dvayāň agne rathino viṁśatiṁ gā vadhūmato maghavā mahyaṁ samrāṭ. Abhyāvartī cāya-māno dadāti dūṇāśeyaṁ dakṣiṇā pārthavānām.

Agni, refulgent ruler, commanding wealth, power, honour and excellence, dynamic leader ever on the move for progress and victory, revered and celebrated all round, gives me both chariot warriors for defence of the nation and happy families and a team of twenty creative ministers to bear the burdens of the nation, which gift from any of global rulers is invulnerable indeed.

1. Ā gāvo agmannuta bhadram-akrantsīdantu goṣṭhe raṇayantvasme. Prajāvatīḥ pururūpā iha syurindrāya pūrvīruṣaso duhānāḥ.

Let the cows come as rays of the sun, sit and rest in the stalls, be happy and bring us happiness and good fortune. May they be fertile with many calves, of many colours and breeds, abundant, yielding plenty of milk for the health and prosperity of the nation, and thereby let them be harbingers of light like the morning dawns.

इन्द्रो॒ यज्व॑ने पृण॒ते च॑ शिक्ष॒त्युप॑द्दाति॒ न स्वं मु॑षायति।

2. Indro yajvane pṛṇate ca śikṣatyuped dadāti na svaṁ muṣāyati. Bhūyobhūyo rayimidasya vardhayannabhinne khilye ni dadhāti devayum.

Indra, the ruler, gives protection and maintenance grants to the man dedicated to yajna. He engages him in creative and educational work and thus gives him fulfilment and purpose in life. This way too he does not deplete his own knowledge and culture but maintains it. Constantly and continuously he adds to the wealth of the nation and, in every region of the land, he looks after and maintains the devotees of learning, society and divinity without taking away anything from them materially.

3. Na tā naśanti na dabhāti taskaro nāsāmāmitro vyathirā dadharṣati. Devāňśca yābhiryajate dadāti ca jyogit tābhiḥ sacate gopatiḥ saha.

Knowledge, fruits of yajna, generosity, patronage of learning and culture, these rays of light do not perish nor deplete nor fade away. The thief steals them not, no enemy can afflict them, nor can anyone injure or insult them. The lord of these cows, lights and radiations, with which he serves the divinities, learned and the wise, gives, creates and adds to life's beauty, also, he constantly and continuously lives, lasts and rises with them.

न ता अर्वा रꣳणुकꣳकाटा अश्नुत न संꣳस्कृत त्रमुपꣳ यन्ति ता अꣳभि। उꣳरुꣳगायमभꣳयꣳ तस्य ता अनु गावꣳा मतꣳस्य वि चꣳरन्ति यज्वꣳनः॥ ४॥

4. Na tā arvā reṇukakāṭo aśnute na saṁskṛtatra-mupa yanti tā abhi. Urugāyamabhayaṁ tasya tā anu gāvo martasya vi caranti yajvanaḥ.

Neither a vociferous brute raising clouds of dust like a war horse attains to these rays of light and culture, nor do these radiations penetrate the thick head of a violent man insulated against enlightenment. Like cows, the rays of refinement roam freely round the open pastures of the generous man of yajna and social service, a boundless world of freedom and fearlessness.

May Bhaga, lord of wealth and good fortune, give me cows. May Indra, lord of power and majesty, give me good cows. May Bhaksha, adorable lord of primal food, energy and ecstasy of life, give me good cows for milk. O people, O lord of power and glory, Indra, I love and love to have all that is cows, i.e., mothers of food and energy, sources of sweetness, light and culture, masters of knowledge and wisdom, honour and excellence. I love that all with my heart and mind, the beauty, the glory, the ecstasy!

6. Yūyaṁ gāvo medayathā kṛśaṁ cidaśrīraṁ cit kṛṇuthā supratīkam. Bhadraṁ gṛhaṁ kṛṇutha bhadravāco bṛhad vo vaya ucyate sabhāsu.

You develop the cows of life, mother spirits of body, mind and soul. Give health and vigour to the weak and emaciated, turn the ugly and unpleasant to beautiful, graceful and illustrious. Make the home overflow with peace, prosperity and the bliss of good fortune. You command noble speech in the assemblies of the wise and powerful leaders so that your life and work is praised and appreciated wide and high in the world.

प्रजावतीः सूयवसं रिशन्तीः शुद्धा अपः सुपपाण पिबन्तीः।

7. Prajāvatīḥ sūyavasaṁ riśantīḥ śuddhā apaḥ suprapāṇe pibantīḥ. Mā vaḥ stena īśata māghaśaṁsaḥ pari vo hetī rudrasya vṛjyāḥ.

O fertile and abundant cows blest with calves, feeding on fine green grass and drinking pure water from transparent pools, may no thief ever overpower you, may no strike of the cruel and sinful butcher ever slaughter you.

(Swami Dayanand applies this mantra to the duties of the ruler: The ruler should look after the cattle wealth of the country. The government must protect and promote the cows. Not only that. Even the people and their education culture and efficiency are, like the holy cow, to be protected against violence and promoted with good food and water and all means of prevention of social crime and violence.)

उपदमुपपचनमासु गाषूप पृच्यताम।
उप ऋषभस्य रतस्युपन्द तव वीय॥ ८॥

8. Upedamupaparcanamāsu goṣūpa pṛcyatām.
Upa ṛṣabhasya retasyupendra tava vīrye.

In this social order and in the policy, let there be a union and identity of the ruler with the people, their lands and their languages. Indra, noble and illustrious ruler, all giver, let the people share, join and support you in your creative acts of courage and development.

1. Indraṁ vo naraḥ sakhyāya sepurmaho yantaḥ sumataye cakānāḥ. Maho hi dātā vajrahasto asti mahāmu raṇvamavase yajadhvam.

O citizens of the land, leading lights of humanity in love with knowledge, wisdom and guidance, to win your friendship and to rise to the heights of life for your sake, honour and serve Indra, supreme ruler, lord of knowledge and power. Great is he, all giver, and wields the sceptre of light, power and justice. Join the great lord of love and joy and honour him with homage and yajnic service for protection and progress.

2. Ā yasmin haste naryā mimikṣurā rathe hiraṇyaye ratheṣṭhāḥ. Ā ráśmayo gabhastyoḥ sthūrayō rādhvannaśvāso vṛṣaṇo yujānāḥ.

Indra in whose hands are all the gifts of life for mankind rides the golden chariot of the cosmos, holding reins of the world in his mighty hands, controlling the potent forces of nature like horses on the course of time and destiny.

श्रिय त पादा दुव आ मिमि धृष्णुवजी शवसा दक्षिणावान। वसानो अत्कं सुरभिं दृश कं स्वर्णं नृतविषिरा बभूथ॥ ३॥

3. Śriye te pādā duva ā mimikṣurdhṛṣṇurvajrī śavasā dakṣiṇāvān. Vasāno atkaṁ surabhiṁ dṛśe kaṁ svarṇa nṛtaviṣiro babhūtha.

Gracious are your feet firmly fixed in liberality and compassion. The devotees offer their homage of soma there for glory. You are all conquering, wielder of the thunderbolt, mighty generous by your own essential power and munificence, and, wearing a fragrant, glorious and heavenly robe, blissful sight for all to see, O director of the cosmic dance, you are the all moving, all inspiring, omniscient presence and power.

स साम आमिश्लतमः सुता भूद्यस्मिन्पक्तिः पच्यत सन्ति धानाः। इन्द्रं नरः स्तुवन्त बह्मकारा उक्था शंसन्ता दववाततमाः॥ ४॥

4. Sa soma āmiślatamaḥ suto bhūd yasmin paktiḥ pacyate santi dhānāḥ. Indraṁ naraḥ stuvanto brahmakārā ukthā śaṁsanto devavātatamāḥ.

That is the blessed dominion of Indra, ideal world order raised to systemic purity and integrated to organismic unity wherein soma is distilled and seasoned in plenty, ample food is prepared for all, food grains are grown in abundance, and leading lights of the people, divinely occupied, sing songs of appreciation in praise of Indra and rise to the heights of excellence bordering on divinity.

5. Na te antaḥ śavaso dhāyyasya vi tu bābadhe rodasī mahitvā. Ā tā sūriḥ pṛṇati tūtujāno yūthevāpsu samījamāna ūtī.

No one can reach the end of your power, the force that binds up heaven and earth as a handful of dust in space. Still the man of courage and vision without fear, moving at supersonic speed under the cover of your protection, does attain that pleasure of fulfilment which a host of thirsty travellers finds at a shady fount of holy waters.

एवदिन्द्रः सुहव ऋष्वा अस्तूती अनूती हिरिशिपः सत्वा।

6. Evedindraḥ suhava ṛṣvo astūtī anūtī hiriśipraḥ satvā. Evā hi jāto asamātyojāḥ purū ca vṛtrā hanati ni dasyūn.

Thus may the lord sublime, omnipotent Indra, ever active in golden glory, listen to the prayers of universal humanity in all direct and indirect modes of divine protection and grace. Thus does the lord, self-manifest in boundless power and glory, create and preserve the abundant wealth of good and destroy darkness, enmity and negation of evil.

भूय इद्वावृध वीर्यायँ एक' अजुया दयत वसूनि। प रिरिच दिव इन्दः पृथिव्या अधमिदस्य पति रादसी उभ ॥ १ ॥

1. Bhūya id vāvṛdhe vīryāyaň eko ajuryo dayate vasūni. Pra ririce diva indraḥ pṛthivyā ardhamidasya prati rodasī ubhe.

Again and again the one ageless Indra grows in manifestation to express his power and creates, preserves and gives all wealths of the world. The sun from the regions of light covers half of the earth and relieves the other half. In turn, the earth and the sky both receive only half of the light and heat, and the sun exceeds and excels both.

अधा मन्य बृहदसुर्यमस्य यानि दाधार नकिरा मिनाति।

2. Adhā manye bṛhadasuryamasya yāni dādhāra nakirā mināti. Divedive sūryo darśato bhūd vi sadmānyurviyā sukraturdhāt.

And I know and honour the extensive luminous life giving power and energy of this sun and of the many planets that it holds and sustains, which no power can deny, disturb, diminish or destroy. Day by day, every morning, the sun rises glorious and, holy participant in the cosmic yajna of Indra, it generates and sustains many abodes of life along with the wide earth.

अद्या चि ू चित्तदप नदीनां यदाभ्या अरदा गातुमिन्द।

3. Adyā cinnū cit tadapo nadīnāṁ yadābhyo arado gātumindra. Ni parvatā admasado na sedustvayā dṛḷhāni sukrato rajāṁsi.

Indra, refulgent lord, now as ever you draw up the waters of the rivers by evaporation, shower them and let them flow in river beds to the sea. You attract the earth by gravitation and let it move in orbit. You fix the mountains in place and float the clouds in windy courses, everything in place like guests in a dinner party. Indeed, O lord of holy action in cosmic yajna, by you are all regions of the universe set in place, firm and secure.

4. Satyamit tanna tvāvāň anyo astīndra devo na martyo jyāyān. Ahannahiṁ pariśayānamarṇo 'vāsṛjo apo acchā samudram.

Indra, refulgent lord eternal, true it is there is no one else divine or human as great as you who break the dark and dormant cloud, release the showers of rain and let the whirling streams flow and join the rolling ocean. Similarly, O lord omnipotent, you break the dark silence of sleeping nature from the state of inertness and set the processes of creative evolution aflow and let them ultimately recede into the fathomless ocean of silence again.

5. Tvamapo vi duro viṣūcīrindra dṛḷhamarujaḥ parvatasya. Rājābhavo jagataścarṣaṇīnāṁ sākaṁ sūryaṁ janayan dyāmuṣāsam.

Indra, you break open the impenetrable doors of the cloud and release the rain showers. You break the adamantine mountains and let the waters flow in river courses. You break the bottomless inertness of life energy and let it flow in evolutionary channels of human action and courses of history. Creating the children of the moving world along with the sun and dawn of the day and the regions of heaven and earth, you reign supreme as light of the world, refulgent creator and ultimate dispenser.

1. Abhūreko rayipate rayīṇāmā hastayoradhithā indra kṛṣṭīḥ. Vi toke apsu tanaye ca sūre'vocanta carṣaṇayo vivācaḥ.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in you vests the governance and control of the entire wealth and assets of the nation, pray be the sole possessor and custodian of national wealth, O lord of honour and excellence. In your hands alone lies the direction of the nation, producers, workers and defence forces all. The wisest people of the land speaking different languages in different styles, in their words and actions describe and celebrate the brilliance of the rule and governance of Indra to their children and grand children.

2. Tvad bhiyendra pārthivāni viśvā'cyutā ciccyāvayante rajāṁsi. Dyāvākṣāmā parvatāso vanāni viśvaṁ dṛḷhaṁ bhayate ajmannā te.

Indra, sole lord of law and power, by the fear and pressure of your presence, all the unshakables on earth and in the skies stir and move along their functional course. Heaven and earth, clouds and mountains, deep forests, indeed the entire fixed and functionary world of existence fears the unmoved motion of your pervasive presence and dare not relent in their function.

3. Tvaṁ kutsenābhi śuṣṇamindrā'śuṣaṁ yudhya kuyavaṁ gaviṣṭau. Daśa prapitve adha sūryasya muṣāyaścakramavive rapāṁsi.

Indra, lord ruler and giver of light, having fought out the voracious drought and bad harvest with the thunderbolt of natural energy, keen for success in the development of lands and cows and the project of solar energy, you deplete ten injurious impediments and ride the chariot of the dominion like the sun in orbit.

Break open the hundreds of hidden strongholds and treasures of the wealth and power of the dark clouds and hoards collected by the thief, and there, O lord of light and power of knowledge and wisdom, with knowledge and expertise, provide the means and materials of prosperity and well being for the advancement of the generous scientist, creative artist, pharmacist, technologist and celebrant of divinity.

5. Sa satyasatvan mahate raṇāya rathamā tiṣṭha tuvinṛmṇa bhīmam. Yāhi prapathinnavasopa madrik pra ca śruta śrāvaya carṣaṇibhyaḥ.

O lord commander of the power of truth and reality, master of manifold wealth and splendour, ready for the arduous battle of life, ride the awesome chariot, go forward, traveller of the path of rectitude, come to us too with the wisdom of revealed omniscience with all your modes of defence and protection and proclaim the truth for the people.

1. Apūrvyā purutamānyasmai mahe vīrāya tavase turāya. Virapśine vajriṇe śantamāni vacāṁ-syāsā sthavirāya takṣam.

Let me compose an original and comprehensive song of praise in my own, words in a state of peace overflowing with reverence in honour of this great hero, Indra, mighty performer of action, admirable wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment, unshakable embodiment of tranquillity.

2. Sa mātarā sūryeṇā kavīnāmavāsayad rujadadriṁ gṛṇānaḥ. Svādhībhir-ṛkvabhir-vāvaśāna udu-sriyāṇām-asṛjan-nidānam.

By the light of the sun, he illuminates the heaven and earth, protectors and inspirers of poets like father and mother. Breaking the cloud of showers, shaking the mountains of impediments and inhibitions of mind, sung and celebrated in songs of praise and jubilation, pleased, inspiring and illuminant in response to the homage of reverence, he opens the flood gates of light and song in words, breaking off all impediments to the original vision and imagination of the poet.

3. Sa vahnibhir-ṛkvabhir-goṣu śaśvan mitajñubhiḥ purukṛtvā jigāya. Puraḥ purohā sakhibhiḥ sakhīyan dṛḷhā ruroja kavibhiḥ kaviḥ san.

He is the ruler, himself a visionary, friend of friends, relentless hero of abundant action, breaker of the strongholds of darkness, and with the company and support of assisting partners, celebrants and poetic creators sitting in meditative posture, he breaks the adamantine rigidities of dead wood and wins the battles for the development of lands and cows and the advancement of knowledge, arts and enlightenment.

Indra, mighty brave and generous ruler, sung and celebrated in song, come well to the celebrant for the well being of the people and bless them with high spirits and ambition for victory and latest great powers and forces manned by many heroic leaders and warriors of the rising generation.

5. Sa sargeṇa śavasā takto atyairapa indro dakṣiṇa-tasturāṣāṭ. Itthā sṛjānā anapāvṛdartham divedive viviṣurapr-amṛṣyam.

Indra, mighty ruler, instant victor, come happy and jubilant with vibrant new forces of creation, with dynamic pioneers advancing like winds who may, thus, creating, preserving, reconstructing, discovering new goals day by day, move on, realise anew indestructible eternal values and never look back.

1. Ya ojiṣṭha indra taṁ su no dā mado vṛṣant-svabhiṣṭir-dāsvān. Sauvaśvyaṁ yo vanavat svaśvo vṛtrā samatsu sāsahadamitrān.

Indra, lord of honour and excellence, ruler most illustrious, generous, victorious and beneficent, inspired with ardent passion, give us that stormy force of dynamic action for achievement which, equipped with instant and unfailing capability, may fight out the unfriendly powers of darkness in the contests of life and win the wealths of high value in the world for our cherished goal.

You alone, O lord ruler, Indra, the people of diverse speech adore and invoke in diverse words in battles of the brave for protection and success. You alone, with the wise and vibrant, subdue the uncreative and greedy, and you alone give peace and rest to the celebrants. Indeed, under your protection only, does the cavalier and the warrior win the light of knowledge and victory in action.

Indra, brave ruler, leading light of the leaders, with focussed, objective and decisive judgement, distinguish between both opponents and supporters, the vile and the noble, split open both clearly to full exposure, and, with decisive blows of unfailing tactic, fight out the negatives in the contests of the dominion just like a forester felling the dead wood with sharpened axe.

Fighting our battles of life, O brave and generous hero, defender of good against evil, we invoke and call upon you to come and help us with love and grace.

5. Nūnaṁ na indrāparāya ca syā bhavā mṛḷīka uta no abhiṣṭau. Itthā gṛṇanto mahinasya śarman divi ṣyāma pārye goṣatamāḥ.

Indra, lord of life, for sure be our friend and protector, and saviour of others too, for now and for ever, and for the attainment of our cherished goal be kind and gracious. Singing, celebrating and glorifying the splendour of the great lord, we pray, may we abide in the high heaven of divine felicity and, blest with the sacred Word of Divinity, swim across the seas of suffering to freedom.

Indra, lord giver of thought, speech and knowledge, all universal thoughts and diverse forms and words of the eternal Word, all languages past, present and future, proceed from you, return unto you and abide in you. For sure, all ancient hymns and recitations, all interpretive adorations of the seers divining into the visions and meanings of the mantras vie with each other to reach and concentrate on the glory of Indra.

2. Puruhūto yaḥ purugūrta ṛbhvāň ekaḥ puru-praśasto asti yajñaiḥ. Ratho na mahe śavase yujāno 'smābhirindro anumādyo bhūt.

Indra who is invoked by many, admired by many, sole lord adored by many, is sought after by the wise through creative and reflective yajnic endeavours for the pursuit of great vision and power with concentrated mind in meditation. May he be like a chariot for us across the world of life and consequently give us ultimate freedom and joy.

3. Na yaṁ hiṁsanti dhītayo na vāṇīrindraṁ nakṣantīdabhi vardhayantīḥ. Yadi stotāraḥ śataṁ yat sahasraṁ gṛṇanti girvaṇasaṁ śaṁ tadasmai.

No thoughts can violate Indra, the ruler, nor hurt him, nor can words comprehend him. In fact, the thoughts and words of devotees exalt and glorify him. And when celebrants offer a hundred and thousand adorations to this lord of exaltation, he is pleased and then peace and bliss of well being descends on the devotee.

4. Asmā etad divyarceva māsā mimikṣa indre nyayāmi somaḥ. Janaṁ na dhanvannabhi saṁ yadāpaḥ satrā vāvṛdhur-havanāni yajñaiḥ.

Just as soma, nectar juice of nature, mixes with the moon and the moon mixes fully with the sun once in the month on full moon night, so in this heavenly relation of life and action between Indra, the ruler, and the devotee, I join with Indra, and just as showers of rain in the desert exhilarate the people so may the sessions of yajna advance the devotees and thereby may they exalt and glorify the lord.

5. Asmā etanmahyāṅgūṣamasmā indrāya stotraṁ matibhiravāci. Asad yathā mahati vṛtratūrya indro viśvāyuravitā vṛdhaśca.

For this Indra, this ruler, this giver of the light of life, is this exalted song of praise and adoration sung and offered by faithful and intelligent devotees so that for the victory of light over darkness and ignorance in this battle of life Indra, lord of all life and the world, may be our protector and guardian for advancement.

When would your chariots come to rest in the garage? When do you give away a thousand prizes of support and sustenance at the victory celebration? When do you reward the celebrant with wealth for his song? And when do you make our acts of thought and will fructify with the wealth of success and victory?

Indra, most potent ruler of the world, when would you bring that wealth of knowledge and holiness of universal form and character which we too desire for the celebrant? Commanding highest virtue, when would you join and inspire our thought and will to rise for the grand leap forward? When would you lead us to win the cherished honour, splendour and glory of the earth worthy of you?

Indra, ruler of the world, give us the honour and excellence of a free world order, liquid wealth of gold in circulation, progressive advancement and renown in abundance for a planned programme, and drink the soma of attainable success worthy of a nation of knowledge, virtue and love of divinity, and thus help us create and structure an earthly order of fruitful prosperity for the dynamic bearers of science and action, a lovely world of beauty and splendour indeed.

Indra, valiant ruler, lord of knowledge and power, destroyer of darkness, hate and enmity, let the paths of love and progress you approve and proclaim and the doors of new knowledge you open never be otherwise, keep them wide open onwards. O vibrant lover of knowledge and advancement, never forsake the faithful scholars of divine nature’s fertility, vitality and virility, never desert the visionaries of the divine Word of Veda, serve and advance them with means and materials for relentless pursuit of knowledge and life’s sanctity.

All modes of protection and security, showers of strength and generosity, manliness and vigour and allied virtues and actions converge to Indra, join and abide in him. Just as rivers flow and reach the sea, so do all resonant voices of adoration and admirable qualities of life reach the lord all pervasive in the wide world.

Listen to our prayers and adorations, Indra, lord ruler who love the prayers and adorations of devotees, who are resplendent as sun and boundless as space, master, protector and giver of wealth, honour and excellence, so that shining by wealth and power, growing in knowledge and awareness day by day, you be, as you have been, kind and gracious to us as ever before.

Indra, resplendent lord ruler of the world, we pray, may the motive powers attached to your chariot of universal wealth and bliss bring you hither to us. So does the enlightened celebrant with joy at heart invoke and invite you today so that we too who abide with you in the hall of assembly may grow and prosper.

Let the people go forward and higher in the measure of action and achievement and continue to rise in the sacred manner of simple and natural rectitude. And may Indra, ancient ruler of the world bright as heaven on earth, shining and ruling over the delightful order of bliss, rise exuberant and drink of the joy of soma, peace and glory of the order.

May the motive powers of the chariot of mighty Indra, ever on the move in the divine orbit in a simple and natural manner, gracefully bear the lord to the chant of our yajnic programmes of humanity. Let the immortal breath of life never be exhausted, let no one waste away the nectar vitality of immortality.

Indra, highest power of the dominion and fastest performer among men of wealth and splendour, achieves and raises the strength and honour of this social order by which, O lord of courage and power, wielder of the thunder of justice and punishment, you remove sin and crime and give rich gifts of reward and recognition to the scholars and the brave heroes.

Indra is the destroyer of darkness in the extreme, brilliant and brave in the essence, and, instant performer as he is, learned, he is, and the giver of complete fulfilment.

May Indra, lord immaculate, wondrous power and glorious ruler, perfect, self-existent and self-sustained, be here direct and accept and exalt our sincere, abundant and brilliant voice of adoration in honour of divinity. The lord is a generous and munificent giver, loves the celebrative voice of the heart and cherishes the homage of noble godly people on way to divinity.

The ears of this lord Indra receive the voice of the speaker even from far off wherever he be, and from that voice, speaking in response, he raises it to the roar of thunder. May this voice of mine in honour of divinity, reaching and celebrating the lord of glory, come back to me, complete the circuit and bless me as voice divine.

For you all with the best and highest of mind and faith I proclaim and celebrate the ancient and unaging Indra, cosmic energy of the Divine with yajnic gifts of homage. The eternal consciousness of omniscience and the voice of the Vedas all resound in this cosmic medium and the mighty yajna of creation and evolution too renews, evolves and expands under this same Indra, divine energy.

Let yajna, corporate programmes of research and development, advance Indra, power and application of the electric energy of nature. Let soma, positive creations and the scholar dedicated to peace and universal happiness extend the possibilities of power. Let the divine words of the Veda and the achievement of food and energy of universal value exalt Indra, lord of divine energy. And let the dawns, days and nights, hours, months, seasons, earth and heaven, all glorify Indra, lord of the universe. Let our thought and chants of holy word glorify him.

Taste the honey sweet of the Word of this happy and blissful divine poet, celebrant of light, inspirer of passion and vision of wisdom, and friend of Divinity. O refulgent lord of generosity, protect and promote the brilliant and revealing Word of the poet, bless the servant of divinity with energy and sustenance and reveal the words of divinity for the celebrant.

This poet, like the sun, loving, inspiring and impassioned, in unison with the truth and law of existence, with waves of energy bearing rays of light and showers of rain, breaks the clouds of darkness, lights up impenetrable tops of mighty mountains, opens up treasures of wealth, and blesses the untainted and the celebrants. Thus does Indra fight and shine.

Thus does this sun, this cosmic drop of divine soma, light up the unlighted: the nights, the mornings, days and seasons of the year. Thus does Indra create the light of immaculate dawns which bear up the light as banner of the days.

This Indra, the sun, itself refulgent, lights up the lightless such as earth and moon, and it lights up the ancient dawns, by the operation of cosmic law. It goes on in orbit by the centre pin of cosmic gravitation with other heavenly bodies such as planets and satellites, drawn by the motive forces of cosmic law and giving light and comfort primarily to the people of the earth.

Listen carefully to these songs of adoration and words of the Veda, and, we pray, may this yajnic business of governance and administration bear and bring us good food, energy and a long age of good health for our person and the social order.

Indra, lord of power and majesty, let us be, let us live and work only for you, generous and charitable ruler. Pray do not ignore us, do not neglect us. There is none visible among the mortals around here our own such as you, lord of horse and men, otherwise, O lord dear as breath of life, why would they call you the inspirer for the achievement of honour and excellence in life?

Indra, mighty generous destroyer of suffering, deliver us not to the unjust and the hungry grabber. Let us never suffer in the friendship of the generous lord nor fall off from loyalty. Let us take advantage of the age old facilities of success among the people. Eliminate the uncreative and keep us away from ungrateful negationists.

artists, inventive scientists and expert technologists. Let the miserly non-giver never deceive you or injure you, and never let him deceive the generous and prosperous people.

O brave high priest of the social order of the yajna of love and non-violence, bear the best of soma distilled for homage in honour of the great Indra, ruler of the world. He alone is the ruler of this order worthy to rule who rises in personal and social esteem by the holy voices, both old and new, of the admirers and the wise seers of the land.

Under the inspiration and ardent passion of this soma, Indra, irresistible lord ruler all wise, destroys many covert forces of darkness and evil. That same soma, honey sweet and exhilarating you bear for a drink to this brave hero who shines in brilliant helmet and armour.

Let Indra, the ruler, drink the soma distilled from exhilarating herbs and protect the spirit and honour of the nation arisen from the noble rule of the order. Let him, happy and inspired, destroy the demon of evil and darkness with the thunderbolt of justice and power. Let him go and attend the yajna of the order well even from afar, provide happy and peaceful settlement for all the people, protect and promote intellectual work and programmes of corporate action, and sustain and advance the experts in art, science and technology.

This is that life-giving cup of Indra's nectar drink, his favourite, from which he drinks the dear delicious elixir of life so that he feels happy at heart and inspires the divine force of cosmic energy to ward off hate and enmity from us and cast away all sin and evil, and thereby save and strengthen the immortal soul.

This way Indra, O valiant hero, happy at heart and joyous, commanding wealth, power and excellence of the world, give up all enemies whether among the related or unrelated people, all unfriendly and menacing forces, all oppositions up front, and all those who order you about like bullies, ward them off, throw them out far away, destroy them all. Indra, lord of glory and victory, bless us with bravery and spirit of heroism, high intelligence, and power and prosperity of success in our struggle and attainment of the waters of life, noble actions and brave children and grand children.

Indra, lord of power and glory, delightful showers of soma, exuberant and exhilarating like dancing waves of the sea, come and fill your cup of nectar and sprinkle your altar of yajna with ghrta. Thus do the leading lights of nature and humanity bear and bring the soma of life's light and joy distilled by brave and generous leaders of the yajnic order for the mighty and magnanimous lord ruler of the world.

You are the showerer of the light of heaven. You are the inspirer of the life of earth. You are the showerer of the waters of rivers and the seas. You are the life breath of things moving and non-moving all together. This is the homage, honey drink, bright, delicious, the very nectar of life for the lord ruler.

22. Ayaṁ devaḥ sahasā jāyamāna indreṇa yujā paṇimastabhāyat. Ayaṁ svasya piturāyudhānī-ndur-amuṣṇād-aṣivasya māyāḥ.

This brilliant and divine soma rising and manifesting with exhilaration and ardent passion, friend of Indra and one with his glory, stabilises the admirable rule and order of the world and strengthens the supporters of it. This soma, bright and blissful as the moon, keeps the arms and armaments and the justice and administration of its creator and ruler in order, and it frustrates the plans and wiles of the unruly and the unholy.

23. Ayamakṛṇoduṣasaḥ supatnīrayaṁ sūrye adadhā-jjyotirantaḥ. Ayaṁ tridhātu divi rocaneṣu triteṣu vindadamṛtaṁ nigūḷham.

This ardent passion of Indra, lord omnipotent creator, makes the dawns bright and blissful inspirers of love and devotion, vests the sun with light within, creates the universe of three natural principles of mind, energy and matter, and infuses the immortal spirit, as mysterious and immanent spirit, in the three bright worlds of heaven, earth and the firmament, and helps us to discover the immortal bliss with ardent passion of holiness.

24. Ayaṁ dyāvāpṛthivī vi ṣkabhāyadayaṁ rathamayunak saptaraśmim. Ayaṁ goṣu śacyā pakvamantaḥ somo dādhāra daśayantramutsam.

This passion and omnipotence of Indra wields and stabilises the heaven and earth in orbit. It ordains the seven-rayed chariot of the sun in the system. With its power and action it places mature living energy in the fertility of earths, milk in cows and warmth in the rays of sunlight, and thus it holds and sustains soma, life energy of existence, in the universe, thereby making it a living system of tenfold nature, i.e., five elements and five pranic energies.

lord pervasive, be with us.

Jeṣi jiṣṇo hitaṁ dhanam.

O leader and ruler, Indra, bravest commander of the fastest chariot of our social order, thirsting for victory, by that united chariot of ours in unison with us you win the treasures of life good for the nation of humanity.

16. Ya eka it tamu ṣṭuhi kṛṣṭīnāṁ vicarṣaṇiḥ.
Patirjajñe vṛṣakratuḥ.

O man, invoke, admire and celebrate that one alone who is unique by himself, ever watchful guardian of the people, generous performer and showerer of blissful fruits of his action, and who emerges and rises as the protector and ruler of all.

या गृणतामिदासिथा पिरूती शिवः सखा।

Indra, potent lord of action, destroyer of suffering and giver of bliss, who are good and kind, friendly and one with the celebrants as our kith and kin, all protective under your umbrella, such as you are, we pray, be kind and gracious to us and lead us to the peace and happiness of the good life.

18. Dhiṣva vajraṁ gabhastyo rakṣohatyāya vajrivaḥ.
Sāsahīṣṭhā abhi spṛdhaḥ.

O wielder of the thunderbolt of defence and power, take up the adamantine mace and thunder of power and justice in your hands for the destruction of evil and wickedness and face, challenge, resolve and win the battles ahead.

19. Pratnaṁ rayīṇāṁ yujaṁ sakhāyaṁ kirico-danam.

20. Sa hi viṣvāni pārthivāň eko vasūni patyate.
Girvanastamo adhriguḥ.

He alone, most adorable, instant mover and omnipresent lord of the universe, solely by himself, rules, protects and promotes all treasures of the earth.

(He alone deserves to be ruler of the world who is an earthly embodiment of such universal virtues.)

21. Sa no niyudbhirā pṛṇa kāmaṁ vājebhir-aśvibhiḥ.
Gomadbhir-gopate dhṛṣat.

O lord of land with controlled mind and senses, bold and resolute, come to us with your teams of harnessed services and commissioned forces commanding speed and movement, warriors of horse and armour, managers of lands and cattle wealth, controllers of information and communication, and with all this infrastructure fulfil our desires and ambitions for the good life of success and progress.

22. Tad vo gāya sute sacā puruhūtāya satvane.
Śaṁ yad gave na śākine.

In your soma yajna in the business of the world of the lord's creation, sing together songs of homage in honour of the universally adored, ever true and eternal almighty Indra, songs which may be as pleasing to the mighty lord as to the seeker and the celebrant.

23. Na ghā vasurni yamate dānaṁ vājasya gomataḥ.

And surely the lord giver of settlement and gifts of knowledge, power and speedy progress does not withhold the gifts since he closely hears the prayers of the devotee and responds.

24. Kuvitsasya pra hi vrajaṁ gomantaṁ dasyuhā gamat. Śacībhirapa no varat.

May the lord destroyer of evil, negativity and poverty visit the homestead of the prayerful devotee blest with lands, cows and divine knowledge and open up the flood gates of wealth, power and divine grace for us with his vision and powers.

25. Imā u tvā śatakrato'bhi pra ṇonuvurgiraḥ.
Indra vatsaṁ na mātaraḥ.

Indra, lord ruler of the world and guardian of the people, just as mother cows look toward and low out of affection for the calf, so do these people look up to you with love and reverence, and their voices of adoration exalt you, O lord of a hundred acts of kindness and holiness.

दूणाशं सख्यं तव गारसि वीर गव्यत।

26. Dūṇāśaṁ sakhyaṁ tava gaurasi vīra gavyate.

Indra, potent lord ruler of multifarious acts and potential, never can your friendship toward the people be lost or destroyed, it is permanent and versatile. You are all love and revelation to a person in search of faith and knowledge, and you are all impetuous victor for a person thirsting for speed and progress. (The way we think and act, you respond.)

27. Sa mandasvā hyandhaso rādhase tanvā mahe.

Indra, ruler of the world of knowledge and action, be happy at heart by body, mind and soul with good food, energy and soma, and make others happy. Subject not your devoted celebrant to the malignity of revilers.

इमा उ त्वा सुतसुत न न्त गिवणा गिरः।

These words and voices of adoration, O spirit adorable, reach you, in every yajna, in every cycle of creation, like cows rushing to the calf with love.

29. Purūtamaṁ purūṇāṁ stotṝṇāṁ vivāci.

May the most ancient and eternal knowledge in the speech of the ancient celebrants of divinity, enlightening and energising humanity with the vital spirits of existence, reaching the primeval soul, come to us too, enlighten and energise us too.

Indra, lord giver of honour and excellence, may our song of celebration in your honour carry our message of homage closest to your heart to exalt you, and may you, we pray, inspire us to achieve the highest wealths of life.

Let the maker, artist, analyst and architect, occupy and preside over the highest position in the world of business, wide and high like the embankment of a mighty river, to contain and control the flow of the current of waters.

All our artists and artisans always appreciate and admire the chief architect, learned, wise and brave, giver of a thousand gifts and sharer of a thousand things with thousands of people. He indeed is the head of our business world.

Indra, lord of power and advancement, you alone we invoke and call upon for acquisition of food, energy, honour, excellence and progress. All of us, leading people, makers, poets, artists, artisans and architects of the nation, fast advancing in all directions, invoke and exhort you, protector and promoter of universal truth and values in human struggles for light, goodness and generosity, and the wealth of life.

2. Sa tvāṁ naścitra vajrahasta dhṛṣṇuyā mahaḥ stavāno adrivaḥ. Gāmaśvaṁ rathyamindra saṁ kira satrā vājaṁ na jigyuṣe.

Indra, lord of wondrous powers and performance, wielding the thunderbolt of justice and punishment in hand, great and glorious, breaker of the clouds and shaker of mountains, invoked and adored in song, with truth and science, power and force, collect, organise and win for us the wealth of lands, cows and rays of the sun, horses, transports and chariots like the victories of wealth and glory for the ambitious nation.

3. Yaḥ satrāhā vicarṣaṇir-indraṁ taṁ hūmahe vayam. Sahasramuṣka tuvinṛmṇa satpate bhavā samatsu no vṛdhe.

We invoke and adore Indra, lord of glory, constant watcher of humanity and human actions, and pray: O lord protector of truth, commanding thousandfold vitality and flames of fiery forces, master of universal wealth, be with us for our advancement in the struggles of life.

4. Bādhase janān vṛṣabheva manyunā ghṛṣau mīḷha ṛcīṣama. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā mahā-dhane tanūśvapsu sūrye.

Indra, ruler of the world, sacred as hymns of Rgveda, as a bull controls the herd, so you control as well as defend people with righteous passion and justice when they rub against each other or face great conflicts. O lord, be our saviour, giver of enlightenment in the great battles for wealth, health care, water management and the harnessing of solar energy.

Indra, lord of noblest virtue and knowledge, bear and bring us that best and most lustrous food for the nourishment of body and mind by which, O wondrous hero of golden helmet and wielder of thunder in hand, you may reach both this earth and this sky upto the heaven.

6. Tvām-ugram-avase carṣaṇīsahaṁ rājan deveṣu hūmahe. Viśvā su no vithurā pibdanā vaso 'mitrāntsuṣahān kṛdhi.

For our defence and protection, O ruler, of all the brilliant, generous and mighty powers, we invoke you, illustrious challenger of the enemies of humanity. O lord giver of peace and settlement in security, crush and scatter the obdurate negative forces within and outside, and turn the opponents into friends and unquestionable supporters.

Indra, ruler of the world, whatever the lustre and splendour in humanity across history, whatever the power and wealth among communities, whatever the virtue and quality in the five elements of nature or lands of the earth, or whatever the strength and vigour of the world of existence, you bear and symbolise all that. Pray, O lord, bear and bring us all that.

O lord of wealth and power of the world, whatever the wisdom among the learned, whatever the energy among people of anger and hostility, or whatever strength and vigour among people of fullness of virility and generosity, at their best, bring us all that in the battles of human contest and competition so that we may face, fight out and eliminate anger, enmity and malice.

9. Indra tridhātu śaraṇaṁ trivarūthaṁ svastimat. Chardir-yaccha maghavadbhyaśca mahyaṁ ca yāvayā didyumebhyaḥ.

Indra, lord ruler of the wealth of nations, for the men of wealth, power, honour and generosity of heart, and for me too, give a home made of three metals and materials, comfortable in three seasons of summer, winter and rains, a place of rest, peace and security for complete well being. Give the light for them, keep off the blaze from them.

10. Ye gavyatā manasā śatrum-ādabhur-abhipra-ghnanti dhṛṣṇuyā. Adha smā no maghavan-nindra girvaṇastanūpā antamo bhava.

Indra, lord of peace and power, exalted by words of adoration, give us warriors who, with their love of cows, lands and speech and with the force of their mind and strength of arm and courage, press down the enemies and destroy their arms and armies, and then, also, O lord protector of our person and body politic, be with us at the closest, deep within.

11. Adha smā no vṛdhe bhavendra nāyamavā yudhi. Yadantarikṣe patayanti parṇino didyavastigmamūr-dhānaḥ.

Indra, chief of defence forces, give us those flying birds of defence and protection which blaze through skies and spaces carrying deep penetrative war heads in front, and then, also, be with us for our leadership, defend and protect us in the battles for our advancement.

12. Yatra śūrāsastanvo vitanvate priyā śarma pitṝṇām. Adha smā yaccha tanve tane ca chardiracittaṁ yāvaya dveṣaḥ.

Give us the sweet home where the brave extend the honour and achievement of their forefathers, and then, for further extension of the honour, achievement and tradition of the nation, give us peace and security free from mental worry and keep off all jealousy, malice and hostility.

13. Yadindra sarge arvatascodayāse mahādhane. Asamane adhvani vṛjine pathi śyenāň iva śravasyataḥ.

And when, in the effort for creation and in the struggle for extension of honour and achievement of new wealth, you inspire the stormy pioneers and ambitious warriors thirsting for fame, and urge them on to fly like eagles on unequal paths and winding ways of progress and possibility, then also, O lord, be with us all through.

14. Sindhūňriva pravaṇa āśuyā yato yadi klośamanu ṣvaṇi. Ā ye vayo na varvṛtatyāmiṣi gṛbhītā bāhvorgavi.

The pioneers and warriors of new projects on earth fly on and move like rivers rushing down to the sea. They move by superfast carriers whose controls are held fast in hands, and instantly act in response to the sound signal and pounce upon the target like birds on food at sight, intensively.

स्वादुष्किलायं मधुमाँ उतायं तीव्रः किलायं रसवाँ उतायम।

1. Svāduṣkilāyaṁ madhumāň utāyaṁ tīvraḥ kilāyaṁ rasavāň utāyam. Uto nvasya papi-vāṁsamindraṁ na kaścana sahata āhaveṣu.

Soma: of course it is delicious, honey sweet, and it is sharp and strong and intense, and also it has wonderful flavour. And when Indra, the mighty one, has happily drunk of this soma, this nectar of life, none can withstand him in battles.

अयं स्वादुरिह मदिष्ठ आस यस्यन्दा वृत्रहत्य ममाद। पुरूणि यश्च्यात्रा शम्बरस्य वि नवतिं नव च दह्या३ हन॥ २॥

2. Ayaṁ svāduriha madiṣṭha āsa yasyendro vṛtrahatye mamāda. Purūṇi yaścyautnā śambarasya vi navatiṁ nava ca dehyo han.

It is delicious, most exhilarating here in the business of life. Indra, mighty ruler, having drunk of it, exults in the battle against want and wickedness for the achievement of prosperity and, waxing in strength and passion, destroys the multitudinous forces of evil and breaks ninety and nine strongholds of darkness like the sun breaking clouds for rain.

अयं म पीत उदियति वाचमयं मनीषामुशतीमजीगः।

3. Ayaṁ me pīta udiyarti vācamayaṁ manīṣāmuśatīmajīgaḥ. Ayaṁ ṣaḷurvīramimīta dhīro na yābhyo bhuvanaṁ kaccanāre.

This ecstasy of soma stimulates and refines my speech, it energises and sublimates my mind and awareness to love and passion for divinity. Man in the state of mental stability and spiritual constancy realises the six dimensional universe of existence beyond which there is no world of matter or mind higher or lower.

अयं स या वरिमाणं पृथिव्या वष्माणं दिवा अकृणादयं सः। अयं पीयूषं तिसृषु पवत्सु सामा दाधारावरन्तरिक्षम॥ ४॥

4. Ayaṁ sa yo varimāṇaṁ pṛthivyā varṣmāṇaṁ divo akṛṇodayaṁ saḥ. Ayaṁ pīyūṣaṁ tisṛṣu pravatsu somo dādhārorvantarikṣam.

This soma is that cosmic energy which causes the showers of vitality from the sun and creates the fertility of the earth. It bears the nectar sweets of three rolling oceans of heaven, earth and the middle region and sustains the vast skies.

अयं विदच्चित्रदृशीकमणिः शुकसद्मनामुषसामनीक। अयं महान्महता स्कम्भनाद द्यामस्तभ्नाद वृषभा मरुत्वान॥ ५॥

5. Ayaṁ vidaccitradṛśīkamarnaḥ śukrasadmanāmuṣasāmanīke. Ayaṁ mahān mahatā skambhanenod dyāmastabhnād vṛṣabho marutvān.

This generous and exuberant energy of the universe commanding the force of the currents of nature's inherent power vests the beatific ocean of the glorious sunrays of immaculate beauty of the mornings. It is great and, by its mighty gravitational force, sustains the solar region in position above.

6. Dhṛṣat piba kalaśe somamindra vṛtrahā śūra samare vasūnām. Mādhyaṁdine savana ā vṛṣasva ryisthāno rayimasmāsu dhehi.

Bold and resolute Indra, ruler, destroyer of darkness and poverty, drink the soma from the vessel for the battle of life's wealth. Come to the mid-day session of yajna and bring the showers. As you yourself are the treasurehold of wealth, bless us with the wealth of life.

7. Indra pra ṇaḥ pura-eteva paśya pra no naya prataraṁ vasyo accha. Bhavā supāro atipārayo no bhavā sunītiruta vāmanītiḥ.

Indra, leader and commander of world power, look at us and watch like a leader moving fast forward. Lead us to wealth of the world across the oceans. Be the unswerving pilot of the nation, take us to the shores beyond and lead us on by the policy and practice of nobility and gracious living.

Indra, sagely scholar and just ruler of the world, lead us to the higher regions of life, fearless, full of heavenly light, a haven of bliss and well being. O lord of constancy, we pray, may we abide in the shelter and security of the umbrella of your mighty protective hands.

9. Variṣṭhe na indra vandhure dhā vahiṣṭhayoḥ śatávannaśvayorā. Iṣamā vakṣīṣāṁ varṣiṣṭhāṁ mā nastārīn-maghavan rāyo aryaḥ.

Indra, ruler and guardian of the people, master and controller of the wealth and power of the world, let us ride and abide in the best chariot of our choice in your well managed system of governance run by the strongest and most efficient leaders and forces. O lord of a hundred powers and actions, bring us the best and most abundant food and sustenance, energy and power. Let no one as master tread over our wealth, power, and basic rights of life and freedom.

10. Indra mṛḷa mahyaṁ jīvātumiccha codaya dhiyamayaso na dhārām. Yat kiṁ cāhaṁ tvāyuridaṁ vadāmi tajjuṣasva kṛdhi mā devavantam.

Indra, ruler sustainer of all, be kind and gracious to me, please to wish me the good life, sharpen and inspire my mind and intellect like the razor's edge. And whatever I wish out of love and devotion, to you I say this: Please to accept and grant, and raise me up to the love and favour of divinity.

11. Trātāram-indram-avitāramindraṁ havehave suha-vaṁ śūramindram. Hvayāmi śakraṁ purahūtamindraṁ svasti no maghavā dhātvindraḥ.

In every battle of life one after another, I invoke Indra, lord giver of wealth, honour and power, saviour Indra, protector Indra, brave Indra invoked with love and devotion, pure and powerful, universally invoked and adored. May Indra bring us the good life and all round well being.

12. Indraḥ sutrāmā svavāṅ̃ avobhiḥ sumṛḷīko bhavatu viśvavedāḥ. Bādhatāṁ dveṣo abhayaṁ kṛṇotu suvīryasya patayaḥ syāma.

Indra, lord omniscient, mighty protector and sole lord of his own essential powers may, we pray, be kind and gracious with his modes of protection and advancement, ward off hate and enmity and grant us freedom from fear so that we may be masters and promoters of the noble strength and honour of life.

13. Tasya vayaṁ sumatau yajñiyasyā'pi bhadre saumanase syāma. Sa sutrāmā svavāṅ̃ indro asme ārāccid dveṣaḥ sanutaryuyotu.

May we enjoy the favour, kindness and love of that lord adorable, all protective Indra, sole master of his own essential powers and forces, who may always ward off from us all hate and enmity far or near.

14. Ava tve indra pravato normirgiro brahmāṇi niyuto dhavante. Urū na rādhaḥ savanā puruṇ- yapo gā vajrin yuvase samindūn.

Indra, O ruler of the world, like streams of flood rushing down to the sea, all voices of prayer and adoration, offers of homage and chants of the holy Word dedicated to your service rise, reach and concentrate in you. O wielder of the thunderbolt of power and justice, you hold, integrate, treasure and distribute immense wealth of means and materials of success, yajnic sessions and inspirations, wide ranging waters and social programmes of action, lands, cows and lights of knowledge, and all things of beauty and joy leading to mental and spiritual bliss of peace.

15. Ka īṁ stavat kaḥ pṛṇāt ko yajāte yadugramin-ma-ghavā viśvahāvet. Pādāviva praharannan-yamanyaṁ kṛṇoti pūrvamaparaṁ śacībhiḥ.

Who can praise and fully celebrate him? Who can finally serve and join him?

Whoever is passionately dedicated and whom the lord of glory may favour, govern, and protect day and night, the lord who, like a man on the walk alternating his feet in motion moving the hind one forward and leaving the forward one then behind, dispenses people up and down according to their actions and the law of karma.

16. Śṛṇve vīra ugramugraṁ damāyann-anyam-anyam-atinenīyamānaḥ. Edhamānadviḷubhayasya rājā coṣkūyate viśa indro manuṣyān.

I hear that Indra, potent lord, controller of all proud and passionate ones, leading all up and down by their performance, favouring the good and punishing the rising proud and arrogant, rules all communities of humanity, good and evil, and calls them up for justice and dispensation.

परा॒ पूव॑षां स॒ख्या वृ॑णक्ति वि॒ततु॑राणा॒ अप॑रभिरति।

17. Parā pūrveṣāṁ sakhyā vṛṇakti vitarturāṇo apare-bhireti. Anānubhūtīravadhūnvānaḥ pūrvīrindraḥ śaradastartarīti.

With love and understanding, Indra, lord ruler, gives up the dead wood of the old and goes forward taking on other new forms of life and society like waves of the sea pressing on fast forward. Shaking off the callous who refuse to learn by experience he goes on like the sun crossing over the years of time gone by and living and shaping new eras of time.

18. Rūpaṁrūpaṁ pratirūpo babhūva tadasya rūpaṁ praticakṣaṇāya. Indro māyābhiḥ pururūpa īyate yuktā hyasya harayaḥ śatā daśa.

Indra, the supreme soul, pervades all forms of existence to reveal that pervasive form of presence according to each form. The individual soul, the jiva, takes on one form of life after another to reveal that existential form of its real self. The ruler takes over each form of the institutions of his governance to reveal his power and presence through that institution. Indra thus, of many many forms of manifestation goes on by manifold powers and potentials, assisted by thousands of its motive forces like the master of a chariot drawn by horses.

19. Yujāno haritā rathe bhūri tvaṣṭeha rājati. Ko viśvāhā dviṣataḥ pakṣa āsata utāsīneṣu sūriṣu.

With its powers and potentials yoked to its chariot-like body form, Tvashta, the soul, shines gloriously in its existential form here. It takes the best form of its love and choice by karma, for who would choose to be with the malicious fools day and night when the wise and visionaries are sitting close by?

20. Agavyūti kṣetramāganma devā urvī satī bhūmiraṁhūraṇābhūt. Bṛhaspate pra cikitsā gaviṣṭāvitthā sate jaritra indra panthām.

O noble people, brilliant pioneers, let us take over the vast virgin land which is a field good enough for warriors of action to develop and cultivate. O Brhaspati, lord of knowledge, protector and promoter of great things, Indra, destroyer of suffering, master of diagnostics and correctives, let us make the pathway for the development of cattlewealth and advancement of knowledge and education in the service of the present generation of the celebrants of divinity and nobilities of humanity.

Day by day the sun dispels the equal cover of darkness arisen at night from its abode to the other half of the globe. The mighty solar power of showers breaks the dark vapours concealed in the cloud, strikes the blazing lightning and opens the flood gates of rain to flow into streams on land.

(So does the ruler dispel the darkness of ignorance, injustice and poverty and open the flood - gates of light and knowledge with justice and prosperity.)

Indra, lord ruler, the celebrant of your means and materials of success and accomplishment has given ten treasure gifts of land and ten modes of fast transport.

We accept and reciprocate the gifts of the lord's showers of generosity and hospitality from the celebrant giver of the treasures of means and materials of success, water showers and the gifts of land, home and wealth for sustenance.

Let me receive and enjoy in common ten transports, ten treasures of wealth, ten garments, ten kinds of food and ten pieces of gold from the brilliant and generous giver.

(Swami Dayanand suggests in his commentary that the ratio at the maximum between the lowest and highest paid working partner in the social order should be one to ten.)

25. Mahi rādho viśvajanyaṁ dadhānān bharadvā-jāntsārñjayo abhyayaṣṭa.

Let the ruler, descendant of the creators of all lawful forms of wealth, support and maintain the scholars and scientists who create, provide and manage the great wealth and power of universal value.

O vanaspati, ruler, protector and promoter of forests and light of the sun for energy, be strong of your systemic body of governance and strong in the constituent parts of the system. Manned with noble young supporters, be our friend, pilot and saviour across the seas. You are self-controlled in mind and senses, strongly endowed with refined speech and manners, strengthen us who are committed to you, and let your forces win the battles with high morale.

Enlightened ruler and scholar, the energy collected and raised from the sun and earth, the energy, vitality and patience received and learnt from the trees and forests, the liquid power of the waters rising and reinforced with rays of the sun, and the forceful current of electric energy, with all these energies together harnessed, create and serve the chariot, the fast progressive social order worthy of your governance.

Enlightened ruler, lord of grace and pilot of the nation, loving and kind to participants in yajnic governance, you are the thunder and lightning of the cloud break of showers, you are the power and splendour of the people, you are offspring of the light of sun and love of divinity, you are the centre spring of justice and discrimination. and your glory. Blow over the world, equipped with armaments of thunder and vision of the wise, ward off the dangers and throw out the enemies far away.

Indra, lord ruler, throw out the enemy forces. Rally our forces back in form and array, ever ready. Let the battle drum boom, with the flag flying. Our warriors on the wing in armour and our leaders in the forefront advance and fight out the challenges. Let our heroes of the chariot come out with flying colours.

Agni, eternal vitality is the generator as well as the generation of the cosmic heat of vitality and the cosmic law, whom, in the state of existence, the waters and actions of men, clouds and mountains, and the forests and sun rays feed and promote to the full, and which arises and kindles when it is produced by the force of attrition and churning by men on the surface of the earth.

1. Stuṣe janaṁ suvrataṁ navyasībhirgīrbhirmitrāvaruṇā sumnayantā. Ta ā gamantu ta iha śruvantu sukṣatrāso varuṇo mitro agniḥ.

With latest words and fresh voice, I honour and admire the man committed to duty and discipline, Mitra, the friend, and Varuna, the man of judgement and clear vision, both givers of peace and pleasure of well being. May they come here, I pray, and listen, They command the wealth and honour of the admirable social order, Mitra, Varuna and brilliant blazing Agni, all three like sun, ocean and fire.

2. Viśoviśa īḍyamadhvareṣvadṛptakratumaratiṁ yuvatyoḥ. Divaḥ śiśuṁ sahasaḥ sūnumagniṁ yajñasya ketumaruṣaṁ yajadhyai.

I admire and adore Agni, leader of light and fire, honoured and worshipped in every community, calm and delighted in yajnic projects of love and non-violence, free from illusion and infatuation, generated by youthful parents, i.e., sun and earth, child of cosmic energy, symbol and column of yajna, and crimson red like the dawn which is brilliant and soothing. I pray may Agni come and join us at our yajna.

Two daughters of the glowing fire, the night and the day, different in form, one adorned with stars, the other lighted by the sun, move on alternating with each other. Both of them, pure, purifying and sanctifying, adorable and adored, pervade the world, and may they, we pray, inspire our thought and mind. (So may men and women be complementary to each other.)

O venerable scholar of vision and imagination, dedicated to in-depth research with ambition for the honour and glory of success, with your brilliant and far-reaching intelligence and application, you study and plan to harness the abundantly rich and powerful universal energy of the divine wind and its carrier forces of energy, immensely useful to drive the chariot over the paths of light in space. Venerable scholar, honour the visionary seer, his vision and learning.

(Swami Dayananda applies this manta also to the control of breath, pranic energy and mind for flights of the soul in samadhi for the achievement of supra-sensuous experiences of universal nature.)

That brilliant chariot of the Ashvins, complementary currents of universal energy of divine nature, directed by the mind, may, I pray, vest my body and mind with light and energy, the chariot by which leading lights of humanity dedicated to Truth and Divinity go by the path of righteousness in search of enlightenment for themselves and their children.

O generous and showerful winds and clouds, move the vapours of water from the earth and the firmament. O men of vision and imagination, established leaders and scholars of the world dedicated to truth and the voice of truth, listen to the scholar by whose words of knowledge you discover the world and work for its prosperity.

Pusha matures our mind and intelligence and gives us success in action and achievement.

Who is freely sociable, and first to be invited, famous and adorable, giver of health and long age, expert of hand in action, generous, brilliant, exceptionally intelligent, adorable and openly accessible and responsive to the brilliant host, agni.

Inspired and exhorted by the wise poet of vision, let us all in truth and sincerity invoke and adore Rudra, dispenser of justice and punishment, great giver of advancement, unaging and blissful giver of peace and well being.

the three regions of the universe for humanity and sustain the three to save us from the limitations of suffering and darkness, we pray that with the abundant and expansive gifts of health and wealth we may live and enjoy life in this vast home given by you.

2. Sujotiṣaḥ sūrya dakṣapitṝnanāgāstve sumaho vīhi devān. Dvijanmāno ya ṛtasāpaḥ satyāḥ svarvanto yajatā agnijihvāḥ.

O man bright as the sun, if you want to maintain your simplicity, innocence and freedom from sin, approach, honour and exalt the generous and brilliant seniors of parental nature who command the holy light of knowledge, expertise of action and greatness of character, who are nobly born and divinely educated, who are true to the bone and unshakably committed to nothing but the truth and the law of Dharma, and who enjoy perfect peace of mind with an open door hospitality but have a tongue of fire that brooks no nonsense and burns double dealing with a whiff of air.

great things as you do, give us the best of wealth and competence for our life on earth so that our home and family may be free from sin and violence.

And the great Indra, sung and celebrated thus, would closely hear the song and prayer and would grant you food and sustenance and fast progress and victories in the battles of life.

Bear and bring nourishing, protective and unsullied food for our children and for our youth and bring about a state of peace free from sin and evil. You are the most motherly harbingers of health, the best physicians. You are the makers of a new generation for all the moving and non-moving world. Pray stay constant and friendly as you are.

O lord of brilliance, let me stay established for all time in the bliss of your generosity and, under your protection and guidance, let me command the heights of heroism with the brave.

breath of life, both committed to truth and eternal law, come in response to my invitation with gifts of intelligence and competence for holy action, protect me as Atri, the man free from physical, mental and spiritual ailments, save me from deep darkness and release me from sin and evil all round prevailing.

1. Udu tvaccakṣurmahi mitrayorāň eti priyaṁ varuṇayoradabdham. Ṛtasya śuci darśatama-nīkaṁ rukmo na diva uditā vyadyaut.

Lo! the sun, that glorious eye of the universe, darling of the day and night, rises up undaunted, and like the pure, resplendent, golden face of heaven unveiled shines from the regions of eternal light.

(The sunrise is a metaphor which may be applied to the rise of any great light - giving power, say a great leader, giver of enlightenment, a teacher, a reformer, or a great movement.)

The lord of light who is all wise, too, knows, reaches and pervades three orders of the world, i.e., the earth, the middle regions of the skies, and the highest regions of the light of heaven; three fields of life, i.e., jnana or knowledge, karma or action, and upasana or prayer and meditation; and three departments of the social order, i.e., teaching and research, governance and administration, and dharma or values of life, law and justice. He also knows the birth and life of these Vishvedevas, i.e., the divinities of nature and humanity. And watching the simple and straight paths and performances as well as the tortuous and crooked movements of the mortals, the potent master reveals where they reach in consequence.

Happy and blest, I admire and celebrate in words of song all of you, Vishvedevas, great observers and protectors of the eternal law of Truth and righteousness: Aditi, indestructible mother nature, Mitra, sun and brilliant friend, Varuna, ocean and venerable judge, Aryaman, universal guide and discriminative path maker, Bhaga, lord of honour and excellence, universally known, dauntless, intelligent and wise purifying powers all.

Pray stay you constant as our guide in matters of body, health and action and in the working of our social institutions, and be the carrier medium of the word and voice of the eminent expert.

7. Mā va eno anyakṛtaṁ bhujema mā tat karma vasavo yaccayadhve. Viśvasya hi kṣayatha viśvadevāḥ svayaṁ ripustanvaṁ rīriṣīṣṭa.

O Vasus, givers of peace and settlement, dispensers of the laws of nature and humanity, let us not suffer your dispensation's punishment for the sin and crime committed by others, nor let us do that act which you hate and prohibit. You are the rulers of the world and dispensers of justice and punishment, O divinities of nature and humanity. Let the hater and the evil doer be the instrument of his own self-infliction.

8. Nama idugraṁ nama ā vivāse namo dādhāra pṛthivīmuta dyām. Namo devebhyo nama īśa eṣāṁ kṛtaṁ cideno namasā vivāse.

Namas, the thunder of omnipotence and universal law, is mighty. Reverence on the human plane too has power. I respect law and reverence. Law and reverence sustain the earth and the sun. I offer reverence to the nobilities and the divinities. The power of the Divine and reverence for life rule the actions, good as well as evil, of all these people. I accept the power and value reverence with humility and submission to the divine dispensation.

O great divinities of nature and nobilities of humanity, I, moving forward by the chariot of law and reverence, bow with homage and surrender to you all, powers strengthened and sanctified by the law of eternal truth, invincible presences in human homes, who are vastly watchful guardians of all the people and their actions in the world.

They alone are Vishvadevas, men of highest excellence, they alone lead us over and across all evil and suffering of life, and they alone are the right rulers and managers of the social order, who are men of wisdom, right judgment and discrimination as Varuna, universal ruler, unifying sustainers and saviour friends as Mitra, the sun, and pure and purifying agents of action as Agni, the fire, who are committed in thought, word and action to universal truth and eternal values of life, and who have the courage of the conviction to speak the truth in matters of governance and administration in the political order of the world state.

O divine powers, the bearer of knowledge who invokes the divinities and serves the nobilities in yajnic programmes is blest with divine peace and settlement and enjoys wisdom and divine guidance. The yajamana in pursuit of wealth and excellence, sitting with inspiring and adorable yajakas, obtains the vision of rising divinities in his life.

O Vishvedevas, bounties of nature divine and leading lights of humanity, stay you all generous as ever, shining as the sun on high above all. Make our march of progress simple and manageable, and protect our hearth and home.

We honour and adore the sun, Pusha, giver of vitality and potency, rider of the eternal chariot flying like a courser in space which steals away the dawn, its own creation, they say.

मातुदि१धिषुमबवं स्वसुजारः शृणातु नः।
भातन्दस्य सखा मम ॥ ५ ॥

5. Mātur-didhiṣum-abravaṁ svasurjāraḥ śṛṇotu naḥ. Bhrātendrasya sakhā mama.

I speak of the sun, sustainer of the earth mother, lover of its own creation, the dawn, brother of electric energy of the cosmos, and my friend and companion for life. May the sun be close to us and respond to our prayer.

आजासः पूषणं रथं निशृम्भास्त जनश्रियम।
दवं वहन्तु बिभ्रतः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Ājāsaḥ pūṣaṇaṁ rathe niśṛmbhāste janaśriyam.
Devaṁ vahantu bibhrataḥ.

May the radiations of the sun, waves of light energy firmly yoked in its chariot bearing life and lustre for humanity, bring the divine light and life into this world.

Mandala 6/Sukta 56

Pusha Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

य एनमादिदंशति करम्भादिति पूषणम।
न तं दव आदिश१ ॥ १ ॥

1. Ya enamādideśāti karambhāditi pūṣaṇam.
Na tena deva ādiṣe.

If one were to describe this Pusha, the sun or the universal chemistry of nourishment and vital energy, and say: It is from the solar suction of waters from earth and all space, or that, on the level of the individual human, it is from oat meal cooked with milk, then by this the divine process is neither to be defined nor to be determined nor, yet, to be exaggerated.

उ॒त घा॒ स र॒थीत॑मः सख्या॒ सत्प॑तियु॒जा।
इन्द॑' वृ॒त्राणि॑ जिघ्नत ॥ २ ॥

2. Uta ghā sa rathītamaḥ sakhyā satpatiryujā.
Indro vṛtrāṇi jighnate.

In fact, that fastest energy, Indra, heroic ruler of the chariot, supportive of the positive forces of nature and humanity in combination with friendly powers such as electric energy, breaks the clouds of darkness and want and thus remains the protector, promoter and ruling controller of natural truth.

उ॒तादः प॑रु॒ष गवि॒ सूर॑श्च॒क्रं हि॑र॒ण्यय॑म।
न्य॑रयद्र॒थीत॑मः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Utādaḥ paruṣe gavi sūraścakraṁ hirṇyayam.
Nyairayad rathītamaḥ.

And that mighty hero, solar energy in combination with electric energy, at the fastest chariot like velocity, sets in motion the golden circuit of developmental evolution in the fierce rays of the sun, in the battles of life and in the fiery communication of powerful speech.

यद॒द्य त्वा॑ पुरुष्टु॒त॒ ब॒वा॑म दस्र मन्तुमः ।

4. Yadadya tvā puruṣṭuta bravāma dasra mantumaḥ.
Tat su no manma sādhaya.

O universal destroyer, preserver and promoter, most perceptive and conscientious, universally adored Pusha, lord giver of life, whatever we speak to you or wish to day, we pray, fructify and accomplish that thought and plan of ours.

इ॒मं च॑ ना ग॒वष॑णं सा॒तय॑ सीषधा ग॒णम ।
आ॒रात्पू॑ष ऋसि श्रु॒तः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Imaṁ ca no gaveṣaṇaṁ sātaye sīṣadho gaṇam.
Ārāt pūṣannasi śrutaḥ.

And this body of thought and speech of our socio-economic plan, pray, lead to completion and success. O lord, you are renowned far and wide as giver of success and onward progress for the achievement of wealth and honour.

आ त॑ स्व॒स्तिमी॑महे आ॒रअ॑घा॒मुपा॑वसुम ।

6. Ā te svastimīmahe āre aghāmupāvasum.
Adyā ca sarvatātaye śvaśca sarvatātaye.

We pray for your gifts of happiness and well being of the perfect order for all for today, for tomorrow and for all time for the elimination of sin and evil and for the attainment of wealth and excellence in a state of peace and harmony.

Mandala 6/Sukta 57

Indra - Pushanau Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

इन्द्रा नु पूषणा वयं सख्याय स्वस्तये।
हुवम वाजसातय ॥ १ ॥

1. Indrā nu pūṣaṇā vayaṁ sakhyāya svastaye.
Huvema vājasātaye.

We always invoke and call upon Indra, lord commander of power, honour and excellence, and Pusha, giver of nourishment energy and intelligence, for the sake of friendship and all round joy and well being and for the achievement of success and victory in the battles of life.

सामन्य उपासदत्पातव चम्व: सुतम।
करम्भमन्य इच्छति ॥ २ ॥

2. Somamanya upāsadat pātave camvoḥ sutam.
Karambhamanya icchati.

One of them, Indra, abides in the middle region between earth and heaven and drinks the soma distilled there, i.e., it catalyses the vapours of the clouds into rain through electric charge, while the other, Pusha, loves karambha, i.e., the sun sucks up the vapours of water and herbal juices and turns them into soma clouds. Thus the two sit together and act.

अजा अन्यस्य वह्नया हरी अन्यस्य संभृता।
ताभ्यां वृत्राणि जिघ्नत ॥ ३ ॥

3. Ajā anyasya vahnayo harī anyasya saṁbhṛtā.
Tābhyāṁ vṛtrāṇi jighnate.

The carriers of one, Pusha, are the sun beams while those of the other, Indra, are positive and negative currents of electricity, and thereby the duo, Indra and Pusha, work together and break the clouds, and humanity gets the boons of food, energy and wealth.

यदिन्द्रो अनयदित महीरपा वृषन्तमः।
तत्र पूषाभवत्सचा॥ ४॥

4. Yadindro anayad rito mahīrapo vṛṣantamaḥ.
Tatra pūṣābhavat sacā.

When most generous Indra moves and brings about heavy showers of rain, then Pusha too is the corporate power of natural energy. (Thus making and breaking, consumption and creation are simultaneous processes of natural metabolism in life.)

तां पूष्णः सुमतिं वयं वृ ास्य प वयामिव।
इन्दस्य चा रभामह॥ ५॥

5. Tāṁ pūṣṇaḥ sumatiṁ vayaṁ vṛkṣasya pra vayā-miva. Indrasya cā rabhāmahe.

That immanent will and wisdom of Pusha, divine nature's creative and promotive power, and that catalytic power of Indra, natural electric energy, we love, join and apply at our level to have results like extensive branches of the tree.

उत्पूषणं युवामह भीशूँरिव सारथिः।
मह्या इन्दं स्वस्तय॥ ६॥

6. Ut pūṣaṇaṁ yuvāmahe'bhīśūňriva sārathiḥ.
Mahyā indraṁ svastaye.

Just as a charioteer joins, holds and controls the reins of his horses, and just as the supreme charioteer of the universe holds and controls the activity of natural forces such as radiations of the sun and exudations of the earth or the gaseous vapours and electric charge, so do we join Pusha and Indra, study and apply complementary forces and processes for the earth and for the great happiness and well being of her children.

1. Śukraṁ te anyad yajataṁ te anyad viṣurūpe ahanī dyaurivāsi. Viśvā hi māyā avasi svadhāvo bhadrā te pūṣanniha rātirastu.

O Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, you are the light of the world as the sun. Two are the forms of your beauty and glory, both different yet alike like the twin forms of the day: one is bright and inspiring, the other is soothing sweet adorable as the night. Lord of your own essential might, you animate, inspire, preserve and promote all intelligence, energy and powers of the world community. We pray, may your gifts of generosity be good for all in this world.

Conducted by radiating beams for horses as motive power, protector of animal life, giver of plentiful homes, inspirer of intelligence and wisdom, the brilliant sun, generous light of life dedicated to the entire world, moves on and on watching the regions of the world and inspiring and elevating general intelligence and unambitious minds to initiative.

3. Yāste pūṣannāvo antaḥ samudre hiraṇyayīrantarikṣe caranti. Tābhiryāsi dūtyāṁ sūryasya kāmena kṛta śrava icchamānaḥ.

O sagely scholar and realised soul, Pusha, giver of nourishment for body, mind and soul, golden are your vessels moving over the sea and in the sky. By these vessels you go round the world with love and desire for further food for knowledge and acting as messenger of the sun for the world.

4. Pūṣā subandhurdiva ā pṛthivyā iḷaspatirmaghavā dasmavarcāḥ. Yaṁ devāso adaduḥ sūryāyai kāmena kṛtaṁ tavasaṁ svañcam.

Pusha, giver of nourishment, is a noble friend and brother of all from earth to heaven, master of holy speech and light, possessing power, honour and excellence, and commanding extraordinary brilliance. A realised soul inspired with love and desire, mighty strong and self-cultured, the divinities dedicate him to Surya, dawn of a new day.

Sarasvati, this perennial stream of divine awareness, which stabilizes a permanent, all protective and adorable perspective dedicated to the light of Divinity, gives to the generous man of yajna blest with expansive mind and senses the zeal for action dedicated to fulfilment of obligations, a dynamic spirit which leads the man to freedom from all debts of life. These are thy brilliant gifts, O mother, to humanity.

This stream of divine awareness and knowledge, with fierce blows and powerful waves of light and inspiration, breaks through the height of mountains and depths of clouds covering darkness and concealing treasures and opens them out like one who digs up and out the roots of lotus flowers. Let us adore and serve this brilliant mother stream, Sarasvati, breaking over Vṛtraghnī vaṣṭi suṣṭutim.

And may that Sarasvati, awful breaker of the clouds of darkness, come by the golden paths of light, listen and, with love and grace, acknowledge our song of praise.

यस्या॑ अन॒न्ता अहु॑तस्त्वे॒षश्च॑रि॒ष्णुर॑र्ण॒वः।
अम॒श्चर॑ति॒ रारु॑वत॥ ८॥

8. Yasyā ananto ahrutas-tveṣaś-cariṣnur-arṇavaḥ.
Amaścarati roruvat.

Whose radiation of light and dynamic flow of speech moves on and on endless, straight and upright, roaring across the ocean of space, that is the Mother Sarasvati.

सा ना॒ विश्वा॒ अति॒ द्विष॒: स्वस॑ॄर॒न्या ऋ॒तावरी।
अत॒ ाहे॑व॒ सूय॑:॥ ९॥

9. Sā no viśvā ati dviṣaḥ svasṝranyā ṛtāvarī.
Atannaheva sūryaḥ.

And may that flow of speech, warding off all hate and enmity, bearing truth like the light of dawn, lead us to other, different, sister streams of knowledge like the sun moving to other successive days, the same yet new.

उ॒त न॑: पि॒या पि॒यासु॑ स॒प्तस्व॑सा॒ सुजु॑ष्टा।

10. Uta naḥ priyā priyāsu saptasvasā sujuṣṭā.

And may Sarasvati, dynamic stream of light, knowledge and speech, dearest among seven lovely sister streams of knowledge, word, and mind and senses, loving and blissful, be adorable and remain favourable.

11. Āpapruṣī pārthivānyuru rajo antarikṣam .

Pervading the objects of earth, the vast skies, the middle regions and the particles of nature, may the divine awareness and enlightening speech protect us against hate and enmity.

12. Triṣadhasthā saptadhātuḥ pañca jātā vardhayantī. Vājevāje havyā bhūt.

Existent and all pervasive in three regions of the world, sustained in seven, five elements, ahankara and mahat tattva, produced by five pranic energies, rising and expanding, Sarasvati, fluent speech and awareness, may, we pray, arise at our invocation.

प या महिम्ना महिनासु चकित द्युम्नभिरन्या अपसामपस्तमा। रथइव बृहती विभ्वन कृतापस्तुत्या चिकितुषा सरस्वती॥ १३॥

13. Pra yā mahimnā mahināsu cekite dyumnebhiranyā apasāmapastamā. Ratha iva bṛhatī vibhvane kṛtopastutyā cikituṣā sarasvatī.

She that is distinguished as great by her grandeur in these things and regions, appears different and exceptional to different people by her light and lustre. She is most dynamic in the dynamics of existence, vast and expansive as space, created for the glory of Infinity by the lord creator, adorable by the celebrant: that is Sarasvati, dynamic spirit of omniscience.

14. Sarasvatyabhi no neṣi vasyo māpa spharīḥ payasā mā na ā dhak. Juṣasva naḥ sakhyā veṣyā ca mā tvat kṣetrāṇyaraṇāni ganma.

Sarasvati, perennial harbinger of divine gifts of enlightenment and prosperity, pray bring us all that is lovely and excellent more and ever more. Pray do not spurn us, don't cast us away, nor let us be consumed by excess of exuberance and power. Help us with love and friendship, and let us never fall off from you into lands forlorn and void of joy.

Ashvins Devata, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

स्तुष नरा दिवा अस्य पसन्ता_श्विना हुव जरमाणा अकः ।

1. Stuṣe narā divo asya prasantā'śvinā huve jaramāṇo arkaiḥ. Yā sadya usrā vyuṣi jmo antānyuyūṣataḥ paryurū varāṁsi.

I praise and celebrate the Ashvins, leading lights of heaven pervasive in this world, and worshipfully invoke them with holy chant of mantras. Complementary powers of nature's circuitous energy and fertility, they always conduct the rays of the sun at dawn and fill the earth from end to end with choice things of excellence.

ता यज्ञमा शुचिभिश्चकमाणा रथस्य भानुं रुरुचू रजभिः ।

2. Tā yajñamā śucibhiścakramāṇā rathasya bhānuṁ rurucū rajobhiḥ. Purū varāṁsyamitā mimānā'po dhanvānyati yātho ajrān.

Continuously energising nature's sacred operations and augmenting the yajna with purest splendours, they light up the light of this beautiful world on the move with showers of mist and energies. Creating many gifts and waters of measureless value, they pass over and across regions of space yet untraversed.

ता ह॒ त्यद्व॒तियदर॑धमु ग॒त्था धिय॑ ऊहथु॒ः शश्व॒दश्व॑ः ।

They are the divinities vibrant and blazing as wind and lightning that reach the yajna by unfailing radiations of energy fast as mind and sensitive as thought. They inspire the mind and will of the mortal man otherwise groping in the pathless woods of action and raise the generous yajnic giver so that he may cross the hurdles and rest in peace with a perfect sense of fulfilment.

They bless the mind and fructify the intentions of the new celebrant in search of knowledge and power. Ever young and energetic as wind and lightning, using seven currents of nature's centrifugal and centripetal energy, they bear and bring excellent gifts of water, food, energy and psychic determination. Let the learned yajaka, then, free from hate, jealousy and pride, dedicate himself to the youthful powers with faith and persistence.

5. Tā valgū dasrā puruśākatamā pratnā navyasā vacasā vivāse. Yā śaṁsate stuvate śaṁbhaviṣṭhā babhūvatur-gṛṇate citrarātī.

With the latest words of homage, I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvin divinities: graceful, destroyers of want and suffering, most versatile of power, ancient and eternal powers of the divine, who may, we pray, be good and blissful to the devoted celebrant and bring an immense variety of wondrous gifts for the yajaka.

6. Tā bhujyuṁ vibhiradbhyaḥ samudrāt tugrasya sūnum-ūhathū rajobhiḥ. Areṇūbhir-yojanebhir-bhujantā patatribhir-arṇaso nirupasthāt.

I celebrate and glorify the twin Ashvins, protectors and sustainers of life, who raise by radiation usable products of nature's energy from the waters and the seas by the regions of light, and who by forces of gravitation bring down by dustless usable paths of space energy from the depths of spatial waters.

7. Vi jayuṣā rathyā yātamadriṁ śrutaṁ havaṁ vṛṣaṇā vadhrimatyāḥ. Daśasyantā śayave pipyathurgāmiti cyavānā sumatiṁ bhuraṇyū.

Ever anxious for all round victory and riding the chariot of waves of energy, you top the mountain and reach the cloud. Generous givers of showers, you perceive the invitation of the productive earth and the expansive skies. Mighty strong, you promote the earth and prompt the voice of her people so that they may be at peace, and, ever vibrant on the move, nourishing and sustaining, you inspire the mind with noble thoughts and will for holy actions.

8. Yad rodasī pradivo asti bhūmā heḷo devānāmuta martyatrā. Tadādityā vasavo rudriyāso rakṣoyuje tapuraghaṁ dadhāta.

O heaven and earth, O light of the world, howsoever great be the anger of the holy ones and of the average mortals, that same anger, O Adityas, seasons of time, Vasus, shelter homes of life and sustenance, Rudras, powers of natural justice and dispensation, all that sin and sufferance, bear on and reserve for correction of the negative forces of hate and enmity.

9. Ya īṁ rājānāvṛtuthā vidadhad rajaso mitro varuṇaściketat. Gambhīrāya rakṣase hetimasya droghāya cid vacasa ānavāya.

Let Mitra, man of love, and Varuna, man of judgement and discrimination, who fully knows and serves the Ashvins, pervasive and dynamic lights and rulers of world regions, according to the seasons of time, wield and duly order their power and force in respect of the inscrutable, the demoniac, the malignant as also for the latest word of praise or calumny.

O brilliant lords of humanity and nature, come by the chariot of internal wheels of the social order with leading lights of the people, making new paths for the coming generation with inspiring message of selfless performance of duty and also take off the heads of the terrorist forces of destruction.

Ashvins, complementary ruling powers of love and judgement of the nation of humanity, creators and givers of wondrous gifts of plenty, come here by the highest, middling and lowest order of cooperative participants in the social order and open the doors of the fixed as well as of the movable treasures of the nation for the celebrant.

Just as the dawn, off spring of the sun, rides the radiant chariot of light with a hundred gifts of beauty and grace, similarly, O twin divines of nature, leaders of humanity, sustainers of many, lords of vision and power, come hither with all your gifts of light and graces and be inspirers of humanity in the life of revered performers of sacred acts of yajnic creation.

Ashvins, twin divines of nature's dynamics, generous, devout and bold, with these open and gracious radiations of the light of dawn, you bring inspiring rejuvenation for the good of humanity, and then, like birds on the wing, excellent hymns of thanks and praise rise and reach you to do honour to your grace.

man of yajnic generosity abiding with you in love and faith.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets the dawn as the bride and the sun as the groom coming together in marriage by choice and beginning a new day of their life.

chant of the Veda and offer of yajna and worship and break open the treasures of knowledge divine and secular. May the people's yajna and worship be true and fruitful at the call of the divinities.

Bestow love and care upon the worshipful admirer, bless the supplicant with wealth and noble progeny, and favour us with honour, fame and excellence of universal order.

Note: Swami Dayananda interprets this hymn as a metaphor of the virtues of women. He says that the birth of a girl child and the bride's coming to her new home is like the dawn of a new day which brings light, grace and prosperity to the family.

1. Vapurnu taccikituṣe cidastu samānaṁ nāma dhenu patyamānam. Marteṣvanyad dohase pīpāya sakṛcchukraṁ duduhe pṛśnirūdhaḥ.

For the man of vision and wisdom, the motherly form of nature is equal and similar by one name, Dhenu, mother cow. One on earth abounds with milk among the mortals to nurse her children, the other is Prshni, the middle region, mother of Maruts, winds or pranic energies, which simultaneously feeds the cloud with the purest soma of life energy.

य अग्नया न शाशुचिधाना द्वियत्रिमरुत वावृधन्त।

2. Ye agnayo na śośucannidhānā dviryat trirmaruto vāvṛdhanta. Areṇavo hirṇyayāsa eṣāṁ sākaṁ nṛmṇaiḥ pauṁsyebhiśca bhūvan.

They, the Maruts, vital pranic energies, pure and shining like fires, grow double and triple. Non-particle and golden are their forms and conductors carrying simultaneously both bio-energy and intelligence for life on earth.

रुदस्य य मीळहुषः सन्ति पुत्रा यांश्चा नु दाधृविभर्ध्य।

3. Rudrasya ye mīḷhuṣaḥ santi putrā yāṁśco nu dādhṛvir-bharadhyai. Vide hi mātā maho mahī ṣā set pṛśniḥ subhve garbhamādhāt.

These Maruts are children of Rudra, virile spiritual energy, and the mother is there to receive, hold and nourish them in her womb. For the reason of conceiving and bearing 'the great ones, the mother is known as the great', the Mother, the mother cow, the mother earth, the holy and the noble, the one who bears and gives birth to life.

4. Na ya īṣante januṣo'yā nva'ntaḥ santo'vadyāni punānāḥ. Niryad duhre śucayo'nu joṣamanu śriyā tanvam-ukṣamāṇāḥ.

The Maruts neither hurt nor forsake their nativity, nor do they neglect any creature by their ethics and policy, but being noble, pure and shining in the midst of life, purging away weaknesses and perfecting virtues, vitalising and refining their body and personality with beauty, virility and splendour according to their love and ambition, they absorb the essences of nature, distil the soma and give showers of joy.

5. Makṣū na yeṣu dohase cidayā ā nāma dhṛṣṇu mārutaṁ dadhānāḥ. Na ye staunā ayāso mahnā nū cit sudānurava yāsadugrān.

There is none among them but instantly moves forward with showers of generosity. Bold and vibrant, they bear the name of children of the winds. They move not like thieves and sluggards by virtue of their might and grandeur, and only the generous man of holiness can approach and pacify these blazing heroes.

6. Ta idugrāḥ śavasā ghṛṣṇuṣeṇā ubhe yujanta rodasī sumeke. Adha smaiṣu rodasī svaśoci-rāmavatsu tasthau na rokaḥ.

Shining and blazing by strength and superior power, commanding mighty forces of nature, they join the beautiful heaven and earth by their presence. And when these forceful presences pervade heaven and earth, therein abides the self-refulgent electric energy like light and splendour itself.

7. Aneno vo maruto yāmo astvanaśvaścid yamajatyarathīḥ. Anavaso anabhīśū rajastūrvi rodasī pathyā yāti sādhan.

O Maruts, vibrant powers of nature and humanity, let your course and chariot be free from sin and error. Let it be powered without horses and let it be driven without the driver. Let it be protected without external forces, moving without food and fuel, without reins, dispelling waves, clouds and the dust of earth and space, and let it go by paths of heaven and earth, fulfilling the ambitions of humanity.

8. Nāsya vartā na tarutā nvasti-maruto yamavatha vājasātau. Toke vā goṣu tanaye yamapsu sa vrajaṁ dartā pārye adha dyoḥ.

O Maruts, in the serious warlike business of life, whoever you protect and promote for the sake of children, grand children, or lands and cows or waters, no one can overwhelm or circumvent, no one can cross, defeat and destroy. Indeed he will be the breaker of new paths and open new treasures and then cross through the skies to the bounds of the regions of light.

9. Pra citramarkaṁ gṛṇate turāya mārutāya svatavase bharadhvam. Ye sahāṁsi sahasā sahante rejate agne pṛthivī makhebhyaḥ.

O men of learning, bear and offer unique and wonderful songs and presentations of reverence for the adorable, vibrant, prompt and forceful band of heroes of their own essential power and excellence, those who meet the challenges of life and confrontations by their own strength and courage. O brilliant sage, Agni, the earth itself vibrates and shines by the holy and mighty exploits of the Maruts, heroes of the winds.

Bright and blazing, flames of a great yajna of love and non-violence, instantly moving to action and adorable, brave warriors born of light and fire, intrepidable heroes of the winds are shakers of the earth like the heroes of heaven. Such are the Maruts.

With homage and reverence I adore and serve that rising and exalting hero of the winds and the blazing lance of action who is a very child of Rudra awful divine power of force and justice, whom, for the sake of celestial power, the pure, immaculate heroes of fire and conscientious intelligence envy and emulate.

Mita-Varunara Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

विश्वेषां वः सतां ज्येष्ठतमा गीर्भिर्मित्रावरुणा वावृधध्यै।

Mitra and Varuna, complementary pranic energies, holy powers of love and justice, I adore and exalt you both, highest of the divinities of the world, with the best of my voice and words, you both, unique and incomparable, most self-controlled controllers of humanity who guide and lead the people on the right path with your own hands, holding them by the reins and the light rays of their own inner mind.

2. Iyaṁ mad vāṁ pra stṛṇīte manīṣopa priyā namasā barhiraccha. Yantaṁ no mitrāvaruṇāv-adhṛṣṭaṁ chardiryad vāṁ varūthyaṁ sudānū.

Mitra and Varuna, dear, loving and just teachers and preachers, the holy grass is well spread for you on the vedi, and this sincere address and invitation from the core of my heart reaches out to you with homage and humility. O generous masters of holiness and knowledge, come and bless us with your gifts of the peace and happiness of a comfortable home free from fear.

3. Ā yātaṁ mitrāvaruṇā suśastyupa priyā namasā hūyamānā. Saṁ yāvapnaḥstho apaseva janāñchrudhīyataścid yatatho mahitvā.

Mitra and Varuna, holiest loving and just powers of nature and humanity, dear as our own, invoked and invited with homage and humility, come and receive our prayer and adoration, you who, like parents of children, inspire obedient people keen for nourishment by your own action and greatness to rise together.

4. Aśvā na yā vājinā pūtabandhū ṛtā yad garbham-aditirbharadhyai. Pra yā mahi mahāntā jāyamānā ghorā martāya ripave ni dīdhaḥ.

Fast, strong and bright as heat and light all pervasive, akin to the purity of brotherly relationship, embodiments of truth and law of the universe, mother nature bears you for eternity, O Mitra and Varuna, who ever move forward as greater than the great ones, emerging, rising and blazing as terrible to the enemies of mankind from birth itself.

5. Viśve yad vāṁ maṁhanā mandamānāḥ kṣatraṁ devāso adadhuḥ sajoṣāḥ. Pari yad bhūtho rodasī cidurvī santi spaśo adabdhāso amūrāḥ.

Since you pervade over and across the wide earth and heaven by your presence, the brilliant and generous great powers of the world, rejoicing by virtue of your grandeur and majesty, loving and cooperative together, hold sway over the social order of the earth and rule, intelligent and enlightened, undaunted and perceptive all over like watchful eyes and ears of the nation.

6. Tā hi kṣatraṁ dhārayethe anu dyūn dṛṁhethe sānumupamādiva dyoḥ. Dṛḷho nakṣatra uta viśvadevo bhūmimātān dyāṁ dhāsināyoḥ.

Indeed, you hold the wealth of the nation, and you sustain and expand the bounds of world order day by day like the sun, for example, expanding the bounds of light over the world. It is through you that the refulgent lord of the universe expands and lights the world of heaven and earth in existence by the food and energy of life.

They bring the heave of passion and they bring the food too to quench the fire of that passion, and thus they sustain the wise with the food they aspire for, they who also lead the bearers of holy materials to fill the house of yajna and to feed the fire. And just as the sparkling sacred streams bear the waters of life, and unmarried maidens bear life-giving vitality, but they are never neglected and never injured in any way, so the wise and the sustainers of the wise must never be neglected, never injured.

9. Pra yad vāṁ mitrāvaruṇā spūrdhan priyā dhāma yuvadhitā minanti. Na ye devāsa ohasā na martā ayajñasāco apyo na putrāḥ.

O Mitra and Varuna, divinities of love and justice, those holy persons, who emulate and follow the rules and injunctions loved and ordained by you, and never violate them by their power and potential, are like your children by their karmas. On the other hand, those, who envy and are jealous, who violate the principles and institutions dear to you, who are not good and generous people, and in spite of their power and potential are mortals of inferior calibre without the love and performance of noble acts, deserve to be neither you, friends nor your children.

The wise ones bear and offer words of praise in honour of you. Some others, thoughtful and faithful, offer songs of celebration. Then we too chant and address hymns of adoration to you. Joining with all holy ones by your grace and grandeur, there is none you hurt or injure.

Mitra and Varuna, thus under your care and protection and in matters of family peace and prosperity of the home gifted by you, the beneficiary feels great and grateful. And in the battle business of life which is exciting and delightful, you engage the brave, generous, simple and straight man of truth and honesty celebrated in words of praise and adoration all round.

Indra-Varuna Devate, Bharadvaja Barhaspatya Rshi

1. Śruṣṭī vāṁ yajña udyataḥ sajoṣā manuṣvad vṛktabarhiṣo yajadhyai. Ā ya indrāvaruṇāviṣe adya mahe sumnāya maha āvavartat.

Indra, glorious lord of power, and Varuna, lord of justice, peace and excellence, this yajna of evolution and advancement, kindled, conducted and jointly sustained by people in your honour, is for the union and cooperation of men dedicated to yajnic development and progress of the world community. Let it go on today and for ever onward for the growth of abundant food, energy and sustenance and for a high order of peace and excellent well being of life as a whole.

You are the best and holiest, dedicated to the divine scheme of evolution, development and progress, being most vigorous, bravest of the brave, commanding highest power and excellence among the excellent and powerful, most high spirited by dedication to truth and the law of truth, breakers of the darkest clouds for showers of vitality. Indeed you are the leaders and commanders of the total forces of nature and humanity on the paths of universal progress.

Honour and celebrate the two, Indra and Varuna, lords of peace, power and justice, with reverence and homage. Brilliant with strength and power, over-flowing with vitality and generosity, they are loving and kind. One of them, Indra, like the sun, breaks the clouds and destroys the enemies with the force of thunder, and the other, Varuna, cool as water and vibrant as the winds, follows to bless humanity with strength and energy on the paths of life.

All the holy voices, men and women, leading lights of humanity and the holiest of the holy for the world, grow on by their own vision and performance in the course of nature. For all these who grow thus, O lords of power and peace, vision and wisdom, be good, kind and generous by your own grace and grandeur like the light of heaven and the wide expanse of mother earth.

He that is liberal, self confident and upright in matters of truth and divine law, and in his very soul does honour to you, shall, with his resources, conquer his opponents and enemies and, with his generosity, achieve wealth and power and win over men of wealth and power to his side for support and cooperation to give and share.

Indra and Varuna, lords of brilliance, power and wisdom of justice, that wealth and power which you bear and bestow upon the liberal yajaka of love and non-violence may, we pray, be for us too so that we share the honour and excellence which silences and shatters the calumny and criticism advanced by the selfish opposition.

of nature and humanity praised and adored by all, bless us with abundant wealth for honour and excellence of life so that grateful and worshipful, celebrating the power and glory of your grace and grandeur, we may cross over the difficult problems, evils and negativities of the world as we cross the seas by boat.

for you. Your chariot moves to the constant self-sustaining yajna of love and non-violence every day so that you may drink of the soma in the company of divines.

Indra and Vishnu, destroyers of want and suffering, drink of the honey sweets of this soma and quench the hunger and thirst of body, mind and soul. Both of you together, receive the exhilarating food and drinks of life, acknowledge our offers of homage, and listen to my voice of invocation and celebration.

उभा जिग्यथुर्न परा जयेथे न परा जिग्ये कतरश्चनन'। इन्द्रश्च विष्ण यदपस्पृधेथां त्रेधा सहस्रं वि तदैरयेथाम ॥ ८ ॥

8. Ubhā jigyathurna parā jayethe na parā jigye kataraścanainoḥ. Indraśca viṣṇo yadapaspṛdhethāṁ tredhā sahasraṁ vi tadairayethām.

Both Indra and Vishnu are ever victorious. They are never defeated. Neither of them is ever vanquished or deprived. Indra and Vishnu, when you act together and contend with others, you stabilise your thousand forces, threefold raise their power and potency, and reduce the adversary to the lowest degree of efficiency.

Indra, lord of cosmic energy, and Soma, spirit of cosmic vitality, the greatness of your lustrous grandeur is this that you have done the first elemental grand acts of creation: you fashion forth the sun, you create the regions of light and the peace and paradisal bliss of existence, you dispel the darkness and ignorance of life, and you ward off the malice and negativities of the earthly community.

remembrance that may save us from want and suffering across the present and future generations of our children. Interweave for all people strength and power worthy of leading heroes with which we may face and win all our battles of life against the adversaries of life and human society.

Breaking the clouds and shattering mountains, first self-manifested among things born, the very embodiment of universal law and the truth of existence, Brhaspati, lord creator, ruler, protector and promoter of the expansive universe is the very essence of the life and breath of existence who wields and governs all matters and materials of the world. Lord and master of the earth by virtue of knowledge and power of action, illustrious with the light and fire of life, he is our father generator who, like the mighty thunder, proclaims his power and presence across heaven and earth.

Brhaspati, lord ruler of all, is he who, for the people in need, creates and gives a world of beauty and plenty when they approach him in the mood and spirit of supplication and prayer. When people invoke the divine lord, he breaks the thickest clouds of darkness and suffering, shatters the strongholds of exploitation and slavery, and challenges and wins over enemies and adversaries standing up in arms against humanity.

Ruling over the dynamics of waters, energies and the karmic flow of nature's law and light of heaven and bliss of life, himself unseen and undefeated, Brhaspati destroys all unfriendly forces confronting humanity by the strikes of his thunderbolt of justice and punishment by law.

O Soma and Rudra, lords of health and well being and of the health and vitality of life, ruler of the land and powers of health services, you maintain the balance of nature and environment and the health and vitality of the community so that the desired results of social welfare be achieved to your satisfaction. Bearing seven-fold jewels of health and prosperity, bless the inmates of every home so that our people may be happy and healthy in peace and joy, and our bipeds and quadrupeds too may be healthy and happy.

O Soma and Rudra, lords of peace and vitality, uproot sickness, ill health, disease and epidemics such as cholera and others which spread to our homes and affect our children and institutions. Ward off want and adversity and keep it far away so that they never recur and we enjoy good health, well being and abounding graces.

Soma and Rudra, lord of health and vitality, ruler and physician, bear and bring all those herbs and medicaments for our body's health and mental and spiritual strength by which you may throw off and eliminate from us whatever pollutes our body system and whatever sin or trespass or indiscretion has been committed by us.

Soma and Rudra, lords of health and total well being, bearing weapons of blazing efficacy and shattering blows of thundering strength, givers of peace and joy, bless us with health of body, mind and soul and lasting well being. Release us from the snares of Varuna, bondage of sin and disease by the laws of nature. Happy, kind and gracious, protect and promote us in life against sin, disease and indiscretion.

1. Jīmūtasyeva bhavati pratīkaṁ yad varmī yāti samadām-upasthe. Anāviddhayā tanvā jaya tvaṁ sa tvā varmaṇo mahimā pipartu.

When a warrior in armour advances to the battle front of war he looks like a mighty rain cloud. Go forward with your body unhurt, win the battle, and may the grandeur of your armour protect and defend you in war and peace.

धन्वना गा धन्वनाजिं जयम धन्वना तीव्राः समद जयम।

2. Dhanvanā gā dhanvanājiṁ jayema dhanvanā tīvrāḥ samado jayema. Dhanuḥ śatrorapakā-maṁ kṛṇoti dhanvanā sarvāḥ pradiśo jayema.

Let us preserve and win lands and cows by the bow and reach our targets by the bow. Let us fight out the fiery passions by the bow and arrow of concentrated meditation. The bow and arrow thwarts the evil designs of enemy forces within and without both. Let us advance in all directions by the bow.

व यन्तीवदा गनीगन्ति कर्णं प्रियं सखायं परिषस्वजाना।

3. Vakṣyantīvedā ganīganti karṇaṁ priyaṁ sakhāyaṁ pariṣasvajānā. Yoṣeva śiṅkte vitatādhi dhanvañ-jyā iyaṁ samane pārayantī.

Like a maiden embracing her dear lover and whispering into his ear as if saying something sweet, this string of the bow, its ends like loving hands clasping the ends of the bow, is stretched to the archer's ear, rings and seems to say: Shoot, advance and make way through the opposite ranks.

4. Te ācarantī samaneva yoṣā māteva putraṁ bibhṛtāmupasthe. Apa śatrūn vidhyatāṁ saṁvidāne ārtnī ime viṣphurantī amitrān.

Just as a young mother holds the baby in her lap with both hands, so may the two ends of the bow operative together in balance hold the string at both ends and shoot the arrow upon the enemies and thus scatter the unfriendly forces out of gear.

5. Bahvīnāṁ pitā bahurasya putraściścā kṛṇoti samanāvagatya. Iṣudhiḥ saṅkāḥ pṛtanaśca sarvāḥ pṛṣṭhe ninaddho jayati prasūtaḥ.

Like a guardian having many children under his care, the quiver borne on the warrior's back holds many arrows and rattles as the warrior enters upon the battle. The warrior with the bow and arrows in the quiver emerging on the battle field scatters all the enemy forces and wins all the battles of life.

6. Rathe tiṣṭhan nayati vājinaḥ puro yatrayatra kāmayate suṣārathiḥ. Abhīśūnāṁ mahimānaṁ panāyata manaḥ paścādanu yacchanti raśmayaḥ.

An expert driver on the steer of the chariot directs and leads the horses forward wherever he wants. Know this and admire the great importance of the bridle strings. As the driver controls the horses so does the mind control the senses. Control the strings of the mind and the senses would follow in your conduct of the chariot of life.

Rushing on with the chariots, the warriors of mighty arm and war horses roar with awful war cries and, crushing the unfriendly forces with their advances without ever retreating, they eliminate the enemies.

8. Rathavāhanaṁ havirasya nāma yatrāyudhaṁ nihitamasya varma. Tatrā rathamupa śagmaṁ sadema viśvāhā vayaṁ sumanasyamānāḥ.

Where the chariot war materials of this warrior are collected and deposited, and where his arms and armour which routed the enemy are secured and guarded, there let us find our chariot of peace and well being for all time, planning and designing as we are always for the peace and joy of the mind.

Those who abide in the home or sit in the assembly with peace and joy at heart, who are senior parental people, advanced and experienced in age, observing Dharma without fluctuating from peace and rectitude even in crises, commanding strength and depth of wisdom, leading wonderful armies, having full forces of arms and armaments but never violent and destructive, brave heroes of truth and honesty, many, mighty and magnanimous, observers of self-chosen discipline and law of conduct, let such be our friends, ideals and leader guardians for a life of peace and happiness.

Sagely scholars, parental seniors, men of peace and good will, holy and blissful sun and earth which hurt no one, protective and promotive powers of nature and humanity, all observers and protectors of truth and law, may, we pray, protect us from sin and evil and defend us against violence. May no evil and violent power, no thief, rule over us.

The sun wears the beauty of a divine bird and flies. The earth, its mountain tops illuminated by sun rays, moves on, urged and energised by the sun. On this earth where men run around together yet scattered, may the arrows of defence and protection and the light of the sun provide us a home of peace and stability.

13. Ā jaṅghanti sānveṣāṁ jaghanāň upa jighnate.
Aśvājani pracetaso'śvānt-samatsu codaya.

O inspirer of the brave like a goad, inspire the wise and brave warriors of the earth who break down the forces of these enemies of humanity and strike down the saboteurs and terrorists in the battles of life.

अहिरिव भोगैः पर्येति बाहुं ज्याया हेतिं परिबाधमानः।

14. Ahiriva bhogaiḥ paryeti bāhuṁ jyāyā hetiṁ paribādhamānaḥ. Hastaghno viśvā vayunāni vidvān pumān pumānsaṁ pari pātu viśvataḥ.

Wrapped round the arm of a warring man of action like the coils of a snake, like an arm guard protecting the shooting arm against the strike back of the bow string after the shot of an arrow, or against the recoil of a gun, the man of knowledge well versed in all the ways of life and the world should protect the man of bold action all round.

आलाक्ता या रुरुशीष्ण्यथो यस्या अयो मुखम।

15. Ālāktā yā ruruśīrṣṇyatho yasyā ayo mukham.
Idaṁ parjanyaretasa iṣvai devyai bṛhannamaḥ.

Poison-tempered with head like a doe's and a mouth of steel, generous and abundant like a rain cloud is the brave ruling queen of arrows. For the lady of divine velocity, unbounded praise and homage of a thousand salutations!

अवसृष्टा परा पत शरव्ये ब्रह्मसंशित । गच्छामित्रान्प पद्यस्व मामीषां कं चनाच्छिषः ॥ १६ ॥

16. Avasṛṣṭā parā pata śaravye brahmasaṁśite. Gacchāmitrān pra padyasva māmīṣāṁ kaṁ canocchiṣaḥ.

O sharpest and fastest of missiles, tempered and tested by the best of defence scientists, shot and released, fly far, reach the target and fall upon the enemies. Spare none of them whatsoever even at the farthest distance.

यत्र बाणाः संपतन्ति कुमारा विशिखाइव । तत्रा नो ब्रह्मणस्पतिरदितिः शम यच्छतु विश्वाहा शम यच्छतु ॥ १७ ॥

17. Yatra bāṇāḥ saṁpatanti kumārā viśikhā iva. Tatrā no brahmaṇaspatir-aditiḥ śarma yacchatu viśvāhā śarma yacchatu.

O ruler, where the young soldiers with shorn hair fall upon the enemy and showers of missiles rain down upon the targets, there let the controller of nation's wealth provide us total security and let the mother earth provide us a safe and comfortable shelter, a shelter of all round security.

मर्माणि ते वर्मणा छादयामि सामस्त्वा राजामृतेनानु वस्ताम । उरावरीया वरुणस्त कृणातु जयन्तं त्वानु दवा मदन्तु ॥ १८ ॥

18. Marmāṇi te varmaṇā chādayāmi somastvā rājāmṛtenānu vastām. Urorvarīyo varuṇaste kṛṇotu jayantaṁ tvānu devā madantu.

O warrior of the bow, I cover the vital limbs of your body with armour for protection. Let the ruler Soma, immortal spirit of life's vitality, give you close cover against death and mortality. Let the wise and judicious commander of the forces provide you the best and most abundant food and maintenance, and let the excellencies of the nation rejoice with you when you win the battle.

या नः स्वा अरणा यश्च निष्ट्या जिघांसति।

19. Yo naḥ svo araṇo yaśca niṣṭyo jighāṁsati. Devāstaṁ sarve dhūrvantu brahma varma mamāntaram.

Any one, whether our own or a stranger far away non-fighting, or far off and low, that hurts and violates us deserves that the best and enlightened of the nation punish him to nullity. For me, the Lord Almighty and the divine knowledge and awareness within me is my best armour for protection.

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अग्निं नरा दीधितिभिररण्याहस्तच्युती जनयन्त पशस्तम।
दूरेदृशं गृहपतिमथर्युम॥ १॥

1. Agnim naro dīdhitibhiraraṇyorhastacyutī janayanta praśastam. Dūredṛśam gṛhapatimatharyum.

O leading lights of yajna, let the people produce fire by the heated friction of arani woods done with the manual motion of hands. Fire is an admirable power seen from afar and shining far and wide, sustaining home life like a guardian but otherwise silent, implicit in nature and non-violent. Further create this domestic energy by your acts of research and intelligence.

तमग्निमस्त वसवो न्यृण्वन्त्सुपतिच ामवसे कुतश्चित।
द ाय्या या दम आस नित्यः॥ २॥

2. Tamagnimaste vasavo nyṛṇvantsupraticakṣamavase kutaścit. Dakṣāyyo yo dama āsa nityaḥ.

The energy of fire and electricity, scholars of basic science and original vision produce for domestic purpose or for communication and transportation somehow from something they know best. It is of versatile use for defence and protection, universal in nature and character, and an all purpose asset in the home for any service.

प्रद्ध॑ अग्न दीदिहि पुरा ना॑ जस्त्रया सू॒म्या॑ यविष्ठ।
त्वां शश्वन्त॒ उप॑ यन्ति॒ वाजा॑: ॥ ३ ॥

3. Preddho agne dīdihi puro no 'jasrayā sūrmyā yaviṣṭha. Tvāṁ śaśvanta upa yanti vājāḥ.

O fire divine, ever youthful power and presence, well kindled and raised, shine on, radiate and illuminate us, constantly, through the continuous channel of nature's dynamics. All things in constant motion reach you and flow on in the cosmic cycle.

प त अ॒ग्नय॒ा ग्नि॒भ्या॒ वर॒ निः सु॒वीरा॑सः शाशुचन्त द्यु॒मन्त॑:।
यत्रा॒ नर॑: स॒मास॑त सुजा॒ताः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Pra te agnayo'gnibhyo varaṁ niḥ suvīrāsaḥ śośucanta dyumantaḥ. Yatrā naraḥ samāsate sujātāḥ.

O light divine, brighter and stronger than flames of fire are those vibrant radiations of yours, all illuminating, purifying and sanctifying, which arise when leading lights of yajnic vision and action, well educated and holily cultured, sit together on the vedi and kindle you to join the cosmic circuit of intelligence.

दा न॑ अग्न धि॒या र॒यिं सु॒वीरं स्वप॒त्यं स॑हस्य पशस्तम।
न यं यावा॒ तर॑ति यातु॒मावा॑न ॥ ५ ॥

1. Dā no agne dhiyā rayiṁ suvīraṁ svapatyaṁ sahasya praśastam. Na yaṁ yāvā tarati yātumāvān.

O mighty fire and light of divinity, with luminous intelligence and noble action give us that honour and excellence of life and that brave, admirable and seasoned progeny worthy of us which no force would be able to violate or overcome.

उप॒ यमति॑ युव॒तिः सु॒द ं दा॒षा वस्त ॑ह॒विष्म॑ती घृ॒ताची॑ ।

6. Upa yameti yuvatiḥ sudakṣaṁ doṣāvastorha-viṣmatī ghṛtācī. Upa svainamaramatirvasūyuḥ.

The creative vitality of Agni is active and operative day and night: the youthful maiden approaches her versatile lover and stays with him in marriage for life, the yajna ladle overflowing with ghrta reaches the kindled fire of the vedi, the rich dark night looks up to the moon and terminates with the sun, the virgin nature, divine lord's own consort, with the passion for creation, joins him for ever and creates the living world.

विश्वा॑ अ॒ग्र प॑ द॒हारा॑ती॒य॒भि॒स्तप ॑भि॒रद॑हा॒ जरू॑थम ।

7. Viśvā agne'pa dahārātīryebhistapobhiradaho jarūtham. Pra nisvaraṁ cātayasvāmīvām.

O divine fire, burn off all the negativities and adversities of the world with those flames of light with which you burn, eliminate the ailments, sickness and disease from the very roots, and recreate life anew.

आ यस्त॑ अग्र इध॒त अनी॑कं॒ वसि॑ष्ठ शुक्र॒ दीदि॑व॒ः पाव॑क ।

8. Ā yaste agna idhate anīkaṁ vasiṣṭha sukra dīdivaḥ pāvaka. Uto na ebhiḥ stavathairiha syāḥ.

O divine fire of life, Agni, destroyer, purifier and recreator, haven and home of the living world and blazing ruler, let your power and forces which shine all round shine on and illuminate our life, and, with all these our songs of praise and prayer, stay with us as protector and promoter and strengthen us for our self defence and protection.

वि य त॑ अग्न भजि॒र अनी॑कं॒ मता॒ नर॒ः पित्र्या॑सः पुरु॒त्रा।

9. Vi ye te agne bhejire anīkaṁ martā naraḥ pitryāsaḥ purutrā. Uto na ebhiḥ sumanā iha syāḥ.

Agni, light of life and fiery power, many are the mortals, leading lights, good and kind as parents, dedicated to you and serving your powers and forces of existence. With all these be kind and gracious at heart toward us here in life and now.

इ॒म नर॑ वृत्र॒हत्य॑षु॒ शूरा॒ विश्वा॒ अद॑वीर॒भि स॑न्तु मा॒याः।
य म॒ धिय॑ं प॒नय॑न्त पश॒स्ताम ॥ १० ॥

10. Ime naro vṛtrahatyeṣu śūrā viśvā adevīrabhi santu māyāḥ. Ye me dhiyaṁ panayanta praśastām.

All these leaders of the world, best and bravest in the battles of life against evil, who approve and admire my work and intelligence consecrated to you, are unchallengeable. The wiles and tactics of the wicked would be dull and ineffective before the brave dedicated to you, O light and leader of the world.

मा शू॑न॑ अग्न॒ नि ष॑दाम नृ॒णां मा॑श ष॑स॒ा वीर॑ता॒ परि॑ त्वा।

11. Mā śūne agne ni ṣadāma nṛṇāṁ māśeṣa-so'vīratā pari tvā. Prajāvatīśu duryāsu durya.

Agni, lord of light and fire, may we never sit idle in a state of depression or in a state of swollen pride. Among our men, let there be none without descendants. O lord sustainer of happy homes, let there be no trace of cowardice among the happy communities settled in happy homes wholly dedicated to you.

12. Yamaśvī nityamupayāti yajñaṁ prajāvantaṁ svapatyaṁ kṣayaṁ naḥ. Svajanmanā śeṣasā vāvṛdhānam.

Agni, lord of life, ruler and sustainer of happy homes and settled communities, give us a blessed home bubbling with the joy of noble children and the presence of happy people, rising and advancing with our own posterity, a happy place for yajna blest by daily visit and constant presence of Agni, lord of sun rays.

13. Pāhi no agne rakṣaso ajuṣṭāt pāhi dhūrterarāruṣo aghāyoḥ. Tvā yujā pṛtanāyūँrabhi ṣyām.

Agni, lord of all power and inexhaustible energy, save us from monsters void of love, loyalty and friendship. Protect us against the wicked, violent and sinful. With you as friend, ally and protector, let me face and overthrow even whole armies of adversaries.

सद॒ग्नि॒र॒ग्नीँ॒र॑त्यस्त्व॒न्यान्यत्र॑ वा॒जी तन॑य वी॒ळु॑पा॑णिः।

14. Sedagniragnīँratyastvanyān yatra vājī tanayo vīḷupāṇiḥ. Sahasrapāthā akṣarā sameti.

That Agni, vision, power and energy, excels other forms of power and energy where the energy, like an offspring, fast and strong a thousand ways of application as working power of hands, is joined with the imperishable source and flows therefrom therewith like water.

सद॒ग्निय॑ व॑नुष्य॒त नि॒पाति॑ सम॒द्धार॒मंह॑स उरु॒ष्यात।

15. Sedagniryo vanuṣyuto nipāti sameddhāramaṅhasa uruṣyāt. Sujātāsaḥ pari caranti vīrāḥ.

That Agni, power and energy, is real agni which promotes the supplicants and protects them from the violent, which saves the kindler and augmenter from sin, and which the brave, cultured and enlightened leaders, well educated, serve and promote for a common cause.

अ॒यं स अ॒ग्निराहु॑तः पुरु॒त्रा यमीशा॑न॒: समिदि॒न्ध ह॒विष्मा॑न।

16. Ayaṁ so agnirāhutaḥ purutrā yamīśānaḥ samidindhe haviṣmān. Pari yametyadhvareṣu hotā.

This is that Agni, light and fire of existence for the sake of life, served and honoured universally, which the lord ruler of the universe commanding the creative resources of existence lights and raises, and which the yajaka with all his resources invokes all round in yajnic acts of service and development for the common cause of love and non-violence.

त्व अ॑ग्न आ॒हव॑नानि॒ भूरी॑शा॒नास॒ आ जु॑॑हुयाम॒ नित्या॑।

17. Tve agna āhavanāni bhūrīśānāsa ā juhuyāma nityā. Ubhā kṛṇvanto vahatū miyedhe.

Agni, light of life, with all the resources at our disposal we always offer you abundant materials in yajna, promoting thereby both the priest and the host in the holy act of love and non-violence for development.

इम अग्न वीततमानि हव्या जस्र वक्षि दवतातिमच्छ।
पतिं न ईं सुरभीणि व्यन्तु॥ १८॥

18. Imo agne vītatamāni havyā'jasro vakṣi devātātimaccha. Prati na īṁ surabhīṇi vyantu.

Agni, life of life, universal power, carry well these cherished, holiest and most expansive oblations offered to you in honour of the divinities and, in consequence, let the sweets and fragrances of nature come to us from all sides.

मा न अग्न वीरत परा दा दुवासस मतय मा न अस्य।

19. Mā no agne'vīrate parā dā durvāsase'mataye mā no asyai. Mā naḥ kṣudhe mā rakṣasa ṛtāvo mā no dame mā vana ā juhūrthāḥ.

Agni, refulgent lord and ruler of life, give us not up to a state of cowardice and impotence. Reduce us not to a state of rags and destitution. Subject us not to such indigence and intellectual imbecility. Reduce us not to hunger. Throw us not to the evil and the wicked. O lord observer and protector of truth and law, lead us not astray in the home and in the forest.

20. Nū me brahmāṇyagna ucchaśādhi tvaṁ deva maghavadbhyaḥ suṣūdaḥ. Rātau syāmobha-yāsa ā te yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, brilliant and generous lord of enlightenment, you are the divine reservoir of learning and the laws of Dharma. Teach me and the commanders of power and prosperity the laws and values of Dharma. We pray let us both, the priest and yajamana, ruler and ruled, high and low, abide in the orbit of your generosity. And may you both, teacher and preacher, and the divine power promote us with peace, prosperity and well being all round all time.

21. Tvamagne suhavo raṇvasaṁdṛk sudītī sūno sahaso didīhi. Mā tve sacā tanaye nitya ā dhaṅmā vīro asmannaryo vi dāsīt.

Agni, lord of light, invoked with love and eagerly responsive, blissful of form and bright of flame, born of omnipotence, you shine and illuminate. Let not the devotee, always dedicated to you in holy work for the child's sake, be consumed by the fire of evil. Let the noble and brave son never be indifferent and callous toward us.

22. Mā no agne durbhṛtaye sacaiṣu deveddheṣva-gniṣu pra vocaḥ. Mā te asmān durmatayo bhṛmāccid devasya sūno sahaso naśanta.

Agni, child of omnipotence, lord generous and brilliant, devoted as we are to you in all these yajnic fires kindled by holy ones, pray do not condemn us to indigent living and poor maintenance. Let not your displeasure, O bright and generous lord, even by mistake ever touch us.

23. Sa marto agne svanīka revān-amartye ya ājihoti havyam. Sa devatā vasuvaniṁ dadhāti yaṁ sūrirarthī pṛcchamāna eti.

Agni, lord of light and life, noble of flames and potent of forces, blest is that mortal with wealth of life who offers holy libations to the immortal fire of yajna. The immortal lord bears immense wealth and honour of life to gift the man of enlightenment who calls upon the lord in a mood of prayer and supplication.

24. Maho no agne suvitasya vidvān rayiṁ sūribhya ā vahā bṛhantam. Yena vayaṁ sahasāvan mademā'vikṣitāsa āyuṣā suvīrāḥ.

Agni, lord of light and life, you know our great desire and prayer. Pray bring us abundant and expansive wealth and enlightenment for the brave by which, O lord of power, we may live and enjoy a long life with lustre and noble progeny without hurt, waste or corruption.

नू म॒ ब्रह्मा॑ण्यग्न उच्छ॒शाधि॒ त्वं दे॑व म॒घव॑द्भ्यः सुषूदः।

Agni, lord of light and wealth of life, brilliant, generous and divine, give us more and more of food and plenty of wealth for the dedicated men of honour and power and enlighten us how to live with honour and joy. O lord, we pray let us all, givers and receivers both, abide in the bliss of your grace and generosity. O leaders of power and enlightenment, always protect and promote us on the path of peace, plenty and total well being.

Apra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

1. Juṣasva naḥ samidhamagne adya śocā bṛhad yajataṁ dhūmamṛṇvan. Upa spṛśa devyaṁ sānu stūpaiḥ saṁ raśmibhistatanaḥ sūryasya.

Agni, light of the world, accept our homage of yajnic fuel today, let the sacred flames and fragrance rise illuminating and purifying the wide space, touch the heights of celestial skies with the holy chant of mantras upto the pinnacles of purity and expand with the rays of the sun.

नरा॒शंस॑स्य महि॒मान॑मषा॒मुप॑ स्त षाम यज॒तस्य॑ य॒ज्ञः।

2. Narāśaṁsasya mahimānameṣāmupa stoṣāma yajatasya yajñaiaḥ. Ye sukratavaḥ śucayo dhiyaṁdhāḥ svadanti devā ubhayāni havyā.

With yajnic acts of holy offering, we honour and celebrate the grandeur of this sacred Agni, light of life, adored by humanity in the midst of the enlightened divinities, performers of creative actions, who are pure and purifying, intelligent in heart and mind, and who accept and taste both kinds of yajnic offerings for the development of both mental and physical faculties.

3. Īḷenyaṁ vo asuraṁ sudakṣam-antardūtaṁ rodasī satyavācam. Manuṣvad-agniṁ manunā samiddhaṁ samadhvarāya sadaminmahema.

Let us always and for all of you honour and exalt the adorable, inspiring, efficient and generous Agni operative like a human ambassador between heaven and earth, between body and spirit, true of speech like a superman, enlightened and inspired by the wisest of humanity for the sake of creation and development with love and non-violence for progress of the world. (Agni here is the leader of humanity brilliant as light and inspired with will and enthusiasm like fire.)

4. Saparyavo bharamāṇā abhijñu pra vṛñjate namasā barhiragnau. Ājuhvānā ghṛtapṛṣṭhaṁ pṛṣadvadadhvaryavo haviṣā marjayadhvam.

Worshippers sitting on their knees, bearing sacred grass and fragrant materials, offer the preliminary oblation of holy grass and ghrta with reverence into the fire. O priests invoking and raising the fire burning bright with flames of ghrta as rain from the cloud, feed the fire with holy oblations of havi and thereby purify the hearts of the worshippers.

5. Svādhyo vi duro devayanto 'śiśrayū rathayurdevatātā. Pūrvī śiśuṁ na mātarā rihāṇe samagruvo na samaneṣvañjan.

Devout thinkers and dedicated scholars committed to yajna and the divinities move at the speed of chariots in holy works, wide open the doors of heavenly bliss and beautify them for all in the battles of life. Loving and bold they are like young mothers to the child and advance forces for the ruler.

6. Uta yoṣaṇe divye mahī na uṣāsānaktā sudugheva dhenuḥ. Barhiṣadā puruhūte maghonī ā yajñiye suvitāya śrayetām.

And may the holy and divine night and the dawn, both celestial maidens of the universe abiding in spaces between heaven and earth, abundant with beauty and power, universally invoked and adored, worthy of worship, come and bless us in life for happiness and well being, like the mother earth, like the generous mother cow, and like the infinite speech of divine revelation.

7. Viprā yajñeṣu mānuṣeṣu kārū manye vāṁ jātavedasā yajadhyai. Ūrdvaṁ no adhvaraṁ kṛtaṁ haveṣu tā deveṣu vanatho vāryāṇi.

O scholars and scientists, artists and craftsmen, you know all the facts, values and requirements of the world around. I honour you in the yajnic programmes of humility and invite you to participate in the creative programmes of development. Pray take the challenge and raise our corporate programmes of love and non-violence to the heights of achievement. May you all create, acquire and bring in the cherished objects of value for the noble humanity.

8. Ā bhāratī bhāratībhiḥ sajoṣā iḷā devairmanuṣyebhiragniḥ. Sarasvatī sārasvatebhirarvāk tisro devīrbarhiredaṁ sadantu.

May Bharati, goddess of world speech, knowledge and culture come. May Ila, goddess of divine speech, knowledge and grace come. May Sarasvati, mother dynamics of universal speech, knowledge and culture come. May the three divinities, loving, kind and gracious, come with the enlightened daughters of the earth, men and divines of enlightenment, and dedicated scholars of eternal and historical knowledge, come and grace our sacred seats of yajna. May Agni, lord omniscient, come and bless us in the soul.

O Tvashta, brilliant maker of forms and shaper of men, generous and joyous giver of all round nourishment, physical, mental and spiritual, give us that vitality and that virility, that perfection of form, education and culture without delay from which is born the brave hero of action, expert scientist and technologist, specialist of clouds and rain dedicated to divinity as well as to noble humanity.

Giver of life and nourishment to the woods, lord of light and sun rays, take up the fragrance and reach it across to the generous powers of nature and humanity. Agni, fire of yajna, has catalysed and refined the holy materials in the vedi for diffusion. Agni, that's the yajaka of nature, ever true and more which coexists with the divine elements of nature from their origin, joins them, and refines and intensifies them for the common good of nature and humanity.

Agni, fire of life, light of the sun, brilliant scholar and teacher, come to us right here, burning, blazing, shining and illuminating, with Indra, light and power as that of thunder and lightning. Come by chariot across the spaces with the divines and forces of instant action, sit on the holy grass, and let Aditi, mother earth and nature, with her children of virtue and the immortal divinities all be happy and give us joy in truth of word and deed.

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अग्निं व दवमग्निभिः सज षा यजिष्ठं दूतमध्वर कृणुध्वम। य मत्यषु निधुविऋतावा तपुमूधा घृता ीः पावकः ॥ १ ॥

1. Agnim̐ vo devamagnibhiḥ sajoṣā yajiṣṭham̐ dūtamadhvare kṛṇudhvam. Yo martyeṣu nidhruvirṛtāvā tapurmūrdhā ghṛtānnaḥ pāvakaḥ.

O learned scholars and scientists, in your yajnic programmes of corporate endeavour for human purposes, light and produce that adorable agni, energy, from various forms of heat and sunlight, which is brilliantly useful and universally helpful and which acts as a messenger between region and region and earth and space. It is permanently present in all forms of mortal creation, abides by the laws of nature, is vested with heat and power at the highest, consumes finest food and it is fiery and purifying.

2. Prothadaśvo na yavase'viṣyan yadā mahaḥ samvaraṇād vyasthāt. Ādasya vāto anu vāti śociradha sma te vrajanam̐ kṛṣṇamasti.

Roaring and consuming its food like a horse exulting in grass, it rises from its source and moves like velocity itself, splitting, protecting, accomplishing. Currents of wind and energy follow the rise of its power. O fiery energy, attraction and repulsion, that's your path of motion.

उद्यस्य॑ त॒ नव॑जातस्य॒ वृष्ण॒ ग्र॒ चर॑न्त्य॒जरा॑ इधा॒नाः।

3. Ud yasya te navajātasya vṛṣṇo'gne carantyajarā idhānāḥ. Acchā dyāmaruṣo dhūma eti sam̐ dūto agna īyase hi devān.

Agni, abundant energy divine, as your flames arise, new and undecaying, the radiant waves traverse the heights of heaven in space, and thus you move like a messenger to the divinities of nature at the one end and to the brilliant scholars at the other.

4. Vi yasya te pṛthivyāṁ pājo aśret tṛṣu yadannā samavṛkta jambhaiḥ. Seneva sṛṣṭā prasitiṣṭa eti yavaṁ na dasma juhvā vivekṣi.

Your power and force spreads in and all over the earth instantly as you consume the inputs by the jaw-like motion of your flames and release the energy. The radiation of energy moves like a fighting force forward on the advance when, O mighty power, you receive the materials and convert them into energy as grain is converted into vitality.

5. Tamid doṣā tamuṣasi yaviṣṭham-agnimatyaṁ na marjayanta naraḥ. Niśiśānā atithimasya yonau dīdāya śocirāhutasya vṛṣṇaḥ.

O leading lights of science and technology, as riders groom a race horse for better performance, similarly strengthen and sharpen the power of this radiant and most youthful, unaging, Agni, serving and refining it like an undated but most welcome visitor, and increase the light and speed of this abundant treasure of energy fed with greater inputs at source, and let it shine at night and at dawn and let it radiate more and ever more.

6. Susaṁdṛk te svanīka pratīkaṁ vi yad rukmo na rocasa upāke. Divo na te tanyatureti śuṣmaścitro na sūraḥ prati cakṣi bhānum.

Radiant Agni, commander of noble ensign, power and force, beautiful is your form when, close at hand, you shine like radiant gold. The light of your power radiates and blazes like lightning from the sky, and you display your splendour like the wonderful sun.

Agni, refulgent ruler of the world, as we offer homage and yajna to you in truth of word and deed with fragrant materials soaked in ghrta and exalt you with streams of holy songs without reserve, you too, we pray, in gracious response, protect and promote us a hundred-fold with great unbounded golden citadels of steel security, prosperity and culture.

Or what we know are your divine voices, loud, bold and unchallengeable, gifted to the generous yajnic giver, by which you protect your people who comprise the best men and women, by them, O child of omnipotence, Jataveda, present with every thing in existence, protect and promote us and the learned brave celebrants of divinity.

9. Niryat pūteva svadhitīḥ śucirgāt svayā kṛpā tanvā rocamānaḥ. Ā yo mātroruśenyo janiṣṭa devaya-jyāya sukratuḥ pāvakaḥ.

Agni, refulgent ruler of the world, emerging like fire from its mother source of arani woods or like heat and light from earth and heaven, arises from the land and her people and goes forward blazing like a thunderbolt of crystal, pure and purifying, bright by the grace of his body and mind, illuminating, sanctifying, dedicated to the service of divine nature and noble humanity.

10. Etā no agne saubhagā didīhyapi kratuṁ sucetasaṁ vatema. Viśvā stotṛbhyo gṛṇate ca santu yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

These are our good fortunes, O fire divine, O lord of light. Shine and illuminate these so that we may attain noble intelligence and will to do good works. O lord, let all these riches be for the celebrant and servant of Divinity too. O children of the earth, O divine powers, protect and promote us always all round with peace and joy of well being.

Mandala 7/Sukta 4

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

प्र वः शुक्राय भानव भरध्वं हव्यं मतिं चाग्नय सुपूतम।

1. Pra vaḥ śukrāya bhānave bharadhvaṁ havyaṁ matiṁ cāgnaye supūtam. Yo daivyāni mānuṣā janūṁṣyantarviśvāni vidmanā jigāti.

For your strength and vitality and for your light and wisdom, bear and offer purified fragrant oblations and songs of praise to Agni, refulgent spirit of Divinity which, with its light and awareness, inspires and enlightens all human and superhuman manifestations of life within.

स गृत्स अग्निस्तरुणश्चिदस्तु यतो यविष्ठो अजनिष्ट मातुः।

2. Sa gṛtso agnis-taruṇāścidastu yato yaviṣṭho ajaniṣṭa mātuḥ. Saṁ yo vanā yuvate śucidan bhūri cidannā samidatti sadyaḥ.

Let that Agni, spirit of life, be young, ever fresh and progressive since it is the youngest born of Mother Nature. As fire abides with the woods for food, so does the spirit abide with sun rays for food and energy, and as one consumes food with pure white teeth so does the fiery youth always consume lots of food for energy and growth in the physical form.

अस्य दवस्य संसद्यनीके यं मर्तासः श्यतं जगृभ।

3. Asya devasya saṁsadyanīke yaṁ martāsaḥ śyetaṁ jagṛbhre. Ni yo gṛbhaṁ pauruṣeyīmu-voca durokam-agnir-āyave śuśoca.

The grandeur of this brilliant lord of light, the mortals perceive and realise in his splendid assembly and in the blazing armies of his power. He defines spiritual excellence as the very embodiment of it in manifestation and shines as an unassailable hero for humanity.

अयं कविरकविषु पचता मर्त्वग्निरमृता नि धायि।

4. Ayaṁ kavirakaviṣu pracetā marteṣvagniramṛto ni dhāyi. Sa mā no atra juhuraḥ sahasvaḥ sadā tve sumanasaḥ syāma.

This Agni, intelligent, brilliant and a poetic visionary among the unwise and unintelligent, pervades and shines, the immortal spirit among the mortals. O lord most potent and patient, forsake us never, never abandon us to the wicked in the world, let us always enjoy your good will, love and grace.

5. Ā yo yoniṁ devakṛtaṁ sasāda kratvā hya gniramṛtāň atārīt. Tamoṣadhīśca vaninaśca garbhaṁ bhūmiśca viśvadhāyasaṁ bibharti.

That Agni, universal spirit, which by his creative yajna resides in the cosmic home created by divine powers of Prakrti in association with the supreme lord, and which redeems the immortal souls in mortal forms to freedom, the same cosmic creator and sustainer, the herbs, the trees and the earth bear at heart in seed form in the state of existence as the principle of growth and sustenance of the universe.

6. Īśe hyaginiramṛtasya bhūrerīṣe rāyaḥ suvīryasya dātoḥ. Mā tvā vayaṁ sahasāvannavīrā māpsavaḥ pari ṣadāma māduvaḥ.

Agni, lord of light and life, commands abundant gifts of nectar-like food and immortal values, and he commands the gifts of wealth, honour and excellence. O lord of power and patience, we pray, let us always be with you but not as cowards, not without progeny, not without obedience and service in faith, not in a state of ugliness and gracelessness.

7. Pariṣadyaṁ hyaraṇasya rekṇo nityasya rāyaḥ patayaḥ syāma. Na śeṣo agne anyajātamastya-cetānasya mā patho vi dukṣaḥ.

Wealth, but without debt and fight, is to be sought for. Let us be masters of wealth of permanent, undiminishing character. The child born of another is not your own as wealth earned by another is not yours. O lord Agni, pray do not vitiate the paths of the simple and ignorant, protect the innocents.

8. Nahi grabhāyāraṇaḥ suśevo 'nyodaryo manasā mantavā u. Adhā cidokaḥ punarit sa etyā no vājyabhīṣāḷetu navyaḥ.

The child born of another even though well disposed is but distant and not ideal for adoption because ultimately he is drawn to his native home by nature. O lord, bless us with our self-born, patient and intelligent child.

त्वमग्न वनुष्यत नि पाहि त्वमु नः सहसाव ावद्यात।

9. Tvamgne vanuṣyato ni pāhi tvamu naḥ saha-sāvannavadyāt. Saṁ tvā dhvasmanvadabhyetu pāthaḥ saṁ rayiḥ spṛhayāyyaḥ sahasrī.

Agni, brilliant commander of knowledge and power, protect the supplicants from the violent. O lord of power and patience, protect us from sin and evil, jealousy and calumny. May food and wealth of honest imperishable nature flow to you with noble and most desirable honour and excellence.

एता न॑ अग्न॒ साभ॑गा दिदी॒ह्यपि॒ कतुं॑ सु॒चत॑सं वतम।

10. Etā no agne saubhagā didīhyapi kratuṁ sucetasaṁ vatema. Viśvā stotṛbhyo gṛṇate ca santu yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

These are the glories and good fortunes of life, Agni, which, pray, give us, shine and refine so that we may achieve the holiness of yajnic action and divine awareness. Let all these be the share of supplicants, singers and celebrants of life and divinity. O divinities of nature and humanity, may you all protect and promote us with the gifts of honour, excellence and the prosperity of well being all round.

1. Prāgnye tavase bharadhvaṁ giraṁ divo arataye pṛthivyāḥ. Yo viśveṣām-amṛtānām-upasthe vaiśānaro vāvṛdhe jāgṛvadbhiḥ.

Bear and offer words of praise and thankfulness in honour of mighty Agni which, ever active without rest at the heart of heaven and earth and all things beyond destruction, is the living light and life of the world, Vaishvanara, and rejoices with all those that are awake and keeps them alive and growing.

Note: Vaishvanara Agni is the divine fire and vitality of the earth and the terrestrial sphere, Vayu is the electric energy of the middle region, and Aditya, Taijas is the light and life of the heavenly solar region of the universe.

The divine fire is pervasive in the heaven and over the earthly sphere. It is the mover of rivers and showerer of rains. It shines among all the human communities and inspires them to action. This is Vaishvanara Agni growing with the expansive world by its own divine glory.

3. Tvad bhiyā viśa āyannasiknīrasamanā jahatīr-bhojanāni. Vaiśvānara pūrave śośucānaḥ puro yadagne darayannadīdeḥ.

By virtue of your awe and pressure of law, human communities move forward, each in its own way, leaving behind the sufferance of their experiences. O Vaishvanara Agni, shine on illuminating the people as you have ever been shining and eliminating the sufferings of mankind.

4. Tava tridhātu pṛthivī uta dyaurvaiśvānara vratamagne sacanta. Tvaṁ bhāsā rodasī ā tatanthā'jasreṇa śociṣā śośucānaḥ.

O Vaishvanara Agni, lord omnipresent and leading light of the universe, the heaven and earth and the threefold Prakrti (Nature) of Sattva, Rajas and Tamas, that is, mind, motion and matter, all these observe and move by your law. You pervade and enliven heaven and earth and the middle regions with your self-refulgence, shining, illuminating and purifying the world by your eternal heat and light.

You, O fire divine, Vaishvanara Agni of the universe, the resounding quarters of space, eloquent voices of poets, roaring winds and silence of the nights, all adore you, protector of humanity, end and aim of all wealth and honour, glory of the dawns and the blaze of days.

6. Tve asuryaṁ vasavo nyṛṇvan kratuṁ hi te mitramaho juṣanta. Tvaṁ dasyūṅrokaso agna āja uru jyotir-janayann-āryāya.

The Vasus, abodes of life such as earth, abide by you, find life energy in you, and while they join your universal yajna of life's creation and sustenance, they find their end and aim in you as the greatest friend and sustainer. O light divine, Agni, you reach the ignorant and their abodes and you create the vast light of life for the noble and the wise.

7. Sa jāyamānaḥ parame vyoman vāyurna pāthaḥ pari pāsi sadyaḥ. Tvaṁ bhuvanā janayann-abhi krann-apatyāya jātavedo daśasyan.

O Jataveda, lord omniscient of created existence, self-manifested in the highest heaven of space you create, and universal breath of life like Vayu, you all time sustain fire, water and earth, thus creating and perfecting all regions of the world and providing everything for the children of creation.

Agni, leading light of life, lord omniscient all adorable, bring us that illuminating food and energy for body, mind and soul by which you perfect and sustain the means of success, and unbounded honour and excellence for the generous mortals dedicated to yajnic charity.

Agni, giver of light and life, for us, for our men of honour and excellence, create, provide and manage food for all, energy, wealth and honour and honourable success. O Vaishvanara, leading light of life, Agni, fire divine, give us a great home full of love and peace, in association with Rudras, pranic energies of nature, and the Vasus, generous life sustainers such as earth.

I speak in honour of the universal Vaishvanara, leading artist and light of the world : I honour and celebrate the glory of the self-refulgent, generous, virile, beloved hero of the nations like the exploits of mighty Indra, the sun, joy of the world.

Poets invoke and celebrate the omniscient, self-manifested, life sustaining light and blissful ruler of heaven and earth. The same Agni, omnipotent lord breaker of the clouds and mountains, I adore, and I sing and celebrate his great eternal laws and acts with the holiest words of praise.

Agni, highest ruler of the world, reforms, removes, or reduces to nullity the saboteurs, misguided plotters, evil-tongued scandalisers, retrogrades, reactionaries, selfish exploiters, wicked and antisocial elements of society.

I glorify Agni, that highest and dauntless leader of humanity, lord ruler of world power and wealth who, with his noble words and actions, converts the powers wallowing in dark negation to brilliant and progressive forces of the world and subdues the stubborn powers raising their fighting forces against humanity.

Agni, ruler of the world worthy of homage and support, controls the lawless by the force of justice and punishment and brings about the dawn of new days and new protections for the noble people. Observant of the law, dedicated to truth, the great Agni energises the people and, with his power and patience, enlightens the people to pay homage and in turn be the beneficiaries.

By Agni's house of peace and protection all people abide, by virtue of knowledge, virtue and karma, sharing the common good will and natural intelligence. Vaishvanara Agni abides between heaven and earth, in the bosom of the parents.

Brilliant Vaishvanara on sun rise takes away the darkness and gives us the wealth of light through the space and sky. Similarly from the lower sky and the farther space he takes away the darkness and gives us the light of the earth from the solar region. (Such is Agni, leading light of the world, this is Vaishvanara, Agni, brilliant ruler, leader of all.)

1. Pra vo devaṁ cit sahasānam-agnim-aśvaṁ na vājinaṁ hiṣe namobhiḥ. Bhavā no dūto adhva-rasya vidvāntmanā deveṣu vivide mitadruḥ.

Citizens of the world, for you all, just as a rider spurs on the war horse on the course to achieve his goal, so do I, with homage and adorations, invoke, invite and inspire Agni, brilliant, generous and brave leader of the world, dynamic and warlike achiever, and I say: O lord all knowing, well known for your wisdom and observance of the laws among the nobilities, be the messenger and leader of our yajnic social system of peace, non-violence and all round progress for all. Conscientiously be so, and move at a measured pace.

2. Ā yāhyagne pathyā anu svā mandro devānāṁ sakhyaṁ juṣāṇaḥ. Ā sānu śuṣmairnadayan pṛthivyā jambhebhirviśvamuśadhagvanāni.

Come Agni, warm as fire, brilliant as light, forceful as lightning, happy and rejoicing, to your own people, eager for the love and friendship of noble people who love and value the paths of rectitude. Come on top of the world, proclaiming loud and bold your knowledge and power and illuminating the thickest forests of darkness with the radiations of your light.

पाचीन यज्ञः सुधितं हि बर्हिः पीणीत अग्निरीळित न हतो। आ मातरा विश्ववार हुवान यत यविष्ठ जज्ञिष सुश्वः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Prācīno yajñaḥ sudhitaṁ hi barhiḥ prīṇīte agnirīḷito na hotā. Ā mātarā viśvavāre huvāno yato yaviṣṭha jajñiṣe suśevaḥ.

The yajna is organised right here in front. The holy seats of grass and fragrant materials of yajna are laid. Agni as the ruling high priest invoked, anointed and initiated, is happy with a sense of fulfilment. O brilliant high priest and ruler, Agni, invoking the blessings of your twin mothers, heaven and earth, and serving them here, you arise as the most youthful favourite child of heaven and earth.

4. Sadyo adhvare rathiraṁ jananta mānuṣāso vicetaso ya eṣām. Viśāmadhāyi viśpatirduroṇe'gnirmandro madhuvacā ṛtāvā.

Agni, high priest and ruler of the social order, whom people of discernment and wisdom create and initiate as the leader of leaders in the yajna without delay, is happy at heart, sweet of tongue and observant of the laws of truth. He is the ruler and protector of the people and is held in high esteem in the heart and home of these people who have elected him to the office.

5. Asādi vṛto vahnirājaganvān-agnirbrahmā nṛṣadane vidhartā. Dyauśca yaṁ pṛthivī vāvṛdhāte ā yaṁ hotā yajati viśvavāram.

Agni, light of life, living fire and passion of the world, elected and adored, abides in the heart and home of the people, carrying the burdens of society, radiating all round in the world of humanity, ruling and conducting the business of living as the presiding power and vision. That is the universal power and presence whom heaven and earth advance and whom the yajaka honours and adores in yajna.

एत द्युम्नभिर्विश्वमातिरन्त मन्त्रं य वारं नया अतक्षन। प य विशस्तिरन्त श्रषमाणा आ य मं अस्य दीधय-ृतस्य॥ ६॥

6. Ete dyumnebhir-viśvamātiranta mantraṁ ye vāraṁ naryā atakṣan. Pra ye viśastiranta śroṣamāṇā ā ye me asya dīdhayannṛtasya.

Those leading personalities find total fulfilment across the world with all honours and excellence who conceive and fashion forth the rule of law to the purpose of Agni, light and lord of life. And those people too cross over the seas of existence who listen and spread the light of the truth of this song of mine.

नू त्वामग्न इमहु वसिष्ठा इशानं सूनु सहसा वसूनाम। इषं स्तातृभ्य मघवद्भ्य आनड्यूयं पात स्वस्तिभिः सदा नः॥ ७॥

7. Nū tvāmagna īmahe vasiṣṭhā īśānaṁ sūno sahaso vasūnām. Iṣaṁ stotṛbhyo maghav-adbhya ānaḍ yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Agni, light of life, manifestation of omnipotence, ruler and ordainer of the wealth and honours of the world, we, the people, happily settled adore you: pray bless the celebrants and leading lights with honour and sustenance. O leading lights, pray always protect and promote us all with peace, comfort and total well being.

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

इन्ध राजा समर्य नमोभिर्यस्य पतीरुमाहुतं घृतेन।
नरो हव्यभिरीळत सबाधो आग्निरग्र उषसामशोचि॥ १॥

1. Indhe rājā samaryo namobhir-yasya pratīka-māhutaṁ ghṛtena. Naro havyebhir-īḷate sabādha āgniragra uṣasāmaśoci.

The spirit of life, Agni, which the ruling leader challenging the battle of life kindles with faith, reverence and fragrant oblations, feeding its physical symbol, the yajnic fire, with ghrta, honour and dignity of life, the leading lights of the nation take over, augment it and celebrate it with the best offers of yajna, and then, just as the light of the sun earlier obstructed by nightly darkness rises and shines with the dawns in advance of the day, so does the spirit of the nation earlier suppressed arise on the clarion call of yajna.

अयमु ष्य सुमहाँ अवदि ह तो मन्द मनुष यह्व अग्निः। वि भा अकः ससृजानः पृथिव्यां कृष्णपविर षधी-भिवव ॥ २ ॥

2. Ayamu ṣya sumahāň avedi hotā mandro manuṣo yahvo agniḥ. Vi bhā akaḥ sasṛjānaḥ pṛthivyāṁ kṛṣṇapavir-oṣadhībhir-vavakṣe.

This is Agni, that ruling spirit of life felt and known, that great and good arouser and yajaka, happy and joyous, human and mighty over all, unchallengeable, who brings out the lights of life from within, wielding great powers and forces, creating and making new things and institutions, and ruling over the earth.

कया न अग्र वि वसः सुवृक्तिं कामु स्वधामृणवः शस्यमानः। कदा भवम पतयः सुदत्र राय वन्तार दुष्टरस्य साध ः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Kayā no agne vi vasaḥ suvṛktiṁ kāmu svadhā-mṛṇavaḥ śasyamānaḥ. Kadā bhavema patayaḥ sudatra rāyo vantāro duṣṭarasya sādhoḥ.

Agni, self-refulgent lord ruler of the world, what is the method and manners of life by which your grace would shine upon us? What is the song of adoration, what fragrance of yajna you love by which we would adore and celebrate your majesty? O generous lord giver, when shall we be masters, producers and sharers of rare excellent wealth, power and honour for ourselves and others?

This Agni always listens and attends to the bearer and sharer of the wealth of life when he shines with vast splendour, like the sun. He stands by the ruler, commander and supporter of the people in all battles and problems of life, shining bright, divine, welcome as a guest, magnificent.

अस॒ा॒त्त्व आ॒हव॑नानि॒ भूरि॒ भुवा॒ विश्व॑भिः सु॒मना॒ अनी॑कः।

5. Asannit tve āhavanāni bhūri bhuvo viśvebhiḥ sumanā anīkaiḥ. Stutaścidagne śṛṇviṣe gṛṇānaḥ svayaṁ vardhasva tanvaṁ sujāta.

Agni, light and spirit of life, good and gracious at heart, all these many adorations and oblations of the earth with all powers and splendours of the world are for you and abide in you only. And when you are thus adored and celebrated, you listen, absorbed approvingly blissful. Listen then, O nobly born and self-manifested, wax with joy, and let your light of glory shine more and more on us.

इदं वचः शतसाः संसहस्रमुदग्नय जनिषीष्ट द्विबर्हाः ।

6. Idaṁ vacaḥ śatasāḥ saṁsahasramudagnaye janiṣīṣṭa dvibarhāḥ. Śaṁ yat stotṛbhya āpaye bhavāti dyumadamīvacātanaṁ rakṣohā.

This song of adoration full of a hundred thousand-fold power and virtue of both knowledge and humility is created in honour of Agni so that, for the enlightened celebrant, there may be peace and well being full of light, freedom from ailment, and protection against evil and wickedness.

नू त्वामग्र इमह वसिष्ठा इशानं सून सहसा वसूनाम । इषं स्तातृभ्य' मघवद्भय आनड्यूयं पात स्वस्तिभिः सदा नः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Nū tvāmagna īmahe vasiṣṭhā īśānaṁ sūno sahaso vasūnām. Iṣaṁ stotṛbhyo maghava-dbhya ānaḍ yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

We people happily settled in peace and plenty earnestly adore you, Agni, giver of patience and fortitude and ruler of wealth and power. Pray bring us cherished knowledge and enlightenment for the devoted celebrants and people endowed with wealth and honour. And may you all, men of knowledge, wealth and power, always protect and promote us with the gift of peace and well being.

Agni Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अब 'धि जार उषसामुपस्थाद्भ ता मन्दः कवितमः पावकः ।

1. Abodhi jāra uṣasāmupasthāddhotā mandraḥ kavitamaḥ pāvakaḥ. Dadhāti ketum-ubhayasya jantorhavyā deveṣu draviṇaṁ sukṛtsu.

See, the holy fire of morning sun is risen from the lap of early dawn, the sun having stolen away the darkness of night. It is the morning yajaka, delightful, and the most poetic symbol of divinity. It radiates light to reveal the identify of both coming and going living forms, carries our oblations to the elements and bestows wealth upon the noble performers.

3. Amūraḥ kavir-aditirvivasvānt-susaṁsanmitro atithiḥ śivo naḥ. Citrabhānur-uṣasāṁ bhātyagre 'pāṁ garbhaḥ prasva ā viveśa.

Far-sighted wise, creative visionary, constant as mother nature, refulgent, noble in assembly, friend, welcome as holy guest, giver of peace and prosperity, light of wonder ahead of the dawns, seed of cosmic dynamics, inspirer of life, he emerges and manifests in us all.

The adorable one going on through the battles of existence for ages, the one omniscient and omnipresent with all that is born in the world, who purifies, sanctifies and enlightens you all humans with the blissful light of life and knowledge, and the refulgent one to whom the earths, planets, satellites, and the rays of light respond with brilliance, that is Agni, that is the sun, that is the Enlightened One.

by the flow of correct language, winds and currents of energy, the stars, the waters and other noble powers of means and men to bring about here all the jewel wealth of the world.

Agni, light and fire of life, the celebrant settled in peace and prosperity enkindles you. Bright and blazing, all knowing all present, burn off the dead wood, develop the living resources of nature and the cities for the sake of wealth. Extend the creative and productive programmes. And you all, Agni and other enlightened ones, always protect and promote us with happiness and all round well being.

Like the lover of the light of dawn, the sun, Agni, commands and diffuses light on a vast scale, blazing, illuminating, burning and purifying, giving abundant showers of rain, eliminating want and suffering, pure and immaculate, shines with light, inspiring the mind, intelligence and will, and exhorts men of passion and will to awake and rise for action. (Such is Agni, such is the scholar, sagely teacher and the leader.)

2. Svarṇa vastoruṣasāmaroci yajñaṁ tanvānā uṣijo na manma. Agnirjanmāni deva ā vi vidvān dravad dūto devayāvā vaniṣṭhaḥ.

Like the light of dawn and splendour of the day, Agni shines and radiates the light of life as inspired priests enact the yajnic business of the morning and expand the thoughts of the day. Thus Agni, knowing and pervading the origin of things, most generous messenger and carrier of nature's bounties, radiates all round conducting and distributing the vitalities of life.

harbinger of the cherished fruits of the yajnic actions of mankind.

Agni, lord of light and life, generous, loving and kind to all, pray bring us, lead us, to Indra, cosmic energy with the wealth and abundance of earth and other supports of life, to Rudra the soul, with pranic energies, to Aditi, infinite and eternal time and space, with a vision of the suns and origin of the universe, and to the universal lord and spirit of existence with divination into the original revelation.

In their acts of vision, creation and development, with love and non-violence, people of the world inspired with love and faith invoke, kindle and adore Agni, light and life of the world of existence, most youthful, blissful and generous giver of every thing. He alone presides over the deep night before the dawn of creation. He alone, ever free from inertness and sleep, is the prime mover and harbinger of wealth, honour and excellence to bless the noble souls in life.

1. Mahāň asyadhvarasya praketo na ṛte tvadamṛtā mādayante. Ā viśvebhiḥ sarathaṁ yāhi devairnyagne hotā prathamaḥ sadeha.

Agni, prime high priest of the cosmic yajna of creation, come by the chariot of nature itself with all the divine powers of existence and grace our vedi here. Great you are, the very soul and spirit of yajna. Not without you do the immortals rejoice.

People of the world with offers of homage and havi always invoke and adore you, unaging and immortal Agni, for the sake of radiation and communication. When you come and grace the seats of yajna with the powers of nature's divinity, whosoever be the man, all the days of life turn into days of good fortune for him.

The wise know that there are three fold valuable gifts in you for the general mortal in the day and night. Come here like a human power, Agni, meet the brilliant wise, contact the powers of nature and be like a messenger to protect us against calumny and imprecation.

4. Agnirīśe bṛhato adhvarasyā'gnirviśvasya haviṣaḥ kṛtasya. Kratuṁ hyasya vasavo juṣantā'thā devā dadhire havyavāham.

Agni rules the great yajnic programmes of development without violence. Agni conditions and controls the entire yajnic materials of the world. The Vasus such as earth and other life supports take to the creative action of Agni for sustenance. Among the wise, scholars of the Vasu order of twenty four year's study specialise in Agni's gifts. And thus the generous and the wise all depend on this harbinger of life sustaining means and materials.

life, bring us the delicacies of yajnic production for the brilliant people so that they may taste them with delight and rejoice with the ruler on top. May those who repose their love and faith in you enjoy the gifts of your generosity. And may you all, scholars and leading lights, protect and promote us with peace, prosperity and all round well being of life.

Agni, giver of light and purifier of life, listen to our prayer of the sages, accept our service and oblations and grace our life's yajna with the bounties of divinity. We pray, may we ever abide in your service and divine favour, creating, producing, giving selflessly. O lord and all wise lovers of divinity, protect and promote us always with your gifts of peace and well being all round.

O people, for your sake, with food, homage and self-surrender, I invoke and serve Agni, giver of light and fire of life, product as well as the source of unfailing energy, strength and power, cherished and valuable friend, most enlightened and constant agent of the holiest programmes of love and non-violent development, and imperishable carrier and messenger of world communications.

That Agni, leading power of nature and humanity, uses bright natural elements of universal value such as sun rays, fire and water, like horses harnessed to the chariot, and, when invoked and raised, would move at the fastest speed. He is the master of natural knowledge and natural materials, adorable, noble and potent worker, and the accomplisher of means, materials and projects of humanity for common success and progress.

3. Udasya śocirasthādājuhvānasya mīḷhuṣaḥ. Ud dhūmāso aruṣāso divispṛśaḥ samagnimindhate naraḥ.

High rises the radiant glory of this fire of Agni fed on holy food while the flames and fragrance soar and touch the skies, when people light and raise the fire with profuse oblations of ghrta offered to the bountiful power.

We light, raise and develop the holy fire as messenger and harbinger of excellent gifts of life's light and fragrance. So do we elect, adore and anoint you on the highest and most glorious office of the nation. Bring us the divine nobilities and brilliancies of the world of nature and humanity together and give us all the cherished blessings of life for which purpose we love and adore the fire and you, O lord of power and honour manifest and embodiment of excellence.

5. Tvamagne gṛhapatistvaṁ hotā no adhvare. Tvaṁ potā viśvavāra pracetā yakṣi veṣi ca vāryam.

Agni, fiery and enlightened ruling power of nature and humanity, you are the protective and promotive head of the family and the home land. You are the receiver and giver of every thing in the loving and non-violent business of the nation's governance and administration. You are the purifier, sanctifier and giver of enlightenment universally adored. You organise, accomplish and pervade the yajnic business of life and living together by choice and common will.

6. Kṛdhi ratnaṁ yajamānāya sukrato tvaṁ hi ratnadhā asi. Ā na ṛte śiśīhi viśvamṛtvijaṁ suśaṁso yaśca dakṣate.

O presiding power of holy actions in life, bestow the jewels of life upon the yajamana as you are the lord ruler and disburser of the world's wealth. Shine, sharpen and inspire us to do well in the truth and law of the world of nature and humanity and advance the person whoever commands honour and excellence and rises as expert performer in the universal yajna of evolution and progress at the social level.

7. Tve agne svāhuta priyāsaḥ santu sūrayaḥ. Yantāro ye maghavāno janānāmūrvān dayanta gonām.

Agni, ruling light of the world, invoked with reverence and adored, let those brave leaders and eminent scholars commanding wealth and power be dear and closer to you who move forward, and lead, control and protect the defenders and promoters of the people, lands and cows.

8. Yeṣāmiḷā ghṛtahastā duroṇa āň api prātā niṣīdati. Tāňstrāyasva sahasya druho nido yacchā naḥ śarma dīrghaśrut.

Patient and potent lord ruler of light, strength and power, protect from jealousy and malignity those good people in whose home sweet and sacred speech and manners, like a gracious lady of generosity with sweetened hands perfumed with ghrta and holy water, reigns and resides and, O lord of wide reputation and long experience of the voice of divinity, give us the home abounding in peace and comfort, love and courtesy.

9. Sa mandrayā ca jihvayā vahnirāsā viduṣṭaraḥ. Agne rayiṁ maghavadbhyo na ā vaha havyadātiṁ ca sūdaya.

Agni, leading light and fire of life, most pervasive power ever on the move, all aware and self-conscious, receiver of the inputs into the fire of consumption and disseminator of the fragrances for the living system of existence by charming flames, pray refine and intensify the holy inputs of havi and bring higher returns of honour, excellence and generosity for those who manage the wealth and power of humanity for the common good.

10. Ye rādhāṁsi dadatyaśvyā maghā kāmena śravaso mahaḥ. Tāň aṅhasaḥ pipṛhi partṛbhiṣṭvaṁ śataṁ pūrbhiryaviṣṭhya.

O lord most youthful, power enlightened, there are those generous souls who, of their own will and desire, provide all possible and attainable means and materials for successful living, food and energy, wealth and power, and great honour and reputation for excellence. O lord, protect them from sin and evil, promote them with a hundred safeguards and fortifications.

11. Devo vo draviṇodāḥ pūrṇāṁ vivaṣṭyāsicam. Ud vā siñcadhvamupa vā pṛṇadhvamādid vo deva ohate.

Agni, self-refulgent lord giver of wealth, honour and excellence, loves to have your fire of yajnic action sprinkled with overflowing ladle of ghrta and the highest refined action. Serve him closely, feed the fire to the full, let the flames rise, and the generous lord refulgent would lead you to the heights of prosperity and excellence.

Let the brilliant, noble and generous leaders of humanity choose, sanctify and anoint that intelligent all-aware person as Agni, leader, ruler and high-priest of the yajnic social order of love, peace and non-violence, who would create and bear the jewel wealth and values of life and high power and prestige of the noblest order for generous self-sacrificing people dedicated to the yajna of the social system.

Agni, light and fire of life and intelligence, all knowing, all reaching, go to the bounties of nature and brilliancies of humanity, join them with the light and fragrance you bear by the oblations of havi received, and win their favour of blessings for our yajna of the business of life and living.

4. Svadhvarā karati jātavedā yakṣad devāň amṛtān piprayacca.

Jataveda, all knowing, all reaching power of nature and humanity, yajna fire and teacher, communicates with the undecaying bounties of nature and the immortal souls of enlightened humans and seekers of enlightenment, renders them favourable to the yajnic programmes of peace and non-violent development and thus gives them fulfilment.

6. Tvāmu te dadhire havyavāhaṁ devāso agna ūrja ā napātam.

Agni, light and fire of life and humanity, all divinities of nature and humanity acknowledge, take over and advance you for their life's fulfilment, you being the source of infallible hope, energy and karma and bearer as well as harbinger of the divine invitations to live.

Mandala 7/Sukta 18

Indra (1-21) and Sudasa Paijavanasya Dana stuti (22-25) Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

त्व ह यत्पितरश्चि ा इन्द विश्वा वामा जरितार असन्वन ।

1. Tve ha yat pitaraścinna indra viśvā vāmā jaritāro asanvan. Tve gāvaḥ sudughāstve hyaśvāstvaṁ vasu devayate vaniṣṭhaḥ.

Indra, lord of power, splendour and beneficence, ruler of the world, all beauties and graces of life which our parents and sustainers pray for and achieve, all fertile cows, lands and lights with high yield, all horses and fast communications are there for them because you are there. All wealth of home, habitat and materials, you alone give to the devotee who prays for the favours and light of divinity.

2. Rājeva hi janibhiḥ kṣesyevā'va dyubhirabhi viduṣkaviḥ san. Piśā giro maghavan gobhiraśvaistvāyataḥ śiśīhi rāye asmān.

Like a brilliant prince you live with the people all round, every way, every day. Being a scholar, poet and visionary, inspire us, your admirers, with your lights of wisdom, and refine our voices of admiration with gentle forms and manners. Lord of wealth, power and honour, sharpen our plans and initiatives with the development of lands and cows, horses and transport for our assets and prosperity.

3. Imā u tvā paspṛdhānāso atra mandrā giro devayantīrupa sthuḥ. Arvācī te pathyā rāya etu syāma te sumatāvindra śarman.

Indra, glorious ruler, these are the people and our voices of admiration, earnest and joyous, vying with each other in love and reverence on this occasion, which may, we pray, reach you and be accepted. May your modern ethics and policies lead us all to wealth, honour and excellence. May we always abide in peace and prosperity in a happy home under your care and kindness.

4. Dhenuṁ na tvā sūyavase dudukṣannupa brahmāṇi sasṛje vasiṣṭhaḥ. Tvāminme gopatiṁ viśva āhā''na indraḥ sumatiṁ gantvaccha.

As a shepherd goes to the cow in a rich pasture for good milk, so the man of peace and enlightenment approaches you seeking fulfilment and creates songs of appreciation in praise of your policy and performance as a ruler. Indra, O lord ruler of the world, the whole world calls you the preserver, defender and promoter of the earth and her social order for me, and I pray you enjoy the favour and goodwill of the people for our sake.

Indra, brilliant ruler, rising anew like the sun, controls and bounds overflooded expansive waters into fordable limits for comfortable movement of business, converts the violent to peaceable beneficence, silences the imprecations of the vociferous and controls the erratic behaviour of the rivers and the seas.

पुर॒ळा इत्तुर्वशा॒ य ुरासीदा॒य मत्स्यासा॒ निशि॑ता॒ अपी॑व।

The ruler is chief of all, all controller and instant achiever, keen yajaka and sociable with open doors, sharpest reacher to the target like fish in the ocean, for economic and social progress. Men of economic ambition, science and wisdom do him honour, enemies cower before him, and as a friend he saves and supports the friend of versatile genius.

7. Ā pakthāso bhalānaso bhanantā'lināso viṣāṇinaḥ śivāsaḥ. Ā yo'nayat sadhamā āryasya gavyā tṛtsubhyo ajagan yudhā nṝn.

Men of ripe age and experience, vibrant experts of yajnic material, nobly born and cultured, graceful and highly sagacious, who bring about peace and joy for all, approve and glorify the ruler who leads and guides members of the council who manage the governance and administration of the land for the noble people and organise the defence forces to deal with the violent, destructive and lawless elements from within and without.

8. Durādhyo aditiṁ srevayanto'cetaso vi jagṛbhre paruṣṇīm. Mahnāvivyak pṛthivīṁ patyamānaḥ paśuṣ-kavir-aśayac-cāyamānaḥ.

Thoughtless men of evil disposition try to fail his policy of universal and inviolable values and grab lands of fertility. But Indra, a man of vision, all round perceptive, saving the land and policy frustrates their designs and maintains national integrity and rests in peace and fearlessness.

इ॒युर॒र्थं न न्य॒र्थं परु॑ष्णीमा॒शुश्च॒नद॑भिपि॒त्वं ज॑गाम। सु॒दास॒ इन्द्रः॑ सु॒तुकाँ॑ अ॒मित्रा॒नर॑न्धय॒न्मानु॑ष॒ वध्रि॑वाचः ॥ ९ ॥

9. Īyurarthaṁ na nyarthaṁ paruṣṇīm-āśuścaneda-bhipitvaṁ jagāma. Sudāsa indraḥ sutukāň amitrā narandhayan-mānuṣe vadhrivācaḥ.

When Indra, generous ruler and commander equipped fully with assistant forces, overcomes unfriendly powers and evil voices rampant in society and thus reaches his target of correction and achievement in the daily business of life's governance and administration including the optimum means of sustenance and development, the people too realise the ends of his universal policy and achieve their goals of life in definiteness without any delay.

Just as cows free from the cowherd rush to the master from the pasture, as friends rush to meet a friend, as people having performed good actions by nature and law advance to receive their prize, and as the sun rays radiate across space and sky to meet the variegated earth, so do the forces of Indra, whether organised in battle order or resting off duty, and the people at peace rally and rush to Indra, the ruler, for service immediately on the clarion call.

11. Ekaṁ ca yo viṁśatiṁ ca śravasyā vaikarṇayorjanān rājā nyastaḥ. Dasmo na sadman ni śiśāti barhiḥ śūraḥ sargam-akṛṇod-indra eṣām.

The ruler, personally resigned and socially committed as a trustee, commanding power and brilliance as Indra, dedicated to the elimination of want and suffering, creates and ministers a senate of twenty and one reputed people over a variety of views and opinions and thus, brave and brilliant as he is, organises the nation into a dynamic social order like a high priest organising and energising the vedi in the house of yajna.

12. Adha śrutaṁ kavaṣaṁ vṛddham-apsvanu druhyuṁ ni vṛṇag-vajrabāhuḥ. Vṛṇānā atra sakhyāya sakhyaṁ tvāyanto ye amadann-anu tvā.

The lord of thunder power and justice engages the scholar, the teacher, the senior and even the jealous critic and opponent into the thick of social action, choosing some positively and others to weed out negativity. Thus they too, O ruler, opt for you, some opting for you as a friend for friendship, and others to be with you and around, but all in order to be happy and joyous in consonance with you.

Let the ruler with his enlightened forces always and at the earliest rule out and destroy the sevenfold citadels of these outmoded enemies, and let him serve and support the home and institutions of values anew for the rising people of free thought and action. Let us always realise and win the values of the eternal and liquid flow of the holy voice in our yajnic business of systemic life.

All the wondrous deeds of the world are accomplished by Indra, since sixty-six of his brave warriors devoted to their lord, all fervent, new and ferocious fighters dedicated to the land and light, send to eternal sleep sixtysix thousand of his enemies.

There furious warriors overwhelming the enemy like turbulent waters rushing down hill are the creation of Indra, and they, over-coming and cutting to size the enemies and strategists camouflaged as friends, are prepared to renounce all comforts for the sake of their devotion to the generous master and ruler.

16. Ardhaṁ vīrasya śṛtapāmanindraṁ parā śardhantaṁ nunude abhi kṣām. Indro manyuṁ manyumyo mimāya bheje patho vartaniṁ patyamānaḥ.

Indra, ruler of the earth, inspires and promotes the person who promotes the brave, prepares ripe inputs for yajnic development, and challenges and eliminates want and dishonour from the world. Being the destroyer of pride and anger, he reduces the proud and angry to zero, and promotes, defends and serves the paths of rectitude and processes of law and justice.

By patience, fortitude and stabilized power, Indra, destroyer of evil and enmity, unites and consolidates the world into one socio-political order. With limited but committed powers of love and creativity, he defeats the tigers of violence and destruction. With pointed advance like the penetration of a needle, he routs deep formations of hostility and opposition. And thus he provides all sustenance and peaceful comfort and prosperity for a happy and generous humanity.

Indra, lord destroyer of division, opposition and hostility, let your persistent enemies be subdued relentlessly. Let the persistent purveyors of division and dissidence be brought to justice. And whoever does evil and violence to the supportive and celebrative people among humanity, strike the sharp and instant bolt of justice upon them.

Let the powers of justice, keepers of law and order and defence guards provide security cover for Indra, ruler of the social order. Let the ruler eliminate all elements of division, dissension and secession from this one, united and universal order of governance and human welfare. And let the weapon launchers, intelligence network using code language, supporting and cooperative yajnic powers of the system bear and offer him the highest loyalty and conduct fastest services of defence and communication for him.

Indra, lord ruler of power, honour and excellence, like the beauty, blessedness and grandeur of the dawns old and new, your knowledge and wisdom, ethics and policies and your wealth and excellence cannot be described, since you achieve the adorable light of divinity, shatter the pride and pretence of simulated brilliance, and by your innate power and splendour break the greatest and deepest clouds to bring down showers of rain.

By virtue of your blazing glory and showers of generosity, the sage who dispels evils, the warrior who goes forward with a hundred and faces many hundreds, and the host who provides the best shelter and hospitality like mother earth, all who rejoice in the home as well as outside, would never neglect, forget or forsake the kindness and friendship of yours who are the ruler and protector of the world community. And we pray may happy days ever shine upon these brave, learned and generous people.

Two hundred cows and two chariots drawn by double motive powers are the gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of a dynamic, pious and progressive God-fearing yajaka. O Agni, lord and leader of the light and fire of the corporate life of humanity, happily acknowledging, singing and celebrating the gift of the man of peace and progress, I go round the house of yajna with reverence like the high priest and the yajaka myself.

Four-fold gifts of the generous yajamana, grand child of the pious progressive yajaka, golden majestic and moving straight on the right course in life in the most stable manner without jolt or deviation on the earth, bear me like a child of divinity to my grand child for the achievement of honour and excellence.

One whose honour and fame rings in the skies and over the wide earth, whose gifts of generosity are distributed over from person to person of eminence, whom the seven fluent regions of heaven and earth celebrate and glorify like Indra, lord of light and fire and power, and who fights out a war monger in battle close at hand as one would eliminate a disease, such a person and power is fit to be the ruler.

Indra, formidable scholar and fearsome warrior, enters with his weapons of offence and defence and inspires all the will and actions of the people which are in the interest of humanity and which are humanly possible. Happy and rejoicing, wielding the thunderbolt of power and justice in hand, he shakes to naught the strongholds of evil, sin and crime with his grandeur.

Indra, lord most potent, let not the wicked and violent approach and hurt us. Let them not affect our holy works in spite of their tactics worth knowing though they be. O noble lord, control and nullify the various and disorderly people. Let not the sensual and licentious sex slaves vitiate our moral conduct and rectitude.

Indra, lord of splendour, by your own strength overthrow the enemies of humanity on earth. They do not know the greatness and glory of your powers. By your innate powers you destroy the demon of darkness, want and ignorance. O mighty warrior, the enemies do not realise the expanse of your power and grandeur.

Indra, ruling power of the world, brilliant divines, scholars and scientists of veteran eminence value your courage and bold actions in the field of energy and spirituality for the development, prosperity and well being of the social order. Having faced challenges with patience and fortitude, Indra commands and shares powers, privileges and prosperity, and the people invoke and support him for leadership in their struggle for peace, prosperity and progress. Therein lies honour and victory.

and saviour of our abundant power and prosperity. And our guardian and protector against the challenging enemy too, may, we pray, be brave as you.

May your power and grace be the source of wealth and excellence for the celebrant. All you divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us for all time with all freedom and security.

पिबा॒ सोम॑मिन्द्र॒ मन्द॑तु त्वा॒ यं ते॑ सु॒षाव॑ हर्य॒श्वाद्रिः॑ ।

1. Pibā somamindra mandtu tvā yaṁ te suṣāva haryaśvādriḥ. Soturbāhubyāṁ suyato nārvā.

Indra, lord ruler and controller of the dynamic forces of the world, drink this soma of ecstasy which, I am sure, would exhilarate you. The cloud, generative power of nature, has distilled it and showered on you. And just as a horse well controlled by the hands and reins of the driver moves to the right destination, so is this soma generated by the hands of the creator meant to exhort you to take the dominion to its destination.

2. Yaste mado yujyaścārurasti yena vṛtrāṇi haryaśva haṁsi. Sa tvāmindra prabhūvaso mamattu.

That beauty and joy of the governance of your dominion which is agreeable, inspiring and worthy of support and participation, and by which joy, O controller of the dynamic forces of the people, you break the negative forces of darkness, sin and crime, want and ignorance like the sun breaking dark clouds for showers, may that joy, O sovereign lord of power for settlement and prosperity, give you the real pleasure of creative governance and administration.

3. Bodhā su me maghavan vācamemāṁ yāṁ te vasiṣṭho arcati praśastim. Imā brahma sadhamāde juṣasva.

O lord of honour, power and magnificence, pray know well this voice of mine which the sage well settled at peace offers you in adoration of your glory. And accept, honour and apply these holy words of vision and wisdom in practice in the assembly house of the wise for governance and administration.

4. Śrudhī havaṁ vipipānasyādrerbodhā viprasyārcato manīṣām. Kṛṣvā duvāṁsyantamā sacemā.

Listen to the cloud shower of exhortation from the vibrant sage, joyous participant in the congregation, know the thought and will of the wise scholar in adoration of your honour, and honour these prayers, most sincere and intimate, in action.

Never shall I forget your words, instant and mighty of action as you are, nor shall I, knowing your power and potential, ever neglect your appreciation and adoration. I value and appreciate the significance of your name and your innate honour and excellence.

O lord of honour and excellence, many are your acts of generosity and magnificence in the world of humanity. Many are the acts of adoration the dedicated wise offer to you. O lord, never let these be alienated from us.

7. Tubhyedimā savanā śūra viśvā tubhyaṁ brahmāṇi vardhanā kṛṇomi. Tvaṁ nṛbhirhavyo viśvadhāsi.

O lord of honour and excellence, wise and brave, all these yajnic acts of service and adoration are for you. All these acts of holy creation and development for progress I do, are for your honour and majesty. You are the ruler and sustainer of the world, accepted and adorable for the leading people of the world.

8. Nū cinnū te manyamānasya dasmodaśnuvanti mahimānamugra. Na vīryamindra te na rādhaḥ.

Indra, lord of blazing splendour, destroyer of suffering and darkness, adored by the world, the people of the world acknowledge your grandeur but they comprehend it not, much less equal and surpass. Nor can they surpass, equal or even comprehend your power and potential or your munificence.

9. Ye ca pūrva ṛṣayo ye ca nūtnā indra brahmāṇi janayanta viprāḥ. Asme te santu sakhyā śivāni yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

All the songs of adoration and acts of homage and worship which the veteran seers of ancient wisdom and new scholars of modern vision and wisdom create and offer to you, mighty ruler of the world, may they all be friendly and blissful for us all. O seers and scholars, O lord Indra, pray always protect and promote us with all modes of protection, promotion and all round well-being.

1. Udu brahmāṇyairata śravasyendraṁ samarye mahayā vasiṣṭha. Ā yo viśvāni śavasā tatānopa-śrotā ma īvato vacāṁsi.

O brilliant sage of divine vision settled in peace, raise your voice and sing songs of celebration in honour of Indra, mighty ruler of the world. In the battle business of life, glorify him who pervades the wide worlds by his might, and as I approach him he listens close by so that my words of prayer reverberate across the spaces.

2. Ayāmi ghoṣa indra devajāmiririrajyanta pacchurudho vivāci. Nahi svamāyuścikite janeṣu tānīdaṁhāṁsyati parṣyasmān.

I come, lord Indra, the sound of prayer rises like a battle cry with the divine waves of nature, charming, mastering, the notes resounding in the tumultuous roar. No one knows the thread of his span of life in humanity. O lord, cleanse us of those sins which pollute us to darkness.

3. Yuje rathaṁ gaveṣaṇaṁ haribhyāmupa brahmāṇi jujuṣāṇamasthuḥ. Vi bādhiṣṭa sya rodasī mahitvendro vṛtrāṇyapratī jaghanvān.

I ride the chariot of worship in pursuit of the light of truth harnessing the two carriers of mind and intellect alongwith the senses. My prayers reach the lord of love who accepts the supplicant with grace. The lord pervades both heaven and earth with his might, prevents evil, and destroys the demons of sin and darkness which we cannot even perceive with our human eyes of ordinary vision.

4. Āpaścit pipyuḥ staryo na gāvo nakṣannṛtaṁ jaritārasta indra. Yāhi vāyurna niyuto no acchā tvaṁ hi dhībhirdayase vi vājān.

Indra, lord of light and action, just as waters flow and rays of light radiate over darkness, so let your celebrants, men of holy action, rise and attain to the light of truth. O lord of the cosmic chariot, come like the wind to your servants of action with grace since you bless us with mercy and with gifts of intelligence, vision and the light of divinity.

Indra, lord of might, mercy, magnanimity and giver of all round success, may the devotees blest with joy and vision of action win your pleasure and favour for the gift of strength and power, sure success and excellence in all fields to bless the celebrant. You, the one adorable lord, bless the mortals with love and mercy. Come and share our celebrations of yajnic ecstasy with us in this session.

Thus do the brilliant poets of vision and heroes of action settled and settlers at peace with homage and adorations celebrate Indra, lord ruler and commander of world forces, giver of showers of joy and wielder of thunder arms for the world order. The lord commands forces of the youthful brave and prosperity of the world's commonwealth. Praised and celebrated thus, may the lord protect and promote us. O lord, and O men of vision and potent action, protect and promote us all time with all modes of happiness and well being.

Indra, lord ruler and commander of the world, the holy seat for you is created and reserved in the house of nations. Elected and invited by all equally, pray come and take it with the leading lights of humanity in the manner that you may be our saviour and protector for advancement, receive and disburse the means and materials of life's wealth and comfort, and be happy and celebrate the joy of life with the soma of the world's excellence.

Indra, brilliant lord, accepted is your mind wholly, both wish and will, ideas and intentions, philosophy and policy, ethics and action. The soma of joy and celebration is distilled and ready. The honey sweets are exuberant and overflowing. The general will, single voice and enthusiastic resolution of this generous land initiates, invites and anoints you in your seat.

3. Ā no diva ā pṛthivyā ṛjīṣinnidaṁ barhiḥ somape-yāya yāhi. Vahantu tvā harayo madryañcam-āṅgūṣamacchā tavasaṁ madāya.

Indra, mighty lord of natural simplicity and grace, lover of joy, come to this holy seat of ours from wherever you are, from the regions of heavenly light or the dark green earth to drink of the soma of celebration for the land. May the leading personalities of the nation well conduct you to receive our felicitations with us here.

Indra, friendly ruler, lover of divinity and the best things of life, commanding the best of assistants, blest with a gracious personality, come to us with all the means of protection and progress for us, bringing showers of strength, honour and excellence for the nation and warding off all opponent forces, come supported by the wisest veterans of the land.

5. Eṣa stomo maha ugrāya vāhe dhurīvātyo na vājayannadhāyi. Indra tvāyamarka īṭṭe vasūnāṁ divīva dyāmadhi naḥ śromataṁ dhāḥ.

This inspiring song of felicitation and this vibrant institution of governance is created and offered to Indra, great and brilliant lord ruler and sustainer of the world, like the leading power of the nation's chariot. O lord Indra, this supplicant and celebrant prays to you for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence for the nation. Pray raise our honour and fame to the regions of bliss over the sky and light of the sun.

Likewise O lord of excellence, Indra, destroyer of suffering, bless us with abundant good fortune of the choicest order. Grant us the great favour of your love and good will. Protect and promote the honour, energy and sustenance of the nation blest with youthful brave for the noble people. O lord and veterans of the world, protect and advance us with the peace, prosperity and all round well being for all time.

1. Ā te maha indrotyugra samanyavo yat samaranta senāḥ. Patāti didyunnaryasya bāhvormā te mano viṣvadryagvi cārīt.

Indra, blazing lord of glory and illustrious commander of the forces of defence and protection, when your armies impassioned by ardent zeal march forward, the thunderbolt in your hands, O magnificent leader of humanity, flashing and blazing, falls upon the enemy. O lord, your mind instantly traversing over spaces otherwise, would never ramble from us but hit the target.

Indra, lord destroyer of want and suffering, strike upon the strongholds of the enemies and break down the hostilities of mortals that afflict us with violence and disease. Throw out far off that curse and calumny of the malevolent and bring us fulfilment with abundance of health, wealth, honour and excellence of life.

O lord of golden helmet, hundreds be your favours and protections for the man of generosity, thousands your blessings and gifts of grace. Destroy the weapons of death in the hands of the violent mortal and vest us with that wealth, honour and excellence of life which is the supreme jewel of existence.

4. Tvāvato hīndra kratve asmi tvāvato'vituḥ śūra rātau. Viśvedahāni taviṣīva ugraṅ okaḥ kṛṇuṣva harivo na mardhīḥ.

Indra, mighty lord beyond fear, in submission to your will, I abide in holy action and pray for the gift of your protection and grace. O lord illustrious of blazing power, pray dwell in my heart for ever. Forsake us not, O lord of tempestuous forces.

5. Kutsā ete haryaśvāya śūṣamindre saho devajūtamiyānāḥ. Satrā kṛdhi suhanā śūra vṛtrā vayaṁ tarutrāḥ sanuyāma vājam.

All these arms and armaments of thunder power, all the sagely people who have come to peace and power, patience and fortitude inspired by divinities for the attainment of honour and excellence: all these are dedicated to Indra, lord ruler of vibrant powers and people of the world. O lord giver of freedom from fear and violence, make it easy for us to dispel the evil and darkness of life. Let us be victors of light over ignorance and darkness and cross over the seas to the realms of bliss.

Thus O lord Indra, bless us with honour and excellence of our choice in abundance. Let us have the divine bliss of your love and good will. Sustain and promote food, energy and knowledge for the noble people blest with youthful and brave warriors of freedom. O lord, O noble people, O saints and sages, O youthful brave, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for ever.

Mandala 7/Sukta 26

Indra Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

न साम॒ इन्द्र॒मसु॑ता ममाद॒ नाब॑ह्माणा म॒घवा॑नं सु॒तास॑: ।

1. Na soma indramasuto mamāda nābrahmāṇo maghavānaṁ sutāsaḥ. Tasmā ukthaṁ janaye yajjujoṣan-nṛvannavīyaḥ śṛṇavad yathā naḥ.

Undistilled soma does not please Indra, lord of humanity. Nor do distillations of soma unsanctified by divine chants of Veda satisfy the lord of power and divinity. Therefore I create and compose the latest song of adoration with Vedic vision with the distillation so that the lord may listen and accept our homage of soma with pleasure.

उ॒क्थउ॑क्थ॒ साम॒ इन्दं॑ ममाद नी॒थनी॑थ म॒घवा॑नं सु॒तास॑: ।

2. Uktha-ukthe soma indraṁ mamāda nīthenīthe maghavānaṁ sutāsaḥ. Yadīṁ sabādhaḥ pitaraṁ na putrāḥ samānadakṣā avase havante.

With every chant of song divine, the soma pleases Indra. At every stage of adoration, at every step of the song, the draughts of soma exhilarate the lord. For this reason, surely, eager supplicants, equally proficient, invoke and offer homage to the lord for protection and progress like children approaching parents with love to have their blessings.

च॒कार॒ ता कृ॒णव॑ ॒ू॒नम॒न्या यानि॑ बु॒वन्ति॑ व॒धस॑: सु॒तषु॑ ।

3. Cakāra tā kṛṇavannūnamanyā yāni bruvanti vedhasaḥ suteṣu. Janīriva patirekaḥ samāno ni māmṛje pura indraḥ su sarvāḥ.

What the sages and scholars say and proclaim in matters of science and development of soma, let the pursuant follow and do even more, and just as the ruler protector and sustainer looks after the people and the father looks after the children by himself equally well, so should Indra first and foremost look after and refine the development of knowledge and all the pursuers.

एवा तमाहुरुत शृण्व इन्द एक' विभक्ता तरणिर्मघानाम। मिथस्तुर ऊतया यस्य पूवीरस्म भदाणि सश्चत पियाणि॥ ४॥

4. Evā tamāhuruta śṛṇva indra eko vibhaktā taraṇirmaghānām. Mithastura Ūtayo yasya pūrvīrasme bhadrāṇi saścata priyāṇi.

Only Indra they celebrate in holy words. Only of him do we hear, that he is the giver of all power, progress, honour and excellence and he alone is the saviour and protector. Instant and unfailing are his powers and forces of protection and defence, unbreakable as ever. May all dear and cherished good things of life come to us by the lord's kindness and grace.

Thus does the ardent sage settled in peace and wisdom celebrate Indra, the soul and generous ruler of the world and leading lights of humanity for the sake of defence and protection in the social order of the lord's creation. May the lord bring us a thousand fold honour and excellence in food, sustenance and knowledge. O lord and leaders, protect and promote us with all your gifts of good fortune and all round well being as ever.

Leading people call upon Indra, lord ruler of the world, in their serious struggles of life and pray for those concentrative faculties of mind and intelligence by which they can join the divine presence and win their goal. The lord is the brave, generous and fearless leader of humanity in their corporate life, lover of strength and inspirer of heroic souls. 2. Ya indra śuṣmo maghavan te asti śikṣā sakhibhyaḥ puruhūta nṛbhyaḥ. Taṁ hi dṛḷhā maghavan vicetā apā vṛdhi parivṛtaṁ na rādhaḥ.

Indra, lord of power, honour and excellence, that strength and power of yours for which you are invoked by all humanity, pray give us, your friends and leaders of a free world. O lord of honour and majesty, unshakable lord of universal vision and knowledge, remove the cover of darkness and open out our potential like a hidden treasure revealed.

3. Indro rājā jagataścarṣaṇīnāmadhi kṣami viṣurūpaṁ yadasti. Tato dadāti dāśuṣe vasūni codad rādha upastutaścidarvāk.

Indra is the sovereign ruler of the moving world and her people on the earth. Whatever various and manifold wealth there is on the earth, he alone is the master ruler. And therefrom he gives profusely of wealth, honour and excellence to the generous man of charity, inspires our potential strength and success, and when he is closely adored in meditation, he reveals his presence to our direct vision and experience.

4. Nū cinna indro maghavā sahūtī dāno vājaṁ ni yamate na ūtī. Anūnā yasya dakṣiṇā pīpāya vāmaṁ nṛbhyo abhivītā sakhibhyaḥ.

Surely Indra, lord of honour and glory, is the generous and instant giver on invocation and prayer. He gives sustenance, protection and progress, and he controls and guides our advance to victory in life. Boundless is his grace which ever inspires and promotes our will and action, and it is freely available to people who seek his love and friendship.

Indra, generous lord of munificence, we turn ourselves to you seeking your love and kindness to achieve the honour and treasures of life. Pray open the paths of advancement for us to wealth and victory of lands and cows, horses and chariots of the good life. O lord, O leading lights, be gracious and protect and promote us with all good fortune and well being for ever.

Indra, lord omniscient, all pervasive in the world, come, listen to our prayer, let the horses harnessed to your chariot be directed hitherward to us. All people of the world without exception invoke you. Pray listen to our prayer and bring us the gifts of Divinity.

O lord of might, since you protect and preserve the voice of the seers of divine vision, your grandeur vests in the holy voice and holy projects of humanity. Awful lord of blazing lustre, when you wield the thunderbolt in hand in a state of divine passion for action you rise invincible for any power of the world.

3. Tava praṇītīndra johuvānāntsaṁ yannṛn na rodasī ninetha. Mahe kṣatrāya śavase hi jajñe'tūtujiṁ cit tūtujiraśiśnat.

Indra, by your ethics and policy you guide the leading lights of humanity and those called upon to duty as you light up the earth and space, and thus surely by nature and character you rise to the mighty power of the governance of the great social order. Truly the mighty and the dynamic govern and guide the weak who need protection.

4. Ebhirna indrāhabhir-daśasya durmitrāso hi kṣitayaḥ pavante. Prati yaccaṣṭe anṛtamanenā ava dvitā varuṇo māyī naḥ sāt.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, in these few days bless us that the evil in friends be purged and they become good citizens. O lord, if the man of judgement and discrimination were to see untruth and false conduct, then he, Varuna, with justice and power, may cause it to be reduced to half and then purged off.

We speak and sing, thus, of Indra, this lord of power, honour and excellence who gives us great wealth and further capacity for success and victory and who accepts homage as the most loving protector of the worshipper. O lord, may you and your divine forces protect and promote us with all gifts of good fortune and well being for all time.

What is the honour and pleasure we can do by our songs of adoration to your grace? O lord of glory, what can we offer and when in homage to you? All thoughts, imagination and songs we offer are but an extension of your grace in adoration of your honour. So, O lord, only listen to these songs of adoration and be pleased.

I too, O lord of universal knowledge, vision and glory, offer the same song of invocation and adoration. O lord and master, Indra, you are our teacher, protector and provider like the father.

Such is Indra, glorious lord of knowledge and power whom we celebrate in song. He gives us the grandeur and abundance of wealth, honour and excellence and the competence for higher and higher success. And he loves and accepts the homage and adorations of the celebrant supplicant of divinity. O lord, O visionaries, poets and teachers, protect and promote us with all modes of honour and well being for all time.

Great is he, promoter of great people and the common wealth, and a leader wide-awake with deep and distant foresight. O leader and ruler of the land, be good to the settled ancient people and take care of the farming communities and other professionals so that all feel happy and fulfilled without frustration.

generating new forms of sustenance and energy, and creating new forms of appreciating and realising the eternal spirit. And they, people of constancy and settled mind, never violate the laws and discipline of the lord's Eternal Law.

Let not your worshippers be far away from us, nor let them detain you. Come to our house of celebration from the farthest distance even, and when you are here, listen to our songs of celebration and divine adoration.

2. Ime hi te brahmakṛtaḥ sute sacā madhau na makṣa āsate. Indre kāmaṁ jaritāro vasūyāvo rathe na pādamā dadhuḥ.

When the celebrants have distilled and seasoned the soma of homage and worship for Indra, ruler of the social order of governance, they sit together like bees clustering round honey. The celebrants dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the ruling order place their trust and faith in Indra, the ruler and the law of governance, like travellers who place their foot on the step and ride the chariot to reach their goal.

3. Rāyaskāmo vajrahastaṁ sudakṣiṇaṁ putro na pitaraṁ huve.

Dedicated to the honour and prosperity of the human nation, and keen to realise the excellence of life for myself too, I invoke generous Indra, lord ruler of the world, wielder of the thunderbolt of defence and protection in hand as keeper of the law and justice of the order of governance. I invoke him like a child yearning for the father for his generosity.

4. Ima indrāya sunvire somāso dadhyāśiraḥ. Tāṅ ā madāya vajrahasta pītaye haribhyāṁ yāhyoka ā.

These somas of the nation's honour and excellence energised by the ferment of inspiration and enthusiasm have been distilled to celebrate the dignity and majesty of the land and the ruler Indra. O lord wielder of the thunderbolt, come to our hall of fame for the joy of a drink of them. Come fast by the chariot drawn by horses of the winds.

The lord has a keen ear to listen to the supplicant. He listens, therefore he is approached for the gift of wealth, honour and excellence. May the lord never ignore our prayers, may he, instead, soften and sanctify our supplications. Indeed, instant giver of a hundred thousand gifts of good fortune as he is, no one can withhold him when he extends his hand of generosity.

He who approaches you, does your behest and performs the serious assignments given by you, O destroyer of evil, he goes forward bold and unshaken, and, exhorted by leading men, rises under the protection of Indra.

O lord of power and glory, be the shelter home and all round protector of those who wield, control and rule the wealth and honour of the nation — you who impel and inspire the bold and daring, and humble the defiant. Let us share the knowledge and learn from the painful experience of those who have been punished by you. O lord indestructible, bless our home and give us fulfilment.

Extract, mature and prepare the nectar of life for the lord, Indra, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment and destroyer of evil, who loves the soma spirit of life's beauty and joy. Ripen and perfect the drinks and drugs for health care and protection of life, and create the state of comfort and well being, giving success and fulfilment for those who work for the joy and fulfilment of all in general.

9. Mā sredhata somino dakṣatā mahe kṛṇudhvaṁ rāya ātuje. Taraṇir-ijjayati kṣeti puṣyati na devāsaḥ kavatnave.

Relent not, O makers of soma. Hurt not the lovers of soma. Perfect the nectar for life's grandeur, strengthen the makers for the beauty and glory of life. Work on and on for the growth of life and for the strong defence of life's vitality. The one that runs wins the race, lives in peace as well as provides for peace and security, grows and contributes to growth. The brilliant and generous are not for the lazy, the miser and the selfish.

No one can counter turn the chariot of the generous nor stop it for rest or entertainment. The rider whose patron is Indra, destroyer of obstructions, and Maruts, vibrant defenders of life, stops not until he reaches the goal where abides the treasure of his love and ambition.

11. Gamad vājaṁ vājayann-indra martyo yasya tvam-avitā bhuvaḥ. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā rathānām-asmākaṁ śūra nṛṇām.

Indra, lord of light and life, the mortal whose guardian protector you are runs the race and reaches the victory post of enlightenment. O lord of might and fearlessness, take care of us too, enlighten us and be the guardian protector of our chariots and our people.

12. Udinnvasya ricyateň'śo dhanaṁ na jigyuṣaḥ. Ya indro harivān na dabhanti taṁ ripo dakṣaṁ dadhāti somini.

High rises the victor's share of excellence as his wealth of life increases when Indra, guardian protector of the brave, vests his love of victory and soma-sublimity with the will and expertise of yajnic living. And then no enemies can ever defeat and destroy him.

Offer perfect, well structured and graceful mantric thoughts, adorations and actions to the divinities in yajnic programmes of creativity and development. Then even the oldest bounds of will and passion take the yajaka across the seas who dedicates his actions to the service of Indra.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, who can assail that mortal who wholly lives under the shade and shelter of your protection? O lord of the wealth and power of existence, whoever reposes his faith and dynamism in you as the sole saviour and pilot while he is in action receives his share of victory in the light of divinity.

मघानः स्म वृत्रहत्येषु चादय य ददति प्रिया वसु।

15. Maghonaḥ sma vṛtrahatyeṣu codaya ye dadati priyā vasu. Tava praṇītī haryaśva sūribhirviśvā tarema duritā.

O lord commander of world forces, in the battles against darkness, want and evil, inspire those leaders of wealth, honour and power who contribute to world service in the manner dear to you. O ruler of the dynamics of nations, we pray, may we, along with the wise and the fearless, cross over all evils of the world under the guidance of your ethics, morals and policy in matters of universal values.

तवदिन्द्रावमं वसु त्वं पुष्यसि मध्यमम। सत्रा विश्वस्य परमस्य राजसि नकिष्ट्वा गाषु वृण्वत॥ १६॥

16. Tavedindrāvamaṁ vasu tvaṁ puṣyasi madhyamam. Satrā viśvasya paramasya rājasi nakiṣṭvā goṣu vṛṇvate.

Indra, you protect, promote and rule over the lower orders of wealth of the world. You promote and rule over the middle order of the world's wealth. And you rule and shine over wealth of the highest order of the world. You are the true and the eternal power. No one can resist you among the lands and lights of the world. Who would not accept you?

त्वं विश्वस्य धनदा असि श्रुता य ईं भवन्त्याजयः ।

17. Tvaṁ viśvasya dhanadā asi śruto ya īṁ bhavantyājayaḥ. Tavāyaṁ viśvaḥ puruhūta pārthivo 'vasyurnāma bhikṣate.

You are the wealth giver of the world, universally heard and acclaimed, universally invoked in all battles of the world that there are, since the whole humanity on earth in search of protection looks up to you and prays for sustenance and progress.

यदिन्द्र यावतस्त्वमतावदहमीशीय । स्तोतारमिद्दिधिषेय रदावसो न पापत्वाय रासीय ॥ १८ ॥

18. Yadindra yāvatas-tvametāvad-ahamīśīya. Stotāramid didhiṣeya radāvaso na pāpatvāya rāsiya.

Indra, lord ruler of the world, giver of wealth and excellence, as much as you grant, so much I wish I should control and rule. I would hold it only to support the devotees of divinity and would not spend it away for those who indulge in sin and evil.

शिक्षेयमिन्महयते दिवेदिव राय आ कुहचिद्विदे ।

19. Śikṣeyaminmahayate divedive rāya ā kuhacidvide. Nahi tvadanyanmaghavan na āpyaṁ vasyo asti pitā cana.

Every day I would wish to give wealth and support for the person who seeks to rise for enlightenment wherever he be. O lord of wealth, power and honour, there is none other than you worthy of love and attainment as our own, as father indeed.

तरणिरित्सिषासति वाजं पुरन्ध्या युजा।

20. Taraṇirit siṣāsati vājaṁ purandhyā yujā. Ā va indraṁ puruhūtaṁ name girā nemiṁ taṣṭeva sudrvam.

Only the saviour, a person of dynamic will and action joined in the soul with a controlled and dedicated mind, would share wealth and knowledge with the people and distribute it over the deserving. With words of prayer I bow to Indra, the ruler invoked by you all and draw his attention to you just like the carpenter bending flexible wood round as felly of the wheel. (The lord is flexible too, his heart melts with sympathy for the people.)

न दुष्टुती मर्त्यो विन्दते वसु न स्रेधन्तं रयिर्नशत।

21. Na duṣṭutī martyo vindate vasu na sredhantaṁ rayirnaśat. Suśaktirinmaghavan tubhyaṁ māvate deṣṇaṁ yat pārye divi.

By protest and violence the mortal does not win the wealth of life. Nor does wealth oblige the inactive and malevolent. O lord of honour and excellence, right competence dedicated to Divinity is your gift for a person like me which is good on the day of the cross over.

अभि त्वा शूर नानुमा दुग्धाइव धेनवः। ईशानमस्य जगतः स्वर्दृशमीशानमिन्द्र तस्थुषः॥ २२॥

22. Abhi tvā śūra nonumo'dugdhā iva dhenavaḥ. Īśānam-asya jagataḥ svardṛśam-īśānam-indra tasthuṣaḥ.

O lord almighty, we adore you and wait for your blessings as lowing cows not yet milked wait for the master. Indra, lord of glory, you are ruler of the moving world and you are ruler of the unmoving world and your vision is bliss.

न त्वावाँ अन्या दिव्या न पार्थिवा न जाता न जनिष्यत। अश्वायन्तो मघवन्निन्द्र वाजिनो गव्यन्तस्त्वा हवामहे॥ २३॥

23. Na tvāvāň anyo divyo na pārthivo na jāto na janiṣyate. Aśvāyanto maghavann-inda vājino gavyantas-tvā havāmahe.

There is none other like you, neither heavenly nor earthly, neither born nor yet to be born. O lord of power and glory, we invoke you and pray for veteran scholars, dynamic scientists and technologists and the light of the divine Word of knowledge.

अभी षतस्तदा भरेन्द्र ज्यायः कनीयसः। पुरूवसुहि मघवन्त्सनादसि भरेभर च हव्यः॥ २४॥

24. Abhī ṣatastadā bharendra jyāyaḥ kanīyasaḥ. Purūvasurhi maghavant-sanādasi bharebhare ca havyaḥ.

Indra, lord of honour, power and excellence, you are the eternal lord of universal wealth and shelter home of all existence, invoked and worshipped in all challenging situations. Pray bring us the knowledge and experience of that essence of ultimate reality which is smaller than the smallest and greater than the greatest.

परा णुदस्व मघव ॅमित्रान्त्सुवदा ना वसू कृधि।

25. Parā ṇudasva maghavann-amitrānt-suvedā no vasū kṛdhi. Asmākaṁ bodhyavitā mahādhane bhavā vṛdhaḥ sakhīnām.

Lord of wealth, honour, power and excellence, treasure home of glory and grandeur, throw off the enemies far away. Give us the wealth of life. Give us the knowledge and awakenment for good living. Be our saviour and protector in the strife of existence which is otherwise too great for us. Be the promoter of all friendly forces.

इन्द्र कतुं न आ भर पिता पुत्रभ्या यथा। शि क्षा णा अस्मिन्पुरुहूत यामनि जीवा ज्यातिरशीमहि॥ २६ ॥

26. Indra kratuṁ na ā bhara pitā putrebhyo yathā. Śikṣā ṇo asmin puruhūta yāmani jīvā jyotiraśī-mahi.

Bring us the divine vision, will and intelligence as father does for his children. O lord universally invoked and worshipped, instruct us as a teacher at this present time so that we, ordinary souls, may have the new light of life and living experience of Divinity.

मा ना अज्ञाता वृजना दुराध्या३ माशिवासा अव कमुः।

27. Mā no ajñātā vṛjanā durādhyo māśivāso ava kramuḥ. Tvayā vayaṁ pravataḥ śaśvatīrapo 'ti śūra tarāmasi.

O lord almighty beyond fear, let not the ignorant and unknown, crooked intriguers, evil designers, and malevolent opponents in ambush attack us on way to you. May we, guided, directed and protected by you, cross the universal streams of life rushing down the slopes of time.

Indra, Vasishtha Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni & Vasishtha Putrah Rshis

श्वित्यञ्च॑ मा दक्षिणतस्क॑पर्दा धियंजि॒न्वास॑ अ॒भि हि प॑म॒न्दुः। उ॒त्तिष्ठ॑न्वाच॒ परि॑ ब॒र्हिषा॒ नॄ१॑ म॑ दू॒रादव॑ितव॒ वसि॑ष्ठाः॥ १॥

1. Śvityañco mā dakṣiṇatas-kapardā dhiyaṁjin-vāso abhi hi pramanduḥ. Uttiṣṭhan voce pari barhiṣo nṝn na me dūrādavitave vasiṣṭhāḥ.

Celibate disciples of the first order of scholars wearing locks of hair on the right side, settled for studies to collect knowledge for intellectual advancement come from far to study under my care and give me delight. I arise from my seat of grass, speak to them and speak of them as leading lights of the future.

दू॒रादि॑न्द॑मनय॒ ग्ग सु॒तं॑ ति॒रा व॑श॒न्तम॑ति॒ पान्त॑मु॒गम। पाशद्यु॑म्नस्य वाय॒तस्य॒ सामा॑त्सु॒तादि॑न्द॑ वृणीता॒ वसि॑ष्ठान॥ २॥

2. Dūrād-indram-anayannā sutena tiro vaiśantamati pāntam-ugram. Pāśadyumnasya vāyatasya somāt sutādindro'vṛṇītā vasiṣṭhān.

From far off and in view of their achievement in preference to others', they invite and bring over Indra, pioneer of knowledge and power and strong supporter of people settled in peace, and Indra agrees and accepts the invitation of the aspiring scholars in recognition of the progress and prosperity of the producers of wealth, scholarship of the learned and the governance and justice of the organisers.

(The mantra points to the free movement of scholars and specialists across the globe for advancement of knowledge and culture on the international level.)

3. Evannu kaṁ sindhumebhistatārevennu kaṁ bhedamebhirjaghāna. Evennu kaṁ dāśarājñe sudāsaṁ prāvadindro brahmaṇā vo vasiṣṭhāḥ.

This way, for sure, Indra, leader of knowledge and power, crosses with ease any river of difficulty by virtue of these scholars. This way too he easily overcomes difference, division and disunity. This way, again, O scholars and leaders settled at peace, by your vision, wisdom and mantric formulae, he defends and promotes generous rules for the advancement of good government and administration.

4. Juṣṭī naro brahmaṇā vaḥ pitṝṇāmakṣam-avyayaṁ na kilā riṣātha. Yacchakvarīṣu bṛhatā raveṇendre śuṣmamadadhātā vasiṣṭhāḥ.

O leading lights of the nation, by your vision, wisdom and active homage, the tradition of the ancients is preserved and happily advanced. Therefore, never for any reason, obstruct the relentless wheel of the nation and never disturb the inviolable equilibrium of forces which, O leading lovers of peace, by your reverberating words and heroic action in the great battles of humanity, you vested in the nation and its governance as the centre of stability.

The leading lights of the nation, selected and duly appointed, thirsting to cross over the hurdles of life, shine and glorify the generous ruler like the sun for the advancement of the liberal order for the people. Let Indra, enlightened ruler, listen to the leading lights and scholars and create vast and brilliant channels and possibilities for the defence and developmental forces of the nation.

6. Daṇḍā ived go-ajanāsa āsan paricchinnā bharatā arbhakāsaḥ. Abhavacca pura-etā vasiṣṭha ādit tṛtsūnāṁ viśo aprathanta.

Let the pioneers and bearers of the burdens of social order be straight and strong like the sceptre of authority, eloquent and progressive in language, education and culture, definite and judicious in law and policy and youthful in energy. Let the leader of these, wise and stable in mind, be ever first and foremost in the advance specially of the people and of the defence and development forces.

7. Trayaḥ kṛṇvanti bhuvaneṣu retastisraḥ prajā āryā jytiragrāḥ. Trayo gharmāsa uṣasaṁ sacante sarvāṅ it tāṅ anu vidurvasiṣṭhāḥ.

Three vital fires, of earth, sky and the sun, generate life energy in world regions and life forms. Three are the people's classes dynamic and enlightened. Three vital fires, heat, light and electricity, serve the dawn, and the enlightened scholars know all of them.

8. Sūryasyeva vakṣatho jyotireṣāṁ samudrasyeva mahāmā gabhīraḥ. Vātasyeva prajavo nānyena stomo vasiṣṭhā anvetave vaḥ.

Let the rise of these leading lights be like the splendour of the sun, their grandeur as profound as the depth of the sea, their drive like the wind, and let their organisation and its magnitude be impossible for anyone else to follow or rival.

9. Ta inniṇyaṁ hṛdayasya praketaiḥ sahasravalśamabhi saṁ cananti. Yamena tataṁ paridhiṁ vayanto 'psarasa upa sedurvasiṣṭhāḥ.

Leading scholars and sages by the reflections of divine light of their heart sojourn over the mystery of the thousand branched tree of existence, going round and round across, and by the bounds of this web of life woven by the cosmic law giver and by their imagination rise up to the wonders of heaven in the clouds.

10. Vidyuto jyotiḥ pari saṁjihānaṁ mitrāvaruṇā yadapaśyatāṁ tvā. Tat te janmotaikaṁ vasiṣṭhā-'gastyo yat tvā viśa ājabhāra.

O holy sage of knowledge, peace and power, sun and moon, heat and air, virility and fertility, pranic energies, receive and bear you when, as light of life you leave your sojourn in nature. That is one birth of yours. Then Agastya, the teacher scholar free from sin and stain brings you back to the community of people (as a complete and finished human being, i.e., dvija).

11. Utāsi maitrāvaruṇo vasiṣṭhorvaśyā brahman manaso'dhi jātaḥ. Drapsaṁ skannaṁ brahmaṇā daivyena viṣve devāḥ puṣkare tvādadanta.

Vasishtha, sage and scholar, living soul, you are a child of sun and moon, born of the heart of Mother Nature nurtured by mother knowledge. Like a drop of distilled soma, all divine powers of the world nourish you in the lotus cradle on celestial wealth of food for vitality and light for knowledge.

12. Sa praketa ubhayasya pravidvān tsahasradāna uta vā sadānaḥ. Yamena tataṁ paridhiṁ vayiṣyannapsarasaḥ pari jajñe vasiṣṭhaḥ.

Vasishtha, man of enlightenment, scholar of both heaven and earth, blest with a thousand gifts, and giver of a thousand gifts traverses the very bounds of the web of life woven by the mover and law giver of the world and rises over the winds and clouds.

सत्र ह जातावविषिता नम ाभिः कुम्भ रतः सिषिचतुः समानम । तत ह मान उदियाय मध्यात्तत जातमृषि-माहुवसिष्ठम ॥ १३ ॥

13. Satre ha jātāviṣitā namobhiḥ kumbhe retaḥ siṣicatuḥ samānam. Tato ha māna udiyāya madhyāttato jātam-ṛṣim-āhur-vasiṣṭham.

Inspired teachers and scholars risen to eminence over yajnic sessions of teaching relentlessly feed the disciples with gifts of vital knowledge, and from that rises the faithful scholar and sage whom they call Vasishtha, brilliant seer and visionary.

14. Ukthabhṛtaṁ sāmabhṛtaṁ bibharti grāvāṇaṁ bibhrat pra vadātyagre. Upainamādhvaṁ sumanasyamānā ā vo gacchāti pratṛdo vasiṣṭhaḥ.

O men of noble mind and heart, the brilliant sage who bears the knowledge of Rgveda and Samaveda and who commands the secrets of yajna relating to the clouds and mountains for rain, and who proclaims the knowledge to dispel the darkness of ignorance, comes to you. Receive him, and welcome him for your good.

1. Pra śukraitu devī manīṣā asmat sutaṣṭo ratho na vājī.

May divine intelligence of pure and brilliant order come to us like the dawn riding a wonderfully crafted chariot drawn by flying horses.

विदुः पृथिव्या दिवा जनित्रं शृण्वन्त्यापा अध क्षरन्तीः ॥ २ ॥

2. Viduḥ pṛthivyā divo janitraṁ śṛṇvantyāpo adha kṣarantīḥ.

Those who listen to words of knowledge as earth receives the showers of rain know the cause and creator of heaven and earth.

3. Āpaścidasmai pinvanta pṛthvīrvṛtreṣu śūrā maṁsanta ugrāḥ.

The showers of rain nourish the earth and her progeny for this Indra, social order of humanity, and in the battles of life the blazing brave bow down in honour to it.

आ धूर्ष्वस्मै दधातात्रवानिन्द्रो न वज्री हिरण्यबाहुः ॥ ४ ॥

4. Ā dhūrṣvasmai dadhātāśvānindro na vajrī hiraṇyabāhuḥ.

अभि प स्थाताहेव यज्ञं यातेव पत्मन्त्मना हिनात ॥ ५ ॥

5. Abhi prasthātāheva yajñaṁ yāteva patman tmanā hinota.

त्मना समत्सु हिनात यज्ञं दधात केतुं जनाय वीरम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tmanā samatsu hinota yajñaṁ dadhāta ketuṁ janāya vīram.

Advance the yajna in the battles of life conscientiously and keep the flag of victory flying high in the service of humanity.

उदस्य शुष्माद्भानुनात बिभर्ति भारं पृथिवी न भूम ॥ ७ ॥

7. Uadasya śuṣmād bhānurnārta bibharti bhāraṁ pṛthivī na bhūma.

And the sun rises by its own essential power and bears the burden of the earth, so does the earth bear the burden of her children, so let us be like the sun and the earth.

ह्वयामि देवाँ अयातुरग्ने साधन्नृतेन धियं दधामि ॥ ८ ॥

8. Hvayāmi devāň ayāturagne sādhannṛtena dhiyaṁ dadhāmi.

Agni, lord of light and life, I invoke the divinities of nature and humanity, living life by the practice of truth and eternal law, and I acquire the wisdom of life and action from the teacher dedicated to peace and non-violence.

अभि वो देवीं धियं दधिध्वं प्र वो देवत्रा वाचं कृणुध्वम ॥ ९ ॥

Acquire and maintain your intelligence and wisdom of the order of divinities and speak the language worthy of noble sages.

आ चष्ट आसां पथो नदीनां वरुण उग्रः सहस्रचक्षाः ॥ १० ॥

10. Ā caṣṭa āsāṁ pātho nadīnāṁ varuṇa ugraḥ sahasracakṣāḥ.

Just as the refulgent sun, lord of a thousand eyes, watches and reveals the course of the streams of water, so does the brilliant sage of the Word and wisdom commanding a thousand streams of speech oversee the flow of holy speech and communication.

11. Rājā rāṣṭrānāṁ peṣo nadīnām-anuttam-asmai kṣatraṁ viśvāyu.

If the ruler of nations, Varuna, of a thousand eyes, be of the form of flowing streams, dynamic and fluent in speech, policy and action, his order of governance would be better than the best, i.e., permanent, of universal sway over the world.

15. Sajūr-devebhir-apāṁ napātaṁ sakhāyaṁ kṛdhvaṁ śivo no astu.

Be friends with Agni, fire and the sun, which creates the indestructible waters of space and the firmament, along with other nature's divinities, so that there may be happiness and well being in our life.

अब्जामुक्थैरहिं गृणीष बुध्न नदीनां रजःसु षीदन ॥ १६ ॥

16. Abjāmukthairahiṁ gṛṇīṣe budhne nadīnāṁ rajaḥsu ṣidan.

With songs of praise adore the sun which creates the cloud born of waters and which, while abiding in high space, also abides in every particle of river waters.

17. Mā no'hirbudhnyo riṣe dhānmā yajño asya sridhadṛtāyoḥ.

May the yajnic governance and administration of this ruler dedicated to truth and eternal law never rule us with the motive of hurt and exploitation. So may also the cloud in the firmament never hurt us by excess or drought of rain.

May the heaven and earth, generous and judicious givers of gifts, overflowing with liquid wealth and energy, listen to our prayer and give us peace and comfort in a settled state of life. May Tvashta, creator and maker of forms, with all modes of protection and promotion be our shelter home, and may he, generous giver of the best things of life, bring us wealth, honour and excellence.

May the refulgent sun, the ocean, the friendly powers of the ruling lord Indra, and all the winds of space and vibrant heroes of the world who command both challenging force and fortitude be favourable so that we may be able to hold and manage the wealth, honour and excellence of life which the divinities of nature and humanity have given us.

Mandala 7/Sukta 36

Vishvedevah Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

प बह्मैतु सदनादृतस्य वि रश्मिभिः ससृजे सूया गाः ।

1. Pra brahmaita sadanādṛtasya vi raśmibhiḥ sasṛje sūryo gāḥ. Vi sānunā pṛthivī sasra urvī pṛthu pratīkam-adhyedhe agniḥ.

Let the knowledge of existence arise from the divine centre of universal truth : the sun radiates light with its rays and illuminates the earths, the wide earth moves on with her peaks of mountains, and fire rises and blazes over the vedi, symbol of cosmic yajna.

इमां वां मित्रावरुणा सुवृक्तिमिषं न कृण्व असुरा नवीयः ।

2. Imāṁ vāṁ mitrāvaruṇā suvṛktimiṣaṁ na kṛṇve asurā navīyaḥ. Ino vāmanyaḥ padavīradabdho janaṁ ca mitro yatati bruvāṇaḥ.

O Mitra and Varuna, sun and cosmic energy and intelligence, both givers of life energy to the living world, I offer this new song of adoration as homage to you. One of you, Varuna, is resistless, all pervasive and coexistent with every stage of life's evolution, and the other, Mitra, the sun, as a friend enjoins humanity to the life of activity proclaiming its rise as direct presence.

आ वातस्य धजता रन्त इत्या अपीपयन्त धनवा न सूदाः ।

3. Ā vātasya dhrajato ranta ityā apīpayanta dhenavo na sūdāḥ. Maho devaḥ sadane jāyamāno'-cikradad vṛṣabhaḥ sasminnūdhan.

The currents of sportive wind play around like abundant cows yielding milk, and the mighty cloud laden with vapour, born of the great regions of heaven, roars in its house of mid skies.

4. Girā ya etā yunajaddharī ta indra priyā surathā śūra dhāyū. Pra yo manyaṁ ririkṣato mināty ā sukratum-aryamaṇaṁ vavṛtyām.

Indra, all powerful ruler of the world, I pray, let me come to have the benefit of the power and presence of Aryama, chief power of justice, holy in action, who, with his order and invitation deploys the noble and efficient forces that run the chariot of your social order, who controls and punishes the violent deeds and corrects the violent attitudes of the negative and destructive forces.

5. Yajante asya sakhyaṁ vayaśca namasvinaḥ sva ṛtasya dhāman. Vi pṛkṣo bābadhe nṛbhiḥ stavāna idaṁ namo rudrāya preṣṭham.

In their own house of truth, justice and yajna, devotees with reverence and homage pray for life energy and the friendship and company of this Rudra, destroyer of suffering and injustice, and giver of pranic energy. Loved and adored by the people, he releases for them nourishment and energy in abundance. This cherished homage and adoration is offered to Rudra.

6. Ā yat sākaṁ yaśaso vāvaśānāḥ sarasvatī saptathī sindhumātā. Yāḥ suṣvayanta sudughāḥ sudhārā abhi svena payasā pīpyānāḥ.

Sarasvati, the eternal stream of life, of cosmic waters, and of speech and sacred knowledge, the seventh over the streams flowing through five senses and the mind, through five elements and the stuff of mind and intelligence, and through the poetic streams of the Veda, all these streams which flow abundantly, exuberant, magnificent, roaring with splendour, all of them ever growing and rising with their own flood of water: may all these continue to flow together gloriously for us.

7. Uta tye no maruto mandasānā dhiyaṁ tokaṁ ca vājino'vantu. Mā naḥ pari khyadakṣarā carantyavīvṛdhan yujyaṁ te rayiṁ naḥ.

And those happy and joyous Maruts, vibrant scholars and sages, leaders of the nation, pioneers of science, manners and traditions, protect and advance our rising generation and our knowledge, intellect, imagination and culture. May the eternal mother stream of light and knowledge continuously flow for us and never forsake us. And may the Maruts augment and consolidate our wealth, honour and excellence for use and future progress.

8. Pra vo mahīmaramatiṁ kṛṇudhvaṁ pra pūṣaṇaṁ vidathyaṁ na vīram. Bhagaṁ dhiyo'vitāraṁ no asyāḥ sātau vājaṁ rātiṣācaṁ purandhim.

O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and brilliant scholars, sages and leaders of humanity, create, cultivate, increase and consolidate a high order of intelligence, nutrition and health care, a force of the brave to face the warlike business of life, a high standard of honour and excellence, protection for our order of knowledge, culture and tradition, and a generous and abundant state of this stable polity equipped with instant powers of defence and advancement.

9. Acchāyaṁ vo marutaḥ śloka etvacchā viṣnuṁ niṣiktapāmavobhiḥ. Uta prajāyai gṛṇate vayo dhuryūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

O Maruts, vibrant forces of divinity in nature and humanity, may this song of celebration reach you well and gracefully. And so may it reach Vishnu, protector of the initiated dedicated to Dharma, who protects us with all methods of protection and advancement. We pray bring us life energy and a full span of good health and age for the celebrant and the people. O divinities, protect us always with all means of protection and advancement for our well being all round.

4. Abhi yaṁ devyaditirgṛṇāti savaṁ devasya savi-turjuṣāṇā. Abhi samrājo varuṇo gṛṇantyabhi mitrāso aryamā sajoṣāḥ.

The holy mother, divine earth and indestructible nature, all adore lord Savita, enjoying and celebrating the generous lord's creation. So also do brilliant rulers, men of choice merit, friends of life and humanity, and the lord of justice and dispensation, Varuna, all enjoying and appreciating the lord's creation, adore and worship him.

5. Abhi ye mitho vanuṣaḥ sapante rātiṁ divo rātiṣācaḥ pṛthivyāḥ. Ahirbudhnya uta naḥ śṛṇotu varūtryekadhenubhirni pātu.

We are the supplicants all together who seek and pray for the grace and gifts of generous heaven and earth. May the lord creator, original cause of the universe all pervasive in space, listen, and may the divine mother protector and giver of vision protect us with all those virtues which converge and focus on a single thought, voice and decisive action.

6. Anu tanno jāspatirmaṁsīṣṭa ratnaṁ devasya savituriyānāḥ. Bhagamugro'vase johavīti bhagamanugro adha yāti ratnam.

Let the ruler and protector of the people know and believe that whatever the jewel wealth for life he receives from Savita, self-refulgent lord giver of light and life, all that is for the people, for all of us, so that whatever honour and prosperity the man of passion and ambition invokes and achieves, the same after all, the man of peace and dispassion who receives in consequence.

7. Śaṁ no bhavantu vājino haveṣu devatātā mitadravaḥ svarkāḥ. Jambhayanto'hiṁ vṛkaṁ rakṣāṁsi sanemyasmad yuyavannamīvāḥ.

Let the war-like leaders of knowledge, arms and creativity, brilliant, balanced and dedicated to divine service in action, be for our peace and prosperity in the battles of life, crushing the surreptitious, thievish and demoniac forces of society and removing all ill health and evils from us.

O immortal heroes commanding knowledge, strength of arms and production in matters of eternal truth and law and the science of yajna, protect and promote us at every stage in the battles of life. Drink of the honey sweets of this celebration of the organised system of life, celebrate joyously and, self-fulfilled here, go forward by the paths of divines.

1. Ūrdhvo agniḥ sumatiṁ vasvo aśret pratīcī jūrṇirdevatātimeti. Bhejāte adrī rathyeva panthāmṛtaṁ hotā na iṣito yajāti.

The fire on high radiates light inspiring pleasure and enlightenment. The dawn as veteran lady of the house goes forward to offer homage to the divinities. The yajamana and his wife together move forward as by chariot on way to yajna to adore the lord, and the priest offers to join the yajna like one inspired.

2. Pra vāvṛje suprayā barhireṣāmā viśpatīva bīriṭa iyāte. Viśāmaktoruṣasaḥ pūrvahūtau vāyuḥ pūṣā svastaye niyutvān.

The yajna of these people proceeds, richly provided with holy materials. Vayu and Pusha, wind and life-giving sun, like guardian rulers and protectors of the people, move across the skies as if riding a chariot drawn by horses at the sacred call of night and dawn to yajna early for the good of humanity.

3. Jmayā atra vasavo ranta devā urāvantarikṣe marjayanta śubhrāḥ. Arvāk patha urūjrayaḥ kṛṇudhvaṁ śrotā dūtasya jagmuṣo no asya.

Let the Vasus, life giving energies of nature, and enlightened people settled at peace in learning, abound and rejoice here on earth. Let radiant purities of divine refulgence from yajna rise to the vast sky and purify the atmosphere. Let divine energies of vast extension receive and respond to this yajnic code of our participation in nature's dynamics and converge on this way to our earth.

All those divinities of the world, adorable and conjoined in nature's dynamics of cosmic yajna, are catalytic agents of protection and promotion keenly concentrative toward life's evolution and advancement. O generous yajamana, O bright fire, keen and passionate as they are in yajna, join them in yajna right away: join Bhaga, universal treasure of wealth, honour and excellence, Nasatya, constant complementarities of nature and natural law, and Purandhi, keeper and protector of habitations and institutions.

O sage and scholar, bring us the knowledge and the language of the knowledge of heaven and earth. Bring us the gifts of Mitra, sun and pranic energy, Varuna, water and air, Indra, electric energy, and Agni, fire and light, of Aryaman, cosmic gravitation, Aditi, nature's constancy, Vishnu, omnipresent cosmic intelligence, so that Sarasvati, corresponding language of their expression may grow and children of the earth may rejoice with enlightenment.

6. Rare havyaṁ matibhir-yajñiyānāṁ nakṣat kāmaṁ martyānām-asinvan. Dhātā rayim-avidasyaṁ sadāsāṁ sakṣīmahi yujyebhirnu devaiḥ.

Let us offer oblations of holy materials to Agni with the thoughts and words of adorable sages so that the desires of mortals bound in love may be fulfilled. May the lord ruler of the world bring us imperishable wealth of universal value, and may we join with brilliant people worthy of association.

Thus heaven and earth are adored and celebrated by brilliant sages. May Varuna, Mitra and Agni, lords of truth and law, justice, love and light, grant us gifts of exemplary beauty, bliss and brilliance. O Vishvedevas, pray always protect and promote us with all modes of peace, progress and all round well being.

1. O śruṣṭirvidathyā sametu prati stomaṁ dadhīmahi turāṇām. Yadadya devaḥ savitā suvāti syāmāsya ratnino vibhāge.

Let instant perception and active response worthy of our yajnic social system come to us in peace for every group and class of people, vibrant and really fast, and let us internalise it in every detail so that whatever the refulgent creator and ruler, Savita, inspires and creates today, right now we may share and, in participation together, be beneficiaries of this lord's jewel gifts of life.

2. Mitrastanno varuṇo rodasī ca dyubhaktamindro aryamā dadātu. Dideṣṭu devyaditī rekṇo vāyuśca yanniyuvaite bhagaśca.

May Mitra, lord dear as friend, Varuna, oceans of earth and space, the heaven and the earth and sky, Indra, lord ruler of energy, power and excellence, and Aryama, lord of justice, give us heavenly gifts of divinity. And may Aditi, imperishable generous Mother Nature, Vayu, the wind, and Bhaga, lord of power and glory, bestow upon us what they produce, promote and preserve for us.

3. Sedugro astu marutaḥ sa śuṣmī yaṁ martyaṁ pṛṣadaśvā avātha. Utemagniḥ sarasvatī junanti na tasya rāyaḥ paryetāsti.

Surely that person would be strong and brilliant whom the Maruts, great commanders of the power of fire, wind and water, protect and promote. Indeed, none would be able to counter his power and prosperity whom Agni, brilliant leader of divinities, and Sarasvati, spirit of knowledge and speech, inspire, energise and motivate.

4. Ayaṁ hi netā varuṇa ṛtasya mitro rājāno aryamāpo dhuḥ. Suhavā devyaditir-anarvā te no aṁho ati parṣann-ariṣṭān.

And this leader of the yajnic social order of truth and dynamism of society and supportive ruling powers, judicious Varuna, friendly Mitra, far seeing guiding force Aryama, and self-directive brilliant and indestructible spirit and policy, Aditi, all adorable powers faithfully invoked and invited, may, we pray, guide and direct our actions and purge us of evil, sin and crime without hurt or violence.

Of this generous, self-refulgent, creative and omnipresent lord Vishnu, all divinities and varieties of existence are extensive manifestations like branches of a tree, in this well sustained system of the universe by virtue of the homage they offer and the sustenance they receive. Rudra, lord sustainer of the good and scourage of evil, alone knows the mighty majesty I adore, and I pray may the Ashvins, sun and moon and twin divine complementarities of nature's energy, come by the paths of divine bounties and bless us.

O Pushan, refulgent lord giver of health and sustained growth, worthy of attainment as you are, pray sustain me here and sustain all that what Mother Nature and divine speech and generous givers of society give us. May the universal givers of peace and well being protect and promote us. May the winds blowing all round for all alike bring us showers of rain and bliss.

Thus are the heaven and earth adored and celebrated by sages of enlightenment settled at peace in divine bliss. May Varuna, lord of justice and universal choice, Mitra, lord of universal love and light, and Agni, lord of leadership and enlightenment, all sustainers of truth and law, shower us with exemplary gifts of beauty, bliss and enlightenment for maintenance of piety. O Vishvedevas, divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all modes and means of progress and well being for all time.

For your protection and progress, I invoke and adore Dadhikra, original divine energy which moves, sustains and energises all movers and sustainers of existential forms, Ashvins, the sun and moon, the dawn, the burning fire, and Bhaga, honour and glory of life, Indra, electrical energy, Vishnu, cosmic wind energy, Pushan, cosmic vitality and nourishment, Brahmanaspati, cosmic Soul, Adityas, Zodiacs of the sun, heaven and earth, the cosmic waters, and eternal happiness and well being.

2. Dadhikrāmu namasā bodhayanta udīrāṇā yajñam-upaprayantaḥ. Iḷāṁ devīṁ barhiṣi sādayanto'śvinā viprā suhavā huvema.

Awakening cosmic motive energy with reverence and homage, rising and moving to the yajna with full knowledge, sanctifying the holy grass on the vedi with holy speech, we invoke and invite the ready and instant moving Ashvins like the sagely teacher and the preacher to guide and conduct our yajnic business of life.

दधिक्रावाणं बुबुधाना अग्निमुप बुव उषसं सूर्यं गाम। बध्नं मंश्चतावरुणस्य बभ्रुं त विश्वास्मद्दुरिता यावयन्तु॥ ३॥

3. Dadhikrāvāṇaṁ bubudhāno agnimupa bruva uṣasaṁ sūryaṁ gām. Bradhnaṁ maṁścatorvaruṇasya babhruṁ te viśvāsmad duritā yāvayantu.

Knowing full well the all-motive cosmic energy, I specifically speak of fire power, and I celebrate the dawn, the sun and the earth, and I speak of the great integrative and sustaining power of the cosmic oceans of waters, and I pray that these natural energies may ward off all evils and ailments away from us.

दधिक्रावा पथमा वाज्यर्वा ग्रे रथानां भवति पजानन।

4. Dadhikrāvā prathamo vājyarvā'gre rathānāṁ bhavati prajānan. Saṁvidāna uṣasā sūryeṇā-''dityebhir-vasubhir-aṅgirobhiḥ.

That cosmic energy is the primary intelligent dynamic force which moves at the fastest velocity, and that energy is basically the first motive and transportive power of everything in motion, like a horse in front of a chariot, whether it is in relation to the dawn or the sun or motion of the sun in orbit through the Zodiacs or the abodes of life such as earth or the pranic energy forms of nature and life.

5. Ā no dadhikrāḥ pathyāmanaktvṛtasya panthā-manvetavā u. Śṛṇotu no daivyaṁ śardho agniḥ śṛṇvantu viśve mahiṣā amūrāḥ.

May the cosmic forms of energy and may the supreme mover of cosmic energy adorn, illuminate and sanctify our path and our movement over the path of truth and eternal law so that we may safely tread the holy paths of living. May Agni, lord omniscient, listen to our prayer and be favourable to our brilliance and divine gift of strength and power. May the mighty sages of the world listen to us and favour us with gifts of wisdom.

These celebrant voices adore and glorify Savita, life giver and inspirer, bright and benedictive of light and flame, generous of hands full of blessings. May the lord bear and bring us universal health and life full of wonderful wealth and value. O lord Savita, O brilliancies of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of good fortune and well being for all time.

1. Imā rudrāya sthiradhanvane giraḥ kṣipreṣave devāya svadhāvne. Aṣaḷhāya sahamānāya vedhase tigmāyudhāya bharatā śṛṇotu naḥ.

Offer these words of adoration and prayer to Rudra, brilliant destroyer of evil and injustice, wielder of the unshakable bow, shooting flying arrows of lightning speed. He bears his own essential power and sense of justice, irresistible is he, unconquerable, a challenger with unfailing fortitude, all knowing and equipped with blazing arms and armour. May the lord listen to us and accept our call.

2. Sa hi kṣayeṇa kṣamyasya janmanaḥ sāmrājyena divyasya cetati. Avannavantīrupa no duraścarā-'namīvo rudra jāsu no bhava.

He is known by his own divine refulgence and, by the same exceptional brilliance and by close proximity of his presence and residence among the peace loving people of his blessed dominion, he proclaims himself and enlightens the people while he is perceived and glorified by them. O Rudra, protecting, sustaining and promoting our defence forces, be at the doors of our settlements by your presence and power among our people, and ever be giver of freedom from ailments and evil.

Be with us on the vedi over earth and spaces for the joyous celebration of life. O lord ruler and physician of health, protect and promote us with all good fortunes of well being for all time.

O cosmic waters, seers and sages in pursuit of divinity, we love and yearn for that pure, divine, delicious and honey sweet primordial thrill of the ecstasy drink of yours which you distilled from the Cosmic Word, original nature and the earth for the taste of Indra, the human soul, at the dawn of creation.

That sweetest of honey thrill of joyous ecstasy of existence in which Indra rejoices with the wealth, honours and excellences of life may, we pray, the holy fire, infallible extension of cosmic waters, protect and promote. That same thrill and ecstasy, we pray, may we too in our pursuit of divine joy attain here and now.

The holy and ecstatic waters, hundred ways pure and flowing with their innate inspiring vitality, move on and converge to the divinities, centre yajna of the cosmos. They do not violate the divine laws of Indra, lord of existence. O men and women, offer oblations with ghrta for augmenting the rivers and the seas.

The vapours and waters which the sun expands with its rays in space, the showers of rain for which Indra, cosmic electricity, breaks the clouds of vapour to fall and flow, and the currents of water which dig out the river beds on earth, may all those oceans, seas and rivers bear and bring us treasurefuls of choice food, energy and wealth to sustain and support us. O cosmic waters, sun and showers, rivers and seas, protect and promote us with the best of good fortune for well being for all time.

craftsmen, and, having scattered out all enmities in conflicts, they develop new wealth and prosperity for the nation.

The divine waters, chief of which is the ocean, arise from the heart of cosmic energy as a surge of liquidity and ceaslessly flow, purifying, sanctifying everything they suffuse. Indra, the sun and electric energy of the firmament, power of thunder and generosity, creates the channels for their flow. May those streams of waters inspire and impel me too with the initiative and drive of life for initiative and action here in the world and protect me against evil and sloth.

Heaven and earth reverberate with the music of their honour and fame and they rise to celestial bliss of the spirit even across a state of adversity and denial of familial continuance.

O vital energies, mighty heroes, your very birth and nature is vested with splendour. Fearsome of mien, overwhelming in passion, you are like dynamites in action. You are instantly proclaimed by your grandeur and majesty, and the world that looks up to the sun and the skies looks at you with awe on way to the higher life.

ruler under your aegis destroys enemies and dispels forces of darkness and ignorance. O mighty movers and shakers, may that gift of yours, of that protection and advancement be ours.

I honour and adore those Maruts, offsprings of Rudra, lord of the showers of success, power and justice, who come and inspire us again and again in many ways. And if for reasons of discourtesy, overt or covert, they feel angry we shall expiate for that displeasure of the dynamic powers of instant punishment for correction.

O generous benefactors and protectors, cast off far from us all hate, anger and jealousy. O scholars and sages, dynamic Maruts, pray protect and promote us with all good and well being of life without relent for all time.

O divine Maruts, vibrant, brilliant and generous leading lights, givers of enlightenment, whosoever you protect, defend and save and whosoever you lead at every step in every way by word and deed, for him, you all and, O Agni, sage and scholar giver of light, Varuna, man of judgement and discrimination, Mitra, enlightened friend, and Aryaman, man of justice and rectitude on the paths of life, you give a happy home, firm settlement and peace of mind.

The generous man who gives abundantly in terms of lands, food and energy in word and kind to people in your honour for the good of all expands his house and dominion and rules out all waste, impairment and decay.

O Rudra, destroyer of evil and suffering, giver of bliss, release me from the bonds of mortality like the ripe fruit falling off from the stalk and redeem me into the infinite presence of Immortality.

Surya, Mitra-Varuna Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

यद॒द्य सू॑य॒ बवा॑ ना॑गा उ॒द्यन्मि॒त्राय॒ वरु॑णाय स॒त्यम।

1. Yadadya sūrya bravo'nāgā udyan mitrāya varuṇāya satyam. Vayaṁ devatrādite syāma tava priyāso aryaman gṛṇantaḥ.

O sun, while you arise today, purify us and proclaim to Mitra and Varuna, presiding powers of day and night and upholders of earth, sky and heaven, that we are free from sin. O Aditi, immortal mother earth and Infinity, O Aryaman, lord of justice and the paths of rectitude, dedicated as we are to the divinities, celebrating and glorifying them, hold us dear as dedicated to you.

2. Eṣa sya mitrāvaruṇā nṛcakṣā ubhe udeti sūryo abhi jman. Viśvasya sthāturjagataśca gopā ṛju marteṣu vṛjinā ca paśyan.

Mitra and Varuna, this is the sun that pervades both gross and subtle worlds, watcher and light giver of humanity, which rises across the sky over the earth and witnesses both the simple and the crooked ways of action among the mortals. It is the protector, life giver and promoter of the moving and the unmoving world.

अयुक्त सप्त हरितः सधस्थाद्या ईं वहन्ति सूर्यं घृताचीः।

3. Ayukta sapta haritaḥ sadhasthād yā īṁ vahanti sūryaṁ ghṛtācīḥ. Dhāmāni mitrāvaruṇā yuvākuḥ saṁ yo yūtheva janimāni caṣṭe.

The sun, like a charioteer harnessing his horses, radiates seven rays of light which from the solar region carry the energy of light and cosmic waters and bring about the nights as they withdraw. The sun, also, joining and pervading various regions, the prana and udana energies of life and the origins of causal entities, proclaims them all as one multitudinous living system of which it is the centre.

उद्वां पृ णासा मधुमन्ता अस्थुरा सूया अरुहच्छुक्रमर्णः।

4. Ud vāṁ pṛkṣāso madhumanto asthurā sūryo aruhacchukramarṇaḥ. Yasmā ādityā adhvano radanti mitro aryamā varuṇaḥ sajoṣāḥ.

For you, O men and women, the friendly cloud and the vast skies replete with honey sweets abide on high and the sun raises vitalising oceans of vapour, the sun for which the Adityas, months of the year, Varuna and Aryama, Adityas all together, prepare the paths across the zodiacs, Mitra.

इम चतारो अनृतस्य भूरिमित्रा अर्यमा वरुणा हि सन्ति।

5. Ime cetāro anṛtasya bhūrermitro aryamā varuṇo hi santi. Ima ṛtasya vāvṛdhurduroṇe śagmāsaḥ putrā aditer-adabdhāḥ.

These Adityas, Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, loving friend, discriminative judge, and the path maker of rectitude, give us the sense and awareness of right and wrong, of falsehood as distinct from truth and correctness, in all varieties of situations. And they persist, and they augment the order of truth and right in the house of divine law, children of mother Infinity as they are, happy at peace, loving and kind, yet dauntless and unchallengeable.

इम मित्रा वरुणा दूळभासा चतसं चिच्चितयन्ति दꣳसः।

6. Ime mitro varuṇo dūḷabhāso 'cetasaṁ ciccitayanti dakṣaiḥ. Api kṛtuṁ sucetasaṁ vatantastiraścidaṁhaḥ supathā nayanti.

These powers of love and friendship, judgement and rectitude and universal truth and law are rare and undaunted, and with their intelligence and expertise of method, they awaken even the stupid and ignorant to sensitivity and wisdom. Further, inspiring the man of noble mind and holy action, they protect him from crookedness and sin and lead him on by the path of truth, goodness and beauty to higher attainment.

7. Ime divo animiṣā pṛthivyāścikitvāṁso acetasaṁ nayanti. Pravrāje cinnadyo gādhamasti pāraṁ no asya viṣpitasya parṣan.

The ever vigilant powers of light and love, judgement and discrimination of right knowledge and right action, know of heaven and earth and constantly guide the ignorant to wake up and move on the right path. Even in the depth of rivers in flood, there is ground to stand on, a ford to cross. May Mitra, Varuna and Aryama take us across the deep seas of existence by our karma.

यद्गापावददितिः शमं भदं मित्रा यच्छन्ति वरुणः सुदासं।

8. Yad gopāvadaditiḥ śarma bhadraṁ mitro yacchanti varuṇaḥ sudāse. Tasminnā tokaṁ tanayaṁ dadhānā mā karma devaheḷanaṁ turāsaḥ.

When, like the lord ruler of the earth and protector of her children, Aditi, Mitra and Varuna, mother nature and her law, and divine powers of love, friendship and judgement provide a blessed home of peace, plenty and joy for the generous man of noble action and charity, then in that state of good fortune we, all dynamic and enthusiastic fast achievers, in the joyous company of our children and grand children must not do anything to affront our sages, seniors and scholars or to violate the sanctity of the divinities of nature and suffer their anger.

अव वदिं हात्रांभियजत रिपः काश्चिद्वरुणधुतः सः।

9. Ava vediṁ hotrābhiryajeta ripaḥ kāścid varuṇa-dhrutaḥ saḥ. Pari dveṣobhir-aryamā vṛṇaktūruṁ sudāse vṛṣaṇā u lokam.

One who dishonours and desecrates the vedi of yajna with unholy chant and stingy insulting libation of holy offerings suffers. What sin and suffering does he not face when he is shaken by Varuna, power of justice and discrimination? May Aryama, divine guide and path maker, keep him away along with the jealous and the hostile, and may Mitra and Varuna, liberal givers, create and award the generous yajaka with a happy home and vast freedom of spirit in an age and environment of bliss.

10. Sasvaściddhi samṛtis-tveṣyeṣām-apīcyena sahasā sahante. Yuṣmad bhiyā vṛṣaṇo rejamānā dakṣa-sya cinmahinā mṛḷatā naḥ.

The nature, character and policy of these divine powers of love and friendship, justice and discrimination, and thought and action in rectitude is mysteriously integrated, brilliant and blazing. They move and act with patience, fortitude and irresistible force. O generous powers, shakers of the jealous and the enemies with fear, save us and let us prosper in peace and joy with the grandeur of your power and force.

11. Yo brahmaṇe sumatim-āyajāte vājasya sātau paramasya rāyaḥ. Sīkṣanta manyuṁ magha-vāno arya uru kṣayāya cakrire sudhātu.

Whoever applies his holy and faithful mind for the vision of Divinity and for the achievement of food and energy and supreme wealth, honour and excellence of life, the generous divine powers energise his righteous passion and bless his action, and they create a vast house of joy and prosperity for him and award him golden wealth and irresistible vitality.

O divine Mitra and Varuna, powers of love and judgement of nature and humanity, this homage of reverence is created and offered in your honour in the congregations of academic and socio-economic yajna. Pray protect us, promote us, help us cross the hurdles of life with action and bless us with complete fulfilment. O generous powers, save us, defend us and let us advance with all round peace and security for all time.

O Varuna, up rises the sun, bright and beautiful eye of you both, Mitra and Varuna, divine pranic energies of the universe, spreading the light far and wide over spaces. It illuminates and reveals all regions of the world, and awakens and inspires all mortals' love for life and living.

O powers of divine action, inspire, strengthen and protect his studies and fulfil his mission with intelligence and revelations as you fulfil the seasons of the year with natural evolution of their spirits.

O Mitra and Varuna, light and life of the universe, generous love and intelligence of nature and humanity, you transcend the wide earth and the vast heaven by your dynamic power and sublimity. You vest life energy and distinct form in herbs and trees and specific identity in people and their communities while you preserve and protect the truth of law and the pursuers of truth with relentless vigil.

Study and meditate on the origin and abode of Mitra and Varuna, pranic energies of nature and human virtue of love and friendship, light and enlightenment, and justice and discrimination. By virtue of their great universal power and force they hold and sustain the earth and heaven together and yet apart. The time, months and years of those who do not perform yajna, corporate acts of social and environmental value, pass by without the joy of children. On the other hand, those who serve Divinity, nature and humanity with their heart and soul cross the paths of life and reach the ultimate freedom of Moksha.

O wise and generous powers of the world, Mitra and Varuna, these words of adoration are for you and your divine gifts to humanity, in which there is nothing that is not marvellous and nothing that is not divinely consecrated. Only the jealous and hostile among humanity indulge in scandal and falsehood, and even your smallest favours are too deep for the ignorant to perceive and appreciate.

us cross them to success and fulfilment. O saints and sages, scholars and teachers, come you all and all time protect and promote us with all happiness and well being.

3. Vi naḥ sahasraṁ śurudho radantvṛtāvāno varuṇo mitro agniḥ. Yacchantu candrā upamaṁ no arkamā naḥ kāmaṁ pūpurantu stavānāḥ.

May they, Varuna, Mitra and Agni, happy and beneficent, healers and destroyers of suffering, keepers of divine laws of truth and nature in word and deed, when properly celebrated and appreciated in nature and character, give us a thousand forms of peace, power and joy, bless us with unique light of knowledge, and grant us complete fulfilment of our desire and ambition.

O sun in high heaven and noble earth, both dynamic, inviolable and sublime life giving powers, protect us with your creative and rejuvenating powers.

Fortunately born and educated as humans, we know your energy and efficacy. Give us the energy and resistance so that we may never suffer the disorder of prana and aparna vitalities of wind and respiration, dearest to humans in the health system.

5. Pra bāhavā sisṛtaṁ jīvase na ā no gavyūtim-ukṣataṁ ghṛtena. Ā no jane śravayataṁ yuvānā śrutaṁ me mitrāvanuṇā havemā.

O Mitra and Varuna, loving and discriminative pranic vitalities of our health system, extend your power and energy like helping hands for our life and health and sprinkle the vital movement of our senses and mind with liquid rejuvenation and replenishment of energy. O youthful powers of rejuvenation, vest our people with the glow of health and light of intelligence in response to my invocation and input of pranayamic exercise for the pranic energy system.

Thus O Mitra, Varuna and Aryama, powers of cosmic as well as earthly love and friendship, reason and discrimination, justice and advancement in order, guiding everything from the smallest particle to the cosmos and from the individual human to the world community, bless us with the best of life's gifts for the enlightenment of our soul and the continuation of our race. Let all our paths of life and living be simple and straight, noble and easy to follow. O powers of health and enlightenment, protect and promote us on our way onward with all modes and means of happiness and well being all round for all time.

Surya, Mitra-Varuna Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

उद्वेति सुभगो विश्वचक्षा: साधारणो सूया मानुषाणाम।

1. Udveti subhago viṣvacakṣāḥ sādhāraṇaḥ sūryo mānuṣāṇām. Cakṣurmitrasya varuṇasya deva-śścarmeva yaḥ samavivyak tamāṁsi.

The glorious Sun, self-refulgent sovereign lord of the universe, rises high and higher, watching the world, giving light and intelligence to humanity in general. The lord that gives light to the day and depth to the ocean dispels all darkness and confusion as the storm disperses leaves of dry grass. (The mantra refers to the rise of the light of Divinity in the soul of the individual human being during meditation. The Light blesses any one who practices meditation under the instructions of a teacher and continues the practice with unquestionable faith.)

2. Udveti prasavītā janānāṁ mahān keturarṇavaḥ sūryasya. Samānaṁ cakraṁ paryāvivṛtsan yadetaśo vahati dhūrṣu yuktaḥ.

High rises the progenitor and inspirer of humanity, supreme light of omniscience, inexhaustible ocean of omnificence, keeping the chariot of the sun and the wheel of time constantly moving, omnipotent motive force at the centre of the moving universe.

3. Vibhrājamāna uṣasām-upasthād rebhair-udetyanumadyamānaḥ. Eṣa me devaḥ savitā cacchanda yaḥ samānaṁ na pramināti dhāma.

Self-refulgent and all illuminative since the origin of eternal dawns, the light of Divinity rises, inspiring and enlightening, when sung and celebrated by worshipful devotees. May this lord of cosmic light bless me with spiritual fulfilment, the lord who never frustrates his loved celebrant and never remisses on his own majesty nor compromises with his own generosity.

4. Divo rukma urucakṣā udeti dūrearthas-taraṇir-bhrājamānaḥ. Nūnaṁ janāḥ sūryeṇa prasūtā ayannarthāni kṛṇavann-apāṁsi.

The self-refulgent lord of heavenly light all-watching, all-saviour, present far and wide everywhere, emerges and shines in the heart of people when they, inspired and reborn into self-consciousness by the light of divinity, follow the meaningful paths of life and perform their karmic acts with piety.

5. Yatrā cakruramṛtā gātumasmai śyeno na dīyann-anveti pāthaḥ. Prati vāṁ sūra udite vidhema namobhir-mitrāvaruṇota havyaiḥ.

Where the immortals have carved and shown the path for this mortal humanity to reach this divine source of eternal light, to that lord giver of immortal bliss the same path leads as by the speed of light. O Mitra and Varuna, light of day and peace of night, sun and cosmic ocean, sage and scholar, giver of knowledge and leader to judgement and rectitude, when the rising light emerges and the mind is awake, we honour and serve you with homage and reverence and with presentations of yajnic fragrance.

Thus the loving light of life, the leading light of judgement and discrimination, and the path maker to the divine destination of eternal truth and bliss may, we pray, bless us with the best gifts of life for our soul and the continuance of our race. May all our paths of life and progress be simple, straight and easy to follow. O saints and sages, scholars and teachers, protect and promote us by the paths of rectitude with all modes and means of happiness and well being for all time without relent.

May Mitra, the sun, Aryama, the carrier wind, Varuna, cosmic vitality, and the ruler of the social order nobly born and justly appointed join and share our offers of holy materials into the rain yajna for well being of the social order and bring us life giving waters and peace and progress.

of judgement, discretion and discrimination, whoever may, with meditative mind and soul, realise your profound revelation and define the meaning and purpose for the self, raising his intelligence and imagination high to heaven and stabilising it there, pray bless him with showers of peace and bliss. Early at the dawn of sun rise, with songs of adoration, I invoke and worship Mitra, lord of infinite love and universal friendship, Varuna, lord of omniscient wisdom, judgement and justice, lords of pure omnipotence whose life giving energy and power is boundless and imperishable, first, foremost and highest, and when invoked and realised, it is all victorious in the battles of life.

Mitra and Varuna, manifestations of the Supreme Lord's generous love and justice, are the best and highest of nature's bounties. They strengthen and energise our lands and people and make them fertile and creative. O Mitra and Varuna, may we receive your favours whereby the earth and heaven, both exuberant, may promote us day and night.

Many are their bonds and chains, bridges to cross over untruth and sin, which are difficult to approach and cross for the mortal man of enmity and jealousy. O Mitra and Varuna, we pray, let us cross over sin and evil by your divine path of truth and law just as we cross the seas by the boat.

the dynamic force of cosmic order. Pray protect and promote our mind and will, and enlighten our rulers and intelligentsia. O generous and brilliant powers of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes of happiness and all round well being all time.

They, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, brilliant leaders and rulers with dedication to Dharma and justice, love and friendship, and the right sense of action and direction in the light of universal knowledge and eternal values, conduct the yajnic governance and administration of the social order through years and months, days and nights, relentlessly holding on to the Vedic vision of eternity. They achieve what has not yet been achieved and thus extend the possibilities of the good and happy life in the united world order.

For that we call upon Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, leaders of justice and order, love and light and the universal laws of rectitude and direction. That we pray for, O lords, since you command the chariot of the laws of truth, action and progress on the right path.

4. Avorvāṁ nūnamaśvinā yuvākurhuve yad vāṁ sute mādhvī vasūyuḥ. Ā vāṁ vahantu sthavirāso aśvāḥ pibātho asme suṣutā madhūni.

O sweet and kind twin divine powers of nature and humanity, Ashvins, harbingers of a new dawn for the social order of the world, dedicated to your means and modes of preservation, defence and progress, and desirous of advancement in the wealth, honour and excellence of the nation, I invite you to take over the conduct of this great yajna of the ruling order. May seasoned and strong sages, scholars and experts of the nation lead you hither. Come, share and promote for us all the honey sweets of our yajnic planning and achievement.

O brilliant and generous Ashvins, commanders of the twin powers of nature and humanity, inspire my simple, ancient and progressive intelligence and will, strengthen it and make it inviolable in the pursuit of higher wealth, honour and excellence. In all our battles of life, protect our mind and will and, with all the powers and potential at your command, strengthen us to move forward and rise higher and higher.

6. Aviṣṭaṁ dhīṣvaśvinā na āsu prajāvad reto ahrayaṁ no astu. Ā vāṁ toke tanaye tūtujānāḥ suratnāso devavītiṁ gamema.

Ashvins, divine powers of creation, preservation, recuperation and procreation, protect us in all our acts of thought, will and action for achievement. May our creative and procreative vitality remain intact and inviolable for our posterity. By virtue of your inspiration and invigoration for the sake of children and grand children, let us be blest with jewels of posterity and let us rise to the company of the divines.

Ashvins who command the honey sweets of knowledge and culture, this gift of homage as a treasure trove already committed to you is offered for the sake of company and friendship with you. Come forward, join us here with a joyful mind free from hate and anger, be among the human community of the earth and share with us the sweets of good fellowship in faith and love.

8. Ekasmin yoge bhuraṇā samāne pari vāṁ sapta sravato ratho gāt. Na vāyanti subhvo devayuktā ye vāṁ dhūrṣu taraṇayo vahanti.

Ashvins, responsive givers of fulfilment, pranic energies of nature and mind, dedicated to a common purpose with humanity, the radiant inspiration of your spiritual power as a carrier of vision goes past the fluctuations of the five senses, mind and intellect. The seven, which otherwise involve the soul with fluctuations of the mind, when converted, inverted and converged on to the spirit of your vision at the centres of consciousness, no longer distract the soul, instead they become the carriers of consciousness to the divine goal of spiritual bliss.

Never forsake the generous : Be inexhaustible sources of incentive and encouragement for those who support charity with means and materials, those who help out friends and relatives in distress, and those who give liberal gifts of lands, cows and knowledge and things the needy love and desire.

O youthful Ashvins, complementarities of nature and humanity, listen to my prayer and invocation: come home to the house of liberal donor in yajna, bear and bring the jewels of life for the givers, honour and appreciate the wise and bold, and thus protect and promote us all time with all happiness and well being.

Fast moves your chariot at the speed of mind across the spaces, it is equipped with a hundred means of defence and victory whereon you ride with the dawn of a new day for us.

4. Ayaṁ ha yad vāṁ devayā u adrirūrdhvo vivakti somasud yuvabhyām. Ā valgū vipro vavṛtīta havyaiḥ.

When this divine chariot of yours, dedicated to the moon for peace and joy roars over mountains and clouds, then the eminent scholar and the yajnic scientist turns it for you with new inputs.

And let that insight, incentive and experiment of your help for people in need be for the weak and elderly, for those on the move such as the deprived, the fallen, uprooted and refugees, and let it be for those who give in charity for the sake of charity. That is the philanthropic role you take on for the protection of people.

And be friends with the man who was once affluent but now is in distress since jealous friends and associates deserted him and cast him insolvent into the sea of misfortune. Save him, take him across the sea, he is loyal and looks up to you for help.

Ashvins, harbingers of light and energy of a new day, against the wolfish thief and the aggressor, for the powers of law and punishment against exploitation, and for the lazy and the backward, bring force and counsel whenever the situation calls on you to act. You who command the competence for correction and rejuvenation with your powers can revitalise old cows and waste lands and make them overflow with milk and honey like abundant streams of water.

Thus does the divine poet, wakeful in advance of the rise of dawn, with holy mind and faithful intelligence, celebrate in song the divine Ashvins, twin harbingers of new life to nature and humanity. May the inviolable Mother Nature and Infinity advance him in life with vision, will and energy. O saints and scholars, ruler and administrators, O Ashvins, protect and promote us with peace, happiness and all time well being in life.

O harbingers of light and fresh life for the dawn of a new day, let your golden chariot traversing heaven, earth and the skies by powerful forces on blazing wheels across the cosmic waters come to us loaded with nourishments and inspiring energies and be the guide and protector of humanity for higher victories. (The mantra is an address to the brilliant powers of social governance and management for the protection and progress of the people. These powers should act as harbingers of fresh life and energy with the light of a new sun at the rise of a new dawn every day.)

2. Sa paprathāno abhi pañca bhūmā tribandhuro manasā yātu yuktaḥ. Viśo yena gacchatho devayantīḥ kutrā cid yāmamaśvinā dadhānā.

Let this chariot structured on five-fold body bound by three bonds come to us evolving day by day. It is structured on a five-fold chassis fixed by three bonds in an ascending order and it moves forward as controlled by the mind. By this, O Ashvins, you come to the people and radiate light and energy to those who are in search of divinity. On way, you choose your own stages of rest and travel for further progress.

(This mantra is a metaphor of the human body in which the ruler is soul, the controller is mind, and motive forces for perception and volition are senses. The body is made up of five elements: earth, water, fire, air and space, and characterised by three conditioning qualities of nature: sattva, rajas and tamas which are intellectual, sensual and material qualities of personality. It is through this body-chariot that the Ashvins, circuitous complementarities of divine nature radiate and inspire light and energy to the human being and to humanity too as one personality.)

O mighty honourable heroes commanding speedy motive forces, destroyers of jealousy, enmity and suffering, come hither to us and share the honey sweets of the human world. Let your chariot heading to the destination with your associates reach the bounds of heavenly space by its whirling wheels.

4. Yuvoḥ śriyaṁ pari yoṣāvṛṇīta sūro duhitā paritakmyāyām. Yad devayantam-avathaḥ śacībhiḥ pari ghraṁsamomanā vāṁ vayo gāt.

The youthful dawn, daughter of the mighty sun, by choice takes on to your grace and splendour as her mate over and across the soothing night, since while you protect and promote the devout with your energies, your power with its potential circumambulates the light of the sun.

And that which is the master of your chariot and, wearing the splendour of the sun, rides it and goes about on the ways of life over the paths of existence and comes home to human habitations, by that very divine light and grace, O charioteers of Divinity, at the rise of dawn, bring in the peace and bliss of life to this our universal yajna of the world's social order.

O leaders of humanity, pioneers of light, eager like a planet drawn by the sun, come today to our yajnic social order and bring in the dawn of a new day. The all time seekers of Divinity through eternity have invoked you with the best of their thought, will and action. Let not anyone stop you on way.

Listen to my call, O youthful Ashvins, twin powers of nature and humanity, leading lights of the nation, go to the basic sources of wealth and knowledge over land and sea and across the skies, bear and bring the jewels of life, appreciate, honour and admire the brilliant and the brave, and protect and promote us with all time peace and prosperity of well being.

The lights of the dawn arise, rejuvenating, revealing the paths of life for the day and awakening all five communities of the people for their daily chores. She reveals the birth of the sun by beatific radiations and as the sun rises it illuminates heaven and earth and fills them with light.

The lights of the dawn radiate their rays and fill the space from earth to the bounds of heaven. Together they radiate in succession and act like a divine force in unison. Constantly those radiations turn out the darkness and, like the circuitous operations of solar radiation, they give light and life to the world in sequence.

O dawn of the light of divinity, give us ample wealth and competence for the good life, as much as you grant to the devout celebrants who have adored you since eternity and known you by the roar of thunder, the shower of clouds, and the bellowing of the bull, when you open the caves of mighty mountains and clouds and unveil the folds of darkness from over the light of the sun.

Indra-Varunau Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

इन्द्रावरुणा युवमध्वराय ना विश जनाय महि शम यच्छतम। दीघप्रयज्युमति या वनुष्यति वयं जयम पृतनासु दूढ्यः ॥ १ ॥

1. Indrāvaruṇā yuvamadhvarāya no viśe janāya mahi śarma yacchatam. Dīrghaprayajyumati yo vanuṣyati vayaṁ jayema pṛtanāsu duḍhyaḥ.

Indra, lord of ruling power, and Varuna, lord of justice, you both together for our people in general provide a very home and comfortable security of life so that they may do their creative and productive work in peace without fear and violence and, in our joint ventures for the nation, we may defeat, better win over, the person who out of hate and malevolence injures or violates the peace of a citizen engaged in continuous work for the nation.

2. Samrāḷanyaḥ svarāḷanya ucyate vāṁ mahāntā-vindrāvaruṇā mahāvasū. Viśve devāsaḥ parame vyomani saṁ vāmojo vṛṣaṇā saṁ balaṁ dadhuḥ.

O Indra, lord ruler, and Varuna, lord of justice, grand powers of the common wealth, one of you is called 'Samrat, sovereign ruler of the nation as one collected person', the other is called 'Swarat, autonomous ruler of the judiciary as a sub-system of the sovereign state'. O brave and generous lords, may all the brilliant sages and scholars of the nation and all the divinities of nature in this vast sovereign common wealth of humanity vest you with dignity and power.

(This mantra may also be interpreted as pointing to the two extreme ends, though both mutually balanced, of the sovereign social order, whether the order is a nation or the entire human world on earth. One is 'Samrat' the total sovereign system with one supreme head, the other is 'swarat', the autonomous individual, the citizen with his or her freedoms and loyalty to the national law, and the balance of rights and duties of the 'swarat' individual.)

3. Anvapāṁ khānyatṛntam-ojasā sūryam-airayataṁ divi prabhum. Indrāvaruṇā made asya māyino'-pinvatam-apitaḥ pinvataṁ dhiyaḥ.

With your light and lustre, O Indra and Varuna, sovereign ruler and lord of independent judgement, state and the individual, general will and collective power and individual will and autonomous judgement, together you break open the flood gates of waters and national energy in social dynamics. You raise the social brilliance in the regions of culture and enlightenment to the highest degrees of freedom and sovereignty.

O lords of power and judgement, together in the joy of this wonderful ruling order, you replenish the dry streams of life to flow with fresh energy and energise our bored will and intellect with new vision, ambition and resolution all round.

4. Yuvāmid yutsu pṛtanāsu vahnayo yuvāṁ kṣemasya prasave mitajñavaḥ. Īśānā vasva ubhayasya kārava indrāvaruṇā suhavā havāmahe.

Indra and Varuna, ruler and preserver of both the citizen and the state for earthly as well as for higher values, men of fiery passion and action call upon you in their joint struggles for advancement and fresh acquisitions. Men of settled vision and judgement seated on firm ground call upon you in their efforts for peace, preservation and stability. Creators of the wealth of the nation thus, we all call upon you in our battles for both yoga and kshema, progress and preservation in balance, constant watchers and instantly responsive as you are.

इन्दावरुणा यदिमानि चक्रथुर्विश्वा जातानि भुवनस्य मज्मना। रमेण मित्रा वरुणं दुवस्यति मरुद्भिरुगः शुभमन्य ईयत॥ ५॥

5. Indrāvaruṇā yadimāni cakrathurviśvā jātāni bhuvanasya majmanā. Kṣemeṇa mitro varuṇaṁ duvasyati marudbhirugraḥ śubhamanya īyate.

Indra and Varuna, with your strength and vision you rule and advance and thus serve all these children of the earth. Mitra, power of love and friendship with warmth of passion for peace and stability serves and supports Varuna, judgement and discrimination for the collective good, and the other, Indra, power and passion for advancement, with all his storm troopers fast as winds fights for the defence and advancement of the good of all.

For the greatness and rising prosperity of the social order of peace and progress, Indra and Varuna augment its power and lustre and preserve and increase what its basic and consolidated national asset is. One of them, Indra, overthrows its unfriendly and hostile opponents who try to sabotage and arrest its progress, and the other, Varuna, even with minimum but convincing power, subdues many devastating critics.

7. Na tamaṁho na duritāni martyam-idrāvaruṇā na tapaḥ kutaścana. Yasya devā gacchatho vītho adhvaraṁ na taṁ martasya naśate parihvṛtiḥ.

No sin, no evils, no suffering, nor any man's crookedness can ever touch or disturb that mortal man, that ruler of the social order, whose yajna of individual freedom of action and loyalty to the social order and its laws, O Indra and Varuna, lord of omnipotence and lord of justice and mercy, glorious and generous rulers of the universe, you bless, visit, lead and guide.

O Indra and Varuna, leading lights of nature and humanity, lords of power, justice and mercy of the social and natural order, since I enjoy your love and friendship, come hither to me with protection and promotion, listen to my call, and bear, bring and give me the benefit of your friendship and whatever is peaceful, blissful and attainable.

9. Asmākam-indrāvaruṇā bharebhare puroyodhā bhavataṁ kṛṣṭyojasā. Yad vāṁ havanta ubhaye adha spṛdhi narastokasya tanayasya sātiṣu.

Indra and Varuna, ruling powers of the people and the social order, be the front leaders and warriors in every battle of ours since the leading lights of both the people and the ruling services invite you in their struggles for the progress of their children and grand children.

अस्म इन्दा वरुणा मित्रा अयमा द्युम्नं यच्छन्तु महि शम सपथः। अवधं ज्यातिरदितऋतावृध दवस्य श्लाकं सवितुमनामह॥ १०॥

10. Asme indro varuṇo mitro aryamā dyumnaṁ yacchantu mahi śarma saprathaḥ. Avadhraṁ jyotiraditer-ṛtāvṛdho devasya ślokaṁ saviturmanāmahe.

May Indra, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama, lord of power, justice and generosity, love and friendship, and guide and lord ruler of the world order, bless us with honour and excellence and give us great good peace and prosperity ever increasing. We pray for the kind and beneficial light of mother Infinity and celebrate the glory of the self-refulgent Savita, lord creator, inspirer of life and protector of the truth and law of this expansive universe.

Indra and Varuna, O warrior and tactician of the commanding order, the bold and brave front rank leaders, seeing your power and performance, march forward and join you with large axes in hand and reach you as leaders with an open door. O fighters, having destroyed the forces of darkness and sabotage, with all your forces protect and promote the noble, the generous and the dedicated people of society.

Where the leading brave of the nation meet with banners in hand, where there would be but little good in battle or in contest, where the people of the earth quake with fear though they see the light and joy of heaven otherwise, of that, O Indra and, Varuna, speak to us.

Indra and Varuna, destroyers of the evil and the violent, look to the ends of the earth, let the clang of arms and roar of battle rise to the sky, let the people's enemies stand at the door and face me, and in any crisis, as you hear the signal and the clarion call, come forward with all the defence forces.

4. Indrāvaruṇā vadhanābhiraprati bhedaṁ vanvantā pra sudāsamāvatam. Brahmāṇyeṣāṁ śṛṇutaṁ havīmani satyā tṛtsūnām-abhavat purohitiḥ.

Indra and Varuna, leading warrior and enemy destroyer and saviour and rebuilder, facing and breaking the difficult enemy lines of offence with fatal weapons, protect the generous ruler of the land. In this strife of battle, listen to the earnest voices of the priests engaged in yajnic development of the nation, and let the priest-like prophecy and expectations of the people seeking peace and freedom come true.

5. Indrāvaruṇāvabhyā tapanti māghānyaryo vanuṣāmarātayaḥ. Yuvaṁ hi vasva ubhayasya rājatho'dha smā no'vataṁ pārye divi.

Indra, lord of power, Varuna, lord of justice and mercy, the evil deeds of the violent and the adversities caused by the saboteurs torment me all round. You alone rule and order the power and prosperity of both terrestrial and celestial worlds. Protect us on the earth and lead us to the light and joy of freedom beyond the bounds of earth.

Both the people and the leaders call upon you in battles, O Indra and Varuna, for victory in battle and regaining of success and prosperity. They call upon you in battle where you defend the generous ruler against tens of tormenting dictators and, alongwith the ruler, you save three orders of scholars and sages in three fields of arts, sciences and universal values of Dharma and justice.

Indra and Varuna, spirit of life and sense of judgement victorious over evil and impiety, even ten brilliant but impious and impulsive forces together cannot fight against the versatile and generous ruler of the self and society. The prayers of holy men dedicated to divinity in the house of yajna and charity come true and the divinities of humanity and nature both join the invocations of these holy men in their acts of piety and divine service.

Indra and Varuna, you come to the help of the liberal man of charity and the benevolent ruler surrounded by hostilities all round, and you join his house of yajnic discipline and ruling order where intelligent and pious sages help the priestly performers with offers of oblations and thoughts of wisdom.

Of Indra and Varuna, one destroys evil and darkness in the battles of life, the other always protects the laws and observances of pious people's holy disciplines. O generous and divine lords of power and wisdom, we invoke you and offer you homage with adorations and holy presentations. May Indra and Varuna give us a happy home of peace and prosperity.

May Indra, Varuna, Mitra and Aryama bless us with power, justice, love and friendship, and passion for progress, honour and excellence with settlement in a happy home wherein, ever advancing, we may live a life of truth, observing the eternal law of Dharma operative in nature and humanity. We pray for the blissful light of mother Infinity and celebrate in song the glory of Savita, lord giver of the light of life and inspiration for the True, the Good and the Beautiful in existence.

5. Iyamindraṁ varuṇamaṣṭa me gīḥ prāvat toke tanaye tūtujānā. Suratnāso devavītiṁ gamema yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Let my voice of adoration reach Indra and Varuna at the earliest and bring protection and progress for our children and grand children at the fastest. Let us all blest with the jewels of life reach the house of yajna and attain the blessings of Indra and Varuna. O divinities of nature and humanity, saints and sages, protect and promote us with all modes and means of safety, security and all round well being of life for all time.

Indra-Varuna Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

पु॒नी॒ष वा॑मर॒ ारसं मनी॒षां साम॒मिन्दा॑य॒ वरु॑णाय॒ जुह्व॑त ।

I dedicate and sanctify the song of adoration free from evil, enmity and malice, and offer it to Indra and Varuna, having made a presentation of holy soma to the ruler warrior and the chief of justice. It is soft and sweet and brilliant, full of power like the divine dawn. May Indra and Varuna come and inspire us to shine in our battle of life against evil with full divine protection.

2. Spardhante vā u devahūye atra yeṣu dhvajeṣu didyavaḥ patanti. Yuvaṁ tāṅ indrāvaruṇāva-mitrān hataṁ parācaḥ śarvā viṣūcaḥ.

And those who fight and oppose us in this struggle of the social order, and in those battles in which the enemy weapons fall upon our flags of honour, all those enemies and crooked adversaries, O Indra and Varuna, pray frustrate and destroy with the force and justice of the social order.

3. Āpaściddhi svayaśasaḥ sadaḥsu devīrindraṁ varuṇaṁ devātā dhuḥ. Kṛṣṭīranyo dhārayati praviktā vṛtrāṇyanyo apratīni hanti.

Intelligent and brilliant people in their own right of quality and social prestige select, appoint and consecrate Indra and Varuna, brilliant and noble authorities, in their offices and assemblies. One of them, Varuna, manages the different orders of people, the other, Indra, destroys forces of darkness and enmity who refuse to be managed otherwise.

4. Sa sukratur-ṛtacid-astu hotā ya āditya śavasā vāṁ namasvān. Āvavartad-avase vāṁ haviṣmān-asadit sa suvitāya prayasvān.

Surely that individual is a good citizen of noble action, a true yajaka, dedicated to universal values of truth and law, who, of his own free will, with his power and potential and high degree of endeavour and application, turns to you, O brilliant Indra and Varuna, with sincere loyalty and homage for the sake of protection and advancement. And surely he deserves all round happiness and well being.

5. Iyamindraṁ varuṇamaṣṭa me gīḥ prāvat toke tanaye tūtujānā. Suratnāso devavītiṁ gamema yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

May this earnest and vibrating voice of homage and prayer reach Indra and Varuna for the protection and progress of our children and grand children. May we, blest with the jewels of life, reach and join the noble assembly of the enlightened and participate in the yajnic business of the nation. O Indra and Varuna, O enlightened citizens and leaders of humanity, protect and promote us with all safeguards and securities and all modes of happiness and well being all ways all time.

Varuna Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

धीरा त्वस्य महिना जनूंषि वि यस्तस्तम्भ रादसी चिदुर्वी।

1. Dhīrā tvasya mahinā janūṁṣi vi yastastambha rodasī cidurvī. Pra nākamṛṣvaṁ nunude bṛhantaṁ dvitā nakṣatraṁ paprathacca bhūma.

Firm in balance are the creations of this Varuna, light of the universe, by virtue of his greatness as he holds and stabilises the heaven and earth and indeed the expanding universe. He energises and impels the high heavens of bliss and the distant stars and lights them both day and night, pervading the vast world of existence. Only the wise and brave know this.

उत स्वया तन्वा३ सं वदे तत्कदा न्वन्तरुरुण भुवानि।

2. Uta svayā tanvā saṁ vade tat kadā nvantarvaruṇe bhuvāni. Kiṁ me havyam-ahṛṇāno juṣeta kadā mṛḷīkaṁ sumanā abhi khyam.

And when would I, by my own individual self, commune with the lord? When would I join the innermost presence of Varuna? Would he accept my homage and prayer with pleasure? When would I, with peace in the mind, experience the bliss of that presence and power?

पृच्छ तदन वरुण दिदृ ाूप एमि चिकितुष विपृच्छम।

3. Pṛcche tadeno varuṇa didṛkṣūpo emi cikituṣo vipṛccham. Samānaminme kavayaścidāhur-ayaṁ ha tubhyaṁ varuṇo hṛṇīte.

O Varuna, I ask myself what sin is. Keen for the vision of divinity, I go and meet the wise, and freely I ask what sin is. And the wise sages all say the same thing to me : This Varuna feels displeased only for your sake, to save you from sin.

4. Kimāga āsa varuṇa jyeṣṭhaṁ yat stotāraṁ jighāṁsasi sakhāyam. Pra tanme voco dūḷabha svadhāvo 'va tvānenā namasā tura iyām.

Varuna, what is the greatest sin or crime for which you punish your friend and celebrant? Speak of that to me, O lord rare to be attained, self-refulgent and self-omnipotent. Save me, lord. A sinless innocent soul, post haste I come to you with homage, prayer and surrender.

5. Ava drugdhāni pitryā sṛjā no'va yā vayaṁ cakṛmā tanūbhiḥ. Ava rājan paśutṛpaṁ na tāyuṁ sṛjā vatsaṁ na dāmno vasiṣṭham.

Loosen and free us from weaknesses inherited from the forefathers. Save us from the sins and evils committed by ourselves in person. O sovereign ruler, free us from animal passions, like the thief from jail, and relieve the earnest celebrant from passions and slavery, like the calf set free from bonds of the tether.

6. Na sa svo dakṣo varuṇa dhrutiḥ sā surā manyur-vibhīdako acittiḥ. Asti jyāyān kanīyasa upāre svapnaścanedanṛtasya prayotā.

It is not our own essential virtue, competence and expertise that is the cause of evil and the fall. It is liquor, anger, gambling and infatuation, ignorance and loss of good sense that is the cause of evil. It is also the company of the wrong senior with the junior and the dreams of unrealistic ambition that tempt a person to fall a victim to falsehood and evil.

7. Araṁ dāso na mīḷhuṣe karāṇyahaṁ devāya bhūrṇaye'nāgāḥ. Acetayad-acito devo aryo gṛtsaṁ rāye kavitaro jūnāti.

Let me, an innocent person free from evil, do unreserved service and offer sincere prayers like a dedicated servant to Varuna, refulgent and generous lord giver of sure and complete fulfilment. He, brilliant and generous lord of all, wiser than any one else, omniscient master, enlightens the ignorant and inspires the holy and intelligent, and leads them to honour and prosperity.

8. Ayaṁ su tubhyaṁ varuṇa svadhāvo hṛdi stoma upaśritaścidastu. Śaṁ naḥ kṣeme śamu yoge no astu yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Varuna, self-existent lord of omniscience and omnipotence, may this song of adoration reach your heart and be graciously accepted. Let there be all good and full protection for what we have achieved, and all good grace and advancement for what we may further achieve. O lord, O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all happiness and well being all ways all time, bless us with yoga and kshema in peace.

1. Radat patho varuṇaḥ sūryāya prārṇāṁsi samudriyā nadīnām. Sargo na sṛṣṭo arvatīr-ṛtāyañcakāra mahīr-avanīr-ahabhyaḥ.

The universe is a mighty explosion of thought, energy and matter let free like a cosmic horse on course: Varuna, lord of supreme power, intelligence and imagination, carving out orbits for the self-refulgent stars, setting cosmic oceans into floods of rivers heading for the sea, structuring mighty moving galaxies and great planets and satellites from the stars, all moving in observance of the cosmic law.

आत्मा त वाता रज आ नवीनात्पशुन भूर्णियवस ससवान। अन्तमही बृहती रादसीम विश्वा त धाम वरुण प्रियाणि॥ २॥

2. Ātmā te vāto raja ā navīnot paśurna bhūrṇiryavase sasavān. Antarmahī bṛhatī rodasīme viśvā te dhāma varuṇa priyāṇi.

Your spirit, O Varuna, sets the currents of energy in motion like winds and energises the cosmic particles anew, once asleep all, now rushing restless for food for existence like a horse moving for grass. O lord immanent and transcendent, all this great expansive universe of heaven and earth, all these abodes of existence, are homes of life dear to you, dear to the living forms.

3. Pari spaśo varuṇasya smadiṣṭā ubhe paśyanti rodasī sumeke. Rtāvānaḥ kavayo yajñadhīrāḥ pracetaso ya iṣayanta manma.

Currents of cosmic intelligence which are observant forces of Varuna appointed to their task, together watch both heaven and earth and they also observe and inspire to thought and imaginative creation, poets, intellectuals and devotees constantly dedicated to yajna all of whom observe the laws of eternal truth and Dharma and celebrate the divinity of Varuna.

उवाच म वरुण मधिराय त्रिः सप्त नामाघ्न्या बिभर्ति। विद्वान्पदस्य गुह्या न वोचद्युगाय विप उपराय शिक्षन्॥ ४॥

4. Uvāca me varuṇo medhirāya triḥ sapta nāmāghnyā bibharti. Vidvān padasya guhyā na vocad yugāya vipra uparāya śikṣan.

Varuna, vibrant lord of cosmic intelligence, supreme teacher, spoke to me, dedicated faithful disciple, that divine nature, divine speech, divine earth and sacred cow, each inviolable, bears thrice seven names. Enlightening the scholar approaching the teacher with homage and reverence, the omniscient lord speaks of the supreme state of freedom and bliss as the mystery of existence.

Three heavens of light are contained in the presence of this lord Varuna and there are three orders of the earthly globe over which there are six variations. The all - wise refulgent omnipotent ruler Varuna created all this universe including the vibrant and glorious sun in the blissful heaven high up for light of the world.

6. Ava sindhuṁ varuṇo dyauriva sthād drapso na śveto mṛgas-tuviṣmān. Gambhīraśaṁso rajaso vimānaḥ supārakṣatraḥ sato asya rājā.

Varuna places the sea below as the heaven above, the lord immaculate who, as a drop of crystal, is mighty powerful as the lion, supreme adorable, creator of space and stars, sovereign of the mighty universal order, sole ruler and law giver of this world of reality.

O Varuna, lord who save even the sinner, bless us that we may be sinless, observing the laws of mother Infinity's discipline. O lord, O saints and sages, teachers and rulers, protect and promote us with peace, progress and all round well being all ways all time.

Holiest sage and brilliant scholar, develop pure, purifying and transparent intelligence of the dearest order and offer reverence and yajnic homage to Varuna, potent and generous lord inspirer of life, who creates, energises and brings us the great adorable sun and the expansive and deepening cloud of showers bearing a thousandfold wealth of life.

Meditating on the blissful presence of Varuna, lord of light and wisdom, when I feel the flames of fire and divine exhilaration, then, I pray, the lord of bliss and sovereign of the world may reveal to me his divine presence as it is so that I may experience it in the inner being and live the ecstasy of life divine.

And when I ride on the wings of Ananda samadhi with the presence of divine Varuna, I float through the boundless ocean of his infinite omnipresence, and when I fly over the world of karmic existence and all that goes with it, I transcend it with the divine presence and roll in the infinite ecstasy of pure bliss above the world of existence.

Varuna, lord of love and omniscience, helps the man of vision and enlightenment to rise to the plane of bliss and salvation with great good actions, leads the dedicated celebrant through the holy light of his days of meditative actions to the dawn of light divine, and extends the dawn to the continuous light of a heaven of infinite bliss.

O lord, where are those days of dawn, that flight of bliss, that friendship and intimacy we lived together ever before without violation? What happened? O Varuna, lord of absolute power and bliss, let us come home with you, to that very state of bliss open a thousand ways, that grace abounding and infinite.

Varuna, lord of judgement and love, if some one who is always your devotee, ever a friend dear to you, by remiss indulges in sin, let him not do so. O lord adorable let us not live this life in sin. O lord of love, omniscient power, bring a home of peace, the bliss of light for the devoted celebrant.

इन्दांय यत्र सवंनानि सुन्व गमन्मदांय पथमं वयंश्च ॥ १ ॥

1. Yajñe divo nṛṣadane pṛthivyā naro yatra deva-yavo madanti. Indrāya yatra savanāni sunve gamanmadāya prathamaṁ vayaśca.

Where in the yajna in the house of assembly, leading lights of humanity from the earth and leading lights of life from heaven join and rejoice in pursuit of divinity, and where the exhilarating essences of soma are distilled for celebration in honour of Indra, lord of the world, there let us join and pray, and may the lord arrive in the first and foremost manifestations of divinity for young and old.

आ दव्यां वृणीमह वांसि बृहस्पतिंना मह आ संखायः।

2. Ā daivyā vṛṇīmahe'vāṁsi bṛhaspatirno maha ā sakhāyaḥ. Yathā bhavema mīḷhuṣe anāgā yo no dātā parāvataḥ piteva.

And there, O friends, let us pray for the protection and blessings of divinity, and may Brhaspati, lord of the mighty universe, exalt us in the spirit so that we grow sinless in the eyes of the generous lord of life and vitality who alone is our generous giver and supreme saviour as father for children.

3. Tamu jyeṣṭhaṁ namasā havirbhiḥ suśevaṁ brahmaṇaspatiṁ gṛṇīṣe. Indraṁ śloko mahi daivyaḥ siṣaktu yo brahmaṇo devakṛtasya rājā.

The same lord supreme of the universe, merciful protector and saviour, I adore with humility, reverence and offers of homage, and may this song of divine adoration reach the great lord Indra who rules this world of divine creation and reveals the divine Word of the Veda, universal knowledge.

स आ ना यानिं सदतु पष्ठ बृहस्पतिर्विश्ववार य अस्ति। काम रायः सुवीयस्य तं दात्पष गा अति सश्चता अरिष्टान॥ ४॥

4. Sa ā no yoniṁ sadatu preṣṭho bṛhaspatirviśvavāro yo asti . Kāmo rāyaḥ suvīryasya taṁ dāt parṣanno ati saścato ariṣṭān.

May that dearest lord of supreme love, creator and ruler of the mighty universe and giver of eternal knowledge of the Veda, who is the universal choice and sole object of adoration and prayer for the world, bless our house of yajna and manifest in our heart, give us fulfilment of our heart's desire for wealth, virility and noble progeny, and wash off our sins and ailments which pollute us, and thus may the lord cleanse us of our existential dirt.

तमा न अकममृतास जुष्टमिम धासुरमृतासः पुराजाः।

5. Tamā no arkamamṛtāya juṣṭamime dhāsura-mṛtāsaḥ purājāḥ. Śucikrandaṁ yajataṁ pastyā-nāṁ bṛahaspatim-anarvāṇaṁ huvema.

That self-refulgent adorable Brhaspati, lord sustainer and ruler of the vast world, loved and worshipped for the attainment of the immortal state of bliss, may these Sages of primeval and original vision reveal to us and bring us close to it. That same Brhaspati, incomprehensible supreme lord all loving and enemy to none, celebrated in the purity of divine hymns of the Veda, sole object of the worship and yajnic homage of our citizens in our homes, we invoke and adore.

6. Taṁ śagmāso aruṣāso aśvā bṛhaspatiṁ sahavāho vahanti. Sahaścid yasya nīlavat sadhasthaṁ nabho na rūpamaruṣaṁ vasānāḥ.

The powerful red rays of the rising sun in their united majesty, wearing the glorious mantle of his sublime form expansive as space, and bearing at heart the message of his omnipotence immanent in the universe like the treasure of Infinity, reveal, express and communicate the presence of Brhaspati, sustainer and ruler of the world of existence.

That lord, Brhaspati, is pure, purifying and sanctifying, infinitely manifest in the countless leaves of the cosmic tree, golden sweet of word and voice in the Veda, ever dynamic in nature and ever rejoicing in the self. He is easy of access, being immanent in the universe and beatific, creating abundant peace, prosperity and joy for the devotees.

8. Devī devasya rodasī janitrī bṛhaspatiṁ vāvṛdhatur-mahitvā. Dakṣāyyāya dakṣatā sakhāyaḥ karad brahmaṇe sutarā sugādhā.

Divine earth and heaven manifest Brhaspati and glorify him by the revelation of his greater glory. O friends, glorify the boundless lord of omnipotence who reveals the Veda for our knowledge of the vast reality of existence and makes the path to divinity through the ocean easy to follow.

9. Iyaṁ vāṁ brahmaṇaspate suvṛktir-brahmendrāya vajriṇe akāri. Aviṣṭaṁ dhiyo jigṛtaṁ purandhīr-jajastamaryo vanuṣāmarātīḥ.

O Brahmanaspati, lord sustainer and protector of the vast reality of existence and its law and divine knowledge, this holy song of adoration is addressed to you and Indra in honour of the might and majesty of your glory and divine protection against darkness and evil. Pray listen, and protect our mind and action, awaken the rulers and protectors of our social order, fight out and destroy the enemies and oppositions of the devotees.

10. Bṛhaspate yuvamindraśca vasvo divyasyeśāthe uta pārthivasya. Dhattaṁ rayiṁ stuvate kīraye cid yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Brhaspati, lord of this vast universe, and Indra, you are lords omnipotent of the glory and majesty of the world, you rule and order the light of heaven and the wealths of the earth. Pray bear and bring the light of divinity and wealth of the world to bless the celebrant and the worshipper. O lords and divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of peace, prosperity and excellence all ways all time.

Indra, Indra-Brhaspati Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

अध्वर्यवा रुणं दुग्धमंशुं जुहोतन वृषभाय क्षितीनाम।

1. Adhvaryavo'ruṇaṁ dugdhamaṁśuṁ juhotana vṛṣabhāya kṣitīnām. Gaurād vedīyāň avapāna-mindro viśvāhed yāti sutasomamicchan.

O devotees of creative yajna, at the dawn of the fiery sun, offer refined and energised soma and milk into the fire of yajna in honour of Indra, generous omnipotent ruler of the worlds. Having received exhilarating soma inspiration from the sacred vedi of light, Indra, the ruler, the scholar, the human soul, proceeds to the day's activity with passion for consecrated action every new day.

यद्ध॒धिष॒ प॒दिवि॒ चाव॑ꣳ दि॒वदि॑व पी॒तिमिद॑स्य वक्षि। उ॒त हृ॒दात मन॑सा जुषा॒ण उ॒शन्नि॑न्द्र॒ प्रस्थि॑तान्पाहि॒ सोमा॑न॥ २॥

2. Yad dadhiṣe pradivi cārvannaṁ divedive pītimidasya vakṣi. Uta hṛdota manasā juṣāṇa uśannindra prasthitān pāhi somān.

Indra, since you have received and internalised the exhilarating soma of the mission of life at the vedi in earlier days, and love to live the taste and message of it every day, then, loving the soma by heart and soul and passionately anxious for action, take the soma offered, and inspire and exhort these yajakas for the appointed tasks of the day.

3. Jajñānaḥ somaṁ sahase papātha pra te mātā mahimānam-uvāca. Endra paprathor-vantrikṣaṁ yudhā devebhyo varivaścakartha.

Aware of the self, knowing your tasks in life, recognising your powers and potential, dedicated to your yajna and your yajnic performers, you drank the soma of initiation for the realisation of your power, patience and passion, and Mother Nature spoke to you and dedicated you to the Infinite and Omnipotent. You fought with courage and fortitude, achieved wondrous peace and prosperity with your warriors for noble humanity, and rose to the skies with honour and fame.

When you fight against those who attack, believing they are great, we shall fight out those violent enemies with arms even in hand to hand fight. And when in formation with your warring heroes around, you engage in contests, then with you we shall win that contest with honour and fame.

पन्दस्य वाचं पथमा कृतानि प नूतना मघवा या चकार । यददेवीरसहिष्ट माया अथाभवत्केवलः साम अस्य ॥ ५ ॥

5. Prendrasya vocaṁ prathamā kṛtāni pra nūtanā maghavā ya cakāra. Yadedadevīrasahiṣṭa māyā athābhavat kevalaḥ somo asya.

Let me thus proclaim and celebrate the exploits of Indra, those accomplished earlier and the latest which the illustrious hero has achieved when he challenged and frustrated the evil designs of the crafty enemies and became the sole winner of the soma of honour and fame.

तवदं विश्वमभितः पशव्यं यत्पश्यसि च सा सूयस्य । गवामसि गापतिरक इन्द भ ीमहि त पयतस्य वस्वः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Tavedaṁ viśvamabhitaḥ paśavyaṁ yat paśyasi cakṣasā sūryasya. Gavāmasi gopatireka indra bhakṣīmahi te prayatasya vasvaḥ.

Indra, yours is all this living wealth around which you see under the light of sun. You are the sole master, possessor, ruler, protector and promoter of lands and cows and the lights of knowledge and culture of this earth. We ask of you and solicit wealths of the world for ourselves, because you are the giver.

7. Bṛhaspate yuvamindraśca vasvo divyasyeśathe uta pārthivasya. Dhattaṁ rayiṁ stuvate kīraye cid yūyaṁ pāta svastibhiḥ sadā naḥ.

Brhaspati, lord of the vast universe, Indra, omnipotent and illustrious ruler, you are the lord of the beauty and majesty of the light of heaven and wealths of the earth. You alone rule and order these. Pray bear and bring light and wealth to bless the celebrant and the worshipper. O lord and divinities of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of peace, prosperity and excellence all ways all time.

Vishnu, Indra-Vishnu Devate, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

परा मात्रया तन्वा वृधान न त महित्वमन्वश्नुवन्ति। उभ त विष्ण रजसी पृथिव्या विष्ण दव त्वं पर्मस्य वित्स॥ १॥

1. Paro mātrayā tanvā vṛdhāna na te mahitvam-anvaśnuvanti. Ubhe te vidma rajasī pṛthivyā viṣṇo deva tvaṁ paramasya vitse.

Vishnu, omnipresent lord supreme, manifesting by the expansive world forms of mother nature, no one comprehends your greatness and majesty. We apprehend both your worlds from earth to heaven but, O lord self-refulgent, you know and are the ultimate beyond these too. (You are immanent and transcendent.)

न तं विष्णो जायमानो न जातो दवं महिम्नः परमन्तमाप। उदस्तभ्नो नाकमृष्वं बृहन्तं दाधर्थ पाचीं ककुभं पृथिव्याः ॥ २ ॥

2. Na te viṣṇo jāyamāno na jāto deva mahimnaḥ paramantamāpa. Udastabhnā nākamṛṣvaṁ bṛhantaṁ dādhartha prācīṁ kakubhaṁ pṛthivyāḥ.

Vishnu, self-refulgent lord immanent and transcendent, no one born either in the past or at present can reach the ultimate bounds of your grandeur and majesty. You uphold the high heaven of boundless glory and divine beauty and joy, and you hold the expanse of the directions of universal space.

इरावती धेनुमती हि भूतं सूयवसिनी मनुषे दशस्या। व्यस्तभ्नाद्रोदसी विष्णवेत दाधर्थ पृथिवीमभितो मयूखैः ॥ ३ ॥

3. Irāvatī dhenumatī hi bhūtaṁ sūyavasinī manuṣe daśasyā. Vyastabhnā rodasī viṣṇavete dādhartha pṛthivīmabhito mayūkhaiḥ.

O heaven and earth full of food and energy, milk and honey, herbs and rejuvenation, givers of food, energy and light of knowledge, both of you are generous for humanity. Vishnu, omnipresent and omnipotent, upholds these heaven and earth worlds and stabilises the earth all round by solar radiations of cosmic energy.

4. Uruṁ yajñāya cakrathuru lokaṁ janayantā sūryam-uṣāsam-agnim. Dāsasya cid vṛṣaśipr-asya māyā jaghnathurnarā pṛtanājyeṣu.

Indra-Vishnu, lord omnipotent and omnipresent, leader and maker of the world, creating the sun, dawn and fire you make up this vast world for yajna, evolution and expansion of things at the level of nature and humanity. You also destroy the wiles and crookedness of negative powers even though they be strong and well armed, in close battles among human forces.

5. Indrāviṣṇū dṛaṁhitāḥ śambarasya nava puro navatiṁ ca śnathiṣṭam. Śataṁ varcinaḥ sahasraṁ ca sākaṁ hatho apratyasurasya vīrān.

Indra-Vishnu, lord of unrivalled might and universal presence, you break through the nine and ninety fortified strongholds of the dark and expansive citadels of hoarded treasure and destroy a hundred, even thousand, of the brave warriors together even before the unique evil power is up for defence and offence.

इ॒यं म॑नी॒षा बृ॑ह॒ती बृ॒हन्त॑मु॒रुक्र॑मा त॒वसा॑ व॒धय॑न्ती ।

6. Iyaṁ manīṣā bṛhatī bṛhantorukramā tavasā vardhayantī. Rare vāṁ stomaṁ vidatheṣu viṣṇo pinvatamiṣo vṛjaneṣvindra.

This resounding song of thoughtful and conscientious adoration exalting the grand, versatile and mighty Indra-Vishnu, I offer in honour of the lord. Indra-Vishnu, pray exhort our power and exalt our honour and excellence in our yajnic battles of life on the paths of progress.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent of unbounded power, this holy song of adoration I sing and offer to you directly. O lord of blazing lustre, pray accept this homage of mine. May the holy words of my adoration please and exalt you. O lord, O divine powers of nature and humanity, protect and promote us with all modes and means of happiness, prosperity and well being all ways all time.

1. Nū marto dayate saniṣyan yo viṣnava urugāyāya dāśat. Pra yaḥ satrācā manasā yajāta etāvantaṁ naryamāvivāsāt.

That mortal for sure finds success and fulfilment who, while he loves Vishnu, lord omnipresent, gives in charity in service to the lord, and who, with concentrated mind, meditates, worships and exalts the lord of such universal love of infinite measure.

त्वं वि॑ष्णा सुम॒तिं वि॒श्वज॑न्या॒मप॑युतामवयावा म॒तिं दाः।

Vishnu, lord omnipresent and omnificent, who fulfil the aspirations of all humanity, bless us with such intelligence, understanding and faith in values of pure and universal character by which we may achieve our target of untarnished happiness and plenty of universal wealth of honour, beauty and complete fulfilment of earthly ambition.

3. Trirdevaḥ pṛthivīmeṣa etāṁ vi cakrame śatarcasaṁ mahitvā. Pra viṣṇurastu tavasastavīyān tveṣaṁ hyasya sthavirasya nāma.

This self-refulgent and self-potent generous lord Vishnu has made and set in motion the three dimensional world of matter, energy and mind by virtue of his own essential power and has vested it with the light of countless stars. Immanent in the world, mighty Vishnu manifests mightier and mightier. The very name of this lord beyond motion is 'Lord of Light.'

4. Vi cakrame pṛthivīmeṣa etāṁ kṣetrāya viṣṇurmanuṣe daśasyan. Dhruvāso asya kīrayo janāsa urukṣitiṁ sujanimā cakāra.

Vishnu, this lord omnipresent, with the desire to give humanity a place of birth and a home for dwelling and sphere of action, made this wide earth and set it in motion. Poet celebrants of this lord, men with constant mind, celebrate the glorious manifested maker and sing that he it is that made the wide earth for their dwelling and place of action.

5. Pra tat te adya śipiviṣṭa nāmā'ryaḥ śaṁsāmi vayunāni vidvān. Taṁ tvā gṛṇāmi tavasamatavyān kṣayantamasya rajasaḥ parāke.

O lord self-refulgent, you that have made this wide world, I adore today, celebrate and glorify your name: You are the master, lord omniscient of the ways and laws of existence. You are the mighty power, all pervasive far and wide in the moving world, and you are transcendent even beyond.

Vishnu, can that manifestive form of your presence be described or ignored? You yourself reveal in the Veda that you are self - refulgent. Pray do not hide off that form of yours from me, nor the other one which manifests in the divine wrath and punishment in the existential battle between good and evil.

Vishnu, lord omnipresent, I do honour to your presence in song and offer it to you as homage in words. O lord of universal light of life, pray accept this offer of homage. May my words of celebration exalt your presence in manifestation. O lord, O divinities of nature and humanity, pray protect and promote us with all means and modes of peace, prosperity and all round well being all ways all time.

Parjanya Devata, Vasishtha or Kumara Agneya Maitravaruni Rshi

तिस्रा वाचः प वद ज्यातिरगा या एतद्दुह्र मधुदाघमूधः ।
स वत्सं कृण्वन्गभमाषधीनां सद्या जाता वृषभा र ारवीति ॥ १ ॥

1. Tisro vācaḥ pra vada vyotiragrā yā etad duhre madhudogham-ūdhaḥ. Sa vatsaṁ kṛṇvan garbhamoṣadhīnāṁ sadyo jāto vṛṣabho roravīti.

Chant aloud three voices of the divine Word, Rk, Sama and Yajush verses of the four Vedas headed by the light of Divinity symbolised by the eternal Name: AUM. (They comprise the knowledge, action and prayerful gratitude of total human endeavour, the three being 'jnana, karma and upasana.) With yajna they distil from the cosmic ocean the milky essence of liquid vitality, soma, elementary form of the cloud, parjanya. That parjanya produces the fiery electric current (herein called the calf) which then gives rise to the seed of vegetation in the form of cloud laden with living rain waters. 'The calf' then full grown as 'the virile bull' i.e., the cloud, upon the instant roars and thunders, rains and fertilises the earth with the seed of vegetation.

Note: An extension of this knowledge of the evolution of life on earth is found in the science of 'Panchagni', five fires, in Chhandogya Upanishad 5, 4-9, and in Brhadaranyaka Upanish 6, 2, 9-14. Chhandogya Upanishad is an explanatory extension of parts of Sama Veda, and Brhadaranyaka Upanishad is a similar work on parts of Yajur Veda. An indication of this science is given in Kathopanishad 1, 1, 12-19. Kathopanishad is an explanatory footnote to Yajur-Veda.

या वध॑न्न आष॑धीनां॒ या अ॒पां या विश्व॑स्य॒ जग॑ता द॒व इश॑'। स त्रि॒धातु॑ शर॒णं शम॑ यंसत्त्रि॒वतु॒ ज्योति॑ः स्वभि॒ष्ट्य॑ऽस्मे ॥ २ ॥

2. Yo vardhana oṣadhīnāṁ yo apāṁ yo viṣvasya jagato deva īṣe. Sa tridhātu śaraṇaṁ śarma yaṁsat-trivartu jyotiḥ svabhiṣṭyasme.

He that generates and augments the vegetation and generates the waters and the power that orders and rules over the entire moving universe may, we pray, give us three fold health and peace of body, mind and soul and bless us with threefold shelter against heat, cold and rain, and give us threefold light of earth, heaven and the middle regions for our well being all round.

3. Starīru tvad bhavati sūta u tvad yathāvaśaṁ tanvaṁ cakra eṣaḥ. Pituḥ payaḥ prati gṛbhṇāti mātā tena pitā vardhate tena putraḥ.

By virtue of you the heifer becomes fertilized, from you this soul assumes the body form it takes according to its latencies, the mother receives the shower of fertility from the father, by which, again, the father receives extension of the self and the off spring grows in body.

4. Yasmin viśvāni bhuvanāni tasthustisro dyāva-stredhā sasrurāpaḥ. Trayaḥ kośāsa upa-secanāso madhvaḥ ścotantyabhito virapśam.

(What is the ultimate parjanya, source of life and its joy?) That in whom abide all regions of the universe, all three heavens, i.e., highest, middle and the lower, or the earth, the sky and the heaven of light, in whom the three currents of air, light and water energy flow, or the three grades of karma operate, i.e., sanchit (past), kriyamana (present) and prarabdha (conditional) rule the soul, and in whom three body-forms of the soul, i.e., karana sharira (causal body), sukshma sharira (subtle body) and sthula sharira (gross body) overflow with energy and shower the honey sweets of pleasure, enlightenment and the ecstasy of ananda upon the soul in abundance: that is the ultimate cloud from whom life flows.

5. Idaṁ vacaḥ parjanyāya svarāje hṛdo astvantaraṁ tajjujoṣat. Mayobhuvo vṛṣṭyaḥ santvasme supippalā oṣadhīr-devagopāḥ.

This song of adoration, spontaneous flow of love from the heart, in honour of the self - refulgent sovereign cloud, lord infinite, supreme source of life, may the lord accept and cherish to the very core of divine being, and may the imprint abide in our heart too. May the showers of rain be full of peace and abundance for us. May the herbs and trees be profuse in fruit, give life and protective health to noble humanity and be protected and promoted by noble humanity.

That lord is the infinite reservoir of the seeds of existence, mighty abundant and generous, from whom flows the eternal cycle of life. Therein abides the very soul of existence in motion and stabilised in motion. May the lord sustain, protect and promote the abundant flow of truthful life in action for me for a full span of hundred years. O lord, O clouds, O showers of rain, protect and promote us by all modes and means of happiness and well being all round all ways all time.

Sing in praise of the mighty generous and virile

Parjanya, the cloud that gives us showers of life and joy. It is the child of light and saviour of the brilliant. May the cloud, that bearer and harbinger of life and joy, give us lovely food for body, mind and soul.

या गभ्रमार्षधीनां गवां कृणात्यवतां।
पर्जन्यः पुरुषीणाम ॥ २ ॥

2. Yo garbham-oṣadhīnāṁ gavāṁ kṛṇotyarvatām. Parjanyaḥ puruṣīṇām.

Celebrate the Parjanya, cloud of the showers of life and existence, who generates the Golden Egg, Hiranyagarbha, the seed of moving stars and revolving planets, herbs and trees, cows and horses and the humans, and the cloud which then brings the showers of living waters and vests the seeds of life in earth for vegetation and all that moves and achieves and all the human race for the continuance of life in existence.

इळां नः संयतं करत ॥ ३ ॥

3. Tasmā idāsye havirjuhotā madhumattamam. Iḷāṁ naḥ saṁyataṁ karat.

To him, the omnipotent omnificent Parjanya, life bearing cloud, offer the sweetest oblations into the fiery mouth of the yajna vedi with selfless surrender of love and non-violence so that he may keep and help us keep the unity and integrity of the earth and environment well in order and maintain the integrity and harmony of humanity and culture in a state of creativity and progressive continuity of a familial order.

Mandukah (Parjanya) Devata, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi

संवत्सरं शशयाना बाह्मणा वतचारिणः।
वाचं पजन्यजिन्वितां प मण्डूका अवादिषुः॥ १॥

1. Saṁvatsaraṁ śaśayānā brāhmaṇā vratacār-iṇaḥ. Vācaṁ parjanyajinvitāṁ pra maṇḍūkā avādiṣuḥ.

Devoted Brahmanas dedicated to Brahma, supreme spirit of the universe, observing the sacred vows of discipline in silence for a yearly session, spontaneously burst into the chant of divine hymns, inspired by the cloud of divine showers and celebrate the divine spirit, the divine voice and the divine shower with enthusiasm.

दिव्या आप' अभि यदेनमायन्दृतिं न शुष्कं सरसी शयानम।
गवामह न मायुवत्सिनीनां मण्डूकानां वग्नुरत्रा समेति॥ २॥

2. Divyā āpo abhi yadenamāyan dṛtiṁ na śuṣkaṁ sarasī śayānam. Gavāmaha na māyurvatsinī-nāṁ maṇḍūkānāṁ vagnuratrā sameti.

When the heavenly waters shower upon these celebrants, like rain on frogs who have been hybernating in a dry pond like empty leather bags, they revive with exhilaration, they burst into chant, and the chant of these celebrants seems like the eager lowing of mother cows for their calves or like the excitement of the heart on the reflection of a new revelation on the imagination.

यदीमनाँ उशता अभ्यवषीत्तृष्यावतः पावृष्यागतायाम।
अख्खलीकृत्या पितरं न पुत्रा अन्या अन्यमुप वदन्त-

3. Yadīmenāṅ uśato abhyavarṣīt tṛṣyāvataḥ prāvṛṣyāgatāyām. Akhkhalīkṛtyā pitaraṁ na putro anyo anyamupa vadantameti.

And when the rainy season has set in, then, if the cloud showers rain upon these longing celebrants of life, thirsting for the divine waters of life, one goes to meet another, chanting and shouting hilariously like the child going to meet the father.

अ॒न्या अ॒न्यमनु॑ गृभ्णात्यनार॒पां प॑स॒ग यदम॑न्दिषाताम।

4. Anyo anyamanu gṛbhṇātyenorapāṁ prasarge yadamandiṣātām. Maṇḍūko yadabhivṛṣṭaḥ kaniṣkan pṛśniḥ saṁpṛṅkte haritena vācam.

On the fall of divine showers they seize upon each other while both experience the ecstasy of meeting and the rain. When the celebrant is soaked in the rain, the spotted versatile one springs forward and communicates with the green one in concentration in the language of intimacy.

यद॑षाम॒न्या अ॒न्यस्य॒ वाचं शा॒क्तस्य॑व॒ वद॑ति॒ शि ॑माणः।

5. Yadeṣāmanyo anyasya vācaṁ śāktasyeva vadati śikṣamāṇaḥ. Sarvaṁ tadeṣāṁ samṛdheva parva yat suvāco vadathanādhyapsu.

When one of these speaks to the other, they seem to repeat each other's language like pupils repeating the words of the teacher. While communicating like this they jump and play on the water, their bodies swell with joy and the pride of being.

गामा॑युरक॑ अ॒जमा॑युरक॒: पृश्नि॒रका॒ हरि॑त॒ एक॑ एषाम।

6. Gomāyureko ajamāyurekaḥ pṛśnireko harita eka eṣām. Samānaṁ nāma bibhrato virūpāḥ purū-trā vācaṁ pipiśurvadantaḥ.

One of them croaks like a cow, another like a goat, one of them is spotted, another is green. Of different voice and colour, they bear the same one name, the "manduka", the celebrant, but they seem to communicate in many different languages.

बा॒ह्म॒णास॑ अतिरा॒त्र न साम॒ सरा॒ न पू॒णम॒भिता॒ वद॑न्तः।

7. Brāhmaṇāso atirātre na some saro na pūrṇa-mabhito vadantaḥ. Saṁvatsarasya tadahaḥ pariṣṭha yanmaṇḍūkāḥ prāvṛṣīṇaṁ babhūva.

O Brahmanas, devotees of supreme Brahman, at the end of the annual session when the last night is over, then, at the time before dawn, abide as in meditation and yajnic celebration just like the frogs who play, rejoice and celebrate around the overflowing lake when the showers of the season begin.

बा॒ह्म॒णास॑: सो॒मिना॒ वाच॑मकत॒ ब्रह्म॑ कृ॒ण्वन्त॑: परिवत्स॒-

8. Brāhmaṇāsaḥ somino vācamakrata brahma kṛṇvantaḥ parivatsarīṇam. Adhvaryavo gharmiṇaḥ siṣvidānā āvirbhavanti guhyā na ke cit.

Brahmanas engaged in the yearly soma yajna for peace and harmony conduct the yajna in honour of the Supreme Brahman and chant the Vedic mantras at the end of the first year. The priests facing the fire and soaked in sweat emerge as if from seclusion in the cave.

दे॒वहि॑तिं जुगुपु॒र्द्वाद॒शस्य॑ ऋ॒तुं नरा॒ न प मि॑नन्त्य॒त।

9. Devahitiṁ jugupurdvādaśasya ṛtuṁ naro na pra minantyete. Saṁvatsare prāvṛṣyāgatāyāṁ taptā gharmā aśnuvate visargam.

These Brahmanas, leading lights of the yajnic order, do not neglect, never violate, but strictly abide by the divinely ordained twelve month seasons and the discipline and observances prescribed. At the end of the year when the rains set in they emerge seasoned and tempered in the heat of yajnic fire and attain their freedom.

10. Gomāyuradādajamāyuradāt pṛśniradāddharito no vasūni. Gavāṁ maṇḍūkā dadataḥ śatāni sahasrasāve pra tiranta āyuḥ.

All those that speak and sound like nature in motion give us something; all those that speak and sound like nature and spirit unborn and eternal give us something; all those that speak and sound like the spectrum of colours in various forms give us something; all those that speak and sound like the dark and green in life and nature give us something: all these give us wealths of the world. Indeed all that speak and sound and celebrate nature and the eternal spirit of nature give us hundreds of wealths and values of existence on the move, advance us and give us full health and age in the thousandfold business of creative living and lead us to fulfilment and ultimate freedom. (Such is the gift of nature in the rainy season.)

Indra-Somau, Indra, Soma, Agni, Devah, Gravana, Marutah, Vasishtha, Prthirvi-Antarikshe, Devatah, Vasishtha Maitravaruni Rshi.

इन्दासामा तपतं र ा उब्जतं न्यपयतं वृषणा तमावृधः। परा शृणीतमचिता न्य षतं हतं नुदथां नि शिशीतम-त्रिणः॥ १॥

Indra-Soma, O lord and commander of power, peace and justice, O lord and master keeper of love, peace and harmony, subject the evil and wicked to the heat of discipline and correction or punish and reduce them to nullity. O generous and virile lord and ruler, let not the forces of darkness grow, keep them down, let not the misguided rise and spread out, shut these down and far off. Let the hoarders, grabbers, ogres and devourers be subjected to law and punishment, destroy the exploiters, stop them and let their fangs be blunted and rooted out.

2. Indrāsomā samaghaśaṁsam-abhyghaṁ tapuryayastu carur-agnivāṅ iva. Brahmadviṣe kravyāde ghoracakṣase dveṣo dhattam-anavāyaṁ kimīdine.

Indra-Soma, lord and master of peace and power, love and justice, let the sinner and the criminal, the supporter and admirer of sin and crime along with the sin and crime, and the tormentor of the good and innocent go to the fire of discipline, punishment, or elimination like a handful of dirt meant for the fire. Never compromise with the enemy of nature, divinity, humanity and the wisdom of humanity. Rule out the cannibal and the carrion eater, the man of hate and evil eye, the sceptic, the cynic and the negationist. For them, have the disdain they deserve and either correct them or eliminate them.

3. Indrāsomā duṣkṛto vavre antar-anārambhaṇe tamasi pra vidhyatam. Yathā nātaḥ punarekaścanodayat tad vāmastu sahase manyumacchavaḥ.

Indra-Soma, fix the evil doer and throw him into a deep dungeon of darkness without remission so that by reason of that punishment no one again may raise his head for evil doing. That power of yours full of patience, fortitude and courage, that righteous passion of yours be for the destruction of evil and sabotage against life and social harmony.

Indra-Soma, from heaven and earth, from thunder and lightning and the showers of clouds, from the light of idealism, love and generosity and down to earth realism, bring unfailing laws of punishment and correction against sin and crime, acts and policies against poverty, disease, unemployment and wilful sloth, and against the supporters of sin and crime as well as against compromisers with negativities and negationists of evil. Enact law of incentive and encouragement for the generous, and blazing prohibitions for the adamantine evil so that you nip and burn off rising crime and evil in the bud.

Indra-Soma, lord of power and force, lord of peace and harmony, turn all round, revolve your search lights and from the skies shoot out your weapons of defence and offence, and with fiery, thunder-tipped, fatally destructive, irresistible and inviolable weapons fix the voracious ogres, strike them on the precipice and throw them into the abyss, running off into silence and oblivion without uttering a sigh of pain or voice of protest.

6. Indrāsomā pari vāṁ bhūtu viśvata iyaṁ matiḥ kakṣyāśveva vājinā. Yāṁ vāṁ hotrām parihin-omi medhayemā brahmāṇi nṛpatīva jinvatam.

Indra-Soma, leading powers of governance and peace, like mighty forces in harness ruling the nation, may this prayer of mine, which, with the best of my intention and understanding I address to you as an exhortation, reach you and inspire you and guide you all round, and may you, like the protector and ruler of the nation as you are, make these words of prayer, exhortation and adoration fruitful.

7. Prati smarethāṁ tujayabdhir-evairhataṁ druho rakṣaso bhaṅgurāvataḥ. Indrāsomā duṣkṛte mā sugaṁ bhūd yo naḥ kadā cidabhidāsati druhā.

And remember, be watchful and alert against the malignant, evil and treacherous forces, ward them off and eliminate them with the fastest interceptors and destroyers at the very outset. Indra-Soma, let there be no peace, nothing easy, for the evil doer whoever any time may try to injure, sabotage or enslave us out of jealousy, malignity or enmity.

या मा पाकेन मनसा चरन्तमभिचष्ट अनृतेभिवचोभिः ।

8. Yo mā pākena manasā carantam-abhicaṣṭe anṛtebhir-vacobhiḥ. Āpa iva kāśinā saṁgṛbhītā asannas-tvāsata indra vaktā.

And while I live and act and behave with a mature mind of purity and truth, if someone malign me with false words, let him be caught up like water in the hand grip and evaporate in the heat and, O lord Indra, ruler and law giver of power, let him be reduced to nothing because he speaks nothing but falsehood.

य पाकशंसं विहरन्त एवैर्य वा भद्रं दूषयन्ति स्वधाभिः ।

9. Ye pākaśaṁsaṁ viharanta evairye vā bhadraṁ dūṣayanti svadhābhiḥ. Ahaye vā tān pradadātu soma ā vā dadhātu nirṛterupasthe.

O Soma, lord of peace and justice, if there are those who with their smartness and fast actions malign, lacerate and deprive the man of purity, truth and immaculate honour and spotless reputation, or with their powers and prestige denigrate the man of goodness and charitable action and bring disgrace upon him, deliver such men to the sufferance of darkness and the pain of remorse or let them suffer the fangs of deprivation themselves.

या नो रसं दिप्सति पित्वो अग्ने या अश्वानां या गवां यस्तनूनाम। रिपुः स्तेनः स्तेयकृद्द्रभमतु नि ष हीयतां तन्वा३ तना च ॥ १० ॥

10. Yo no rasaṁ dipsati pitvo agne yo aśvānāṁ yo gavāṁ yastanūnām. Ripuḥ stenaḥ steyakṛd dabhrametu ni ṣa hīyatāṁ tanvā tanā ca.

Whoever pollutes the flavour, taste and vitality of our food and injures or impairs the vigour and power of our horses, cows and our bodies, let such an enemy, the thief, the robber and saboteur, O lord of light and vitality, Agni, be reduced to nullity and himself suffer debility of body and even deprivation from self-extension and further growth.

परः सा अस्तु तन्वा३ तना च तिस्रः पृथिवीरधा अस्तु विश्वाः। पतिं शुष्यतु यश अस्य देवा या नो दिवा दिप्सति यश्च नक्तम ॥ ११ ॥

11. Paraḥ so astu tanvā tanā ca tisraḥ pṛthivīradho astu viśvāḥ. Prati śuṣyatu yaśo asya devā yo no divā dipsati yaśca naktam.

O divinities of nature and humanity, he who wants to injure and destroy us in the day and in the night, must stay far off by his personal presence and also by the progeny of his evil tendencies and even fall lower than all the three orders of earthly existence, i.e., lower far than the good, the bad and the indifferent. His honour and reputation would dry up and evaporate to zero and there would be none even to remember him after. Let it be so with such a person.

सुविज्ञानं चिकितुष जनाय सच्चासच्च वचसी पस्पृधात।

12. Suvijñānaṁ cikituṣe janāya saccāsacca vacasī paspṛdhāte. Tayoryat satyaṁ yataradṛjīyastadit somo'vati hantyāsat.

Words of truth and words of untruth rival and contend with each other. Of these, the one that is true to the extent it is true and that which is simple and natural, this Soma, lord of peace, harmony and the goodness of life, preserves and protects, and the untrue, he destroys. This simple and straight natural knowledge, the lord reveals for the man who has the desire and ambition to know the truth and reality of life.

न वा उ साम वृजिनं हिनाति न क्षत्रियं मिथुया धारयन्तम।

13. Na vā u somo vṛjinaṁ hinoti na kṣatriyaṁ mithuyā dhārayantam. Hanti rakṣo hantyāsad vadantam-ubhāvindrasya prasitau śayāte.

Soma, lord of truth, peace and harmony, does not call forth the crooked to the distinction between truth and untruth, nor does he impel the selfish kshatriya, ruler administrator, who parades his power and valour in a false manner, nor does he incite the two toward the untrue. But he does destroy the evil and the wicked and also the one who speaks the untruth, since both the evil and the liar end up in the bonds of Indra, lord of justice and power.

14. Yadi vāhamanṛtadeva āsa moghaṁ vā devāṅ apyūhe agne. Kimasmabhyaṁ jātavedo hṛṇīṣe droghavācaste nirṛthaṁ sacantām.

If I were a worshipper of falsehood as my divine ideal, or if I adore the lord and divinities falsely, deceiving them as if, then O lord of light and truth, Agni, you would be angry with me. But I have not been thus, then why would you, knowing everything born in existence, feel angry with us? Not at all, because only the speakers of falsehood would suffer your wrath and punishment.

अ॒द्या मु॑रीय॒ यदि॑ यातु॒धाना॒ अस्मि॒ यदि॒ वायु॑स्त॒तप॒ पूरु॑षस्य। अधा॒ स वी॒र द॒शभि॒वि यू॑या॒ या मा॒ माघं॒ यातु॑धा॒न-त्याह॑॥ १५॥

15. Adyā murīya yadi yātudhāno asmi yadi vāyustatapa pūruṣasya. Adhā sa vīrairdaśabhirvi yūyā yo mā moghaṁ yātudhānetyāha.

If I were a demon on the move, and if I tormented any person in life, then let me suffer death today just now. But I am not such, nor have I done so. Then let that man be forsaken of all his ten faculties of power and prana who falsely proclaims that I am a demonic tormentor of others.

16. Yo māyātuṁ yātudhānetyāha yo vā rakṣāḥ śucirasmītyāha. Indrastaṁ hantu mahatā vadhena viśvasya jantor-adhamas-padīṣṭa.

Whoever says that I am a devil even though I am not a devil, and whoever says that he is innocent and immaculate even though he is a devil, may Indra, lord of power and justice, punish such a person with his mighty thunderbolt. May such a falsifier fall to the abyss as the worst of all living beings.

17. Pra yā jigāti khargaleva naktamapa druhā tanvaṁ gūhamānā. Vavrāṅ anantāṅ ava sā padīṣṭa grāvāṇo ghnantu rakṣasa upabdaiḥ.

And she that goes about at night, hiding her person like the spirit of hate and violence, a she owl as if, let her fall into the bottomless deep of darkness where the stones of evil and darkness itself would destroy her with a clang.

वि तिष्ठध्वं मरुता विक विच्छत गृभायत र रसः सं पिनष्टन। वया य भूत्वी पतयन्ति नक्तभिय वा रिप दधिर देव अध्वर॥ १८॥

18. Vi tiṣṭhadhvaṁ maruto vikṣvicchata gṛbhāyata rakṣasaḥ saṁ pinaṣṭana. Vayo ye bhūtvī patayanti naktabhirye vā ripo dadhire deve adhvare.

O Maruts, vibrant social powers of vigilance and action, stay among the people, keenly watch for the forces of evil and violence, and there, grab them and crush them all that fly about like birds over the nights and cause disturbance and violence in the divine morning yajnas of love and non-violence for creative production and advancement.

19. Pra vartaya divo aśmānamindra somaśitaṁ maghavantsaṁ śiśādhi. Prāktād-apāktādadha-rādudaktād-abhi jahi rakṣasaḥ parvatena.

Indra, lord of power and justice, from the light of heaven and wisdom of the sages, bring up and strike the thunderbolt of justice and correction tempered and sharpened with soma for peace and progress, and refine and enlighten the noble people dedicated to peace and happiness. From front and back, up and down, seize the wicked and the destroyers and punish them with the bolt.

20. Eta u tye patayanti śvayātava indraṁ dipsanti dipsavo'dābhyam. Śiśīte śakraḥ piśunebhyo vadhaṁ nūnaṁ sṛjadaśaniṁ yātumadbhyaḥ.

These miscreants with the mentality of street curs roam around, pull people down, and try to damage Indra, the ruler, who is otherwise indomitable. Indra then, commander of power and force, sharpens the thunderbolt, the edge of justice and punishment, for these crafty saboteurs on the prowl and strikes the fatal blow upon them.

21. Indro yātūnām-abhavat parāśaro havirmathīnām-abhyāvivāsatām. Abhīdu śakraḥ paraśuryathā vanaṁ pātreva bhindantsata eti rakṣasaḥ.

Indra is the lordly power that throws off the upcoming saboteurs who damage the inputs and infrastructure of yajnic development, he does so for the peace and progress of the human community. He is mighty powerful just like what the axe is for the wood, breaking down the evil and wicked destroyers like pots of clay whenever they raise their head.

22. Ulūkayātuṁ śuśulūkayātuṁ jahi śvayātumuta kokayātum. Suparṇayātumuta gṛdhrayātuṁ dṛṣadeva pra mṛṇa rakṣa indra.

Indra, refulgent and potent ruler of the world, crush the evil and the wicked like pieces of clay with a stone: the fiend in the garb of an owl or an owlet or a dog or a wolf or a hawk or a vulture. They are covert, stealthy, clever, jealous and growling, cruel destroyers, cunning and voracious.

Let no wicked demonic forces harm and destroy us. Let the darkness of tormentors harming us either by joint force or by doubt and scepticism be off. May the earth protect us against earthly sin and crime. Let the sky protect us against dangers from above.

Indra, punish and eliminate the man demon. Punish and eliminate the woman demon who destroys by deception and crafty design. Let the stranglers of life who play with life and death lose their own throat and let them never see the rising sun.

Indra and Soma, lord of power and peace, justice and governance, love and majesty, watch everything that happens and enlighten us too. Shine, reveal and proclaim what is happening and warn us too. Keep awake and let us rise too into awakenment. Shoot the arrow upon the demon destroyers, strike the thunderbolt upon the covert saboteurs.

1. Mā cidanyad vi śaṁsata sakhāyo mā riṣaṇyata. Indramit stotā vṛṣaṇaṁ sacā sute muhuruktha ca śaṁsata.

O friends, do not worship any other but One, be firm, never remiss, worship only Indra, sole lord absolute, omnipotent and infinitely generous, and when you have realised the bliss of the lord's presence, sing songs of divine adoration spontaneously, profusely, again and again.

अवक्रक्षिणं वृषभं यथाजुरं गां न चर्षणीसहम ।
विद्वेषणं संवननोभयंकरं मंहिष्ठमुभयाविनम ॥ २ ॥

2. Avakrakṣiṇaṁ vṛṣabhaṁ yathājuraṁ gāṁ na carṣaṇīsaham. Vidveṣaṇaṁ saṁvananobha-yaṁ-karaṁ maṁhiṣṭham-ubhayāvinam.

Worship Indra only, who most spontaneously rushes to the devotee for protection and upon the evil for punishment, correction or destruction. He is profusely and potently generous, free from age and decay, patient and forbearing giver of peace and nourishment to people like the meek cow and motherly earth, saviour from hate and jealousy, most adorable, giver of both material well being (abhyudaya) and spiritual freedom (nihshreyas), most munificent and majestic, and lord ruler and protector of both nature and the soul.

यच्चिद्धि त्वा जना इम नाना हवन्त ऊतय ।

3. Yacciddhi tvā janā ime nānā havanta ūtaye. Asmākaṁ brahmedam-indra bhūtu te'hā viśavā ca vardhanam.

Although these many people invoke you and pray for protection and progress for themselves in many different ways, yet, we pray, our adoration and prayers and all this wealth, honour and excellence bestowed upon us by you be dedicated to you and always, day and night, exalt your munificence and glory.

वि ततूयन्त मघवन्विपश्चिता या विपा जनानाम ।

4. Vi tartūryante maghavan vipaścito'ryo vipo janānām. Upa kramasva pururūpamā bhara vājaṁ nediṣṭham-ūtaye.

O lord of might and majesty, the wise, the noble and the vibrant leaders of the people, by your grace, cross over all obstacles of their struggle for life and success, whenever they face any. Pray, come lord and give us instant energy of versatile form for our protection and victory at the earliest.

मह॒ चन॒ त्वाम॑दिव॒ः परा॑ शु॒ल्काय॑ दयाम ।

5. Mahe cana tvām-adrivaḥ parā śulkāya deyām. Na sahasrāya nāyutāya vajrivo na śatāya śatāmagha.

O lord of infinite wealth, power and majesty, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and punishment, breaker of the clouds and mountains, bless me that I may never give up my devotion to you for the greatest material return, not for a thousand, not for a million, not even for the boundless wealth of the world.

वस्याँ॑ इन्दासि म पि॒तुरु॒त भातु॒रभु॑ञ्जतः ।

6. Vasyāň indrāsi me pituruta bhrātur-abhuñjataḥ. Mātā ca me chadayathaḥ samā vaso vasutva-nāya rādhase.

You command greater wealth, power and prestigious settlement for me than my father, you are closer to me than my indifferent brother. Only my mother and you are equal to provide me solace and protection, O shelter of the universe, for my wealth and celebrity in success (my mother as individual mother and you as universal mother).

7. Kveyatha kvedasi purutrā ciddhi te manaḥ. Alarṣi yudhma khajakṛt purandara pra gāyatrā agā-siṣuḥ.

Where do you move and reach? Where do you reside and abide? No one can say. Your mind and presence is everywhere, universal. O lord of the warlike dynamics of existence, pivot and churner of the universe, breaker of the citadels of darkness and ignorance, come and bless us, the celebrants and singers of Gayatri hymns invoke and adore you.

प्रास्मै गायत्रमर्चत वावातुयः पुरन्दरः ।

8. Prāsmai gāyatram-arcata vāvāturyaḥ purandaraḥ. Yābhiḥ kāṇvasyopa barhirāsadaṁ yāsad vajrī bhinat puraḥ.

O celebrants of Indra, lord of the thunderbolt, sing hymns of adoration in Gayatri music in honour of Indra who is breaker of the strongholds of darkness which oppose and oppress the lord's devotees, so that, pleased by these adorations, the lord may reveal his presence and grace the mind and vedi of the enlightened sages and break through the citadels of darkness to bless the devotees.

य त सन्ति दशग्विनः शतिना य सहस्त्रिणः ।

9. Ye te santi daśagvinaḥ śatino ye sahasriṇaḥ. Aśvāso ye te vṛṣaṇo raghudruvas-tebhir-nas-tūyamā gahi.

Indra, breaker of the citadels of darkness and ignorance to light, come post haste to us with all those lightning powers and forces of yours which are vigorous and generous, radiating into all the ten directions in a hundred and a thousand ways.

आ त्वे॒द्य स॑बर्दु॒घां हु॑व गा॑य॒त्रव॑पसम ।

10. Ā tvadya sabardughāṁ huve gāyatravepasam.
Indraṁ dhenuṁ sudughām-anyām-iṣamur-udhārām-araṁkṛtam.

Today I invoke Indra, I invoke the motherly spirit of the universe, giver of total fulfilment of the heart's desire, pleased and stirred by the chant of Gayatri songs of adoration, omnipotent and omnificent, generous as Mother Nature, giver of ample gifts beyond the earth and the earthly cow, harbinger of showers of the cherished nectar milk of life, all blissful and gracious.

यत्तु॒दत्सू॒र॒ एत॑शं व॒ङकू वात॑स्य प॒णिना ।

11. Yat tudat sūra etaśaṁ vaṅkū vātasya parṇinā.
Vahat kutsam-ārjuneyaṁ śatakratuḥ tsarad gandharvam-astṛtam.

Indra, lord immanent, omnipresent and all energiser, gives the initial stroke of motion to everything on the move such as the sun and the cloud by the waves of cosmic energy. Thus the lord of countless actions of cosmic yajna brings the thunderstroke of cosmic energy to move the sun, wielder of the earth, and he brings the thunder stroke of lightning to break the cloud into rain. (Indra thus is the unmoved, all immanent, original mover of the universe.)

य ऋ॒त चि॑दभि॒श्रिष॑ः पु॒रा ज॒त्रुभ्य॑ आ॒तृद॑ः ।

12. Ya ṛte cidabhiśriṣaḥ purā jatrubhya ātṛdaḥ. Saṁdhātā saṁdhiṁ maghavā purūvasur-iṣkartā vihrutaṁ punaḥ.

Indra is that vibrant immanent lord of unbounded natural health and assertive life energy who, without piercing and without ligatures, provides for the original jointure of the series of separate vertebrae and collar bones and then, later, heals and sets the same back into healthy order if they get dislocated or fractured.

मा भूम निष्ट्यार्इवन्द्र त्वदरंणाइव।

13. Mā bhūma niṣṭyā ivendra tvadaraṇā iva. Vanāni na prajahitānyadrivo duroṣāso amanmahi.

Indra, lord almighty, maker and breaker of clouds and mountains, free from anger and fear we adore you and pray: Give us the grace that we may never be like the lowest of human species with nothing to be proud of, let us never be like the indifferent and the depressed, let us never be reduced to the state of forsaken thickets of dead wood.

अमन्महीदनाशवो नुगासश्च वृत्रहन।

14. Amanmahīdanāśavo'nugrāsaśca vṛtrahan. Sakṛt su te mahatā śūra rādhasā 'nu stomaṁ mudīmahi.

Indra, omnipotent lord, destroyer of darkness and ignorance, we pray that, gently and at peace without anger or impatience, we always worship and meditate on you and, by virtue of your grandeur and glory, we should celebrate and exalt your honour and rejoice with exciting songs and yajnic sessions.

यदि॒ स्ताम॒ं मम॒ श्रव॑द॒स्माक॒मिन्द्र॒मिन्द॑वः ।

15. Yadi stomaṁ mama śravad-asmākam-indramin-davaḥ. Tiraḥ pavitraṁ sasṛvāṁsa āśavo mandantu tugryāvṛdhaḥ.

And if the lord omnipotent, Indra, listen to my song of divine celebration, then may the offers of homage and oblations of soma, quick and fast, augmented by holy waters, reaching the pure and immaculate lord, please and exalt him and delight us with success.

आ त्व१॒द्य स॒धस्तु॑तिं वा॒वातुः॒ सख्यु॒रा ग॑हि।

16. Ā tvadya sadhastutiṁ vāvātuḥ sakhyurā gahi. Upastutir-maghonāṁ pra tvāvatvadhā te vaśmi suṣṭutim.

O lord, pray come and accept the joint praise and adorations of your friends and devotees. And may the spontaneous and heart felt prayers and adorations of the wealthy and powerful also reach you today. And now it is my time and desire to offer my song of adoration.

सा॒ता॒ हि साम॒मदि॑भि॒रम॑नम॒प्सु धा॑वत।

17. Sotā hi somam-adribhir-emenam-apsu dhāvata. Gavyā vastreva vāsayanta innaro nirdhukṣan vakṣaṇābhyaḥ.

O friends and celebrants of Indra, lord omnipotent, extract the soma with grinders, mix and stir it in waters. Then leading lights of yajna, refining it like the concentration of sun rays, offer it into the fire and milk out waters in showers from space for the flowing streams.

Note: This mantra is a metaphor of meditation and spiritual realisation also. When you churn the world of your sense experiences, thought and memory, extract the essential value and offer it into the fire of meditation, then the light of divinity descends on you and your life is changed. It is then that the light of divinity flows into the channels of your thought and action.

अध॒ ज्मा अस्व॒ त॒न्वा॑ गि॒रा ममा॒ जा॒ता सु॑कता पृण ॥ १८ ॥

18. Adha jmo adha vā divo bṛhato rocanādadhi. Ayā vardhasva tanvā girā mamā'' jātā sukrato pṛṇa.

O lord refulgent and omnipotent, whether on earth or in the regions of light or even beyond the expansive light of heaven, be pleased and exalted by this refined and radiating voice of adoration and, O lord presiding spirit of yajna, bless us and our children with perfect fulfilment.

इन्दा॑य॒ सु म॒दिन्त॑मं॒ सामं साता॒ वरे॑ण्यम ।

19. Indrāya su madintamaṁ somaṁ sotā vareṇyam. Śakra eṇaṁ pīpayad viśvayā dhiyā hinvānaṁ na vājayum.

O celebrants of Indra, seekers of spiritual perfection, for the attainment of holiness of thought, karma and vision, extract the choicest, most exhilarating soma from life and offer it to Indra, spirit of the universe, and the lord omnipotent would bless this seeker of fulfilment calling upon the lord with universal intelligence and will for a life of perfect action.

मा त्वा सोमस्य गल्दया सदा याचन्नहं गिरा।

20. Mā tvā somasya galdayā sadā yācannahaṁ girā.
Bhūrṇiṁ mṛgaṁ na savaneṣu cukrudhaṁ ka

O lord, always beseeching you for one thing or another with my words of prayer as with each drop of soma offered to you, I pray, I may not provoke you to anger in yajna, you who are infinite giver and sole ruler of the universe like a lion of the forest. Listen, O lord, who doesn't ask of the ruler and the munificent?

21. Madeneṣitaṁ madam-ugram-ugreṇa śavasā.

When the lord is pleased with our devotion, then he grants us the most exciting joy along with brilliant strength and power which we love and pray for with enthusiasm and which eliminates all pride of the ego and helps us cross over all challenges of life.

22. Śevāre vāryā puru devo martāya dāśuṣe. Sa sunvate ca stuvate ca rāsate viśvagūrto ariṣṭutaḥ.

In the treasure hold of yajna, the self-refulgent lord universally adored keeps wealth and excellence of choice for the generous mortal which he, acknowledged and adored even by adversaries, gives to the celebrant and the worshipful lover of soma for homage to the lord.

एन्द्र याहि मत्स्व चित्रणो दव राधसा।

23. Endra yāhi matsva citreṇa deva rādhasā. Saro na prāsyudaraṁ sapītibhirā somebhiruru sphiram.

Indra, lord of glory, come with various wondrous forms of wealths of the world and let us rejoice in the bliss of your presence. Like the universal reservoir, fill our vast world of existence with exciting and soothing wealth, honour and excellence for complete self-fulfilment.

24. Ā tvā sahasramā śataṁ yuktā rathe hirṇyaye. Brahmayujo haraya indra keṣino vahantu somapītaye.

May the hundreds and thousands of forces of nature and humanity harnessed to the golden chariot of the universe, radiant with light and dedicated to divinity, invoke and invite you hither into the heart so that we may experience the bliss of divine presence.

आ त्वा॒ रथं॑ हिर॒ण्यय॒ हरी॑ म॒यूर॑शप्या ।

25. Ā tvā rathe hiraṇyaye harī mayūraśepyā. Śiti-pṛṣṭhā vahatāṁ madhvo andhaso vivakṣaṇasya pītaye.

May the vibrant forces of divine energy, joined to your golden chariot of the universe with rhythmic majesty like the peacock's feather tail and mighty power with circuitous motion of energy currents, radiate your presence here so that you may acknowledge and accept our love and homage and we experience the bliss of divine presence.

26. Pibā tvasya girvaṇaḥ sutasya pūrvapā iva. Pariṣkṛtasya rasina iyam-āsutiś-cārur-madāya patyate.

Like the eternal lord of love fond of the celebrant's homage, come and accept the devotee's love and faith distilled from life's experience. The flow of the ecstatic celebrant's clairvoyance pure and sweet is full of ananda and radiates from the heart for spiritual bliss.

य एका॒ अस्ति॑ दं॒सना॑ म॒हाँ उ॒ग्रा अ॒भि व्र॒तः ।

27. Ya eko asti daṁsanā mahāň ugro abhi vṛtaiḥ. Gamat sa śiprī na sa hoṣadā gamaddhavaṁ na pari varjati.

He is one, unique and incomparable, great by his omnipotence and action, refulgent and supreme by his laws and observance. May the lord, like the light of grace, descend on us, may he never be away, may be ever respond to our call and come to our yajna and never forsake us.

28. Tvaṁ puraṁ cariṣṇvaṁ vadhaiḥ śuṣṇasya saṁ piṇak. Tvaṁ bhā anu caro adha dvitā yadindra havyo bhuvaḥ.

With fatal strokes of arms, you destroy the forces of evil and exploitation on the rampant, you are the light of life and bless the lights of life in action, and thus you are doubly adorable and worshipped in two complementary aspects, as destroyer and as preserver, O lord omnipotent and self-refulgent.

मम त्वा सूर उदित मम मध्यन्दिन दिवः।

29. Mama tvā sūra udite mama madhyandine divaḥ. Mama prapitve apiśarvare vasavā stomāso avṛtsata.

O lord of the universe, shelter of life and existence, at the dawn of sunrise let my prayers and songs of exaltation reach you. At the middle of the day when the sun is on the high, let my prayers and songs of adoration reach you. And when the day is over and night is fallen and the stars shine, let my songs of prayer and peace reach you.

30. Stuhi stuhīdete ghā te maṁhiṣṭhāso maghonām. ninditāśvaḥ prapathī paramajyā maghasya medhyātithe.

O Medhyatithi, venerable traveller on life's highway, O guest, O host, pray to Indra, adore him, and these too around you, all richest of the rich and mightiest of the mighty, should adore him: omnipresent, faster than the fastest, instantly moving all round over paths of infinity, commanding the rule and dispensation of the highest wealth and power of existence.

31. Ā yadaśvān vananvataḥ śraddhayāhaṁ rathe ruham. Uta vāmasya vasunaściketati yo asti yādvaḥ paśuḥ.

When I control the outgoing senses and mind and look within riding as if the body chariot with faith, then in that state of experience whoever is refined and watchful knows the inner secrets of this beautiful world of existence.

Agni, omnipresent light of life, the dedicated man of charity conducting yajnic and spiritual projects in science and spirituality exceeds others by tens and thousands especially when he gives to me ten highly brilliant and creative gifts rising like lotus from a lake.

The gross form of the universe is seen emerging from the infinite transphysical spiritual reality. The eternal Mother Nature watches and says: O lord of gracious charity, you alone hold the blessed food for the life of mortal humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 2

Indra (1-40) Danastuti (41-42) Devata, Medhatithi Kanva and Priyamedha Angirasa (1-40), Medhatithi Kanva (41-42) Rshis

इ॒दं व॑सा सु॒तमन्ध॒: पिबा॒ सुपू॑णमु॒दर॑म ।

1. Idaṁ vaso sutam-andhaḥ pibā supūrṇam-udaram. Anābhayin rarimā te.

O lord of the world's treasure of wealth, honour and excellence, here is this exhilarating soma nectar of love and devotion distilled from the heart and soul. Pray drink of it to your heart's content. We offer it to you, lord beyond fear.

नृभि॑र्धू॒त: सु॒ता अश्न॒रव्या॒ वार॒: परि॑पूत: ।

2. Nṛbhirdhūtaḥ suto aśnairavyo vāraiḥ paripūtaḥ. Aśvo na nikto nadīṣu.

Stirred by best of men, crushed and filtered by men of adamantine character, purified and guarded by best of the brave, it is sparkling like sun rays reflected on the river waters.

3. Taṁ te yavaṁ yathā gobhiḥ svādumakarma śrīṇantaḥ. Indra tvāsmint-sadhamāde.

That sparkling soma drink of devotion seasoned with barley, mixed with milk and cream, we, blenders, having prepared it, offer to you in this house of celebration.

इन्द्र इत्सोमपा एक इन्द्रः सुतपा विश्वायुः ।

4. Indra it somapā eka indraḥ sutapā viśvāyuḥ.
Antardevān martyāṁśca.

Among ordinary mortals and among divines of wisdom and vision, Indra, the karmayogi, alone is the protector of soma, Indra, the man of knowledge and dedication, alone is the valuer of the worshipper's devotion and homage as he alone has the world vision.

न यं शुका न दुराशीन तृपा उरुव्यचसम ।

5. Na yaṁ śukro na durāśīrna ṭprā uruvyacasam.
Apaspṛṇvate suhārdam.

Neither the most sparkling soma of devotion nor the most sophisticated and aromatic, nor the most delightful, ever satiate the lord infinite of the holiest heart and love.

गाभिर्यदीमन्य अस्मन्मृगं न वा मृगयन्त ।
अभित्सरन्ति धेनुभिः ॥ ६ ॥

6. Gobhir-yadīmanye asmanmṛgaṁ na vrā mṛgayante. Abhitsaranti dhenubhiḥ.

Multitudes of people other than us approved him and try to inveigle him with creamy entertainment and sweet flattering words of adoration just like a hunter baiting a lion (but they fail).

स्व ाय सुतपाव्नः ॥ ७ ॥

7. Traya indrasya somāḥ sutāsaḥ santu devasya.
Sve kṣaye sutapāvnaḥ.

For self-refulgent and generous Indra who is fond of the soma dedication of devotees, there are three sessions of soma distilled and offered in homage in the devotee's own home of yajna and prayer, at dawn, at mid-day and in the evening before night fall.

त्रयः काशासः श्चातन्ति तिस्त्रश्चम्वऽः सुपूर्णाः।
समान अधि भामन ॥ ८ ॥

8. Trayaḥ kośāsaḥ ścotanti tisraścamvaḥ supūrṇāḥ.
Samāne adhi bhārman.

In the same one session of yajna, there are three vessels of soma dripping with the nectar and three ladles of ghrta overflowing with homage for the fire in honour of the lord.

शुचिरसि पुरुनिःष्ठाः ीरमध्यत आशीतः।
दध्ना मन्दिष्ठः शूरस्य ॥ ९ ॥

9. Śucirasi puruniḥṣṭhāḥ kṣīrair-madhyata áśīrtaḥ.
Daghnā mandiṣṭhaḥ śūrasya.

Celestial soma, divine devotion of the dedicated, you are pure and potent, dedicated to the joy of many and the lord eternal, and seasoned in the process with milk, cream and curds. Surely you are the most delightful love of the heroic brave.

इम त इन्द्र सामास्तीवा अस्म सुतासः।

10. Ime ta indra somāstīvrā asme sutāsaḥ.
Śukrā āśiraṁ yācante.

These are for you, Indra, soma oblations of the most potent order distilled by us. Pure and powerful they are, offered in homage with prayer and hope for a share of the celestial bliss of faith and love.

ताँ आशिरं पुराळाशमिन्द्रमं सामं श्रीणीहि।

11. Tāṁ āśiraṁ puroḷāśam-indremaṁ somaṁ śrīṇīhi.
Revantaṁ hi tvā śṛṇomi.

Indra, lord of glory, come and join this soma celebration of milk and barley delicacies with joy. You command the wealth, honour, excellence and glory of the world, I hear. I believe, I share and celebrate.

हृत्सु पीतासो युध्यन्त दुमदासो न सुरायाम।
ऊधन नग्ना जरन्त॥ १२॥

12. Hṛtsu pītāso yudhyante durmadāso na surāyām.
Udharna nagnā jarante.

Draughts of soma create exhilarations in the heart unlike intoxication and illusions of wine, and the celebrants adore the spirit divine as the ocean of ecstasy.

रवाँ इदवतः स्ताता स्यात्त्वावता मघानः।
पदु हरिवः श्रुतस्य ॥ १३॥

13. Revāṁ id revataḥ stotā syāt tvāvato maghonaḥ.
Predu harivaḥ śrutasya.

Indra, master and commander of dynamic forces, may the celebrant of the brilliant, bountiful and renowned like you be brilliant, prosperous and celebrated. That is but natural.

उक्थं चन शस्यमानमगोरिरा चिकत।
न गायत्रं गीयमानम॥ १४॥

14. Ukthaṁ cana śasyamānam-agorarirā ciketa.
Na gāyatraṁ gīyamānam.

Indra, lord of power and piety, the man attached to divinity in faith and opposed to doubt and disloyalty knows the words of praise spoken by a man of doubtful faith as much as he knows the songs of adoration sung by a man of faith (and makes a distinction between the two).

मा नं इन्द पीयत्नवे मा शर्धते परा दाः।
शिक्षा शचीवः शचीभिः॥ १५॥

15. Mā na indra pīyatnave mā śardhate parā dāḥ.
Śikṣā śacīvaḥ śacībhiḥ.

Indra, lord of refulgent power, give us not away to the scornful abuser nor to the wild tyrant. With your laws and powers, pray discipline, rule, instruct and enlighten us.

वयमु त्वा तदिदर्था इन्द त्वायन्तः सखायः।
कण्वा उक्थभिर्जरन्त॥ १६॥

16. Vayamu tvā radidarthā indra tvāyantaḥ sakhāyaḥ.
Kaṇvā ukthebhir-jarante.

Indra, we too have the same aims and objectives as you. We are your friends and admirers. We know and wish to achieve, and with all words of praise and appreciation, we adore you as others, wise devotees, do.

Indra, even from far and wide regions you destroy the forces of darkness and evil, free helpless victims of the mighty violent and crafty demon, set in motion showers of the cloud and open out treasures of the mountain.

निरग्नयो रुरुचुर्निरु सूर्यो निः सोम इन्द्रियो रसः।

20. Niragnayo rurucurniru sūryo niḥ soma indriyo rasaḥ. Nirantarikṣādadhamo mahāmahiṁ kṛṣe tadindra pauṁsyam.

When you broke the mighty cloud in showers from the sky and destroyed the evil from earth, the fires of earth shone and rose bright, the sun shone in glory and the soma juices for the celebration of Indra, lord of might and majesty, flowed from the herbs. That was a great deed of prowess worthy of the lord.

(Similarly when Indra, lord almighty, and also the individual soul, throws out the evil from the heart and mind, then the inner light shines bright, the fire of good life is kindled and rises, and the soma spirit of divine joy flows and rolls in the heart. That indeed is a mighty deed of the lord's prowess, and of the individual soul too.)

The light of knowledge and spiritual enlightenment which Indra, self-refulgent lord, and vibrant saints and sages have given me is stable, mature and universally dynamic, it is the brightest of all wealths of the world in the spiritual essence, and it shines within like the sun coursing in the spaces of light as a divine horse.

23. Yasmā anye daśa prati dhuraṁ vahanti vahnayaḥ. Astaṁ vayo na tugryam.

And to me he has given ten others, carriers which carry me forward like birds or sun-rays bearing a mighty king to his royal home. These are ten senses of perception and volition, and the ten pranic energies.

24. Ātmā pitustanūrvāsa ojodā abhyañjanam. Turīyamid rohitasya pākasthāmānaṁ bhojaṁ dātāramabravam.

The individual self is but filial manifestation in reflection of the father, giver of the soul's dwelling in body, giver of light and lustre, purifier and sanctifier, divine destroyer of evil, giver and cleanser of mind and its colourful fluctuations. I celebrate the holy father of purity and sanctity, giver of food and energy for the world of stability.

च॒का॒णा वृ॒ष्णि॒ प॑ंस्यम ॥ २३ ॥

23. Vi vṛtraṁ parvaśo yayurvi parvatāṅ arājinaḥ.
Cakrāṇā vṛṣṇi pauṁsyam.

Doing acts of mighty vigour and splendour they break the clouds of darkness and evil and split open cavernous mountains step by step and bring light and showers of rain.

अनु त्रितस्य युध्यतः शुष्ममाव ृत कतुम।
अन्विन्दं वृत्रतूय ॥ २४ ॥

24. Anu tritasya yudhyataḥ śuṣmam-āvannuta kratum. Anvindraṁ vṛtratūrye.

They reinforce the powers of life struggling for positive forces fighting against three negativities of body, mind and soul, and they support and reinforce the ruler in his battle against evil and darkness.

विद्युद्धस्ता अभिद्यवः शिपाः शीषन्हिर ण्ययीः।
शुभा व्यञ्जत श्रिय ॥ २५ ॥

25. Vidyuddhastā abhidyavaḥ śiprāḥ śīrṣan hiraṇ-yayīḥ. Śubhrā vyañjata śriye.

Thunder in hand, all round refulgent, wearing golden helmets on the head, they shine bright and pure for the beauty and glory of life.

उशना यत्परावत उ णा रन्धमयातन।
द्यान चकदद्भिया ॥ २६ ॥

26. Uśanā yat parāvata ukṣṇo randhramayātana. Dyaurna cakradad bhiyā.

Impassioned for action when the virile Maruts rush to a region of low pressure in the sky from afar, the cloud, as the higher regions, roars under fear and pressure.

आ नो मखस्य दावन श्वहिरण्यपाणिभिः।
दवांस उप गन्तन॥ २७॥

27. Ā no makhasya dāvane'śvair-hiraṇyapāṇibhiḥ.
Devāsa upa gantana.

O divinities of power and generous splendour, to augment and energise our yajna, pray come by motive forces of golden hoof and golden wheel and bless us in person.

यदेषां पृषती रथ पष्टिवहति राहितः।
यान्ति शुभा रिण न्यपः॥ २८॥

28. Yadeṣāṁ pṛṣatī rathe praṣṭirvahati rohitaḥ.
Yānti śubhrā riṇannapaḥ.

When the fiery force drives the Maruts in their chariot towards regions of abundant water or to the clouds laden with vapour, then these heroes go forward bright and pure splitting and flying off the vapours and waters.

सुषामं शयणावत्याजीक पस्त्यावति।
ययुर्निचक्रया नरः॥ २९॥

29. Suṣome śaryaṇāvatyārjīke pastyāvati. Yayur-nicakrayā naraḥ.

The leading Marut forces proceed to beautiful regions of peace and joy on higher altitudes and to the simple natural planes without vehicular medium by direct currents of energy.

कदा गच्छाथ मरुत इत्था विप्रं हवमानम।
माडीकभिनाधमानम॥ ३०॥

30. Kadā gacchātha maruta itthā vipraṁ hava-mānam. Mārḍīkebhir-nādhamānam.

O Maruts, when would you thus reach the vibrant scholar who calls you to yajna and awaits, and carry gifts of prosperity to the supplicant?

कद्धं नूनं कधप्रिया यदिन्द्रमजहातन।
का वः सख्त्व आहत॥ ३१॥

31. Kaddha nūnaṁ kadhapriyo yadindramajahātana. Ko vaḥ sakhitva ohate.

Does a friend of constancy ever forsake Indra, the ruler? Who thinks twice on the value of friendship with you? (No one forsakes you, everyone loves to be friends with you.)

सहा षु णा वजहस्तैः कण्वासा अग्निं मरुद्भिः।
स्तुष हिरण्यवाशीभिः॥ ३२॥

32. Saho ṣu ṇo vajrahastaiḥ kaṇvāso agniṁ marud-bhiḥ. Stuṣe hiraṇyavāśībhiḥ.

O sages and scholars, I praise and celebrate Agni, fiery leader and enlightened ruler along with thunder-handed, golden-armed Maruts, stormy troopers of the nation. Let us all praise and celebrate them.

आ षु वृष्णः पयज्यूना नव्यस सुवितायं।
ववृत्यां चित्रवाजान॥ ३३॥

33. O ṣu vṛṣṇaḥ prayajyūnā navyase suvitāya. Vavṛtyāṁ citravājān.

For the sake of latest forms of happiness, prosperity and well being, I turn to the virile and generous, most adorable and wondrous versatile warriors of the winds and abide by them.

गिरयश्चि जिहत पशानासा मन्यमानाः ।
पवताश्चि यमिर ॥ ३४ ॥

34. Girayaścinni jihate parśānāso manyamānāḥ.
Parvatāścinni yemire.

Mountains give way before them, formidable peaks pant and turn into chasms and clouds change their course under the force of Maruts.

आ णयावाना वहन्त्यन्तरि णि पतंतः ।
धातारः स्तुवत वयः ॥ ३५ ॥

35. Ākṣṇayāvāno vahantyantarikṣeṇa patataḥ.
Dhātaraḥ stuvate vayaḥ.

Chariots flying at the speed of eye-light over the paths of space transport the Maruts, harbingers of food, energy, health and full age for the celebrant.

अग्निहि जानि पूव्यश्छन्दा न सूरा अचिषा ।
त भानुभि वि तस्थिर ॥ ३६ ॥

36. Agnirhi jāni pūrvyaśchando na sūro arciṣā.
Te bhānubhir vi tasthire.

Agni, earliest ruling light of the world, came into existence with self-refulgence like the sun and the music of Vedic voice, and the Maruts manifested and ever abided by rays of the sun and flames of fire.

स धीभिरस्तु सनिता॥ ९॥

9. So addhā dāśvadhavaro'gne martaḥ subhaga sa praśaṁsyaḥ. Sa dhībhirastu sanita.

O lord of universal wealth and grandeur, Agni, we pray, may the mortal come to sure success and good fortune who gives in charity and performs acts of yajnic creativity with love and without violence. May such a man be worthy of praise and appreciation with holy acts of intelligence and may he be rich in acquisitions and liberal in dispensations of charity.

10. Yasya tvamūrdhvo adhvarāya tiṣṭhasi kṣayad-vīraḥ sa sādhate. So arvadbhiḥ sanitā sa vipan-yubhiḥ sa śūraiḥ sanitā kṛtam.

The man for whose acts of yajna you rise high and stay constant is blest with brave progeny and achieves all round success in life. He is blest with horses and incoming wealth and honour. Surrounded by the wise, he is blest with praise and high appreciation. Supported by the brave, he achieves fulfilment in whatever he does and whatever he wants to do.

11. Yasyāgnir-vapurgṛhe stomaṁ cano dadhīta viśvavāryaḥ. Havyā vā veviṣad viṣaḥ.

Blest is the man in whose house Agni, lord of universal acceptance with faith and reverence, through the divine fire form of yajna, receives oblations of holy food and Vedic songs of praise and the fire sends up yajnic food to nature's divinities. He achieves total fulfilment in every field of life through the bounties of divine nature.

12. Viprasya vā stuvataḥ sahaso yaho makṣūt-amasya rātiṣu. Avo-devam-uparimartyaṁ kṛdhi vaso vividuṣo vacaḥ.

And O child of strength born of yajnic endeavour and sustainer of vitality in human affairs, O Vasu, all pervasive divine fire, living shelter of all, convert the song of the vibrant scholar celebrant to super mortal prayer and raise it to reach the heights of divinity.

या अग्निं हव्यदातिभिर्नमोभिर्वा सुदक्षमाविवासति।

13. Yo agniṁ havyadātibhir-namobhir-vā sudakṣam-āvivāsati. Girā vājira-śociṣam.

One who lights the versatile yajnic fire and thereby whole heartedly serves the fire divine of imperishable flames with oblations of sacred havis, reverence and holy words of prayer never falls, never fails in life.

14. Samidhā yo niśitī dāśadaditiṁ dhāmabhirasya martyaḥ. Viśvet sa dhībhiḥ subhago janāँ ati dyumnairudga iva tāriṣat.

The mortal who serves Aditi, immortal fire of mother Infinity, with blazing fuel within the radiance of its own laws is blest with the wealth and splendour of all orders of intelligence, honour and fame and surpasses all people of the other order like a captain on the helm crossing the stormy seas.

15. Tadagne dyumnamā bhara yat sāhasat sadane kaṁ cidatriṇam. Manyuṁ janasya dūḍhyaḥ.

Agni, lord of light and life, give us that splendour of spirit and intelligence which may challenge and overcome any voracious friend at the door, in the heart and home, and counter the wealth of any evil minded person anywhere in life.

16. Yena caṣṭe varuṇo mitro aryamā yena nāsatyā bhagaḥ. Vyaṁ tat te śavasā gātuvittamā indra tvotā vidhemahi.

Agni, lord of light and life, we worship, pray for and try to acquire that light of vision and discrimination of intelligence of yours by which Varuna, man of judgement and justice, Mitra, man of love and friendship, Aryaman, guide and pioneer of society, the Ashvins, complementary agents of development and progress, and Bhaga, man of power, fame and honour, envision things in unison, discriminate right from wrong, and declare for all to see and follow the right so that thereby, O Indra, ruling lord and power version of Agni, we all, most keen to know the paths of progress and follow them, may advance with the power of our will and knowledge under your guidance and protection.

17. Te ghedagne svādhyo ye tvā vipra nidadhire nṛcakṣasam. Viprāso deva sukratum.

Agni, self-refulgent lord of life, vibrant presence of the universe, surely they are the wise and holy men and they are the blessed men of noble thought and study worthy of reverence who hold on to the light of your presence in the heart and meditate on the presence as the lord observant of humanity and as the high priest of the cosmic yajna.

18. Ta id vediṁ subhaga ta āhutiṁ te sotuṁ cakrire divi. Ta id vājebyir-jigyur-mahad dhanaṁ ye tve kāmaṁ nyerire.

Lord of glory and divine grace, Agni, they alone in reality organise the yajna vedi, they really offer the oblations into the sacred fire, they in truth endeavour to distil the soma of joy in the light of divinity, they in ultimate terms win the wealth of life by their struggle of life, who concentrate their hopes and ambitions in you and attribute and dedicate all their success, honour and fame to you.

Lord of beauty and glory, may the yajna fire with offers of oblations be auspicious for us. May our charity be auspicious. May our yajna and all other acts of kindness and love free from violence be auspicious. And may all the appreciation and praise of our acts and behaviour be auspicious and fruitful.

20. Bhadraṁ manaḥ kṛṇuṣva vṛtratūrye yenā samatsu sāsahaḥ. Ava sthirā tanuhi bhūri śardhatāṁ vanemā te abhiṣṭibhiḥ.

Agni, leading light of life, turn the mind by which you challenge the adversary in battles and win for us to gracious goodness in the victory over the forces of darkness. Reduce the many strongholds of the violent adversaries to nullity so that by your kindness and favours we may win what we desire in peace.

21. Īḷe girā manurhitaṁ yaṁ devā dūtam-aratiṁ nyerire. Yajiṣṭhaṁ havyavāhanam.

With words of praise I celebrate Agni, sacred fire energy, benefactor of humanity whom brilliant scholars honour and elevate as messenger, speedy ministrant, most valuable and adorable, and bearer of oblations to the divinities of nature.

22. Tigmajambhāya taruṇāya rājate prayo gāyasyagnaye. Yaḥ piṁśate sūnṛtābhiḥ suvīryam-agnir-ghṛtebhir-āhutaḥ.

O yajaka, you sing and celebrate Agni and offer libations of holy food to the flaming, ever youthful and brilliant fire of yajna which, when fed on ghrta and sung in sacred song, gives you strength and vigour in return for the homage.

23. Yadī ghṛtebhir-āhuto vāśīm-agnir-bharata uccāva ca . Asura iva nirṇijam.

When the fire of yajna fed on ghrta rises in flames with a crackle up and down, then it displays its form and power like an earthly version of the sun radiating its light.

24. Yo havyānyairayatā manurhito deva āsā sugandhinā. Vivāsate vāryāṇi svadhvaro hotā devo amartyaḥ.

Agni is the divine power which receives and carries the holy materials to the divinities by its fragrant vedi-mouth of fire. It is the benefactor of humanity and gives the choicest good things to all. It is the agent of good action and illuminator of the paths of piety. It is the high priest of universal yajna and an immortal divine power.

Agni, light and life of the world, child of omnipotence and creator of the mighty cosmos, mortal as I am, if I could worship you and were to become like you, I too would be an immortal, great adorable friend of the world of existence.

26. Na tvā rāsīyābhiśastaye vaso na pāpatvāya santya. Na me stotāmatīvā na durhitaḥ syādagne na pāpayā.

Agni, light of life, haven and home of humanity, let me not worship you for the sake of something despicable. Lord adorable, nor must I pray to you for something evil. Let not my own admirer, say my son or my disciple, be stupid and dull, nor malignant, nor sinful.

पितुन पुत्रः सुभृता दुराण आ देवाँ एतु पथा हविः॥ २७॥

27. Piturna putraḥ subhṛto duroṇa ā devāँ etu pra ṇo haviḥ.

Just as the son is cherished in the father's home and then the son looks after the parents, similarly Agni is cherished in the house of yajna and may Agni carry our oblations to the divinities.

28. Tavāhamagna ūtibhir-neḍiṣṭhābhiḥ saceya joṣamā vaso. Sadā devasya martyaḥ.

Agni, light of life all pervasive, shelter home of humanity, mortal as I am, I pray, may I, by the closest protections of the power divine always enjoy the love and favour of the lord.

By virtue of your mercy and grace, let me love you with yajnic life of holy action. By virtue of your acceptance, appreciation and generosity, let me serve you with all that you have given me. The wise say that you are the wisest, most high, and foremost leader and guide, O shelter of humanity. O lord, be pleased and generous to bless me that I may offer and sing praises in honour of your glory.

Agni, lord of universal love and friendship, he whose love and friendship, devotion and dedication, you accept into your kind care thrives under your protection and promotion and advances in life with noble and heroic progeny, moving from victory to glory.

Agni, giver of the showers of joy in life, the world of your creation flows on like drops of soma from the press, colourful, crackling voluble, exciting and fresh through the seasons, bright and beautiful, passionately lovable. You are darling of the glory of dawns and you shine ever in the glimmerings of the dusk and reflect in the ripples of water.

Blest with wealth and knowledge and bearing gifts of homage, for ultimate protection and further advancement, we have come to the lord almighty of a thousand forces of light and arms, object of universal love and adoration, blazing ruler of the universe and a scourge of the evil destroyers.

Of you, Agni, lord and light of the universe, on whom do other lights such as the sun depend like branches of the tree, I sing like a poet and, celebrating your ruling orders of the people, I enjoy the honour and pleasures of the world of your creation.

O Adityas, generous givers of light and life free from malice and jealousy, of all the people of wealth, honour and power, whoever the mortal you guide and lead across the world of karma and consequence, he is the man of good fortune.

Adityas, powers and givers of light and justice, rulers of the bright order over people, punish whoever does evil and violence toward the law abiding citizens. O Vauna, ruling power of judgement and justice, Mitra, men of love and friendship, and Aryaman, guides and pioneers of the nation, let us be cooperative participants to take over the reins of your law and order of the truth and justice of your vision.

Marutah Devatah, Sobhari Kanva Rshi

आ ग॑न्ता॒ मा रि॑षण्यत॒ प्रस्थॉवाना॒ माप॑ स्थाता समन्यवः। स्थि॒रा चि॑ न्मयिष्णवः ॥ १ ॥

1. Ā gantā mā riṣaṇyata prasthāvāno māpa sthātā samanyavaḥ. Sthirā cinnamayiṣṇavaḥ.

Come Maruts, warriors of nature and humanity. Do not hurt nor destroy the innocent. Already on the move as ever, pray do not tarry any more far away. Heroes of equal passion, will and desire to accomplish your mission, you can bend even the firmest forces of violence and bring them to reason.

2. Vīḷupavibhir-maruta ṛbhukṣaṇa ā rudrāsaḥ sudītibhiḥ. Iṣā no adyā gatā puruspṛho yajñamā sobharīyavaḥ.

Mighty leaders of will and intelligence, lovers and protectors of the good, destroyers of want and suffering, honoured and invoked by all, come right now at the fastest by blazing chariots of the strongest wheel with forces of thunder and join our yajnic programme of creation and development with abundant food and energy.

3. Vidmā hi rudriyāṇāṁ śuṣmamugraṁ marutāṁ śimīvatām. Viṣṇoreṣasya mīḷhuṣām.

We know the virile Maruts dedicated to peace and justice against violence and injustice. They are harbingers of rain showers of plenty as participative agents of the cosmic will working in the dynamics of nature and humanity.

4. Vi dvīpāni pāpatan tiṣṭhad ducchunobhe yujanta rodasī. Pra dhanvānyairata śubhrakhādayo yadejatha svabhānavaḥ.

O self-refulgent Maruts, when you in your blazing armour stir and move, islands sink at their banks, the evil stand still, both heaven and earth shake and the deserts rage with flying sands.

5. Acyutā cid vo ajmannā nānadati parvatāso vanaspatiḥ. Bhūmiryāmeṣu rejate.

At your move to battle, fixed mountains roar, ancient trees crack and crackle, and the earth shakes under the force of your pressure.

O Maruts, for the expansion of your force and power on the march, the vast skies give way farther and farther as the heroes of mighty arm put on and display their armour on their person.

7. Svadhāmanu śriyaṁ naro mahi tveṣā amavanto vṛṣapsavaḥ. Vahante ahrutapsavaḥ.

These mighty heroes, blazing bright in magnificence, commanding force and power of excellence, generous with moral rectitude, far from crookedness and unshakably upright in conduct, wear and express the grace of culture and behaviour in keeping with their innate merit and dedication to the defence of mother earth and her children.

The missile of these protectors, sustainers and defenders of the earth is shot by the force of sounds in the golden interior of the carrier chariot. May these heroes, friends of the earth, nobly born and trained, great and glorious, stand for our maintenance, food and energy, comfort, love and cooperation.

O Maruts, stormy troops of nature and leading warriors of the human nation, come freely like the mighty high flying eagle birds and bring us holy yajnic inputs for development and human progress for our protection and advancement by your strongly built chariot drawn by mighty forces, bearing loads of riches in generous plenty for our spiritual and material well being.

Bold and fearsome are they, vigorous and generous, strong of arm, so that they don't have to exert to defend their bodies and battle formations. Their arms and ammunitions are safe and strong, ready in position in their chariots, and in their battles they come out victorious with credit and admiration.

13. Yeṣāmarṇo na sapratho nāma tveṣaṁ śaśvatā-mekamid bhuje. Vayao na pitryaṁ sahaḥ.

Ever ready and on the move without relent, their name and fame is unique, wide as the sea and expansive. So is their courage and patience to be enjoyed like ancestral heritage.

14. Tān vandasva marutastāṁ upa stuhi teṣāṁ hi dhunīnām. Arāṇāṁ na caramastadeṣāṁ dānā mahnā tadeṣām.

Honour the Maruts, celebrate them all closely and fervently. As the spokes of the wheel are all equal, so all of these shakers of the evil and the wicked are equal, none is the highest, none the lowest. Hence also the gifts of protection and security of all of them are equally great.

There are those people who honour the virile and generous Maruts, warriors and rain bearers of the nation. There are also those generous and charitable people who act and conduct themselves according to the Maruts' good wishes. For this reason, O youthful heroes, come and promote us with a very liberal and sympathetic heart as your own.

रिहत ककुभा मिथः॥ २१॥

21. Gāvaścid ghā samanyavaḥ sajātyena marutaḥ sabandhavaḥ. Rihate kakubho mithaḥ.

O Maruts, heroes of equal mind bound in brotherhood, even cows, by virtue of the same species sit together and love each other under your kind care even though they may be moving around in different directions.

22. Martaścid vo nṛtavo rukmavakṣasa upa bhrātṛvamāyati. Adhi no gāta marutaḥ sadā hi va āpitvamasti nidhruvi.

Mortals too, O Maruts, singing and dancing celebrants of life wearing golden corselet on the chest, come to realise their kindred unity under your kind care and direction. Sing and speak to us over and above us since our brotherhood with you is always inviolable.

मरुता मारुतस्य न आ भेषजस्य वहता सुदानवः ।

23. Maruto mārutasya na ā bheṣajasya vahatā sudānavaḥ. Yūyaṁ sakhāyaḥ saptayaḥ.

O Maruts, sojourners of lands and skies, moving in formations of seven coursers, noble and generous friends of the community, bring in for us medicaments of the air for our health and environment.

याभिः सिन्धुमवथ याभिस्तूर्वथ याभिर्दशस्यथा कृविम ।

24. Yābhiḥ sindhumavatha yābhistūrvatha yābhir-daśasyathā krivim. Mayo no bhūtotibhirmayo-bhuvaḥ śivābhirasacadviṣaḥ.

O heroes of lands and seas and skies, free from hate, jealousy and enmity, bring us that tactic and policy and modes of defence and protection by which you guard the sea, repulse encroachment, and dig and construct tanks and wells and give them to people. O heroes of peace and well-being, be good and kind with safeguards of all type, safe guards and defences of auspicious and benevolent kind.

यत्सिन्धा यदसिक्न्यां यत्समुद्रषु मरुतः सुबर्हिषः ।

25. Yat sindhau yadasiknyāṁ yat samudreṣu marutaḥ subarhiṣaḥ. Yat parvateṣu bheṣajam.

O Maruts, who sit on the holy seat of yajna, bring us the sanatives and medicaments that are in the rivers and the seas, in the darkness of caves, in the oceans and on the mountains.

विश्वं॒ पश्यन्ता बिभृथा त॒नूष्वा तना॑ ना॒ अधि॑ वाचत।

26. Viśvaṁ paśyanto bibhṛthā tanūṣvā tenā no adhi vocata. Kṣamā rapo maruta āturasya na iṣkartā vihrutaṁ punaḥ.

O Maruts, you watch the world and all that it contains. You bear and bring all that knowledge and competence on your person, and with that pray, bless our physical body system and our body politic. By virtue of that knowledge and experience speak to us. O heroes of nature and humanity, cure the weakness, sin and suffering of our sick and restore to full health and efficiency whatever is broken and lost.

Indra (1-16), Chitra (17-18) Devate, Sobhari Kanva Rshi

व॒यमु॒ त्वामपूव्य स्थू॒रं न कच्चि॒द्भर॑न्ता व॒स्यव॑ः।

1. Vayamu tvāmapūrvya sthūraṁ na kaccid bharanto'vasyavaḥ. Vāje citraṁ havāmahe.

O lord sublime, eternal, first and most excellent, we, bearing almost nothing substantial but praying for protection and advancement, invoke you in our battle of life for food, energy, knowledge and ultimate victory.

उप॑ त्वा॒ कर्म॑न्नू॒तय॒ स ना॒ युवा॒गश्च॑काम॒ या धृ॒षत।

2. Upa tvā karmannūtaye sa no yuvograścakrāma yo dhṛṣat. Tvāmiddhyavitāraṁ vavṛmahe sakhāya indra sānasim.

We approach you for protection and success in every undertaking. O lord youthful and blazing brave who can challenge and subdue any difficulty, pray come to our help. Indra, friends and admirers of yours, we depend on you alone as our sole saviour and victorious lord and choose to pray to you only as the lord supreme.

आ या॑हीम इन्द॒वा श्व॑पत॒ गाप॑त॒ उव॑रापत।

3. Ā yāhīma indavo'śvapate gopata urvarāpate. Somaṁ somapate piba.

Come lord of cows, horses and fertile lands, giver and protector of the nation and its glory, knowledge and wisdom and our creative activities, the somas of our success are for you to appreciate. O lord of life and life's joy of soma, come and join the ecstasy of our achievement and its celebration.

4. Vayaṁ hi tvā bandhumantam-abandhavo viprāsa indra yemima. Yā te dhāmāni vṛṣabha tebhirā gahi viśvabhiḥ somapītaye.

Bereft of any permanent brotherhood in mortal humanity, we are drawn by ourselves to you, enlightened as we are and universal brother as you are in kinship divine. O lord of universal vigour and generosity, with all the world regions you command, come with the glory of all those worlds, join our soma celebrations, accept our devotion and protect this social order.

सीदन्तस्त वया यथा गाश्रीत मधा मदिर विव ाण।
अभि त्वामिन्द नानुमः ॥ ५ ॥

5. Sīdantaste vayo yathā gośrīte madhau madire vivakṣaṇe. Abhi tvāmindra nonumaḥ.

Nestled like birds in the nest, in your exuberant, exciting, honey sweet yajnic world of light and joy overflowing with delicacies of food and drink, we bow to you and worship you in thankfulness.

अच्छा च त्वना नमसा वदामसि कं मुहुश्चिद्वि दीधयः।

6. Acchā ca tvainā namasā vadāmasi kiṁ muhuścid vi dīdhayaḥ. Santi kāmāso harivo dadiṣṭvaṁ smo vayaṁ santi no dhiyaḥ.

Profusely with this salutation and homage, we honour and praise you and pray to you again and again. Why do you hesitate, in thought? O lord of the moving world, we have our desires and ambitions. You are the giver of fulfilment. We are here, our prayers are here, and we are yours. We have our thoughts and intelligence too, hence we pray: Grant our prayers without delay.

नूत्ना इदिन्द त वयमूती अभूम नहि नू त अदिवः।

7. Nūtnā idindra te vayamūtī abhūma nahi nū te adrivaḥ. Vidmā purā parīṇasaḥ.

O lord of the thunderbolt, mountains and the clouds, ruler of the world, Indra, it is not that we are just new to your beneficence, protection and promotion, we have indeed enjoyed and known your wealth and munificence since time immemorial.

विद्मा सख्ित्वमुत शूर भाज्यꣳमा त ता वज्रि गीमह।

8. Vidmā sakhitvamuta śūra bhojyamā te tā vajrinnī-mahe. Uto samasminnā śiśīhi no vaso vāje suśipra gomati.

O lord of might, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and power, we know and enjoy your love and friendship and your liberal provisions of life's enjoyment, and the same we solicit of you. And we pray, O lord of the golden helmet, power and knowledge, giver of peace and settlement, establish us in this noble order of lands and cows, food and energy, knowledge and action and the holy life of freedom and happiness.

या न इदमिदं पुरा प वस्य आनिनाय तमु वः स्तुष।
सखाय इन्दमूतय ॥ ९ ॥

9. Yo na idamidaṁ purā pra vasya ānin--āya tamu vaḥ stuṣe. Sakhāya indramūtaye.

O friends, for the peace, freedom, progress and protection of you all, I pray to the same Indra, lord almighty, who has provided this beautiful world of joy for us since the very time of creation.

हय श्व सत्पतिं चषणीसहꣳ स हि ष्मा या अमन्दत। आ तु नः स वयति गव्यमश्व्यं स्तातृभ्या मघवा शतम ॥ १० ॥

10. Haryaśvaṁ satpatiṁ carṣaṇīsahaṁ sa hi ṣmā yo amandata. Ā tu naḥ sa vayati gavyamaśvyaṁ stotṛbhyo maghavā śatam.

He alone is happy indeed and prospers who glorifies Indra, lord of the moving universe, protector and promoter of truth and reality and ruler and justicier of humanity, who, lord almighty, weaves for us this web of a hundredfold variety of earthly provision and all attainable possibility for the celebrants.

त्वया ह स्विद्युजा वयं पतिं श्वसन्तं वृषभ बुवीमहि।
संस्थ जनस्य गामतः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Tvayā ha svidyujā vayaṁ prati śvasantaṁ vṛṣabha bruvīmahi. Saṁsthe janasya gomataḥ.

By you alone as our friend and comrade, O lord almighty, generous giver, can we counter a gasping contestant in this settled world order of humanity full of lands and cows, blest as we are with the light of knowledge and culture.

जयेम कारे पुरुहूत कारिणा भि तिष्ठेम दूढ्यः।

12. Jayema kāre puruhūta kāriṇo'bhi tiṣṭhema dūḍhyaḥ. Nṛbhirvṛtraṁ hanyāma śūśuyāma cā'verindra pra ṇo dhiyaḥ.

Indra, lord of power and light of life, universally invoked, let us win over the violent in the struggle of life, discipline and subject to rule and order the obstinate and intransigent with reason, dispel darkness and destroy evil with the help of the leading lights of society, and thus grow and march forward and higher. O lord, protect and guide our thoughts and actions against temptations to go astray.

अभ्रातृव्या अना त्वमनापिरिन्द जनुषा सनादसि।
युधदापित्वमिच्छस ॥ १३ ॥

13. Abhrātṛvyo anā tvamanāpirindra januṣā sanādasi. Yudhedāpitvamicchase.

Indra, lord of absolute might by nature, since birth of the universe, indeed for eternity, you are without a rival, need no leader, no friend and no comrade, but in the dynamics of human life you do want that the human should be your companion in and for his struggle for self-evolution and social progress.

नकी रवन्तं सख्याय विन्दस पीयन्ति ते सुराश्वः।
यदा कृणाषि नदनुं समूहस्यादित्पितव हूयस ॥ १४ ॥

14. Nakī revantaṁ sakhyāya vindase pīyanti te surāśvaḥ. Yadā kṛṇoṣi nadanuṁ samūhasyādit piteva hūyase.

You do not just care to choose the rich for companionship, if they are swollen with drink and pride and violate the rules of divine discipline. But when you attend to the poor and alter their fortune for the better, you are invoked like father with gratitude which the voice of thunder acknowledges and approves.

मा त अमाजुरा यथा मूरास इन्द सख्य त्वावतः।
नि षदाम सचा सुत ॥ १५ ॥

15. Mā te amājuro yathā mūrāsa indra sakhye tvāvataḥ. Ni ṣadāma sacā sute.

Indra, Lord of yajnic evolution and social development, let us not like stupid fools sit at home and grow to age in years, but let us, in enlightened friendship with a power like you, sit on the yajna vedi and grow in knowledge and wisdom.

मा त॑ गादत्र॒ निर॑राम॒ राध॑स॒ इन्द्र॒ मा त॑ गृहामहि।

16. Mā te godatra nirarāma rādhasa indra mā te gṛhāmahi. Dṛḷhā cidaryaḥ pra mṛśābhyā bhara na te dāmāna ādabhe.

Indra, lord giver of lands and cows, knowledge and enlightened culture, let us never fall from your gifts of divine munificence. Let us never take anything from anyone other than you. O lord of the world's wealth, bear and bring us your gifts of permanent value. No one can ever disturb or stop the flow of your gifts of love and charity to humanity.

इन्द्रा॑ वा॒ घदिय॑न्म॒घं सर॑स्वती वा सु॒भगा॑ द॒दिवसु॑।
त्वं वा॑ चित्र दा॒शुष॑॥ १७॥

17. Indro vā ghediyanmaghaṁ sarasvatī vā subhagā dadirvasu. Tvaṁ vā citra dāśuṣe.

Is it Indra, ruling power of the mortal world, that gives so much wealth to the man of yajnic charity? Or is it Sarasvati, holy speech, abundant stream and dynamics of nature that gives so much wealth to the charitable humanity? Or is it you, Lord Supreme, sublime mystery of the world of existence, who give so much wealth to the liberal donor?

चित्र॒ इदाजा॑ राज॒का इद॑न्य॒क य॒क सर॑स्वती॒मनु॑।
प॒जन्य॑इव त॒तन॒द्धि वृ॒ष्ट्या स॒हस्र॑म॒युता॒ दद॑त॥ १८॥

18. Citra id rājā rājakā idanyake yake sarasvatīmanu. Parjanya iva tatanaddhi vṛṣṭyā sahasramayutā dadat.

The mysterious divine power immanent and transcendent is the supreme ruler and ultimate giver. Other ruling divinities, human rulers or natural forces, flowing speech or rivers or river benefactors in consonance with Sarasvati, are but subservient to the supreme. Just as the cloud soaks the earth all round and over so does the lord of wonder and sublimity give thousands and tens of thousands of wealth to humanity.

Ashvinau Devata, Sobhari Kanva Rshi

आ त्यमह्व आ रथमद्या दंसिष्ठमूतय।

6. Daśasyantā manave pūrvyaṁ divi yavaṁ vṛkeṇa karṣathaḥ. Tā vāmadya sumatibhiḥ śubhaspatī aśvinā pra stuvīmahi.

O twin powers of socio-economic complementarities, rulers and protectors of the nation's auspicious good fortune, you till the land with the plough giving the people the gift of barley and setting a generous example of enlightened behaviour of permanent value. O leaders of eminence and splendour, with sincere thought, intention and action we celebrate you both this holy day of thanks giving for the nation.

7. Upa no vājinīvasū yātamṛtasya pathibhiḥ. Yebhistṛkṣiṁ vṛṣaṇā trāsadasyavaṁ mahe kṣatrāya jinvathaḥ.

Generous and victorious lords of strength and progress, come to us by those paths of truth and righteousness by which, O brilliant harbingers of rain showers of prosperity, you strengthen and empower the high command of the nation to maintain the splendour of the nation's social order and keep down the forces of violence and terror in peace and submission.

O leading lights of humanity, generous harbingers of the showers of prosperity, this soma of pleasure and honour distilled with the complementary forces of our social dynamics is for you. 11. Yadadhrigāvo adhrigū idā cidahno aśvinā havāmahe. Vayaṁ gīrbhirvipanyavaḥ.

We men of the mantra in need, celebrants of the irresistible Ashvins, powers of wind and electric energy, ministrants of succour and security, invoke them with voices of praise at this time of the day to come and help us.

Ashvins, leading lights of humanity, virile harbingers of showers of health and life's joy, listen to my manifold and persistent invocation expressive of universal love and devotion and come. Most generous and exceedingly rich all round universal presences, come with those foods and medications for recuperative energies by which you revive and strengthen the man fallen into utter depression. With those protective and promotive sanatives, pray, come in response to my call.

At this time of the day every morning, saluting and celebrating the twin powers of human and natural complementarity, the Ashvins, I speak to them intimately, and this is how with homage and prayer we invoke them to come and bless.

Those two lords of auspicious good fortune moving by paths of rectitude, justice and punishment, we invoke and celebrate at night, early morning at dawn and all times of the day. May they, lord commanders of wealth and victory, scourge of evil and violence, never forsake us to the mortal enemy, never throw us far off to the hungry wolves.

1. Īḷiṣvā hi pratīvyaṁ yajasva jātavedasam.
Cariṣṇudhūmam-agṛbhītaśociṣam.

Study, celebrate and by yajna develop the fire divine, immanent and omnipresent energy, versatile power whose smoke rises freely and whose light of flame no one comprehends, no one can obstruct.

दा॒मानं॑ विश्वचषणि॒ ग्निं वि॑श्वमना गि॒रा ।

2. Dāmānaṁ viśvacarṣaṇe'gniṁ viśvamano girā.
Uta stuṣe viṣpardhaso rathānām.

And watching the world of existence and thinking and meditating at heart on its dynamics of evolution, I adore Agni with the holy voice of faith, lord and power, that giver of chariots for onward movement to those who vie with one another for progress in various ways.

Those seekers whose inputs of food and energy, the all powerful Agni, adored and served with Vedic formulae, receives, consumes and directs within the dynamic laws of nature, through their investigations receive new wealth and knowledge.

O Agni, light and fire of life, adored and served with yajnic service of love and non-violence, rise high by the laws and grace of Divinity, shining ever bright with wider and higher light, power and magnificence.

(This mantra may also be interpreted as exhortation to the person dedicated to yajna.)

Go, Agni, with the hymns of adoration, constantly receiving, returning, and transmitting the holy materials of yajna to the divinities as, like a messenger, you are the carrier of fragrance of the havi offered into the vedi.

O lord of the thunderbolt of justice and right action, you know and wield the counter-active measures against adversities just as the sun, purifier of nature's impurities, has the capacity to counter them day by day.

defence, ever new though constant and eternal. You as the same lord are our friend and protector, and the destroyer of all our enemies of the world.

O seeker of the where and why of active life, if someone were to ask you where the yajaka of love and non-violence is, then say: This man of yajnic dynamism is gone and lives in the region of lands and cows, culture and enlightenment.

(In Swami Dayanand's tradition, Mitra and Varuna in this Sukta are interpreted as Brahmanas, intellectuals, teachers and researchers, and as Kshatriyas, rulers, administrators and the defence forces.)

Ṛtāvānāvṛtamā ghoṣato bṛhat.

The great Mitra and Varuna, mighty refulgent rulers, are generous and divine, commanding the vision and vitality of spiritual life and vigour. Dedicated to the law of eternity, in their life they define and proclaim that universal law in the living form of yajnic action.

5. Napātā śavaso mahaḥ sūnū dakṣasya sukratū.
Sṛpradānū iṣo vāstvadhi kṣitaḥ.

Protectors and supporters of great strength, they never allow a break down of the strength of law and order. Being products of strength and efficiency themselves, they are protectors of the same strength and efficiency. Dedicated to holy action, creation, production and expansive generosity, they live in the very house of plenty and prosperity of food, energy and advancement.

Committed to the universal law of eternal truth, dedicated to the laws and discipline of governance, performing every action from the yajnic point of view of social value, the Kshatriyas, rulers, administrators and commanders of the defence forces, ought to take on to the sovereign social order and occupy the seat of governance for the glory of self-governing humanity in the spirit of Mitra and Varuna, that is, universal love and justice.

enlightened friend, and Varuna, lord of judgement and wisdom, all generous and affluent, in love and unison together, favour protect and exhort to rise and advance.

Just as a child asks the father for manifold gifts of food and joy, so we choose to ask of you, O brilliant and generous rulers, the same boon of versatile nature: We who offer yajnic service pray, O lords of light and grace, Adityas, let us obtain that holy gift of favour by which we may realise whatever wealth, honour and excellence we cherish in life.

1. Ye triṁśati trayasparo devāso barhirāsadan.
Vidannaha dvitāsanan.

May thirty three divine powers come and sit on the holy grass of yajna vedi to join my yajna, know and secure for me twofold gifts of material and spiritual fulfilment.

(Thirty three divine powers or divinities or 'gods' are eight Vasus, eleven Rudras, twelve Adityas, Indra and Prajapati. Swami Dayanand enumerates and describes these as follows:

8 Vasus: earth, water, fire, air, space, sun, moon, and the stars. They are Vasus because they are the abodes and sustainers of life.

11 Rudras: ten pranic energies and the soul.

12 Adityas: twelve phases of the sun in the zodiacs.

One Indra, cosmic energy, and one Prajapati, creative energy of nature which creates life and its supports.

2. Varuṇo mitro aryamā smadrātiṣāco agnayaḥ. Patnīvanto vaṣaṭkṛtāḥ.

May Varuna, the ocean, Mitra, the sun, Aryama, the cosmic law, and the vital fires with their creative energies for life sustenance, all givers of the cosmic wealth of life energy, invoked and served with yajnic food, arise, join the yajna and help us with material and spiritual fulfilment.

(At the individual level, we may interpret Varuna as our sense of justice, Mitra as our sense of love and friendship, Aryama as our sense of judgment and will, and fires as our vitalities working with our will to live.)

4. Prati śrutāya vo dhṛṣat tūrṇāśaṁ na gireradhi. Huve suśipramūtaye.

O people, for your protection and promotion, I invoke and call upon the victorious Indra of the glorious helmet who brings a flood of waters from the heights of the cloud in response to prayer and promise.

स गारश्वस्य वि व्रजं मन्दानः साम्यभ्यः ।

5. Sa goraśvasya vi vrajaṁ mandānaḥ somyebhyaḥ.
puraṁ na śūra darṣasi.

Indra of such fame and prowess, heroic leader, happy and joyous, you open the gates of knowledge and victory in action and attainment, as you open the stalls of cows and horses and the gates of a fortress for the performers of soma yajna.

यदि म रारणः सुत उक्थ वा दधसे चनः ।

6. Yadi me rāraṇaḥ suta ukthe vā dadhase canaḥ.
Ārādupa svadhā gahi.

If you take delight in the soma distilled by me and feel the ecstasy of my song of homage, then come from far and come from near and, by your own divine nature, take me on for the food of life you hold for me.

वयं घा ते अपि ष्मसि स्तारं इन्द गिवणः ।

7. Vayaṁ ghā te api ṣmasi stotāra indra girvaṇaḥ.
Tvaṁ no jinva somapāḥ.

Indra, lord celebrated in song, your devoted celebrants as we are, O lord protector and promoter of the beauty, honour and excellence of life, pray give us the food and fulfilment of life we love and aspire for.

उत नः पितुमा भर संरराणा अविक्षितम।

8. Uta naḥ pitumā bhara saṁrarāṇo avikṣitam.
Maghavan bhūri te vasu.

And, O lord of the power, honour and glory of the world, all joyous and generous, bring us the food of life inexhaustible. Infinite is your wealth and boundless your munificence.

उत ना गामतस्कृधि हिरण्यवता अश्विनः।

9. Uta no gomataskṛdhi hiraṇyavato aśvinaḥ.
Iḷābhiḥ saṁ rabhemahi.

And make us rich in lands and cows, knowledge and culture, make us masters of the golden glories of life. Advance us with horses and victories of high and higher attainments in honour and excellence. And lead us to exert ourselves in unison with songs of adoration and libations of homage and gratitude with holy words of joy.

साधु कृण्वन्तमवसे॥ १० ॥

10. Bṛbadukthaṁ havāmahe sṛprakarasnam-ūtaye.
Sādhu kṛṇvantam-avase.

We invoke the lord divine and master ruler who is highly adorable, of long and supple arms of generosity, and always does good for the protection and promotion of all.

यः संस्थे चिच्छतक्रतुरादीं कृणोति वृत्रहा।
जरितृभ्यः पुरूवसुः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Yaḥ saṁsthe cicchatakratur-ādīṁ kṛṇoti vṛtrahā.
Jaritṛbhyaḥ purūvasuḥ.

We invoke the lord adorable who does a hundred great favours to the man at peace and, dispelling the darkness in the mind and heart, sublimates the soul too with the spirit of a hundred good works of piety. Indeed, the lord is of infinite wealth, honour and bliss for all his devotees and destroys their evil and ignorance.

12. Sa naḥ śakraścidā śakad-dānavāṅ antarā-bharaḥ.
Indro viśvābhir-ūtibhiḥ.

The Lord Almighty strengthens us, is generous, and enriches our inner self with vision and love and with all strength and modes of protection and progress.

तमिन्द्रमभि गायत ॥ १३ ॥

13. Yo rāyo'vanirmahānt-supāraḥ sunvataḥ sakhā.
Tam-indram-abhi gāyata.

Sing in honour of Indra, that mighty lord and ruler who commands the wealth, honour and excellence of the world, is universal protector and preserver, saviour of his devotees and friend of the lovers of soma and yajna.

आयन्तारं महि स्थिरं पृतनासु श्रवाजितम।
भूरीशानमाजसा ॥ १४ ॥

14. Āyantāraṁ mahi sthiraṁ pṛtanāsu śravojitam. Bhūrer-īśānam-ojasā.

Honour and adore the lord and ruler who is great, controller of the world and its law, constant in the dynamics of existence wherein he is the sole conqueror of honour and glory and who, with his power and grandeur, is the ruler of the vast riches of the world.

नकिरस्य शचीनां नियन्ता सूनृतानाम।
नकिर्वक्ता न दादिति॥ १५॥

15. Nakirasya śacīnāṁ niyantā sūnṛtānām. Nakirvaktā na dāditi.

None is the controller of his mighty acts and powers universally pleasant and true, and there is none who can ever say: He has failed to give and bless.

न नूनं ब्रह्मणामृणं पाशूनामस्ति सुन्वताम।
न सामा अपता पप॥ १६॥

16. Na nūnaṁ brahmaṇāmṛṇaṁ prāśūnāmasti sunvatām. Na somo apratā pape.

There is no recompense due from men of divinity, from the guests and those actively working for yajna and the extraction of soma. The creator of soma, the giver of knowledge and the social worker do not drink for nothing (they pay with service).

पन्य इदुप गायत पन्य उक्थानि शंसत।
ब्रह्मा कृणात पन्य इत॥ १७॥

17. Panya idupa gāyata panya ukthāni śaṁsata. Brahmā kṛṇota panya it.

Sing in honour of adorable Indra, recite your hymns of praise in honour of admirable Indra, create your orations to celebrate the glorious Indra.

पन्य॒ आ ददिरच्छ॒ता स॒हस्रा॑ वा॒ज्यवृ॑तः ।

18. Panya ā dardiracchatā sahasrā vājyavṛtaḥ.
Indro yo yajvano vṛdhaḥ.

Indra, potent lord who commands supreme power and, unobstructed, breaks down a hundred and a thousand adversaries, strengthens and exalts the devotees of yajna.

19. Vi ṣū cara svadhā anu kṛṣṭīnāmanvāhuvaḥ.
Indra piba sutānām.

Go forward, Indra, in response to the invitation to yajna of the people and drink of the soma extracted, distilled and offered by them.

पिब॒ स्वधै॑नवानामु॒त यस्तु॒ग्र्य॒ सचा॑ ।
उ॒तायमि॑न्द्र॒ यस्तव॑ ॥ २० ॥

20. Piba svadhainavānāmuta yastugrye sacā.
Utāyamindra yastava.

Drink of the joy and exhilaration of your powers and perceptions which is all associated with your own performance, the super-power that's you and yours. Indeed, it is all your own power and glory.

अतीहि मन्युषाविणं सुषुवांसमुपारणे ।
इमं रातं सुतं पिब ॥ २१ ॥

21. Atīhi manyuṣāviṇaṁ suṣuvāṁsam-upāraṇe.
Imaṁ rātaṁ sutaṁ piba.

Ignore the man who offers yajnic soma in a mood of anger, frustration and protest. Ignore the man who offers yajna and soma but in a joyless and conflictive mood. Accept this soma of homage distilled and offered in a state of delight, love and faith.

इहि तिस्रः परावत इहि पञ्च जनाँ अति ।
धना इन्दाववाकशत ॥ २२ ॥

22. Ihi tisraḥ parāvata ihi pañca janāň ati.
Dhenā indrāvacākaśat.

Indra, come from far, cross over the five classes of people to exhaust the possibilities of their life, transcend the three versions of knowledge, action and prayer, and listen with love and approval the sole one voice of my soul.

सूया रश्मिं यथा सृजा त्वा यच्छन्तु मे गिरः ।
निम्नमापो न सध्र्यक ॥ २३ ॥

23. Sūryo raśmiṁ yathā sṛjā''tvā yacchantu me giraḥ.
Nimnamāpo na sadhryak.

Just as the sun radiates the rays of light over space, just as waters flow down swift and straight, so may the voice of my soul reach you.

अध्वर्यवा तु हि षिञ्च सामं वीराय शिपिणे ।
भरा सुतस्य पीतये ॥ २४ ॥

24. Adhvaryavā tu hi ṣiñca somaṁ vīrāya śipriṇe.
Bharā sutasya pītaye.

O organiser and performer of yajna, offer the soma of devotion profusely to Indra, mighty lord of the helmet, and fill the vessel of your heart with divine love and pranic energy to enjoy life to the full.

य उदनः फलिगं भिन य१क्सिन्धूँर्वासृजत।
या गाषु पक्वं धारयत॥ २५॥

25. Ya udnaḥ phaligaṁ bhinannyak sindhuṅra-vāsṛjat. Yo goṣu pakvaṁ dhārayat.

Indra breaks the clouds of rain, releases the waters for the rivers to flow down to the sea, and provides mature milk in the cows, knowledge and wisdom in the words of language and ripe grain in the fields of earth.

अहन्वृत्रमृचीषम आणवाभमहीशुवम।

26. Ahan vṛtramaṛcīṣama aurṇavābham-ahīśuvam.
Himenāvidhyad-arbudam.

The refulgent sun breaks the heavy cloud of vapours moving around like a crooked snake, in the middle regions of space.

प व उगाय निष्टुर षा हाय पसृ णं।

27. Pra va ugrāya niṣṭure'ṣāḷhāya prasakṣiṇe.
Devattaṁ brahma gāyata.

O celebrants and yajakas, sing the most heavenly song of praise worthy of divinity in honour of refulgent, impetuous, invincible and ever enduring friend, Indra, leader and commander of the ruling and defensive forces of nature and humanity.

या विश्वान्यभि व्रता सामस्य मद अन्धसः ।

28. Yo viśvānyabhi vratā somasya made andhasaḥ.
Indro deveṣu cetati.

Celebrate Indra, soul and ruling spirit in nature and humanity, who, in the excitement and ecstasy of the taste of food and soma, awakens in humans and divines the awareness of all the rules and laws of discipline and commitment to the vows of discipline in life.

इह त्या सधमाद्या हरी हिरण्यकश्या ।

29. Iha tyā sadhamādyā harī hiraṇyakeśyā.
Voḷhāmabhi prayo hitam.

Here in life on earth, those two golden and refulgent motive powers of nature's circuitous energy, jubilant and festive co-workers for the chariot of Indra, lord ruler of nature and humanity, may, we pray, bring in holy food for health and energy for the good of all living beings.

अवाञ्चं त्वा पुरुष्टुत पियमधस्तुता हरी ।

30. Arvāñcaṁ tvā puruṣṭuta priyamedhastutā harī.
Somapeyāya vakṣataḥ.

Indra, lord universally sung and celebrated, may the two motive powers of your chariot, loved and adored by scholars dedicated to yajnic pursuit of knowledge and wisdom, bring you here to join us and share the ecstasy of soma celebration with humanity.

Mandala 8/Sukta 33

Indra Devata, Medhatithi Kanva Rshi

वयं घ त्वा सुतावन्त आपा न वृक्तबर्हिषः ।

1. Vayaṁ gha tvā sutāvanta āpo na vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Pavitrasya prasravaṇeṣu vṛtrahan pari stotāra āsate.

Indra, destroyer of evil, darkness and suffering, we, your celebrants, having distilled the soma, spread and occupied the holy grass, we, sit and wait on the vedi for your presence in the flux of life as holy performers, while the flow of pure immortality continues all round in the dynamics of existence.

2. Svaranti tvā sute naro vaso nireka ukthinaḥ. Kadā sutaṁ tṛṣāṇa oka ā gama indra svabdīva vaṁsagaḥ.

Indra, Vasu, giver of peace and security in self-settlement, while the soma of faith and love has been distilled in the heart and the devotees sing and celebrate your honour in hymns of praise, when would you, keen to join us at the celebration, come to the yajnic hall thirsting to meet the people you love and admire.

3. Kaṇvebhir-dhṛṣṇavā dhṛṣad vājaṁ darṣi sahasriṇam. Piśaṅgarūpaṁ maghavan vicarṣaṇe makṣū gomantam-īmahe.

Indra, lord of universal vision, resolute will and irresistible action, ruler and commander of the world's wealth, power and force, we pray, conceive, plan and bring about for the intelligent people of action and ambition a social order of golden beauty and progressive achievement, full of a hundred-fold prosperity of lands and cows, education and culture, and invincible will, strength and advancement free from indecision and delay in action.

पाहि गायान्धसा मद इन्दाय मध्यातिथ।

4. Pāhi gāyāndhaso mada indrāya medhyātithe. Yaḥ saṁmiślo haryoryaḥ sute sacā vajrī ratho hiraṇyayaḥ.

O man, you are a visitor and respectable guest on this earth of a golden order of beauty, prosperity and culture. Observe the rules of this order, advance the beauty and prosperity of it, and in the pleasure and ecstasy of its plenty of soma hospitality, sing and celebrate the glory of Indra, lord ruler of vision and action united, commander of the nation's forces, dynamic and creative, friendly and cooperative, wielder of the thunderbolt of justice and retribution, burden bearer and pilot of the golden chariot of humanity.

यः सुषव्यः सुदक्षिण इना यः सुक्रतुर्गृणे।

5. Yaḥ suṣavyaḥ sudakṣiṇa ino yaḥ sukraturgṛṇe. Ya ākaraḥ sahasrā yaḥ śatāmagha indro yaḥ pūrbhidāritaḥ.

I sing and celebrate the glory of Indra who is generous with both hands right and left, magnificent, holy in action, treasure home of a thousandfold riches, who commands a hundredfold power, honour and excellence and who breaks down the strongholds of evil, darkness and suffering. Indeed he is glorious and adorable.

या धृषिता या वृता या अस्ति श्मश्रुषु श्रितः।

6. Yo dhṛṣito yo'vṛto yo asti śmaśruṣu śritaḥ. Vibhūtadyumnaścyavanaḥ puruṣṭutaḥ krtvā gauriva śākinaḥ.

I celebrate the glory of Indra who is bold and resolute, unbounded irresistible, wears the marks of manly vigour, commands honour and excellence, is an inspirer, mover and shaker, universally respected for his acts of piety, and who for the men of mighty dynamism is generous as earth, gracious as holy speech and loving as mother cow.

क ईं वद सुत सचा पिबन्तं कद्वयां दधे।

7. Ka īṁ veda sute sacā pibantaṁ kad vayo dadhe. Ayaṁ yaḥ puro bibhinattyojasā mandānaḥ śipryandhasaḥ.

Who would for certain know Indra in this created world of beauty and glory, how much power and force he wields while he rules and sustains it, Indra who wears the helmet and breaks down the strongholds of negativities with his lustrous might, the lord who shares and enjoys the soma of his own creation?

दाना मृगा न वारणः पुरुत्रा चरथं दध।

8. Dānā mṛgo na vāraṇaḥ purutrā carathaṁ dadhe. Nakiṣṭvā ni yamadā sute gamo mahāṅścarasyojasā.

Indra is generously giving, preventive, counteractive and invincible like a lion, and holds and rules the world of immense variety in motion. O lord of grandeur and majesty, as you move around everywhere by your might and lustre, pray come, bless our yajna and taste the soma of our creation. No one can restrain you, no one counter your will.

य उग्रः स नानिष्टृतः स्थिरा रणाय संस्कृतः।

9. Ya ugraḥ sann-aniṣṭṛtaḥ sthiro raṇāya saṁskṛtaḥ. Yadi stotur-maghavā śṛṇavaddha-vaṁ nendro yoṣatyā gamat.

Indra who is blazing strong, uncountered and irresistible, constant and unshakable, is ever in perfect harness for the human's battle of existence, and if he hears the call of the celebrant, the lord of might and majesty never forsakes him, he comes, he saves, he blesses.

10. Satyamitthā vṛṣedasi vṛṣajūtir-no'vṛtaḥ. Vṛṣā hyugra śṛṇviṣe parāvati vṛṣo arvāvati śrutaḥ.

True it is thus you are virile and generous yourself and an inspiration and driving force for the virile and the brave, unbound, uncountered, brave and illustrious, harbinger of the showers of peace and joy and known as omnificent and sublime all over the world far and near.

वृष॑णस्त अ॒भीश॑वा॒ वृषा॒ कशा॑ हिर॒ण्ययी॑ ।

11. Vṛṣaṇaste abhīśavo vṛṣā kaśā hiraṇyayī. Vṛṣā ratho maghavan vṛṣaṇā harī vṛṣā tvaṁ śatakrato.

Indra, lord of the power, wealth and glory of the universe, agent of infinite acts of creation in the world of existence, strong and golden are the reins of your cosmic chariot, golden is the goad that maintains and controls the speed of its motion, strong and laden with riches is your chariot, strong and virile the motive powers, and you yourself are all potent and generous.

(This mantra may be interpreted as a description of the human soul in its own individual sphere provided that it is self-controlled and free from external forces which bind it in the fetters of worldly interests of a selfish and transitory nature.)

वृषा सातां सुनातु त वृषं ृजीषि गा भर।

12. Vṛsā sotā sunotu te vṛṣann-ṛjīṣinnā bhara. Vṛṣā dadhanve vṛṣaṇaṁ nadīṣvā tubhyaṁ sthātarharīṇām.

O lord of omnipotence and omnificence, may the brave and generous yajaka prepare the soma juice of devotion for you. O lord of the law of truth and lover of the rules of rectitude, bring us the showers of peace and prosperity in rectitude. O lord controller and keeper of world forces in order, the generous yajaka receives the showers of your blessings and holds them in trust actively in the streams of existence for yajnic offers to your honour for your service.

एन्द याहि पीतय मधु शविष्ठ साम्यम।

13. Endra yāhi pītaye madhu śaviṣṭha somyam. Nāyamacchā maghavā śṛṇavad giro brahmokthā ca sukratuḥ.

Indra, lord most potent, come to taste the honey sweets of soma. Unless you come and bless with grace, this man of power and earthly honour, though devoted to good actions, would not well listen otherwise to songs of devotion and the voice of Veda.

वहन्तु त्वा रथष्ठामा हरया रथयुजः।

14. Vahantu tvā ratheṣṭhāmā harayo rathayujaḥ. Tiraścidaryaṁ savanāni vṛtrahann-anyeṣāṁ yā śatakrato.

May the motive forces which power and drive your chariot, we pray, bring you hither, O lord of infinite acts of grace, destroyer of evil and dispeller of darkness, past the acts and voices of others without faith in divinity and prayer.

अस्माकमद्यान्तमं स्तामं धिष्व महामह।

15. Asmākamadyāntamaṁ stomaṁ dhiṣva mahāmaha. Asmākaṁ te savanā santu śaṁtamā madāya dyukṣa somapāḥ.

O lord of heavenly light, greatest of the great, lover and protector of the soma pleasure and grandeur of life, accept our most intimate prayer and praise today and grant that all our acts of homage in your honour and service be for the peace and dignity of the life we live.

नहि षस्तव ना मम शास्त्र अन्यस्य रण्यति।

16. Nahi ṣastava no mama śāstre anyasya raṇyati. Yo asmān vīra ānayat.

The mighty one who has brought us under his order of law does not accept with delight your decree nor mine nor anyone else's.

(Indra, the soul, is the ruler and controller of the mind and senses. It is not ruled and controlled by the mind or the senses or anyone else.)

इन्दश्चिद्धा तदबवीत्स्त्रिया अशास्यं मनः।
उता अह कतुं रघुम ॥ १७ ॥

17. Indraścid ghā tadabravīt striyā aśāsyaṁ manaḥ.
Uto aha kṛatuṁ raghum.

If Indra, the husband, were to say: "The mind of woman is not controllable" and, also, "that her thought and intellect too is inferior", (then it is less than half the truth).

सप्तीं चिद्घा मदच्युता मिथुना वहता रथम।
एवद्धूवृष्ण उत्तरा॥ १८॥

18. Saptī cidgha madacyutā mithunā vahato ratham.
Eved dhūrvṛṣṇa uttarā.

If the two ardent horses of Indra's chariot together draw the burden of the home-state, then the shaft of the chariot is better and stronger.

अधः पश्यस्व मापरि सन्तरां पादका हर।
मा त कशप्लका दृशन्त्स्त्री हि ब्रह्मा बभूविथ॥ १९॥

19. Adhaḥ paśyasva mopari saṁtarāṁ pādakau hara.
Mā te kaśaplakau dṛṣantstrī hi brahmā babhūvitha.

O man, O woman: Keep your eyes down on the earth, not up on the sky. Walk on with both the feet together (as the two wheels and the two horses draw the chariot together), Let your lower feet be not bare and exposed (cover them). Let woman be the high priest of the home yajna.

(The last three mantras describe the home-state of the social order. The husband and the wife together run the home. The husband is, or may be, the greater burden bearer, still the wife is the chief home minister, and the husband ought to realise this in love, in courtesy, in chivalry, or at least in practical wisdom. Arrogance, pride, anger, passion, all this on either's part must be subjected to reason and respectful cooperation with mutual recognition.)

1. Agnim-astoṣyṛgmiyam-agnimīḷā yajadhyai. Agnirdevāň anaktu na ubhe hi vidathe kavir-antaścarati dūtyaṁ nabhantām-anyake same.

I worship Agni, lord of light and fire of life, giver of enlightenment, adored in Rks of the Veda. I invoke and adore Agni to join me at yajna for advancement and pray that it may inspire and bring us the benefit of other divinities of nature and humanity. The poet, creator, omniscient power at yajna, traverses between both heaven and earth and communicates between body and spirit like a messenger, an inspiration, and while Agni is at work all adversaries and negativities would vanish.

Agni, lord of light and fire, by this new word of adoration may the negativities of thought and emotion in the personalities of these yajakas, frustrations of the bountiful, all adversaries and adversities, all stupidity, violence and enemies go away and vanish from here.

Agni, lord of yajna, as I offer charming oblations of ghrta into the fire I offer hymns of adorations to you. Pray know and accept these among and with other divinities. You are the oldest, eternal and gracious messenger of the sun. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Agni bears, brings and bestows upon the supplicant all the food, energy, health and joy as it is asked for. Agni is the giver of plenty of energy, peace, happiness and freedom from suffering and disease for liberal service in honour of all the divinities of nature and humanity. Agni knows the origin of immortal divinities of nature. He knows the secrets and mysteries of the mortals. Agni is the treasure giver of universal wealth, power, honour and excellence. Invoked and served with latest researches into light and fire energy and its applications, Agni opens the doors of immense possibilities of wealth and power. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Agni pervades the divinities of nature and humanity as vitality, energy, plenty and generosity. He resides in humanity specially among those who are dedicated to yajna and creativity. As the earth nurtures and sustains the entire world life on it, so Agni nurtures and sustains all living beings with joy and inspiration for celebration in song. He is indeed the chief adorable divinity among divinities. May all negetavities and adversities vanish.

The Agni which pervades and vitalises the seven yajakas, i.e., five senses, mind and intelligence, and also the seven pranic energies, among humans, which energises the rolling oceans and flowing rivers of the world, which pervades the three regions of earth, skies and the regions of light in the universe, which sustains and inspires the wise and dedicated people and which destroys the violent, to that Agni, first and foremost adorable power in yajnas, let us attain in worship. May all negativities and adversities vanish.

Here in He, the one by himself pure, all knowing, all vibrating like super energy of life, feeds and vitaslises thirty three divinities of nature and sustains us with all that we need and desire. May all negativities and adversities all vanish.

All around you the dynamic energies of life unfold and flow by themselves, provide vitality of life as messengers of Agni to forms of existence, and ultimately merge with you. May all negativities, adversities and contradictions vanish from our life for all time.

1. Indrāgnī yuvaṁ su naḥ sahantā dāsatho rayim. Yena dṛḷhā samatsvā vīḷu cit sāhiṣīmahyagnirvaneva vāta innabhantām-anyake same.

Indra, lord of power and honour, Agni, lord of light and knowledge, commanding lightning and fire, patience and endurance, strength and courage, give us that positive and irresistible wealth of life by which we may face, resist and throw off strong and violent adversaries as fire fanned by winds destroys forests. May negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities all vanish.

We do not shrink from you, Indra and Agni, nor do we in any way neglect you both. Indeed we invoke and invite Indra, strongest leader of the strong, to be with us. When, for sure, would the lord come to us, come with Agni at the speed of lightning to inspire us with strength for struggle and victory, to bless us with piety, wisdom and intelligence for corporate action with the spirit of yajna? May all negativities, adversities, alienations and enmities vanish.

Both Indra and Agni like fire and lightning reside and rule at the heart of life struggles. May they, we pray, leading lights, prophetic voices and patriarchal spirits for the loving and friendly, invoked for guidance and answers to questions and mysteries of life, come and, with their vision and wisdom, resolve our doubts and questions to settled certainties of decisive action. May all negativities, adversities, frustrations and enmities vanish from the world.

O man, with a voice friendly and inviting, like a missionary eager to eliminate the negativities and adversities of life, invoke and adore Indra and Agni, lord omnipotent and the leading light of omniscience, in whose treasure hold of nature are held, controlled and protected for promotion and progress this entire world, the moving expansive universe, the heaven, the middle regions, the great mother earth and unbounded wealth, power and excellence for the children of divinity. May all negativities, adversities, deprivations and alienations vanish from the face of the earth.

Like the sage eager to throw off the veils of ignorance, send up your prayers to Indra and Agni, lord omnipotent and omniscient who, ruling the world of existence with their lustre and majesty, open up the seven fold ocean of obscure and tortuous nature to evolution and reveal the seven stage treasure of mysterious knowledge across fivefold evolution of nature to biological and spiritual stages of knowledge. May all ignorance, frustrations, and alienations vanish.

6. Api vṛśca purāṇavad-vratateriva guṣpitamojo dāsasya dambhaya. Vayaṁ tadasya saṁbhṛtaṁ vasvindreṇa vi bhajemahi nabhantām-anyake same.

Also prune, cut off and throw out like the dead wood of a tangled creeper the hoarded wealth, unethical power and outmoded knowledge of the exploiter and the antisocial luxury of the selfish consumer, and control and eliminate the fiendish force of the evil so that we may share and enjoy renewed and refreshing wealth, power and knowledge reorganised and recollected into living forms by Indra. May all poverty, superstitions, alienations and enmities vanish from progressive humanity.

When these our people, with one persistent voice and relentless exhortation, invoke and call upon Indra and Agni who command irresistible power and unquestionable knowledge, then with our dynamic people we would face and fight out all violent oppositions and defeat destructive forces. May all violence, destruction, terrorism and sabotage vanish from progressive society.

Whoever Indra and Agni, commanding ruling power and light of knowledge, raise from lower regions of ignorance and darkness, and take them to the higher regions of knowledge and culture, and the seas which they release from bondage, all of them, thus raised and guided, observe their divine laws and live a dynamic life of freedom and enlightenment. May all darkness, ignorance, superstition and slavery vanish from the world, giving way to freedom and progress.

O Indra, commanding lord of perceptive and communicative powers of enlightenment, inspirer and rejuvenator of the celebrant, first, foremost and universal are your gifts of generosity, ancient and universal are your acts and songs of adoration. The grace and beneficence of the almighty are givers of settlement which may, we pray, inspire our mind, senses and actions and lead us to fulfilment and salvation. May poverty, suffering, pride and frustration vanish giving way to universal joy and freedom.

With hymns and holy actions adore and glorify Indra, resplendent lord who commands the purity and truth of reality, who is adorable, who with his power and brilliance, dries up and roots out the origins and products of drought, greed and exploitation and sets aflow the liberal streams of joy and prosperity. May all poverty, exploitation, greed and unhappiness vanish from the world of humanity.

Adore and glorify the lord of love, non-violence and holy yajnic action, who is ever true and eternal, who rewards acts of truth and piety and inspires us to think and meditate on piety and divinity, who breaks down the roots and fruits of impiety and exploitation and conquers the streams of joy and prosperity to set them aflow. May impiety, illiberality, untruth and exploitation, all vanish from the world.

Thus do I sing a new song of adoration in honour of Indra, lord ruler of power, and Agni, lord giver of light and knowledge, as I would sing to glorify the father, the giver of honour and enlightenment, and the lord giver of the breath of life. May Indra and Agni protect and promote us with the joy of threefold gifts of truth, action and stability, and may we, I pray, be masters, protectors and promoters of the wealth, honour and excellence of life on earth.

1. Asmā ū ṣu prabhūtaye varuṇāya marudbhyo 'rcā viduṣṭrebhyaḥ. Yo dhītā mānuṣāṇāṁ paśvo gā iva rakṣati nabhantām-anyake same.

For progress and prosperity in life, honour, adore and glorify Varuna, this lord supreme, ruler and dispenser of justice who, with his powers, judgement and actions, protects and promotes humans, animals, birds, etc., just as he protects and regulates stars, planets and satellites, all like the sacred cow. Honour and adore scholars and vibrant youth and warriors also and then all differences, oppositions, contradictions, alienations and enmities would vanish.

तमू षु सम॒ना गि॒रा पि॑तॄ॒णां च॒ मन्म॑भिः । ना॒भा॒कस्य॒ पशस्तिभि॒यः सिन्धू॑ना॒मुपा॑द॒य स॒प्तस्व॑सा॒ स मध्य॒मा नभ॑न्तामन्य॒क सम ॥ २ ॥

2. Tamū ṣu samanā girā pitṝṇāṁ ca manmabhiḥ. Nābhākasya praśastibhiryaḥ sindūnām-upodaye saptasvasā sa madhyamo nabhantām-anyake same.

Him you adore and glorify with sincere mind, holy voice, songs of forefathers and hymns of sages risen above the problems of lower world. Adore the lord at the heart of things, at the head of the seven streams of existence and at the beginning of the rise of creative evolution of the seven oceans of Prakrti across five gross elements, subtle elements and the spiritual and intelligential world. Do that and all oppositions, contraries and contradictions would disappear.

स ाप॒ः परि॑ षस्वज॒ न्यु॑स्त्रा मा॒यया॑ दध॒ स विश्व॑ं॒ परि॑ दश॒तः । तस्य॒ वनी॑रनु॑ व॒तमु॒षस्तिस्त्रा अ॑वधय॒ ाभ॑न्तामन्य॒क सम ॥ ३ ॥

3. Sa kṣapaḥ pari ṣasvaje nyusro māyayā dadhe sa viṣvaṁ pari darṣataḥ. Tasya venīranu vratamu-ṣastisro avardhayan nabhantām-anyake same.

He joins and pervades the nights, super-glorious sun as he is, and with his might holds and sustains the world. All people of the world do homage to him in obedience to his law and glorify him through three phases of the day and time, morning, evening and mid-day, past, present and future. May all phases of contraries, contradictions and enmities vanish from the world.

यः ककुभो निधारयः पृथिव्यामधि दशतः। स माता पूर्व्यं पदं तद्वरुणस्य सप्त्यं स हि गोपा इवया नभन्तामन्यके समे॥ ४॥

4. Yaḥ kakubho nidhāraḥ pṛthivyāmadhi darśataḥ. Sa mātā pūrvyaṁ padaṁ tad varuṇasya saptyaṁ sa hi gopā iveryo nabhantām-anyake same.

Glorious, he holds and maintains the bounds of space over the earth. He is the original mother source of existence, he is the ultimate protector and sustainer, the highest adorable worthy of service for the knowledge and attainment of that eternal state of divine existence when and where all contraries, contradictions and enmities would disappear.

या धता भुवनानां य उस्त्राणामपीच्या३ वद नामानि गुह्या। स कविः काव्या पुरु रूपं द्यारिव पुष्यति नभन्तामन्यके समे॥ ५॥

5. Yo dhartā bhuvanānāṁ ya usrāṇāmapīcyā veda nāmāni guhyā. Sa kaviḥ kāvyā puru rūpaṁ dyauriva puṣyati nabhantām-anyake same.

Glorify Varuna who is the holder and sustainer of the galaxies, solar systems and worldly regions of the universe, who knows the nature, forms and names of sun rays, mysteries and even the deepest secrets of existence. He is the omniscient poet and with his creative vision inspires the mind and imagination of poets for creation as he energises and sustains the heaven of light. May all contraries, contradictions, oppositions and enmities vanish.

यस्मिन्विश्वानि काव्या चक्र नाभिरिव श्रिता। त्रितं जूती सपयत वज गावा न संयुजं युज अश्वाँ अयु ात नभन्ताम-न्यक सम ॥ ६ ॥

6. Yasmin viśvāni kāvyā cakre nābhiriva śritā. Tritaṁ jūtī saparyata vraje gāvo na saṁyuje yuje aśvāň ayukṣata nabhantām-anyake same.

In him originate, abide, and centre all the imagination, wisdom and poetic creations of the world as in the nave centre all spokes of the wheel. Serve and adore the lord of three worlds and reach him without delay as cows hasten to the stall or as you hasten to yoke the horses to the chariot. May all distortions, dislocations, contradictions and enmities vanish from our life.

य आस्वत्कं आशय विश्वा जातान्यषाम। परि धामानि ममृशद्वरुणस्य पुर गय विश्व दुवा अनु वतं नभन्तामन्यक सम ॥ ७ ॥

7. Ya āsvatka āśaye viśvā jātānyeṣām. Pari dhāmāni marmṛśad varuṇasya puro gaye viśve devā anu vrataṁ nabhantām-anyake same.

Varuna is the one who vibrates at the heart of all these people and pervades all things born, immanent in and transcending over all regions of the universe. Indeed the divinities of nature and humanity stand ready in harness before the presence of Varuna, all committed to his law and their duty in the law. May all negativities and enmities vanish from the world.

8. Sa samudro apīcyasturo dyāmiva rohati ni yadāsu yajurdadhe. Sa māyā arcinā padā's-tṛṇānnā-kamāruha-nnabhantām-anyake same.

He is the bottomless ocean womb of existence, and at the heart of everything, superfast, instant reacher, like the light of heaven all expansive, and when he vests these people with the spirit of action rising to the heights of heaven, he dispels evil and craftiness with the touch of divine refulgence. May all darkness, evil and enmity be eliminated from life.

9. Yasya śvetā vicakṣaṇā tisro bhūmīradhikṣitaḥ. Triruttarāṇi papraturvaruṇasya dhruvaṁ sadaḥ sa saptānām-irajyati nabhantām-anyake same.

The refulgent glory of Varuna who rules over everything illuminates the three worlds of earth, skies and heaven and rises over the three higher heavens. Indeed he pervades and rules over the constant universe of sevenfold order and illuminates it with light and beauty. May all darkness, ugliness and enmity be eliminated.

यः श्वताँ अधिनिणिजश्चक कृष्णाँ अनु वता। स धामं पूर्व्यं मम् यः स्कम्भन् वि रादसी अजा न द्यामधारय ा-भन्तामन्यक समम॥ १०॥

10. Yaḥ śvetāň adhinirṇijaścakre kṛṣṇāň anuvratā. Sa dhāma pūrvyaṁ mame yaḥ skambhena virodasī ajo na dyāmadhārayan-nabhantām-anyake same.

Varuna, who creates the beautiful world of white and black, light and dark, and the living beings of white and dark character, creates the worlds as ever in accordance with the rules and vows of the law of Dharma and Dharma in action in the earlier life of human beings and others. Thus he, the unborn, maintains the world as he does heaven and the middle regions by his constant might. May all darkness and evil vanish from life.

Giraḥ stomāsa īrate.

These swelling notes of the songs of adoration in honour of Agni, light of life, sung by the vibrant, learned and dedicated sage of indefatigable faith and yajnic service resound in space all round.

2. Asmai te pratiharyate jātavedo vicarṣane.
Agne janāmi suṣṭutim.

This holy song of worship, Agni, all-knowing, all pervasive lord of light, vision, and love, I raise to you, hoping your grace would accept and respond.

आरा॒काइ॑व॒ घदह॑ ति॒ग्मा अ॑ग्न॒ तव॒ त्विष॑ः।

4. Harayo dhūmaketavo vātajūtā upa dyavi.

The fire, the sun, the lightning and the falling stars moved around by cosmic energy, all receptive and transmissive in their own orbit on earth, in heaven and across the skies, all giving the light and shade and fragrance of their nature and character in their own way, roam around in space as versions of Agni.

पुनयन्तरुणीरपि॥ ७॥

7. Dhāsiṁ kṛṇvāna oṣadhīr-bapsad-agnirna vāyati.
Punaryan taruṇīrapi.

Conducting itself into herbs and trees, making them as if a dwelling for itself, energising them and, as fire even consuming them, Agni does not feel satiated, and takes on to new budding ones on and on. (The life cycle of birth, death and rebirth, growth, decay and growth thus continues.)

सखा सख्या समिध्यस॥ १४॥

14. Tvaṁ hyagne agninā vipro vipreṇa santsatā.
Sakhā sakhyā samidhyase.

You rise and shine, O lord of light and life, as fire with the fiery, as vibrant scholarship with the vibrant scholar, as holy spirit with the holy people, and as love and friendship with the friend.

स त्वं विपाय दाशुष रयिं देहि सहस्त्रिणम।
अग्न वीरवतीमिषम॥ १५॥

15. Sa tvaṁ viprāya dāśuṣe rayiṁ dehi sahasriṇam.
Agne vīravatīmiṣam.

So generous and responsive as you are, Agni, give a thousandfold wealth, honour and excellence for the vibrant scholar and generous yajaka, give him life sustaining food and energy and generations of brave progeny.

अग्न भातः सहस्कृत राहिदश्व शुचिव्रत।
इमं स्तामं जुषस्व म॥ १६॥

गाष्ठं गाव इवाशत॥ १७॥

17. Uta tvāgne mama stuto vāśrāya pratiharyate.
Goṣṭhaṁ gāva ivāśata.

Agni, lord of generosity and infinite plenty, may my songs of adoration reach you as cows hasten to the stall for the lowing calf eager to receive the motherly grace of sustaining milk.

तुभ्यं ता अङ्गिरस्तम विश्वाः सुितयः पृथक।
अग्न कामाय यमिर॥ १८॥

18. Tubhyaṁ tā aṅgirastama viśvāḥ sukṣitayaḥ
pṛthak. Agne kāmāya yemire.

Agni, lord of highest light and giver of the breath of life, all people of the entire world pray and approach you, all for the fulfilment of their ambition and desire.

Indra-Agni, Indra Devata, Trishoka Kanva Rshi

आ घा॒ य अ॒ग्निमि॑न्ध॒त स्तृ॒णन्ति॑ ब॒हिरा॑नु॒षक।
यषा॒मिन्द्रा॒ युवा॒ सखा॥ १॥

1. Ā ghā agnimindhate stṛṇanti barhirānuṣak.
Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.

Blessed are they for sure who kindle the fire of yajna, Agni, and spread the seats of grass open for all in faith and love and whose friend is Indra, the mighty youthful soul who brooks no nonsense and delay.

बृह॒ िदि॒ध्म ए॑षां॒ भूरि॑ शस्तं पृथु॒ः स्वरु॑ः।
यषा॒मिन्द्रा॒ युवा॒ सखा॥ २॥

2. Bṛhannididhma eṣāṁ bhūri śastaṁ pṛthuḥ svaruḥ.
Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.

Great is their fuel and fire, profuse their praise and song of adoration, expansive their yajna and high their ensign whose friend is Indra, youthful soul, their ruler and defender.

अयुद्ध इद्युधा वृतं शूर आजति सत्वभिः।
येषामिन्द्रा युवा सखा॥ ३॥

3. Ayuddha id yudhā vṛtaṁ śūra ājati sattvabhiḥ. Yeṣāmindro yuvā sakhā.

Unequalled is Indra, irresistible, even when there is no war. The mighty hero by the very force of his presence and character throws off the enemy supported by brave warriors all round. Blessed are they whose friend is Indra, the mighty youthful heroic soul.

आ बुन्दं वृत्रहा ददे जातः पृच्छद्वि मातरम।
क उगाः के ह शृण्विर॥ ४॥

4. Ā bundaṁ vṛtrahā dade jātaḥ pṛcchad vi mātaram. Ka ugrāḥ ke ha śṛṇvire.

When the mighty soul, destroyer of evil, born to self consciousness, takes to the bow and arrow, blazing, fearsome, breaker of foes, he asks the mother, spirit of higher vision and discrimination: Who are the enemies renowned to be terrible and irresistible?

पतिं त्वा शवसी वदद्गिरावप्सा न योधिषत।
यस्ते शत्रुत्वमाचक॥ ५॥

5. Prati tvā śavasī vadad girāvapso na yodhiṣat. Yaste śatrutvamācake.

Indra, lord of power and excellence, to you then the mighty mother, divine intelligence, would say: Whoever would take a hostile attitude toward you would fight against you like a seductive sorceress on the magic mountain.

उत त्वं मघवञ्छृणु यस्त वष्टि ववक्षि तत।
यद्वीळयासि वीळु तत॥ ६॥

6. Uta tvaṁ maghavañchṛṇu yaste vaṣṭi vavakṣi tat.
Yad vīḷayāsi vīḷu tat.

Now then, O lord of power, wealth and excellence, listen: Whoever asks of you something he desires, you bear and bring for him. Whoever you strengthen, he becomes strong. Are you not real mighty then?

यदाजिं यात्याजिकृदिन्द्रः स्वश्वयुरुप।
रथीतमा रथीनाम॥ ७॥

7. Yadājiṁ yātyājikṛdindraḥ svaśvayurupa.
Rathī-tamo rathīnām.

And remember: When Indra goes to battle, fiercely armed and well provided with noble steeds, he is then the mightiest of chariot heroes.

वि षु विश्वा अभियुजा वज्रिन्विष्वग्यथा वृह।
भवा नः सुश्रवस्तमः॥ ८॥

8. Vi ṣu viśvā abhiyujo vajrin viṣvagyathā vṛha.
Bhavā naḥ suśravastamaḥ.

O wielder of the thunderbolt, fight out the enemies the way you uproot them so that you become the most renowned among us.

अस्माकं सु रथं पुर इन्द्रः कृणातु सातय।
न यं धूवन्ति धूतयः॥ ९॥

9. Asmākaṁ su rathaṁ pura indraḥ kṛṇotu sātaye.
Na yaṁ dhūrvanti dhūrtayaḥ.

May Indra, mighty warring soul, turn our chariot of body and the body politic to the heights of the first and foremost order of strength and excellence for the achievement of success and victory in the battle of life so that no enemies can violate it.

वृ॒ज्याम॑ त॒ परि॒ द्विषा॒ रं त॑ शक्र दा॒वने॑।

10. Vṛjyāma te pari dviṣo'raṁ te śakra dāvane.
Gamemedindra gomataḥ.

Indra, we would wholly give up those who are contrary and opposed to you, and surely in matters of your cherished love and charity, blest with lands and cows, literature and culture, we would come close to you.

शन॑श्चि॒द्यन्ता॑ अदि॒वा श्वा॑वन्तः शत॒ग्विन॑:।
वि॒व॑क्ष॒णा अ॒नृ॒ह॒सः ॥ ११ ॥

11. Śanaiścid yanto adrivo'śvāvantaḥ śatagvinaḥ.
Vivakṣaṇā anehasaḥ.

Advancing at a steady-pace, O lord of the clouds, mountains and the thunderbolt, we would be thriving with horses and a hundredfold attainments of new wealth and power and, free from sin and evil, we would come closer to you.

ऊ॒ध्वा हि त॑ दि॒वदि॑व स॒हस्रा॑ सू॒नृता॑ श॒ता।
ज॒रि॒तृभ्या॑ वि॒मंह॑त ॥ १२ ॥

12. Ūrdhvā hi te divedive sahasrā sūnṛtā śatā.
Jaritṛbhyo vimaṁhate.

Your kindness and generosity rises day by day a hundredfold and a thousandfold, higher and higher, and as it rises, it blesses them.

विद्मा हि त्वा धनंजयमिन्द्र दृळ्हा चिदारुजम।
आदारिणं यथा गयम॥ १३॥

13. Vidmā hi tvā dhanaṁjayam-indra dṛḷhā cidā-rujam. ādāriṇaṁ yathā gayam.

We know you, Indra, as our very haven and home, winner of wealth, honour and excellence, strong and firm, destroyer of evil and breaker of the strongholds of darkness, superstition and misery.

ककुहं चित्त्वा कवे मन्दन्तु धृष्णविन्दवः।
आ त्वा पणिं यदीमहे॥ १४॥

14. Kakuhaṁ cit tvā kave mandantu dhṛṣṇav-indavaḥ. Ā tvā paṇiṁ yadīmahe.

While we pray to you, generous lord, and ask for what we want, O cosmic poet and visionary, may our yajnas and soma celebrations please you, most high and supreme lord of power, justice and award.

यस्ते रेवाँ अदाशुरिः पममर्ष मघत्तये।
तस्य ना वद आ भर॥ १५॥

15. Yaste revāň adāśuriḥ pramamarṣa maghattaye. Tasya no veda ā bhara.

If a man is rich and yet neglects and fails to pay to you, generous one, wielder of power, what is due for social causes, in that case make up from his money or property what is required for our sake, i.e., for the sake of society.

इ॒म उ॑ त्वा॒ वि च॑क्षत॒ सखा॑य इन्द सो॒मिनः॑।
पु॒ष्टाव॑न्तो॒ यथा॑ प॒शुम॥ १६॥

16. Ima u tvā vi cakṣate sakhāya indra sominaḥ.
Puṣṭāvanto yathā paśum.

Indra, these friends, celebrants of soma and holiness, holding offerings of precious homage, look and wait for you as the seeker waits for the sight of his wealth.

उ॒त त्वाबा॑धिरं व॒यं श्रुत्क॑र्णं॒ सन्त॑मू॒तये॑।
दू॒रादि॒ह ह॑वामहे॥ १७॥

17. Uta tvābadhiraṁ vayaṁ śrutkarṇaṁ santam-ūtaye. Dūrādiha havāmahe.

And from afar we invoke and call upon you for protection and progress. You are everywhere, your ears are sensitive and you are eager to hear the call of the seeker.

यच्छु॑श्रू॒या इ॒मं हवं॒ दुर्म॑र्षं॒ चकिया उ॒त।

18. Yacchuśrūyā imaṁ havaṁ durmarṣaṁ cakriyā uta. Bhaverāpirno antamaḥ.

As you hear this call of ours, take it as unforgettable and be our closest and ultimate friend and brother.

यच्चि॒द्धि त॒ अपि॒ व्यथि॑जग॒न्वांसा॒ अम॑न्महि।
गा॒दा इदि॑न्द बाधि॒ नः॥ १९॥

19. Yacciddhi te api vyathirjaganvāṁso amanmahi.
Godā idindra bodhi naḥ.

And also, when we approach you in our mind and, like supplicants in distress, remember you and pray, then attend to us and be generous. You are the giver of cows, lands and light of knowledge.

आ त्वा॑ र॒म्भं न जिव॑या रर॒भ्मा श॑वसस्पत।

20. Ā tvā rambhaṁ na jivrayo rarabhmā śavasaspate.
Uśmasi tvā sadhastha ā.

O lord commander of power and prosperity, as weaker folks take to the staff for support, so do we depend on you for succour and sustenance and invoke your presence in our hall of yajna.

स्तो॒त्रमिन्दा॑य गायत पुरुनृ॒म्णाय॒ सत्व॑ने।
नकि॒र्यं वृ॑ण्व॒त यु॒धि ॥ २१॥

21. Stotram-indrāya gāyata purunṛmṇāya satvane.
Nakiryaṁ vṛṇvate yudhi.

Sing songs of adoration and prayer in honour of Indra, lord of world's power and wealth. Who can ignore and neglect him in the battle of life?

अ॒भि त्वा॑ वृषभा सु॒त सु॒तं सृ॑जामि पी॒तय॑े।

22. Abhi tvā vṛṣabhā sute sutaṁ sṛjāmi pītaye.
Tṛmpā vyaśnuhī madam.

Lord of generous and creative power, when the yajna is on and soma is distilled, I prepare the cup and offer you the drink. Pray accept, drink to your heart's content and enjoy the ecstasy of bliss divine.

मा त्वा॑ मूरा अवि॒ष्यवो॒ माप॒हस्वा॑न॒ आ द॑भन।

23. Mā tvā mūrā aviṣyavo mopahasvana ā dabhan.
Mākīṁ brahmadviṣo vanaḥ.

Let the fools and scoffers never get round you, even if they profess that they are keen to please you, for protection and support. Never support the negationists of knowledge, piety, existence and divinity.

इ॒ह त्वा॒ गोप॑रीणसा म॒ह मं॑दन्तु॒ राध॑से।
सरो॑ गौ॒रो यथा॑ पिब॥ २४॥

24. Iha tvā goparīṇasā mahe mandantu rādhase.
Saro gauro yathā piba.

Here may the lovers of cows entertain you with milk and soma for the achievement of great competence and success so that you may drink like the thirsty stag drinking at the pool.

या वृ॑त्र॒हा प॑रा॒वति॒ सना॒ नवा॑ च चुच्यु॒व।

25. Yā vṛtrahā parāvati sanā navā ca cucyuve.
Tā saṁsatsu pra vocata.

Whatever gifts of wealth or titles of honour old or new, Indra, destroyer of evil and darkness, you grant far off or near, all those, announce in the assemblies.

26. Apibat kadruvaḥ sutamindraḥ sahasrabāhve.
Atrādediṣṭa pauṁsyam.

In the thousand armed dynamic battles of the elements in evolution, Indra, as the sun, drinks the soma of the earth and therein shines the potent majesty of the lord.

सत्यं तत्तुवश यदा विदाना अह्नवाय्यम।
व्यानट तुवण शमि ॥ २७ ॥

27. Satyaṁ tat turvaśe yadau vidāno ahnavāyyam.
Vyānaṭ turvaṇe śami.

Knowing the truth of the daily behaviour of the simple man of rectitude, Indra clears the path of peace and goodness in his battle of life.

28. Taraṇiṁ vo janānāṁ tradaṁ vājasya gomataḥ.

इन्द्रं साम सचा सुत ॥ २९ ॥

29. Ṛbhukṣaṇaṁ na vartava uktheṣu tugryāvṛdham.
Indraṁ some sacā sute.

When the soma is distilled and seasoned and the hymns are sung in the yajna, then to win the company and favour of mighty Indra, I adore the mighty lord, a friend and protector of the strength and power of the people.

यः कृन्तदिद्वि यान्यं त्रिशाकाय गिरिं पृथुम।

30. Yaḥ kṛntadid vi yonyaṁ triśokāya giriṁ pṛthum.
Gobhyo gātuṁ niretave.

I adore Indra who makes and breaks the cloud, womb of waters, and the mighty mountain for the humanity of threefold purity of nature, character and behaviour and who makes the paths for rivers to flow on earth.

31. Yad dadhiṣe manasyasi mandānaḥ prediya-kṣasi.

32. Dabhraṁ ciddhi tvāvataḥ kṛtaṁ śṛṇve adhi kṣami.
Jigātvindra te manaḥ.

Just a little done by someone like you or someone protected by you resounds on the earth. O lord, I pray, may your gracious attention turn to me also.

33. Tavedu tāḥ sukīrtayo 'sannuta praśastayaḥ.

34. Mā na ekasminnāgasi mā dvayoruta triṣu.
Vadhīrmā śūra bhūriṣu.

O lord of magnanimous glory among the great heroes, not for one trespass, not for two, not for three, not even for many, uncountable, pray, hurt us not, and strike us not.

36. Mā sakhyuḥ śūnamā vide mā putrasya prabhū-vaso. Āvṛtvad bhūtu te manaḥ.

I pray I should never suffer want of friends, never be deprived of children. O lord of wealth, honour and grandeur of the world, let your mind turn to me with kindness.

39. Ā ta etā vacoyujā harī gṛbhṇe sumadrathā.
Yadīṁ brahmabhya iddadaḥ.

I receive the word-controlled motive powers and steers of the chariot which fly you on high on liquid fuel, the ones you have given to the scholarly sages.

He who by himself rejoices in giving me this wonderful gift of light and yajnic expansion, the same lord of holy action rejoices in giving more to enhance higher charity of the grown up man of holy deeds in practical life.

For the sake of the man whose food is bad dreams, whose karma it is, whose entire share of life is this, for the sake of the man of threefold world of body, mind and soul, and for the good of the twice born humanity, O dawn of divine light, take away the bad dreams far off. Sinless are your protections, holy your safeguards.

Just as we throw off a dead nail and a dead hoof, and just as we pay off a bad debt, similarly we throw off tall bad dreams of our whole world far away. O Adityas, O dawn of light, sinless are your protections, holy your safeguards.

Soma Devata, Pragatha Ghaura Kanva Rshi

स्वा॒दार॑भ॒क्षि वयसः सु॒मे॒धाः स्वा॒ध्या॑ वरिवा॒वित्त॑रस्य ।
विश्व॒ यं दे॒वा उ॒त मर्त्यासा॒ मधु॑ ब्रु॒वन्तो॑ अ॒भि सं॒चर॑न्ति ॥ १ ॥

1. Svādorabhakṣi vayasaḥ sumedhāḥ svādhyo varivovittarasya. Viśve yaṁ devā uta martyāso madhu bruvanto abhi saṁcaranti.

An intelligent and dedicated reader of holy literature, I have enjoyed the delicious soma food of higher and holier quality which all divines and mortals of the world enjoy, saying 'it is honey sweet and savoury', when they meet in sacred gatherings.

अन्तश्च॒ पाग॒ा अदि॑तिभवास्यवय॒ाता हर॑सा॒ दव्य॑स्य।

2. Antaśca prāgā aditirbhavāsyavayātā haraso daivyasya. Indavindrasya sakhyaṁ juṣāṇaḥ śrauṣṭīva dhuramanu rāya ṛdhyāḥ.

O soma, reaching the core of personality, you are internalised, assimilated as one with the body and creative mind of man, dispeller of divine anger, and friend of Indra, the soul. O soma, just like willing and obedient horses of the chariot harnessed and yoked, inspire us toward the wealth, honour and excellence of life.

अपा॑म॒ सोम॑म॒मृता॑ अभूमाग॑न्म॒ ज्योति॒रवि॑दाम दे॒वान।
किं नू॒नम॒स्मान्कृ॑णव॒दरा॑ति॒ः किमु॑ धू॒तिर॑मृ॒त॒ मर्त्य॑स्य॥ ३॥

3. Apāma somamamṛtā abhūmāganma jyotiravidāma devān. Kiṁ nūnamasmān kṛṇavadarātiḥ kimu dhūtiramṛta martyasya.

We have drunk the soma of immortality, we have become immortal, attained to the light of divinity, have known the organs of perception and imagination, and realised the divinities of light, power and excellence. What can the enemies internal and external do now against us? O lord immortal, soma, what can the violence of mortals do against us?

शं नो भव हृद आ पीत इन्दा पितेव सोम सूनवे सुशेवः। सखेव सख्ये उरुशंस धीरः प ण आयुर्जीवसे सोम तारीः॥ ४॥

4. Śaṁ no bhava hṛda ā pīta indo piteva soma sūnave suśevaḥ. Sakheva sakhya uruśaṁsa dhīraḥ praṇa āyurjīvase soma tārīḥ.

O soma, drink of immortality, be good and blissful for the heart. O nectar soma, when drunk, be as good and blissful as father is to the child. Soma, universally admired, brave and heroic, patient and constant, as a friend for the friend, give us a long age of good health so that we may live a full life of joy to our heart's content.

इम मा पीता यशस उरुष्यवा रथं न गावः समनाह पर्वसु। त मा र न्तु विस्रसश्चरित्रादुत मा स्रामाद्यवयन्त्विन्दवः॥ ५॥

5. Ime mā pītā yaśasa uruṣyavo rathaṁ na gāvaḥ samanāha parvasu. Te mā rakṣantu visrasaścaritrāduta mā srāmādyavayantvindavaḥ.

These soma drinks, protective of honour, may secure and strengthen my joints as straps secure the chariots at joints, and inspire me to apply myself to noble projects as bullocks draw the chariot to good destinations. These drinks may save me from weakness of character and protect me from depression and disease.

अग्निं न मा मथितं सं दिदीपः प च ाय कृणुहि वस्यसा नः। अथा हि त मद आ सोम मन्य रवाँइव प चरा पुष्टिमच्छ॥ ६॥

6. Agniṁ na mā mathitaṁ saṁ didīpaḥ pra cakṣaya kṛṇuhi vasyaso naḥ. Athā hi te mada ā soma manye revāṅ iva pra carā puṣṭimaccha.

Light and shine me like fire from wood by friction, give me the eye to see the light and raise us to be masters of wealth, honour and excellence. O soma, drink of immortality, in the ecstasy of exhilaration, I concentrate and meditate on the self in the peace of divinity like a wealthy man of spiritual profusion. O bliss of exuberance, stimulate, inspire and raise me well to perfect health of body, mind and soul.

7. Iṣireṇa te manasā sutasya bhakṣīmahi pitryasyeva rāyaḥ. Soma rājan pra ṇa āyūṁṣi tārīrahānīva sūryo vāsarāṇi.

O bright soma, with stimulated and inspired mind, let us drink at the fount of your exuberant flow like children enjoying on the wealth of their parents. O ruling light of soma divine, pray lengthen our life and rejuvenate our health like the sun lengthening the light of days.

साम॑ राजन्मृ॒ळया॑ नः स्व॒स्ति तव॑ स्मसि व॒त्या॒३॑स्तस्य॑ विद्धि । अल॑ति॒ द ा उ॒त म॒न्युरि॑न्दा॒ मा ना॑ अ॒या अ॑नुका॒मं परा॑ दाः ॥ ८ ॥

8. Soma rājan mṛḷayā naḥ svasti tava smasi vratyāstasya viddhi. Alarti dakṣa uta manyu-rindo mā no aryo anukāmaṁ parā dāḥ.

O soma, ruling light of life, be kind and gracious, give us peace and well being, we are your devotees, observers of your rules of life in joy, pray know this. O fluent life of joy, pray know that confidence and competence and righteous passion is fresh and vibrant in us, do not forsake us, give us not up to the will and pleasure of the enemy.

9. Tvaṁ hi nastanvaḥ soma gopā gātregātre niṣasatthā nṛcakṣāḥ. Yat te vayaṁ pramināma vratāni sa no mṛḷa suṣakhā deva vasyaḥ.

O soma, you are the protector and promoter of our body and personality. Watcher and leading light of humanity, seep in and energise every part of our body. And if we default on your rules of discipline, even so, O noble friend, generous power superior, be good and gracious to us and help us to be happy.

10. Ṛdūdareṇa sakhyā saceya yo mā na riṣyeddharyaśva pītaḥ. Ayaṁ yaḥ somo nyadhayyasme tasmā indraṁ pratiramemyāyuḥ.

Indra, O soul and spirit of intelligence, let me be friends with soma as with a friend of noble nature and drink it as it would do me no harm. I pray to Indra, lord omnipotent giver of bliss, that the soma which I have drunk in may increase and enrich my life.

अप॒ त्या अ॑स्थुरनि॑रा॒ अमी॑वा॒ निर॑त्रस॒न्तमि॑षी॒चीर॑भ॑षुः । आ सामा॑ अ॒स्माँ अ॑रुहद्वि॒हा॑या॒ अग॑न्म॒ यत्र॑ पति॒रन्त॒ आयुः॑ ॥ ११ ॥

11. Apa tyā asthuranirā amīvā niratrasan-tamiṣīcīra-bhaiṣuḥ. Ā somo asmāň aruhad vihāyā aganma yatra pratiranta āyuḥ.

Let those difficult ailments subside and go far from here. Even though they are strong and fearful, let them be off from here. Potent soma has risen up in vigour and has energised us, and we have reached where life increases and delights through age in ecstasy.

या न॒ इन्दु॑ः पितरा हृ॒त्सु पी॒ता म॑र्त्या॒ मर्त्याँ॑ आवि॒वर्श॑ । तस्म॒ सामा॑य ह॒विषा॑ विधम मृळी॒क अ॑स्य सु॒म॒ता स्या॑म ॥ १२ ॥

12. Yo na induḥ pitaro hṛtsu pīto'martyo martyāň āviveśa. Tasmai somāya haviṣā vidhema mṛḷīke asya sumatau syāma.

O parents and seniors of wisdom, the soma which is immortal is consumed and absorbed in the hearts and spirits of mortals. For that soma of immortality, we pray with love and homage to divinity and hope we shall abide in peace, pleasure and a settled mind, all which is the gift of this drink of immortality.

13. Tvaṁ soma pitṛbhiḥ saṁvidāno'nu dyāvāpṛthivī ā tatantha. Tasmai ta indo haviṣā vidhema vayaṁ syāma patayo rayīṇām.

O soma, immortal joy and inspiration of existence, known well and abiding by the ancients and pranic energies of nature, you pervade over heaven and earth. O soma, peace, power and joy of the world, we pray to you for strength and joy with homage and oblations so that we may be masters, protectors and promoters of the wealths, honours and excellences of life.

त्रातारा दवा अधि वाचता ना मा ना निदा ईशत मात जल्पिः । वयं सामस्य विश्वहा पियासः सुवीरासा विदथमा वदम ॥ १४ ॥

14. Trātāro devā adhi vocatā no mā no nidrā īśata mota jalpiḥ. Vayaṁ somasya viśvaha priyāsaḥ suvīrāso vidathamā vadema.

O brilliant divines, saviours and leading lights of humanity and life's joy, speak over to us of the pleasure and power of soma so that neither sloth and slumber nor chatter, prattle and inarticulation may overtake us. We pray we may all time, seasons and days be favourites of immortal soma of bliss and, wide awake and brave, we may realise knowledge, wisdom and a happy well governed order of society.

त्वं नः साम विश्वता वयाधास्त्वं स्वविदा विशा नृचः । त्वं न इन्द ऊतिभिः सजाषाः पाहि पश्चातादुत वा पुरस्तात ॥ १५ ॥

15. Tvaṁ naḥ soma viśvato vayodhāstvaṁ svarvidā viśā nṛcakṣāḥ. Tvaṁ na inda ūtibhiḥ sajoṣāḥ pāhi paścātāduta vā purastāt.

Soma, immortal spirit of peace, power and bliss, you are the treasure giver of food, energy and life for the world. You are the treasure giver of heavenly joy and watcher and leading light of the people. O soma, fluent stream of life energy, loving and friendly, with all your powers and protections, safeguard and promote us in front, on the back and all round.

Indra Devata, Praskanva Kanva Rshi

अभि प वः सुराधसमिन्दमच्र यथा विद।

1. Abhi pra vaḥ surādhasam-indram-arca yathā vide. Yo jaritṛbhyo maghavā purūvasuḥ saha-sreṇeva śikṣati.

To the best of your intention and purpose and for whatever you wish to achieve, pray to Indra, lord of glory, world power and promotion and means of success, who gives a thousandfold wealth, honour and excellence to his celebrants.

2. Śatānīkeva pra jīgāti dhṛṣṇuyā hanti vṛtrāṇi dāśuṣe. Gireriva pra rasā asya pinvire datrāṇi purubhojasaḥ.

Like the commander of a hundred armies, with his power and force, Indra rushes forward to fight and win, and he destroys the demons of darkness and want for the charitable giver. The gifts of this universal giver of food and sustenance feed and support humanity like streams flowing down from the mountains.

आ त्वा॑ सु॒तास॒ इन्द॑वो॒ मदा॒ य इ॑न्द्र गि॒र्वणः॑।

3. Ā tvā sutāsa indavo madā ya indra girvaṇaḥ. Āpo na vajrinnanvokyaṁ saraḥ pṛṇanti śūra rādhase.

Indra, celebrated lord of the thunderbolt, may the songs of adoration presented by the celebrant with prayers for desired wealth and means of success, flowing spontaneous like ecstatic streams of soma, please and exhilarate you to fullness of kindness and grace as flowing waters, brooks and rivers, fill their original home, the lake and the sea.

4. Anehasaṁ prataraṇaṁ vivakṣaṇaṁ madhvaḥ svādiṣṭhamīṁ piba. Ā yathā mandasānaḥ kirāsi naḥ pra kṣudreva tmanā dhṛṣat.

Indra, lord of joy and fulfilment, pray accept the innocent, overflowing, inspiring song of adoration, enjoy it like a draught of soma sweeter than honey, so that happy and joyous at heart and soul, ignoring all minor considerations, you may pour out your gifts of generosity like showers of mist.

आ न॒ः स्ताम॒मुप॑ द॒वद्धि॑या॒ना अश्वा॒ न सात॑ृभिः।

5. Ā naḥ stomamupa dravaddhiyāno aśvo na sotṛbhiḥ. Yaṁ te svadhāvantsvadayanti dhenava indra kaṇveṣu rātayaḥ.

Indra, lord of joy and fulfilment, love and generosity, come to accept our song of adoration like a courser urged on and rushing to its destination, a song created like soma by the pressers which the profuse voices of the wise and your gifts showered on the celebrants sweeten all the more and energise.

6. Ugraṁ na vīraṁ namasopa sedima vibhūtimakṣitāvasum. Udrīva vajrinnavato na siñcate kṣarantīndra dhītayaḥ.

With homage and adorations, we approach Indra, illustrious, brave, glorious, lord of inexhaustible wealth, honour and ultimate shelter. As an overflowing spring fills a well with water, so do our thoughts and imagination create the flow of spontaneous praise for the generous lord's satisfaction.

Illustrious Indra, whether you are at some yajna or somewhere on earth or anywhere else, from there come to our yajna by the fastest and mightiest forces, illustrious lord, wisest of the wise.

8. Ajirāso harayo ye ta āśavo vātā iva prasakṣiṇaḥ. Yebhir-apatyaṁ manuṣaḥ parīyase yebhirviśvaṁ svardṛṣe.

Come by indefatigable forces, fastest and tempestuous as the winds, by which you reach the unwavering children of humanity and go round to see and reveal the light of heaven.

9. Etāvatasta īmaha indra sumnāsya gomataḥ. Yathā prāvo maghavan medhyātithiṁ yathā nīpātithiṁ dhane.

Indra, lord of grandeur, glorious as you are, we pray of you the wealth of the peace and prosperity of sense, mind and wisdom by which you protect and promote the man of dynamic intelligence, and the sage of imagination who dives deep into the mysteries of life in the struggle to understand the riddles of existence.

10. Yathā kaṇve maghavan trasadasyavi yathā pakthe daśavraje. Yathā gośaryo asanorṛjis-vanīndra gomaddhiraṇyavat.

Indra, lord of glory, we pray for that generosity of yours by which you award the wealth of lands and cows, sense, mind and wisdom, and the golden excellence of honour and culture, to the wise celebrant, the opponent of violence and terror, the veteran scholar, the controller of sense and mind in meditation, the energiser of perception and intelligence, and the man of simple and straight paths of truth and rectitude.

For the sake of life's fulfilment, honour and adore Indra, renowned and mighty master and controller of the superstructure of existence, who grants desired wealth, power and honour, and augments it a thousandfold for the celebrant who seeks and works for the soma joy and excellence of life with yajnic effort.

Indra, lord of the holy yajna of creation, come to our soma yajna, reaching like the constant flow of joy where soma flows and pleases. O lord most generous and connoisseur of taste, the songs of praise please you, and while the soma flows you delight in our adoration.

O lord of glory, Indra, as much as you have granted for the intellectual, for the scholar teacher, for the yajna, for the long time leader, for the home and for the man of self control, so much, O lord of the clouds and mountains, pray grant me too for guidance on the path to divinity.

1. Yamṛtvijo bahudhā kalpayantaḥ sacetaso yajñam-imaṁ vahanti. Yo anūcāno brāhmaṇo yukta āsīt kā svit tatra yajamānasya saṁvit.

In the yajna of existence and human life, which the yajakas, Vishvedevas, natural forces of divinity in the cosmic yajna, and human senses and mind in the individual yajna of life, all vital, alert and expert in their own ways, organise, conduct and carry on harmoniously in many different participative ways, and in the same yajna when some pious, intelligent and fortunate soul in communion is joined with the supreme divinity of the yajna, then in that state of samadhi what is the nature and character of this yajamana's state of knowledge and spiritual awareness?

एकं एवाग्निर्बहुधा समिद्ध एकः सूर्या विश्वमनु प्रभूतः।
एकवाषाः सर्वमिदं वि भात्येकं वा इदं वि बभूव सर्वम॥ २॥

2. Eka evāgnir-bahudhā samiddha ekaḥ sūryo viśvamanu prabhūtaḥ. Ekaivoṣāḥ sarvamidaṁ vi bhātyekaṁ vā idaṁ vi babhūva sarvam.

The nature of awareness in communion is this, and this same is the understanding of an intelligent soul: Only one Agni, fire, lighted in many ways, only one sun risen all over the world, only one dawn rising daily anew, lights this entire world, and only one universal spirit pervades this entire universe, the entire existence is one.

ज्यातिष्मन्तं कतुमन्तं त्रिचक्रं सुखं रथं सुषदं भूरिवारम।

3. Jyotiṣmantaṁ ketumantaṁ tricakraṁ sukhaṁ rathaṁ suṣadaṁ bhūrivāram. Citrāmaghā yasya yoge'dhijajñe taṁ vāṁ huve ati riktaṁ pibadhyai.

Further: Of you all Vishvedevas, the one that is self-refulgent, self-revealing, three wheeled-one centred, blissful, gloriously moving, a seat of bliss, full of treasure, by the power and inspiration of which the dawn of light arises and illuminates the world, that supreme spirit I invoke for you and call you to experience the absolute bliss beyond the relative.

Indra-Varunau Devate, Suparna Kanva Rshi

इमानि वां भागधेयानि सिस्रत इन्द्रावरुणा प मह सुतेषु वाम। यज्ञेयज्ञे ह सवना भुरण्यथा यत्सुन्वत यजमानाय शिक्षथः ॥ १ ॥

1. Imāni vāṁ bhāgaheyāni sisrata indrāvaruṇā pra mahe suteṣu vām. Yajñeyajñe ha savanā bhuraṇyatho yat sunvate yajamānāya śikṣathaḥ.

Indra and Varuna, power and judgement of divinity, these are your contributions to life which in this grand yajna of human life vibrate in the yajnic projects of life inspired by you: In every yajna of life you energise and shine the holy activities when you bless and inspire the yajamana who creates and contributes to the joy of life.

2. Niṣṣadhvarīroṣadhīrāpa āstām-indrāvaruṇā mahimānam-āśata. Yā sisratū rajasaḥ pāre adhvano yayoḥ śatrur-nakirādeva ohate.

Indra and Varuna, powers of natural energy and natural selection for evolution and growth, herbs and trees, waters and liquid flows attain efficiency and rise higher in munificence when you cross the paths across the skies, come and vibrate, and there is no defiling power in operation to negate your efficacy.

Indra and Varuna, symbolic powers of love, judgement and social cohesion, true it is that for you the sevenfold voices of the dedicated sage distil the honey sweet vibrations of divine energy in your service and with these you, protectors and promoters of the good and auspiciousness of life, strengthen and advance the generous yajaka who, with sincere thoughts and actions, without fear, serves and augments you with devotion and resolution.

Endowed with gifts of goodness and grace, kind and generous, givers of life energy, seven sisters of yours, five senses, mind and intellect, O Indra and Varuna, loving and judicious divine powers of humanity, in this house of truth and divine law of yajna in human life, are replete with the beauty and splendour of life. With these, pray bring in the knowledge and wisdom of divinity and nature revealed by the sages and enlighten the yajamana.

We speak and celebrate, for the sake of great goodness and prosperity, the truth, grandeur and power, honour and excellence received from the mighty and magnificent Indra and Varuna. O Indra and Varuna, gracious and benevolent protectors of the greatness and goodness of life, protect and promote us by the sevenfold voice of the seven sisters and seven sages at the three levels of body, mind and soul.

6. Indrāvaruṇā yadṛśibhyo manīṣāṁ vāco matiṁ śrutam-adattam-agre. Yāni sthānānyasṛjanta dhīrā yajñaṁtanvānās-tapasābhyapaśyam.

Indra and Varuna, divine powers of vigour and intelligence, judgement and imagination, what words of knowledge and thoughts of wisdom by virtue of meditation, study and speech you gave to the sages of vision earlier, and what orders of discovery and invention through yajnic extension of research, the patient, persistent sages achieved later, all these, with my austere discipline of study and application, let me see and realise for myself.

Indra and Varuna, good disposition, wealth and advancement free from pride, bear and bring to bless the yajamana. Progeny, vigorous health, and prosperity, bring for us, prolong our life for us to enjoy the beauty of living for as long as possible.

Agni Devata, Bharga Pragatha Rshi

अग्न आ याह्यग्निभिर्होतारं त्वा वृणीमह।

1. Agna ā yāhyagnibhir-hotāraṁ tvā vṛṇīmahe. Ā tvām-anaktu prayatā haviṣmatī yajiṣṭhaṁ barhi-rāsade.

Agni, universal fire of life, come with other fires such as the sun. We opt to worship you alone, the cosmic yajamana. The yajaka people holding ladlefuls of havi would honour and celebrate you and seat you on the holy grass.

अच्छा॒ हि त्वा॑ सहसः सूना अङ्गिर॒ः स्रुच॒श्चर॑न्त्यध्व॒र।

2. Acchā hi tvā sahasaḥ sūno aṅgiraḥ srucaś-carantyadhvare. Urjo napātaṁ ghṛtakeśamīmahe'gniṁ yajñeṣu pūryam.

Agni, creator of energy and power, dear as breath of life omnipresent, the ladles of ghrta feed you well in the holy fire of yajna. We honour and adore the divine fire, prime power, infallible product of cosmic energy and rising in flames in yajnas.

अग्न॑ क॒विव॒धा अ॑सि॒ हाता॑ पावक॒ य यः।

3. Agne kavirvedhā asi hotā pāvaka yakṣyaḥ. mandro yajiṣṭho adhvareṣvīḍyo viprebhiḥ śukra manmabhiḥ.

Agni is the poet of the cosmos which is his poem. He is maker and disposer of the universe, chief performer of cosmic yajna, purifier and sanctifier of the polluted, loving and adorable. O lord of power and purity, you are blissful, most honourable and companionable, adored by sages in yajnas with hymns of love and worship.

4. Adroghamā vahośato yaviṣṭhya devāň ajasra vītaye. Abhi prayāṁsi sudhitā vaso gahi mandasva dhītibhir-hitaḥ.

Most youthful Agni, eternal power and presence, bring the loving and generous divinities to receive the homage and bless the innocent and guileless yajaka. O lord of the world's wealth, haven and home of all, accept the most cherished offerings and, adored with our sincere thoughts and acts of yajna, rejoice yourself.

5. Tvamit saprathā asyagne trātar-ṛtaskaviḥ. Tvāṁ viprāsaḥ samidhāna dīdiva ā vivāsanti vedhasaḥ.

Agni, you are infinitely expansive, boundless, all saviour, eternally right poet of cosmic rectitude, omniscient creator. Self-refulgent ever, light of the universe, the wise sages and masters of law and right action glorify you as the lord supreme.

6. Śocā śociṣṭha dīdihi viśe mayo rāsva stotre mahāṅ asi. Devānāṁ śarman mama santu sūrayaḥ śatrūṣāhaḥ svagnayaḥ.

Lord most pure and refulgent, rise and shine and enlighten the world. Bless the people and the celebrants with peace and goodness. You are great and glorious. May our wise and brilliant leaders enjoy the goodwill of the divinities, be keepers of the holy fire and controllers of hate and enmities.

7. Yathā cid vṛddham-atasm-agne saṁjūrvasi kṣami. Evā daha mitramaho yo asmadhrug durmanmā kaśca venati.

Agni, just as you burn to dust the withered wood on the earth, so, O greatest friend, pray burn him to naught whoever hates us and thinks ill of us.

8. Mā no martāya ripave rakṣasvine māghaśaṁsāya riradhaḥ. Asredhadbhis-taraṇibhir-yaviṣṭhya śivebhiḥ pāhi pāyubhiḥ.

Throw us not to the mortal who is an enemy, demoniac and a sinner. O lord most youthful, keep us and protect us with the non-violent, the saviours, good and peaceful, protectors of the good.

पाहि नो अग्न एकया पाह्युत द्वितीयया।

9. Pāhi no agna ekayā pāhyuta dvitīyayā. Pāhi gīrbhis-tisṛbhirūrjāṁ pate pāhi catasṛbhir-vaso.

Agni, save us by the first voice, and by the second, by three voices, and, O lord of cosmic power, ultimate haven and home of existence, save us by the four.

(This is a very simple and yet a most comprehensive verse. The first voice could be the voice of average humanity; second, words of the sages; third, voice of the soul; fourth, the voice of divinity. Another way to understand: One, two, three or all the four Veda's voice. Yet another: voice of the soul in the rising sequence of the four mantras of Aum as described in the Upanishads. And then the four stages of language in the descending order from divine to the human: Para, Pashyanti, Madhyama and Vaikhari)

पाहि विश्वस्माद्रासा अरांव्णः प स्म वाजेषु ना व।

10. Pāhi viśvasmād-rakṣaso arāvṇaḥ pra sma vājeṣu no'va. Tvāmiddhi nediṣṭhaṁ devatātaya āpiṁ nakṣāmahe vṛdhe.

Save us from all evils of the world, from all selfish grabbers. Protect us in our struggles and lead us to victory. We approach you and pray to you, closest to us, our own, for the success of our divine yajna and rising advancement in life.

आ नो अग्न वयावृधं रयिं पावक शंस्यम।

11. Ā no agne vayovṛdhaṁ rayiṁ pāvaka śaṁsyam. Rāsvā ca na upamāte puruspṛhaṁ sunītī svaya-śastaram.

Agni, saviour and purifier of life, closest and friendly, give us wealth which is admirable and leads to progress in food, health and age and cattle wealth. Give us the way of life leading to universally loved wealth, honour and excellence, renowned and rising.

12. Yena vaṁsāma pṛtanāsu śardhatas-taranto arya ādiṣaḥ. Sa tvaṁ no vardha prayasā śacīvaso jinvā dhiyo vasuvidaḥ.

Give us the wealth of competence by which, rising in strength and power, moving forward, countering opposite intentions, designs and plans, we may defeat our enemies in the battles of life. O lord of knowledge, power and action, help us advance with food and sustenance, inspire and enlighten our vision and intelligence in action so that we may rise to be masters of wealth, honour and excellence.

13. Śiśāno vṛṣabho yathāgniḥ śṛṅge davidhvat. Tigmā asya hanavo na pratidhṛṣe sujambhaḥ sahaso yahuḥ.

Just as a bull whets and brandishes his horns against his rival, so does Agni shake his opponents. Fiery is his visor, strong his jaws, mighty his courage, he is invincible, uncounterable, irresistible.

14. Nahi te agne vṛṣabha pratidhṛṣe jambhāso yadvitiṣṭhase. Sa tvaṁ no hotaḥ suhutaṁ haviṣkṛdhi vaṁsvā no vāryā puru.

Agni when you rise and expand no one can brave your flaming jaws. Pray accept our homage and make it fruitful. Give us ample wealth of our choice and desire.

15. Śeṣe vaneṣu mātroḥ saṁ tvā martāsa indhate. Atandro havyā vahasi haviṣkṛta ādid deveṣu rājasi.

You pervade in the forests and in the earth upto heaven. The mortals light and raise you holily, and, without sloth or delay, you carry the sacred offerings of the devoted celebrants to the divinities over earth and heaven and shine among them.

16. Sapta hotāras-tamidīḷate tvā'gne sutyajamahrayam. Bhinatsyadriṁ tapasā vi śociṣā prāgne tiṣṭha janāň ati.

Agni, seven yajakas adore and serve you, all giver, imperishable and eternal. You cleave the mountains and expand and evaporate the clouds with your heat and flames of fire. Pray, Agni, stay among the people at the closest and rise high.

17. Agnimagniṁ vo adhriguṁ huvema vṛktabarhiṣaḥ. Agniṁ hitaprayasaḥ śaśvatīṣvā'' hotāraṁ carṣaṇīnām.

For your sake, O people of the world, we on the seats of holy grass invoke Agni, one form after another of the irresistible universal power of nature and divinity, and having collected our offerings ready, we light and serve the fire, high priest of cosmic yajna among all the communities of humanity over the lands.

Agni loves to associate with the house of yajna where Sama hymns are chanted. O lord of light, Agni, the yajakas wait for you with anxious expectation and signs of welcome. Pray come with all your love and desire for us and bless us with the food, energy and holy ambition of all forms dearest to our heart for our protection and advancement.

Agni, universally adored, master ruler and protector of the people, scourge of the selfish and wicked, refulgent and generous, supreme protective presence of the home that never neglects or forsakes the inmates, you are great protector of happiness and heavens too, and abide in the heart and home of humanity.

O refulgent lord protector of world's wealth, let no evil force enter our life, let no violence of the malignant injure us. O lord of light, Agni, cast off starvation, poverty and all demoniac forces far away from us.

Indra, lord of infinite holy acts of kindness, commanding irresistible adour and passion, whether one is a sagely scholar or a simple unlettered person, whoever offers words of praise and prayer to you is blest with divine joy by your grace, O lord of the name "I AM".

If the lord of mightiest arms, breaker of evil strongholds, divine destroyer, would listen to my invocation and prayer, we, seekers of wealth, honour and excellence in life, would adore and exalt Indra, protector and giver of wealth and supreme lord of infinite divine acts of grace, hymns of praise in his honour.

We are neither sinners nor uncharitable nor non-yajakas as we honour and adore Indra, generous lord of showers of grace, and win his favour as a friend in our holy acts of creation and yajna.

The blazing vibrant lord of existence, we join in the battles of life from strife upto communion, the power and presence most bold and courageous, indomitable, to whom we owe the debt of allegiance. Whoever approaches him thus as the ever moving spirit at the closest as a friend, munificent giver, sole controller of the chariot of life and the universe, the ultimate warrior and conqueror, realises him, joins him, becomes identified with him as the self itself.
